SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Grover Vance of Fairview Community did an excellent job of establishing 18 acres of Sericea. Mr. Vance has a wonderful stand despite the dry weather, and if needed he could get a good cutting of hay; however, the cutting or grazing of Sericea the first year is not recommended.

C. R. Childress has combined R. O. Williams' Pensacola Bahia grass. The first cutting off the seven acres was approximately 1000 pounds of clean seed. Both of these cooperators plan on using most of these seed to enlarge the acreage of their own farms.

Otis Jones states "I planted four more acres of Bahia grass on my farm, and it is looking good for the first year.

Miss Mildred Wald of Birmingham, recently purchased a 119 acre farm off the Montevallo short cut, and asked the District for help in establishing a sound Conservation program. Miss Wald has 85 acres of timber land which is now in production. She plans to set out some 35 acres of pines next winter and spring. There are several land owners who should follow Miss Wald's methods in timber management control of fires, cut trees selectively when needed, and plant areas to pines where needed.

Field Trials Start Monday 16- Foxhunters Plan Best Events Ever This Year

With more trophies and prizes, the Chilton County Foxhunters Field Trial will commence in Clanton on Monday August 16.

J. R. Porch, Verbena, has announced that there will be some 13 trophies awarded, including the Bell Hardware Combination and the Clanton Jewelry Co. combination trophies. These are the trophies that have to be won three consecutive years for permanent possession.

In the events also will be a bench show to be held Monday night, all classes of hounds participating from puppies to all age. Some fifty ribbons and rosettes will be awarded.

The association has been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Paul Casey, Pocahontas, Tenn., as Master of Hounds. Buck Tatum, Ripley, Miss., will be back as bench show judge. Other field judges are from three states: Mississippi, Georgia and Alabama.

The bench show will be held inside the hangar at the airport on Monday night, beginning at 7:00. All hounds must be marked before showing. A committee will be on hand all Monday afternoon at the hangar to do the marking.

It is understood from President Porch that a number of out of county and out of state hunters will be present, along with a lot of Chilton County foxhunters. He stated that R. E. (Bob) Stacy, noted hunter from Foley, Ala., has already made reservations at a local hotel.

Hounds to be run and shown on the bench must be entered at the Willingham Hotel before midnight, Monday, August 16. Hounds winning on the bench must be run in the field to hold their bench winnings.

Five trophies will be awarded the derby hounds winning in the field and five will be awarded likewise to the all-age hounds. These are on top of the above mentioned combination trophies.

High Speed Leads In Causing Death

Montgomery.—High speed on a Saturday between 4 and 6 p.m. in the Mobile area was the perfect setup for a killing or crippling rural traffic crash last month.

There were many close seconds, according to a June operations summary by the Alabama Highway Patrol, but these were the leading factors and conditions in 675 accidents investigated by state police.

The reports showed a sharp decrease in accidents and casualties during last month over May of this for last month was 39 dead, 306 injured, and 675 accidents, against year and June, 1953. The score May tolls of 60 dead, 385 injured and 762 accidents, and June 1953 scores of 53 dead, 407 injured and 738 accidents.

Of 976 violations detected in the June accidents, speed led the list at 268. Next in order were: wrong side of the road, 163; failure to yield right-of-way, 134; drunken driving, 127; following too closely, 61, and improper passing 57.

Highway patrolmen arrested 2,429 motorists on those six charges during June, the report showed. But Highway Patrol Chief Tom Carlisle said the propoprtionate arrests for those six violations was far beisle said the proportionate arrests ported in accidents, and that further tightening-down on the major violations would be necessary.

Prepare Seed Beds Now For Winter Grazing

Auburn, Ala.—The next few weeks will be very important to Alabama farmers planning to seed their winter grazing crops and alfalfa this fall, reports D. R. Harbor, API Extension agronomist.

According to the specialist, extreme drouth in most sections of the state has made it impossible to prepare seedbeds for these crops until now. And a firm seedbed is essential to securing and mainteining good stands.

This means seedbeds must be prepared right away if winter grazing crops and alfalfa are to be seeded on time, says Harbor.

Reasonably good seedbeds can be prepared if the right equipment is available and properly used.

Small But Efficient ---

Town Of Maplesville Has A Fire Department That Would Make Larger Towns Envious

Back in 1950 citizens of Maplesville got tired of being threatened by fire and nothing to do in case one did break out and decided right then and there to do something about it. Since that time the Town of Maplesville has acquired a volunteer department and improved on it steadily until today it is far above the average department in any town of its size anywhere.

On interviewing the fire chief, Mr. J. P. Thomas, a local businessman, we learned many of the improvements made in that short time by the deaprtment and just how they came about.

The members of the present fire department are: J. P. Thomas, Billy Dennis, Eugene Hathcock, W. L. Hagler, Clyde Smitherman, Jack Hampton, E. T. Clapp, Calvin Chambers, Robert Chambers, Malcolm Chambers, Curtis Rucker, Virgil Royster, Ed Day, Freddie Thomas, Donald Lawrence and Bobby Graham. The chief says that there are a few boys on the force that are under 21 years of age, but not without their parents consent. He says although they know pretty near as much as anyone about the equipment, but they are not allowed to take any risks, but are merely on the department to insure the town of a future department and if possible, a more skilled one.

Equipment

Their equipment, from reports gathered from Mr. Thomas is pretty near second to none as far as modern fire equipment goes. They bought their Chevrolet truck in 1950. It is a front pumper with a 500 gal. booster tank on it and is said to be the very best in modern fire fighting. The department boasts of 1400 ft. of 1 1-2 inch hose, 600 ft. of 1 1-2 inch hose, and 100 ft. of high pressure line. The truck, by the way was purchased for the amount of $10,500 on a bond issue and is fully paid for. They have coats, boots and helmets donated by the Women's Auxiliary of the VFW who got out in the community and raised the money to buy them. They are to be commended for this public service.

Operations

There is, besides the tank on the truck a radius of about 2 miles of fire hydrants around the city to aid in fighting fires.

The truck is housed in an extension building next to the city hall. Most of the fire alarms are called in to the City Hall and the signal sounded from there. The department, reports Mr. Thomas, is entirely voluntary. The men receive no pay as yet and do it of their own initiative.

The chief says they have never charged anyone for fighting a fire but if someone is gracious and thankful enough to insist that they accept payment for their services instead of dividing up the profits they always put it into an equipment fund and when they get enough they purchase some new and much needed equipment to make them more efficient.

They're, pretty darn efficient now.

About The Chief

Mr. Thomas says, "I am not, by a long shot, an experienced fireman, nor do I know everything there is to know about fighting fires." "It isn't whether you know or not, it's just that your there and that's what counts. The chief says he got what little training he has in the navy and has attended the State schools and classes at Tuscaloosa, "but I've still got a lot to learn," he says. For a fire chief with the equipment he has and has lost only one fire he is overly modest. He says they lost that one because it was almost gone when they got there and there wasn't a fire plug within reach either. Guess that one was meant to go, but it didn't mar these volunteers splendid record any they deserve all the thanks and appreciation the town and it's neighboring communities can give them. We, in Clanton and other neighboring towns hope they keep up the fine job they're doing and we, as a neighbor, salute them on their public spirit and devotion to their town and people.

Don't Register Late With Draft Board

Montgomery, Ala. —A new and tougher policy of dealing with those who register late has been ordered by Alabama's Selective Service System.

Earlier induction or prosecution can result from tardy registration, Colonel J. T. Johnson, Jr., State Director, warned.

He said that the action is in line with a nationwide tightening of the rules goreving registration for military service.

Pointing out that all men born after August 30, 1922 must register with Selective Service Colonel Johnson stressed that lat registration is a direct violation of the Universal Military Training and Service. Act. Such violators may be referred to the U. S. Attorney for punishment.

Registration is a continuing obligation for all those between 18 and 26 years of age, he said. He emphasized that all young men must register within five day after reaching their 18th birth date.

A person failing to do so must now make a personal appearance before his local draft board. Here he will be required to sign a written statement as to why he registered late. If he refuses to sign such a statement, the registrar will sign it for him. At the same time the registrant will be required to complete his Classification Questionnaire when he registers. The registrant's case will then be presented to the local board's next scheduled meeting, to allow it to determine his delinquency status.

Only serious illness, to the registrant, or other extreme emergencies, such as an accident to the registrant, may be accepted as a satisfactory reason for late registration, Colonel Johnson said. The illness or accident to the registrant must be verified by a doctor.

A death in the family, an extreme emergency involving the registrant's family, are not satisfactory reasons. Nor are ignorance of the law, transportation difficulties, and other such handicaps satisfactory reasons, according to Selective Service Regulations. Such late registrant will be declared delinquent.

A delinquent registrant will immediately be classified available for induction (Class1-A). He will be ordered to appear before his local board, where he will be advised that he faces prosecution by law. He will then be offered a chance to volunteer for active duty. If he declines to do so, the board may turn him over to the U. S. attorney.

Where the delinquent registrant is over 19, he shall be immediately mailed an Order to Report for Induction into the armed services without the opportunity to volunteer.

Johnson said that there had also been numerous reports recently of premature registrants. He said that a prospective registrant should be required to produce evidence as to his correct birth date. This might be a birth certificate or appropriate statement from the County Health Department, school record, life insurance policy, the family Bible with its birth record page, or a sworn statement.

If, after registration, it is found that the person registered is under 18 years of age, the registration shall be cancelled, unless the registrant is 17, and has volunteered for induction with the consent of his parents or guardian.

Servicemen who have entered the military service before they reached the age of registration must still register upon leaving service, even if they are over 26 years of age, Colonel Johnson said

Martin Files Application For Power Plant Permit

STATEMENT OF THOMAS W. MARTIN

T. W. Martin, Chairman of the Board of Alabama Power Company, stated today that the company had filed with the Federal Power Commission at Washington, D. C., an application for a preliminary permit to build a dam and power plant at or near the New Hope site on the Sipsey Fork of the Warrior River, and also, a power plant at the existing dam of the United States at Lock 17 on the Warrior River. The New Hope site is approximately 12 miles northeast of Jasper, and the Lock 17 dam is approximately 21 miles north of Tuscaloosa.

The application points out that the Chief of Engineers of the Army has recommended the construction by the United States of the New Hope Dam, a multiple purpose project, and a power plant at the existing dam of the United States at Lock 17. The Company proposes in the application to undertake to work out an arrangement with the United States if that construction goes forward, whereby the company will be permitted to install the electric power generating facilities at both locations. The company has been advised, however, that there is little likelihood, at this time, and for a considerable time in the future, that an application will be made for this construction by the United States.

In the event the plan recommended by the Chief of Engineers is not authorized by the Congress, and if the company is successful in working out an arrangement whereby others interested will contribute to the cost of the project in proportion to the benefi which each receives, thereby insuring the economic feasibility of the project, Mr. Martin stated that the company would then go forward and undertake to construct a storage dam at or near the New Hope site on the Sipsey Fork of the Warrior River, and a power plant at Lock 17 on the Warrior River. This will, of course, require the approval of the Chief of Engineers, the Federal Power Commission and the Alabama Public Service Commission.

It is contemplated that the proposed project will include major flood control features and will provide a regulated flow to insure depth of water in navigation channel Fork to the City of Mobile, and nels from the mouth of the Sipsey abundant water for the operation of locks on the Warrior River. As the Company increases its steam plant at Gorgas, additional water will be required for condensing and cooling purposes, which the proposed dam will provide.

The prompt development of the headwaters of the Warrior River will be of great value to the citizens of Birmingham and Tuscaloosa and will increase the industrial potential of all the other communities and counties adjacent to the Warrior-Tombigbee river system, Mr. Martin said.

These facilities will represent an investment in order of 25 to 30 million dollars dependent upon studies any surveys which will have to be made by the company. The company's tentative plans call for a total installation at the two sites of 120,000 horsepower, and it is estimated that from three to four years will be required for construction after receipt of the license from the Federal Power Commission.

The Warrior-Tombigbee Development Association has recently requested the company to undertake this development, and it is assumed, therefore that the company will have the support of that association and other interested citizens.

"Our application for this permit," said Mr. Martin, "is part of a continuing program to provide power for the future growth of the state. While the generating capacity to be installed on the Warrior River and in the Coosa River plants which the company is also undertaking to construct, will be substantial, it will represent only a little over 25 per cent of the new capacity which will be needed to meet anticipated load growth in the company's service area in the next ten to fifteen years. This means further extensive additions to our steam generating capacity requiring large tonnages of coal to insure a continuing source of power for the industrial and agricultural development which we are confident will take place in our state.

"The plants we propose to build will provide jobs for a number of persons in the area, particularly in Walker and Cullman Counties. They will be taxable properties and state taxes on the power produced a these plants will provide additional revenue to the state's educational trust fund."

TUESDAW & WEDNESDAY SAFEST DAYS—ASC

Montgomery.—Going on a short summer trip? Then go on Tuesday, and come back on Wednesday, or the Alabama Safety Commission says to take advantage of reduced Alabama rural accident rates.

A study of two months' accident experience as reported by the Alabama Highway Patrol shows days of the week, in order of the decreasing freedom from accident as Wednesday, Tuesday, Thursday, Monday, Friday, Sunday and Saturday.

Fewer than one out of 10 accidents have occurred on Monday during May and June, the Commission said. On Saturdays, the toll is more than two out of 10.

District cooperators Walter and Lewis Allen of Jemison, Ala., Rt. 2, have 15 acres of Sericea that is carrying 30 head of cattle. The Allens say "for their money you can't beat Sericea for summer grazing."

O. H. Lawrence of New Cedron said for his farm and his program he is going to stay with Coastal Bermuda and Bahai grass.

To Lead Faith Tabernacle Revival

Evangelist Abdon McCracken of Memphis, Tenn., began a meeting Saturday night at "Faith Tabernacle" in Mill Village. Sunday night the crowds were the largest for the first time since July 1 when Rev. J. M. Jalanivich began pastoring the church. Rev. McCracken gave the altar call and sinners went to the altar and repented of their sins.

Afterwards he began to pray for a long line of sick people, and miracles were performed. One woman was healed of a pain in her side after McCracken prayed for her, and other hobbled across the floor without her crutches.

Services will continue.

Thorsby Institute News—

Also it is better chance of getting the room you want if you register early. School will begin Tuesday, September 7.

Our 'Do-It-Together' Towns

Thorsby And Jemison Maintain Seperate Fire, Police Protection

The very cooperative little towns of Thorsby and Jemison which, by the way, are always making themselves noticed by the way that they pitch in and do things together, surprisingly have separate fire departments. It isn't through a feeling of unfriendliness that they are thus but the fact that they feel the need for both of hem.

The Jemison fire department which is entirely voluntary, is made up of the chief, Mr. Marvin Dawson, and the following members: Elvin Dawson, J. O. Cobb, Joe Beasley, Ed Davenport, Lester Pate, Willard Cost, Fred Smith, who is assistant chief, Henry Watson, Mac Smith, R. C. Peterson, J. A. Chandler, Comer Lenoir, Floyd Porter, Sam Woodley, J. P. Shaw, Milton Crowson, Princeton Simmons, Donald Jones, Lewis Ellison and Charlie Ray.

It is reported that the department was originated several years ago, but just recently re-organized and bought themselves a truck, which is outfitted as modernly as could be expected. They expect to make improvements in the department as they go along depending on their financial status.

The volunteers practice each second and fourth Thursday night at seven p.m. These practice nights are devoted to breaking in new members and learning new important methods of fire control.

Thorsby boasts an equally efficient fire department and has 1 truck fully equipped with latest equipment just as Jemison. Chief Leonard Bosworth says they have between 1500 and 2000 ft. of hose and are planning all the time new methods and techniques for fire fighting should an emergency arise. The members of the Thorsby volunteer Dept. as it is today are: Chief Bosworth, Fred Honeycutt, Frank Porter, Arden Folk, Calvin Pate, Jimmy Higgins, James Nelson, Jeff Clickler, Carrie Piper, and Bobby Davenport. These men are strictly volunteers and are on call 24 hours a day. The department was organized in 1947. Their practice nights correspond with those of Jemison, second and fourth Thursday nights at 7.

They're proud of the progress they have made and we're sure the folks of those communities as well as others appreciate the work they are doing in the interest 'of their neighbors and friends.

Policemen

The two towns have a total of 4 policemen, 2 in each town. Officer S. R. Young is chief of police in Jemison and his assistant is Elvin Dawson. They are on 24 hour duty keeping the town safe for its citizens. Young has been on the force for 3 years, is married and has five fine children. Dawson has been with the force for about a year and a half, is married with 2 children. The chief says they have added a new traffic light and marked the streets for parking which gives every indication of a progressive and growing community.

Chief of Police in Thorsby is Ellis Ellison, who has been with the force about 1 year. He has been married better than a quarter century and has 6 children. His assistant is J. H. Anderson, former officer and resident of Clanton who is a part time man. The chief says his main worry is public drunkeness and wants the people to sit up and take notice and see if they can't aid him in his fight to make their city a clean one in which to live and work. They are also on 24 hour duty and are at your disposal any time, day or night. The policemen of Jemison and Thorsby are your friends, treat them as such and cooperate with them so that they can help you more.

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER

Choosing the Best

Lesson for August 8: Matthew 6: 25-33; Philippians 1: 9-11; 4: 8

Golden Text: Philippians 1: 9-10

It has been said that worry kills a man, not work. In the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus urges men to put aside worry and care, trusting the Heavenly Father for the things that are needful in a material way, assured that He who feeds the ravens and clothes the grass of the field will provide for the men and the women who look up with true faith.

But faith in God is to be exercised, not only for the supplying of daily material needs, but also for the meeting of spiritual needs. As a man finds pardon through personal faith, he also finds knowledge and support in going on toward a better Christian experience. Faith is an illuminating power in a man's daily living. Jesus said that if any man will do the Father's will, he shall know of the doctrine, he shall know of the truth. And it may be happily surprising how the way will open before him.

The last verse of the text may be likened unto a string of pearls of spiritual truth and experience. Consider each pearl that has a place of adornment of the Christian—honesty, justice, purity, and all things that are lovely and of good report. Consider, too, the power of thought that is given to faith. We are to think upon the things that adorn the true Christian. And through the help of God, we may attain unto them.

Besides the regular high school courses offered at Thorsby Institute we also offer mechanical drawing, Latin, Bible, typewriting, shorthand and bookkeeping.

Adults are invited and welcomed as well as the regular students. Anyone who would like to supplement the work already done or take new courses is welcomed and satisfactory arrangements will be made. Arrangements can also be made for adult boarding students with a good room and good meals.

Since Thorsby Institute is not tax supported the school is not affected by the new segregation law.

The Rev. J. W. Jones of Thorsby has just closed a weeks revival with the Mt. Pleasant Baptist church Rev. George Hamm is the pastor. It was a very gracious revival and there were nine received by baptism and one by transfer of letter.

July 29th To Aug. 7th Named Vegetable Week

Auburn, Ala. — The sixth annual Vegetable Week, sponsored by the Vegetable Growers Association of America, is scheduled from July 29 to August 7.

In announcing the event John Bagby, APl Extension horticulturist, points out that many of us do not realize the time and effort that goes into producing and distributing vegetables in this country. For example, modern refrigeration methods have made it possible to find lettuce, carrots, beans, tomatoes and a variety of other fresh vegetables in local stores practically the year around.

Excluding Irish and sweet potatoes, approximately nine and a half million acres in the U. S. are devoted annually to the production of vegetables for fresh markets and an additional six and a half million acres for processing, reports Bagby.

"We may think vegetables too high in price but when the facts are known the truck crop farmer does not always have easy sailing," says the specialist. Frost and drought can make crops almost total failures. And very often farmers receive less than the cost of production for their crop from the ever changing market.

The farm leader declares that records show farmers receiving an average of only 38 cents of the consumer's dollar spent for vegetables.

It seems entirely appropriate to designate this one week as National Vegetable Week and to salute the vegetable growers in Alabama and the nation, concludes Bagby.

WSCS Studies India At Monthly Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service was held at the First Methodist Church on August 2 at 3:00 o'clock in the MYF room.

Mrs. W. F. Haywood had charge of the devotional. She used for the topic "New Nations Shall Turn to the Lord." She also gave a resume of her tour through the United Nations building while on her recent trip to New York.

Mrs. Morgan Reynolds was in charge of the program. She gave the introduction of the study book "Under Three Flags" which was a book on India.

For the worship setting a skyline of India was used with the mountains in silhouette. In the background were Indian men and women and a camel approaching the city and also the silhouette of a church with a cross on top.

Following the reports given by the officers, Mrs. Reynolds reported on the School of Missions and Christian Service held at Huntingdon College last week. Three local members received certificates for completing the different courses They were presend to Mrs. R. C. Williams who completed "Jesus' Teaching Concerning Women," Mrs. Joe Campbell who studied "That They Might Have Life," and Mrs. Joe Mullins who chose "India, Pakistan and Seylon." Mrs. Reynolds sat in on two of the courses. Besides completing the study courses they also attended workshops and clinics.

More plans for new attractions which are to be added to the church bazaar this fall were made.

The meeting was closed with mizpah.

Religious Skeptics: The Unconcerned And Indifferent

James Russell Lowell, once American ambassador to England, just before leaving the latter country for the United States, attended a meeting in London to do honor to the poet Browning. Some of those present made addresses in which they aired their skepticism and said they could get along without any religion, or church. They did this, though they knew that by so doing they would give offense to many who were there. Mr. Lowell, having the courage of his convictions, paid some attention to these men in his address, and among things equally and forcible, he said:

"The worst kind of religion is no religion at all, and these men who live an ease and luxury, indulging themselves in the amusement of going without religion, may be thankful that they live in lands where the gospel and church they neglect has tamed the beastlines and ferocity of the men who, but for Christianity, might long ago have eaten their bodies like the South Sea Islanders, or cut off their heads and tanned their hides like the monsters of the French Revolution.

"When the microscopic search of skepticism, which has hunted the heavens and sounded the seas to disprove the existence of a creator, has turned its attention to human society, and has found a place on this planet ten miles square where a decent man can live in decency, comfort, and security, supporting and educating his children unspoiled and unpolluted; a place where age is reverencey, infancy respected, manhood respected, womanhood honored, and human life held in due regard—when skeptics can find a place ten miles square on this globe where the gospel of Christ makes life tolerable and society possible, and robs death of its terrors and the grave of its gloom."

We could well ponder these words of Lowell as we think of ourselves. Are we lending to the support of Christianity that others after us might have our rich heritage or we hitch-hiking a ride upon the sacrifices of others.

Adventist Church

Sabbath School 9:45 a.m. followed with preaching service at 11.

It is tragic how so many people come to believe things simply because they hear these things repeated over and over with no proof offered to substantiate them.

The Old Testament is not for this dispensation," will be heard over and over. But if those who have come to believe this from mere repetition would look up the inspired teaching they would change their minds. We read in Eph. 2:20, "and are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets." This is speaking of the church. The "apostles" wrote the New Testament and the Old Testament was written by the "phophets." The church-foundation is "built" on both. So if a church is built on the "apostles" only it has just a half foundation.

The "gospel" which Paul preached was taken from the Old Testament. There was no such book as the New Testament in apostolic times. So Paul writes in 1 Cor. 15; 1-3 "Moreover brethren I declare unto the gospel—how that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures; (the Old Testamen Scripture) and that he was buried and rose the third day according to the scriptures (the Old Testament Scriptures). So the true gospel which Paul preached was not based on the New Testament for there was no such book in his day. But since the New Testament scriptures were compiled one hundred years after the apostles died—we now have the writings of "the apostles and prophets." But if there were no such book we could still preach the "gospel" from the Old Testament scriptures, just as did Paul and the other apostles.

ASTHMATICS

By George B. Petit

EVERYTHING was being set for a delightful vacation. The journey from the west coast of Florida to the Thousand Islands in the St. Laurence River was indeed something to anticipate.

Then there were friends to visit along the way and farms to help vary the monotony of a long trip.

"Mother, can't we take Tommy and Harry with us to play with?" asked Georgie.

"Yes, they are going. I thought I would keep the news as a surprise."

"Oh, bully!" said Helen. "Then I can have a girl to go along as a playmate for me."

"It has all been arranged. Mary is going and will continue her music the same as all of you."

"Boy, O, boy! That will make a real party. We'll need two cars," volunteered Georgie.

"That is right. Daddy is getting a small car for me to drive, and he'll take the station wagon."

The day for the start had arrived and all was hilarity. There were a few weeps by the parents of the guest children, but most was joy at the prospects of a good time in store for the youngsters.

There were no hitches along the route until they had reached the northern tier of states. Then the atmosphere seemed to affect Tommy's asthma. That all added to mother's worries more than Tommy's. He was having too good a time to bother with asthmatic troubles and

That first long stop was at last accomplished. They had been living on their nerves and excitement over the things they had read about but had seen for the first time. Their hostess was fond of children and welcomed them with open arms. The buildings, fields, woodlots and neighborhood were inspected the first day.

"Oh, my!" chimed Mary after the first meal, "food was never like this except when mother cooks it! I could stay here all summer."

Harry suggested, that they sleep out the next night. "Yes, mother, how about that idea?" urged Helen. "We can take the bedding into the field after dark, have an astronomy lesson by you, and then tell stories and go to sleep."

It all sounded perfectly easy and attractive. While something told mother to think twice before she spoke once, she finally agreed to the plan. Her only question was what about Tommy, and could they all stand the exposure of the northern night air?

The next night each handled his own bedding and they were soon settled down for a wonderful experience out under the moon and stars in a strange land. They had romped all day and the mere lying flat on the ground brought an early evening visit of Mr. Sandman to the eyes of the boy and girl scouts. It was around nine o'clock when mother made her final inspection and then covered her face against possible insects, and she too was soon in Slumberland.

But she was awakened in the early hours of the morning. She heard Tommy wheezing. She quardried what she should do with him. She lay with her face still covered, endeavoring to hastily make serious decisions about Tommy and his asthma. Daddy had gone to the Thousand Islands, so, the decision was up to mother. All those minutes she heard Tommy, his asthma erupting louder and louder What a situation in the midst of such happy planning!

Finally, determined as to what she would do, she threw the covers from her face only to find a stray horse with his nose within six inches of her ears, making his inspection of her and blowing through his nostrils. Now, this was his private domain. She at once perceived the ludicrous, and it was so hard in his face that he stood ered off bewildered.

What about Tommy? He was sleeping the sleep of the innocent. None of the progress he heard her laugh.

Chilton's New 40 Bed General Hospital Is Progressing Rapidly

Contrary to rumors and talk ound the County the progress of new 40 bed general hospital xceeding expectations according the head of the hospital board. says the general contractor, Mr. lbert, has expressed his opinion saying that this is the smooth- running job he has ever work- on.

The reason for the progress not ing noticeable progress is because ey are doing first things first. ey are laying pipe lines, electrical telephone wiring, and any num- of necessities for use in the hos- al that wouldn't ordinarily occur an everyday structure. "The wness that exists now," they say, ill lastly become noticeable prog- s when we get through laying necessary equipment for a ucture of this size and import- ce." The men and the board med to be mighty pleased with way the work is progressing so shouldn't knock it. And, inci- tally, they expect to complete whole job by late April or early y and they say that if they keep like they're going, with no un- seen mishaps occurring, they'll e beat their own deadline.

As some of you know the hos- al is to be built with mason walls, ncrete floors and ceilings and el structures which means that hould be there for some time to ne. The hospital will be com- te with three operating rooms, equipped for their particular pur- es with the very latest in mod- equipment. The building will o be 100 per cent air-conditioned d the latest heating equipment be installed. It will be equip- also, with portable or plug-in phones that can be used in the ient's room when necessary.

On the contracting end of the job; there are, besides the general contractor, many other branch contractors for each particular phase of work going on. Each of these contractors, such as: air conditioning, roofing, plumbing, electrical wiring, heating, and many others employ local and out of county help. They hire the ones who can do the job best. So for the contractors themselves, they bidded on the job and obtained it by having the lowest bid. It should not be held against the board or the general contractor who they hire or fire. The general contractor is paid a certain amount to do the job and it is only good common sense to come out on the job the cheapest and at the same time doing it best. It is also noted that while some of us harp on using local help there would be those of us jobless if other towns and cities used this policy. A mixture is better on a job anyway because there are always new ideas from outsiders that are beneficial to speeding up the work.

Strictly County Affair

The new hospital when completed, we were informed, will be solely under the jurisdiction of the county and the hospital board. There will be a supervisor appointed by the board to carry out those duties and it is reported that they are making extensive, aggressive effort to get just the right man for the job. The nursing and doctors staffs will be made up of only accredited and proven efficient men and women and you can be sure we'll have the best. There will also have to be a medical technician on employ, but he hasn't been assigned as yet. The board hopes to have the supervisor or administrator employed before the opening so he can take care of details which only he will be able to handle. It will also be of interest to many that the new hospital is going to have many new "delivery" facilities that we have not been privileged to possess in the past. This was brought about due to the percentage of babies born in our local hospital according to comparison with other places of this size.

The board reported that it is making every possible effort to gain the newest in equipment and services at the lowest possible prices and asks that the people of the County bear with them until we can get our much wanted and most needed hospital on its way to helping the communities in our county.

3 To Go

Steptoe Hasn,t Had Toes Stepped On In 4 Straight Wins

Birmingham, Ala.—It's four down and only three to go for fast-stepping Nero Steptoe as he literally blisters the Fairgrounds Speedway track in a belated effort to overtake Tommy Wells (a seven times winner) for 1954 stock car racing honors in Birmingham.

Steptoe, the current sensation of the souped-up stocks, made it four for the season and three in a row at Fairgrounds Speedway Sunday winning with plenty to spare from Mobile's Woodie Wilson and Birmingham's Fred Thompson, in the 25-lap main event.

Nero, however, didn't have any rubber to spare when the race ended. His right rear tire blew out as he coasted around the track following his well-earned victory. A few laps sooner and Nero might not have won, altohugh things like flat tires don't seem to bother Nero too much. He ran four laps on a flat to win second place a few weeks ago and earlier in the season he ran 23 laps of a 25-lap race on three wheels to win.

With his blue and white Campbell Oil Special No. 12, a teammate of No. 13, driven by Billy Carden, really burning up the local track, other drivers will be out to stop Nero Steptoe next Sunday when the Birmingham Racing Club presents another stock car racing program.

But it could be No. 4 in a row for Nero, because winning has become a habit with him in recent weeks. He's won five out of the last six races in which he has competed, counting the three in Birmingham.

Steptoe will have rough going from here on out, however. Ed Samples won one of the heat races with a re-designed No. 311, the Cadillac-powered Chevrolet, and was a contender in the main event until he had tire trouble last Sunday.

And the Studebaker "Dream Car" No. 33, seems to be about ready to blister the Speedway track. Hugh Babb, who designed the super-charged V-8, has been getting the bugs out of the Golden Tornado and if he can cool it down some by next Sunday, No. 33 may give No. 12 and all the others a run for their money from here on out.

The best part of the 1954 stock car season seems to lie ahead.

By LYN CONNELLY

NBC TELEVISION cameras move "Out on the Farm" for an hour-long weekly Sunday show by that title . . . Both city and rural viewers get a completely authentic and revealing portrait of American agriculture, told in terms of people — principally the farm family — along with a group of well-known television personalities qualified to interpret some of the technical aspects of agriculture . . . Most importantly, "Out on the Farm" mirrors the day-by-day activities of owner-operator Wilbert Landmeier, his wife and his family of four children: Joyce, 13; Janet, 11; Judy, 11 and Jimmy, 7.

According to the University of Illinois agriculture school, Landmeier is the outstanding farmer-pioneer in Northern Illinois . . . Chief business on the 160 acre farm near Cloverdale, Ill., is a herd of 45 pure-bred Holstein dairy cattle . . . Eddy Arnold, one of the nation's favorite entertainers and a successful farmer himself, is host at the weekly visits and serves as guide to sections of the farm . . . He does a few vocal numbers as well, assisted in the musical chores by the Mid-States Four . . . Clint Steele reports on weather and how it affects agriculture and Don (Mr. Wizard) Herbert explains the why and how of farm machinery and its use in planting.

CHATTER CHATTER

COLUMBIA: Rosemary Clooney has another hit on her hands in the beautiful song, "Hey There" . . . "This Ole House" backs it . . . Johnnie Ray's latest is "Going, Going, Gone!" with "To Ev'ry Girl—to Ev'ry Boy" on the reverse . . . Cute Jimmy Boyd does a good job on the wistful, "Ma, I Miss Your Apple Pie" . . . "Shepherd Boy" is on the flip side . . . Jerry Vale does a very fine job on a song that should go big, "Go" . . . Back has "I'll Follow You."

EPIC: Bill Heyar impresses with "Lazy Afternoon" with that perennial favorite, "Take Me Out to the Ball Game" on the reverse . . . Mary Small sparkles with "I Love Johnny Johnny" . . . "A Bluebird With a Broken Wing" backs it . . .

REMEMBERING the old phrase about "Necessity— the Mother of Invention"—I would like to pass along to the scientific world my personal idea of an item greatly needed to help the male married half of this old world get along a little better in life.

Birthdays, anniversaries, appointments, community bridge nights and long ago promises to the little woman are things that men often forget, to their sorrow. It doesn't lead to bloodshed, but creates a strained atmosphere that puzzles the male mind. Many a long-suffering husband has suddenly faced up to the fact that he's in the dog house and doesn't know why — all he did was come home, take off his shoes and settle down with the evening paper and three library books.

Much worse, however, is the more immediate situation that occurs when hubby comes in tired and bedraggled from the office and is greeted with this phrase: "Notice anything different?" It's a sure-fire cinch she has waxed the floors, rearranged the furniture, given herself a new permanent, bought a new dress, washed the windows or scrubbed the kitchen floor. The problem for hubby is to guess which and for the sake of immediate peace in the family he has to come up with the right answer before he wipes away the lipstick from the greeting kiss. If he misses, he won't get another buss for a long time.

CLANTON, ALABAMA THURSDAY, AUGUST 5, 1954

On Duty 24 Hours A Day-

Clanton Enjoys Complete And Efficient Protection By Police Force And Fire Dept.

Fire Dept. Composed Of Sixteen Volunteers

We know you've often wondered, we have about some of the interesting facets of our volunteer fire department

From the information we have been able to gather Clanton's is one to be proud of and should be given credit it deserves.

16 Men On Force

Four of all there are 16 volunteers on the force at one time and are on call any time of the day or night. At present our Fire Chief is Houston Nivens and his assistant is Gene Gore. Both are long time members of the department, Mr. Gore having served for over 25 years. The latest member of our volunteer fire department are Gene Gore, Reserver, and Luther Culpepper; they have been with the department almost since the time it was organized back some 28 or 30 years ago. Present members of Clanton's fire department are: Houston Nivens, chief; Cecil Carter, Lewis Crider, Gene Gore, Fonzie Coe, Curtis Collins, Res Driver, Howard Culver, Lawrence Calfee, Ed Langston, Luther Culpepper, Henry Mack, Cecil Ellison, John Zimmerman, Honrie Little, and Ellis Jones.

3 Trucks In Use

The department now has 3 trucks in use and one of these, an old American la France has been used since the organizing in 26. The second truck, bought in 1942 is a International high pressure fog fighter, and they claim to use for extinguishing 90 per cent of fires started in this vicinity, so you can see yourself that it is extremely useful. Three days training was now to use this truck and its duties were required before it was brought back to Clanton for use. The third truck, which has a Ford chassis was built by the department itself, to their own specifications. We know their job is a real one to their community and that they are proud to be on the department.

Equipment

Some of the other equipment the department has at their disposal is 1 pumper with a 2 1-2 inch line and 1 mile, that means one connection. 1 pumper with a 2 1-2 inch line, this is one with two connections with the front of the line being larger than the second one; 3500 ft. of 1 inch high pressure hose on the fog truck. They have a penetrant they use during the gunning season as an extra caution. They mix this substance with a percentage of water so it will penetrate a bale of cotton where plain water would not begin to do the job. They have this solution in the fog truck for the firemen are also fortunate enough to have showers and a recreation room to use at their convenience. Their baths are clean as is the recreation room another asset on that they take pride in their department.

How a Call is Answered

Many of you we're sure wonder how a fire alarm is answered, and where how: You turn in your call to the operator in turn switches the call to the Shell Service Station and the siren is operated, the first man answering the call picks up the phone and jots down the location and other necessary information on a chalkboard at his right and, he then hops in the first car and is away, the following firemen have only to look at the chalkboard for all the information they need and take the remaining cars. All this is fixed so it can be done efficiently and on the run. Also the doors in the rear garage for the older trucks are kept closed operated by a rope hanging in front of the stairs where the first man down them has only to pull the cord and the doors are raised.

Trouble Shooting a Necessity

Trouble-shooters after reaching the location of the fire are necessary for tracking the source of the many high power lines that may be down and any number of things. The fire men don't have time to do so. These safety men are trained by Gore and Nivens who are with there first. The pressure and stream of water coming from the nozzle of a hose looks harmless, but is capable of undressing you or throwing the back from a tree. The water pressure load on the hose is terrific and that's a mighty lot of water.

Practice nights for the department come on Tuesday of each week at 7:15 p.m. and are devoted to breaking new men in or discussing progressive steps to further the efficiency of the volunteers. The boys get $1 per practice night and $3 per fire which shows that their job is more public service than anything else.

To join the force you must be voted in by the members and then not until their is a vacancy. You put in your application and wait for the decision of the others. This helps to prevent dissension among the men because they vote in only who they think would do a good job. Thus they are an organized group and can in this way serve you better.

You can serve your volunteer department better by doing what you know is right. Don't follow the fire truck to a fire. We know it's exciting fun, but you can't expect them to do a good job if you are there to get in the way. You couldn't do your job well with someone getting in the way We know we can't. It was reported also that each of the firemen, when the whistle blows is automatically an officer and is authorized to arrest any parts breaking the law. That's 16 more you have to look out for.

We feel, and we know you taxpayers do, that the volunteers of the fire department of Clanton deserve the cooperation, and the appreciation and thanks of each and every citizen of Clanton and we acknowledge their sincerity in their duty to make our city a better and safer one in which to live. Let's try to help them keep up the good work

Police Force Boasts 5 Efficient Officers

On an official interview with Clanton's police chief, C. E. Tucker we can truthfully back up stories opinion that our police department is second to none of it's size anywhere in the nation.

The force, as it is today includes 5 regular officers. These are C. E. Tucker, Chief, V. W. Fochee, asst chief, B. R. Plyler, C. J. Turner and Marshall Williams.

Chief Tucker who is 45 years old has been with the force for almost five years now. He has been married for 27 years this month and has two children, Charlie Jr., and Dorothy, and one grandchild, Susan The chief, before joining the force was operator of the Greyhound Depot here for some time. He is now first vice-president of the Clanton Lions club as well as chief.

Mr. Fochee, who is the chiefs right hand man, is 30 years old and single. His official duties are to take over when the chief is otherwise occupied and does a fine job of protecting the public.

Mr Plyler, the oldest man and oldest member of the force has served for 21 years and isn't tired of it yet, so it must have it's ups as well as downs. He has spent the entire 21 years on night duty patrolling the streets and backdoors of our city. Although you couldn't tell it by looking at him he is pursuing 66 years old and still gets around better than some of us younger fellows. His family, consists of 4 boys and 3 girls. They are: John White, Barnes, Douglas, Don, Doris, Grace, and Pat. It's pretty likely that he will continue his night duty after going this long without changing Chief Tucker says he can go the main in an alley and tell you if a blade of grass or weed has been moved which should make him a valuable man on any police force.

C. J. Turner, 45, is also a night man. He hasn't been on the force quite as long as Mr. Plyler but he satisfied. He is married and has no children, yet. His time on the force is approximately 9 months so he's just getting settled down to the new job

Marshall Williams, the youngest and almost newest member of the force is "going ahead and we think is making a fine officer, doing a splendid job" says Chief Tucker We think Marshall is the type of fellow who would do any job splendidly and no matter if he is just 25 years old he isn't one to let his accomplishments go to his head. That wouldn't make a good officer and the chief already said he was a good one. Marshall was married while in service for Uncle Sam and has three fine children. He is very satisfied with his job, and it looks like he's going to stick with it for a while.

Requests from Chief

Your police chief, for it is yours, is doing all it can to make your community one to be proud of. It takes the public cooperation in undertaking and here are some of the please do's and please don'ts asked by the force:

When you get a parking ticket and the fellow next to you doesn't, don't hold the officer responsible. The chief says maybe that fellow had just a little bit of white left on his meter when the other fellow got his ticket, but regardless of how little it was it was time and we couldn't give him a ticket. Be a little more broad-minded.

If you fail to pay a ticket and you receive a subpoena, don't take it as a personal insult, say the force, it's merely a reminder. We understand it could have been overlooked. "The best citizens of our town get them." Chief Tucker said, "and they pay them too."

The congestion on Saturday in traffic is getting to be a major concern of the chief and his force and they request you to cooperate as much as possible in helping to overcome this condition.

"Don't leasure ride so much in town on Saturday" says the chief. "We know there's your streets and that's what we're trying to do keep them clear so you can safely drive on them when you are going somewhere." He says the same car over and over again around the same block merely causes more confusion so if you want to see the town, especially on Saturday, walk a while, and see if traffic isn't lightened.

Some Duties Of The Force

The police force has many duties for which they do not always graciously receive credit. They do everything from finding a lost child to directing funeral traffic and it keeps them on their toes pretty near all the time.

There is a three mile radius which they have to cover every day several times a day. They have had their present car for one year and have already put 45 thousand miles on it, so you can see they cover your neighborhood pretty well. They use on an average of 10 gallons of gas a day and patrol the same districts 15 or 20 times in a 24 hour period. There are two men on duty at all times except on week ends when they employ three for the added number of citizens on the streets. They check all the alleys, door and window several times a night to discourage any burglarizing when, by the way, we have very little of and you have only your police force to thank for it. They sometimes have to appear in court as witnesses, they have to check and repair parking meters. They have to answer innumerable questions daily, and they have to put up with a lot of unnecessary consequences which you and I can help prevent by doing our duty as citizens thus enabling them to do a better job and keep our city what it is today.

There are also many traffic situations which the force encounters and they ask that you heed the laws of your county and state. The turn on red signals for instance are there for your convenience, but not to take advantage of. You do not have the right-of-way on such an occasion until you have come to a complete stop, and then turn. If you don't follow this rule, you are guilty of running a red light. As you drivers know, the pedestrian always has the right of way and the chief says that as you pedestrians know you are to wait on the curb on a green light and not out in the gutter That's a good example of cooperation right there, between driver and pedestrian.

The speed limit in the city limits of Clanton is 30 MPH and should be heeded by all. "Some of our best citizens are driving entirely too fast within the city," says the chief, and we're trying in every way to make them help themselves before we have to help them." We know what he means.

Policeman's Compensation

It's a big joy in the pay. The average salary of a man on the force is $300 per month and the working week is 6 days. They get two weeks paid vacation after serving one year on the force. We think they deserve much more and the only way we can compensate is with cooperation.

Cooperation With City Officials

Chief Tucker says the force gets 100 per cent cooperation with the city officials and appreciates all the help the citizens see fit to give him. There is no dissension in his department and he treats officials and the everyday middle class alike throughout his duties. "We don't have to pull any punches with officials, they give us all the backing necessary when they think we are right," said the chief and we think that makes for a better and more promising way to do their duty.

"Most people are pretty nice, just a small per cent give you a hard time." In the words of the head of the force we can see that with just a little more cooperation we can have 100 percent cooperation outside the officials offices as well as inside and have no percentage giving them a hard time.

The department invites and appreciates any suggestions that you might think would render them more useful to the citizens of Clanton. They are there for your protection and at your disposal at all times. They are your friends and will cooperate with you to the fullest extent. Treat them as friends

Disease Control Can Determine Your Profits

Keeping disease under control may determine how much profit or loss you get from the poultry business, warns John Weeks, APT Extension poultryman.

Some growers, reports Weeks, seldom have trouble with sick chickens while other poultrymen are always plagued by disease.

According to the specialist, practices that produce unhealthy chickens include poor nutrition or parent stock; improper incubation; chilling or overheating in transit or during early brooding; starvation due to improper distribution of heat, feed and water during early brooding; dehydration due to abrupt change of watering equipment; too little floor space; lack of feeder and waterer space; inadequate ventilation; faulty nutrition during the growing period; lack of proper vaccination and medication; poor sanitation, and keeping different aged birds on the farm.

When removing a cake from the pan, keep it from cracking by cooling it in the pan 5 to 15 minutes; then invert quickly on cake rack.

Proof That New Industry Pays People Of Alabama

UNIVERSITY, ALA., — Eighty-three new industries located in Alabama last year, bringing the State's grand total to 5,100 manufacturing concerns with an annual payroll of over $1 billion and a production of goods worth over $3 billion, D. Trotter Jones, executive vice-president of Associated Industries of Alabama, told 290 persons at the Trade and Industrial Education Conference here recently.

Jones pointed out to the co-ordinators, supervisors, directors and shops here that the increase in the instructors participating in work-number of industries in Alabama from 1,874 in 1937 to the present 5,100, provides direct employment for 229,000 persons today.

Last year's increase represents an investment of $31 million in plants and equipment in 43 different Alabama communities, he stated.

E. H. Gentry, asst director of Dept. of Education, expressed the belief that Alabamians want more co-operate with other State services-vocational education for the State vocational education programs and called on the conference group to and aim at more efficiently operated courses for adults as well as in-school classes.

He spoke briefly on each of the five main types of vocational education: trade and industrial; vocational agriculture; crippled children's services; vocational rehabilitation; and vocational home economics.

Alabamians Are Drinking Less These Days

Montgomery, Ala. - Temperance advocates may derive some satisfaction from the financial statements of the Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Board. These statements leave no doubt Alabamians are drinking less these days.

A financial report released by R. P. McRee ABC Administrator, shows sales through state-operated stores dropped 6.74 per cent in June, as compared with the previous June.

Sales through state stores totaled $2,564,510 for the month.

Net profits from store operations sales were down by $112,456 or 16.27 per cent.

Income from [illegible] and taxes also was down sharply from the correspondning month last year. From this source, the board collected $128,481, a drop of 29.57 per cent. Net profits from [illegible] and taxes were [illegible] per cent.

Net profits from all operations of the board combined totaled $686,178 last month, a decrease of 19.45 per cent from the corresponding month last year.

For the fiscal year through June, the board shows [illegible] net profit from all operations of $8,841,194. This also was down from the corresponding period of the previous year, by 9.16 per cent.

The drop last month continued a trend which has been going on for several months

DON'T TEAR IT DOWN BEFORE IT'S BUILT

Since construction first began on the new Chilton County hospital there has been much adverse criticism as to the handling of labor on the job.

The slightest effort to check up on these "gripes" finds them to be unfounded, twisted and downright falsehoods.

The fact is that Chilton County labor is being used, wherever possible. Mr. Talbert, the contractor, is to be commended in this respect, since he was under no obligation to hire any labor locally. The County Hospital Board could, and did, ask that he use local labor if possible. Much of the work on the building is being sub-contracted by other firms and they are under no obligation, moral or otherwise, to hire local labor.

Also local businesses have received invitations to bid on the sub-contracts and some have done so. This is done on a basis of competitive bidding and the lowest bid will get the job.

This building is to be inspected by state and federal architects when finishing and must meet very exacting specifications in every respect. It is true that there is no job open for anyone who doesn't know exactly what he is doing.

As to the pay scale, it was set up in the original construction contract and was approved by the federal government. The fact is, the pay scale is considerably higher than that of similar work elsewhere in this County.

Mr. F. Leo Thompson, Chairman of the Chilton County Hospital Board, and the entire Board are to be commended for their untiring efforts to build a hospital for the years to come as well as the present time. They give freely of their off hours as well as their business time to solving the many problems that come up in such a large undertaking. Also the entire Board has been able to maintain their civic-mindness even though they are constantly barraged with the fantastic criticisms of a few citizens who are determined to fight against anything which is for the good of the people as a whole and not these few as individuals.

This hospital is costing the people of Chilton County a great deal of money and it is unfair for a few narrow-minded citizens to attempt to tear it down before it is built.

NEGRO EDITOR WRITES OF SEGREGATION

(Chattanooga Times)

The Times has printed all sides on the segregation er of the Newark (N.J.) Telegram, which was reprinted in the Southern Presbyterian Journal of North Carolina, has been sent to The Times with a request for republication.

Lee has been criticized by Negro organizations but there are many things in his statement which will be widely read. Whether Lee's statement was issued before or after the Suppreme Court decision is not stated but he started out to say that the Negroes would lose more than they would gain under desegregation. Lee went on to say:

"Intergration in the schools in the North and East is not a howling success. A Negro can attend most of the schools up here and get an education, but few of the states that educate him will hire him as a teacher. The state of Connecticut doesn't have 25 Negro teachers . . .

Nowhere in these integrated states do Negroes get anywhere near proportionate representation. Every device is employed to keep qualified Negroes from being assigned. Recently a reputable New York labor union made a report on the employment of Negro teachers in New York City and charged that a systematic scheme has been adopted to exclude Negroes as teachers.

"This is not true in the South. The state of Georgia employed 7,213 Negro teachers, and paid them close to 15 million dollars in salaries last year. North Carolina paid its Negro teachers over 22 million dollars last year. Florida is another state that ranks at top on teacher pay. (Mississippi paid $7,414,278 in salaries to 6,753 Negro teachers in the state last year.)

"If these states, that are now pouring millions of dollars annually into Negro pockets which provides our people with money that enables them to enjoy the dignity of man, to enjoy the prestige and respectability, to buy homes and the necessities of life, are forced to abandon the segregated school, 75 per cent of the Negro teachers in the South will lose their jobs. Not only that, but approximately 20,000 Negro principals will lose their jobs as well . . .

This present movement to end segregation in the schools is merely the beginning of a well-laid plan to completely end segregation in everything in the South. If this happens, the Negro will be thrown into direct competition with the white race, and our business institutions will crumble.

"No place in the world do Negroes own and control as much as do those in the South. Atlanta is without question the Negro capital of the world. It is the center of Negro culture, education, business and finance. And both Negroes and whites live, work and operate businesses without either being conscious of the other's race.

"This movement to integrate the schools of the South is loaded with more racial dynamite than appears on the surface and the Negro will be the one who is blown away.

"During the past two years I have spent more time in the South than I have in my office, and I have interviewed thousands of Negroes in all walks of life and I have found very few who favor mixed schools. They want their own schools, but equal facilities. This being the situation, one questions the fairness of forcing these colored citizens to accept what they don't want. If a little group of paid agitators succeed in forcing their will upon these people, it appears to me that they should at least be given an opportunity to be heard.

Right now the Southern Negro is in a better spot educationally, politically and economically than the Negroes any place in the world. Race relations are continually improving. Every day more Southerners are recognizing the Negro as a man and according him the respect that he merits, but the Southern Negro himself legislation or pressure groups . . .

"Despite all the hullabaloo about the liberal North can do more about improving conditions than can courts, and East, no Negro has been made head of a state college or university. Down south the woods are full of Negro college and university presidents. In Texas a Negro college president of a state school gets $10,000 a year.

"Negroes need to refresh their memories on the fact that just a few years ago we were raising Cain because colored kids in the South were being taught by white teachers. We wanted them taught by Negroes, until now Negro teachers have completely taken over.

"A group goes back into the courts declaring that the Negro is not satisfied with equal facilities, that the separate but equal law is unconstitutional, that nothing less than integration will do. That doesn't seem fair to me."

Looks like our next festive occasion will be the County Fair. Better watch the "News" for further and official details, but we're sure it'll be bigger and better than ever before. You can set aside that date when it's announced for one you'll enjoy and remember.

See where a right noble bunch of local figures were picked up for various things over the week-end. We think most of the pick-ups was caused by a pick-me-up too many.

Had a little mix-up on the Alabama Mills awards in a recent issue so we're running them corrected in this one. If you're in it you'd better make sure your name's spelled right 'cause we've tried hard enough to get them correct.

We're starting our new feature also in this issue so you'd better check and see if it's your farm or one you are familiar with. If it is and you're the first to identify it you'll be the winner of some mighty useful gifts and if it's your farm you can even do better than that. Better check.

It was with the deepest regrets that we learned of the tragic accident of Mr Bullington. We called him Mr. Bullington, some of you probably knew him better as "Doug." He was a good man and well liked throughout Chilton County. His work on our roads for the past 2 years are evidence enough that he was a hard worker and had the betterment of his community in mind. We are indeed at a loss which will be felt by everyone. We admired him for his work and know of no one who could have done a better job.

We've heard that laws were made to break.... we also heard that necks weren't made entirely invulnerable either

You shouldn't let your opinion get mixed up with what's right and wrong; after all it's only one man's opinion.

The reason the other fellows road to success looks so easy is because you didn't travel it.

Had a fella over in Columbus, Miss., tell me the other day that my car needed washing. I told him I knew it, but I reckon he doesn't have the water shortage that we have around this neck of the woods.

Clanton's worst spot for driving is that blind corner down around Jim Wade's and Patterson Hicks We think it is because no matter how hard you look up and down, if you pull out there will invariably be a car coming that you didn't see. A good example of that is our good friend Johnny Vines was coming up that way the other day and some poor fellow pulled out in front of him. Johnny has good brakes; if he didn't that poor guy that drove in front of him wouldn't be breathing now. If we can't get a traffic light that far down right at present we will just have to look doubly close before venturing to stick our snoot out, that is if you like your snoot the way it is.

While we're on the subject, we'd like to mention that since this seems to be "Wreck four '48 Ford Month" all you guys with that make and model had better keep your eyes and ears open. In the past coupla weeks they've wrecked so many we've lost count. That was a good year, too.

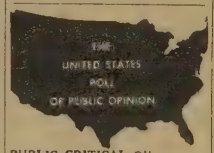
You can tell the summer heats effecting some of us. Rip Burnett got so hot he broke out his front window and sat a night watchman in it so nobody would be tempted to drive one of these hot new Fords out. Naw, Rip didn't break it out, but it did have its advantages cause we know it must be lots cooler inside now. I'll bet that fella isn't sittin' in that window for his health, however. It ain't that cool.



PUBLIC CRITICAL OF METHODS SEN. McCARTHY

By Kenneth Fink, Director
Prineton Research Service.

Princeton, New Jersey—The manner in which Senator McCarthy has been investigating Communist activities has been a controversial issue since he first came into the limelight.

Results of a nationwide survey just completed show that a majority of the nation's adult citizens disapprove of the methods the Wisconsin Senator uses in carrying out his investigations

At the same time, a sizable group—one in every three—say they approve of his methods.

In other words, those who disapprove of the methods used by Senator McCarthy outnumber by a margin of eight to five those who approve.

These were the findings when U. S. Poll staff reporters personally asked a representative cross-section of the adult citizens:

"In general, do you approve or disapprove of the methods used by Senator McCarthy?"

The results:

NATIONWIDE

Approve	34 per cent
Disapprove	55 per cent
No opinion	11 pe rcent

College-trained persons disapprove of the Senator's methods to a greater extent than do the less educated groups. These figures break down as follows:

	No	Yes	No Opin.
College	21%	75	4
High School	37%	52	11
Grade School	42%	42	16

Manual workers across the nation give the methods used by Senator McCarthy a stronger vote of confidence than do those in other occupational groups.

	No	Yes	No Opin.
Manual workers	40%	46	14
White-collar workers	28%	66	6
Farmers	30%	56	10

And Democrats and Independent voters in the nation evidence greater disapproval of the Senator's methods than do rank and file members of the GOP.

	No	Yes	No Opin.
Republicans	43%	47	10
Democrats	26%	61	13
Independents	37%	57	6

To shed light on why these persons said they disapproved of the Senator's methods, they were asked the following question by U. S. Poll reporters:

"What is there about his methods that you disapprove of?"

Four main categories come to light in analyzing the answers to this question:

1. The most frequently-mentioned objection is that the Senator is "too harsh in his methods"; that he "goes too far," and that he is "too rough on witnesses."

2. The second largest group feels that the Senator "never has proof of what he claims" in his investigations, and that he "condemns people without having the facts to back him up."

3. The third most frequently-mentioned objection is that he "uses undemocratic methods"— methods that are similar to the ones "used by the Russians" and "by the Gestapo."

4. In fourth place are those persons who "just don't like his tactics" and "the way he does things."

From the Bassett and Henry County Journal, Bassett, Virginia: Nobody likes a chronic griper, and he who enjoys misery is left to himself to enjoy it. There is danger in our going too far in the selfish indulgence of berating ourselves. If we drench those about us with self-abasement, or harp on adverse conditions which cannot be changed, our complaints will be brushed away with annoyance and disgust.

If we would bring out our troubles but not make a parade of them and remember that "people are funnier than anybody," our troubles would be controlled.

Actually the ability to laugh at one's self and to find the lighter side of a situation has become an American trademark. Such situations as pulling the hat down on the wrong fellow's head would be disaster in some countries. Here you can almost bet that the victim got a big laugh too.

Where else can people laugh at and with each other over common misfortunes or mistakes?

Thousands of things happen each day that bring laughter and countless retellings. Old Timers hold regular audiences of younger men with their past experiences; the younger folks listen, learn and laugh.

The ability to do just that is what makes us human beings. After all, the world is made up of people—and people are funny.

From the Suburban List, Essex Junction, Vermont: A man in West Virginia, who is 84 years old, and very active, was asked how he keeps going at his age. Here is his answer:

"My formula is to keep busy so that the years go by unnoticed; to despise nothing except selfishness, meanness and corruption; fear nothing except cowardice, disloyalty and indifference; covet nothing that is my neighbor's except his kindness of heart and his gentleness of spirit, think many, many times of my friends and, if possible, seldom of my enemies."

That is a whole sermon of an hour's length condensed into a few words. The tragedy of it is that not a great many people carry it out.

Some may qualify except that they are selfish. Others might get a good mark, but they are more or less mean. Not so many are disloyal and cowardly but indifference is quite common. And how many people there are who are jealous of their neighbor's success.

The easiest thing in the world is to extend sympathy to someone who has misfortune. It is not quite so easy to congratulate one who has made success.

Alabama Farmers Will Get Assistance From Uncle Sam

Montgomery, Ala. — Assistance from Uncle Sam appeared on the way for Alabama farmers, hit hard by bad weather conditions, as Gov. Gordon Persons sent a plan to President Eisenhower to have the entire state declared a drought disaster area.

"Alabama has been drought-stricken for four consecutive years," the governor said in his message to Washington. "Drought conditions presently exist in every county in the state in varying degrees. The state is presently faced with the prospect of producing the poorest crops in many years."

In support of his request, Gov. Persons sent to the president a report prepared by a committee, headed by James L. Lawson, associate director of the API Extension Service.

As of July 16, the drought committee reported adequate moisture for growing crops existed in only 12 counties: Houston, Dale, Barbour, Crenshaw, Conecuh, Butler, Clarke, Chilton, Coosa, Clay Cleburne and Chambers.

Twenty other counties were classed as "very dry." They were Franklin, Colbert, Lawrence, Limestone, Madison, Jackson, Winston, Walker, Fayette, Jefferson, St. Clair, Etowah, Cherokee, Greene, Marengo, ePrry, Dallas, Autauga, Lowndes and Mobile.

No reports were shown for Lamar, Pickens and Blount. The remaining 32 counties were classed as "dry."

Nearly all "money crops" have suffered from the drought, the committee report showed. Cotton, off to a bad start because of cool weather in April and May, was about 50 per cent of natural size for the time of year. Old corn was damaged 50 to 90 per cent, and young corn needs rain at once to produce a crop.

Showers were scattered, and high temperatures resulted in quick evaporation.

Cattle producers, trying to take their herds through the season in spite of burned-out pasture, resorted to grazing corn. Many have sold their hogs at a sacrifice, marketing them in poor conditions and at depressed prices.

Declaring the state a disaster area would permit the secretary of agriculture to make surplus feeds available to farmers, and would allow farmers to obtain long-term loans through the Feleral Crop Insurance Corporation.

Our Economy Is Moving Sidewise Says Sparkman

Senator John Sparkman, Alabama, has charged on the Senate floor that the economy is not expanding sufficiently to absorb our growing labor force and that unless corrective measures are taken the recession will grow worse in early 1955 if not sooner.

Sparkman urged his Senate colleagues to be cautious about recent Administration claims that everything is easy, that from now on we may expect recovery, and that no further concern need be shown about the nation's economy.

"In fact," he said, "there has been a startling decline in the farm sector of the economy. Only last week the Department of Agriculture announced that the farm parity ratio declined from 91 percent in May to 88 in June—the lowest point since March, 1941, 13 years ago.

"Just a few days ago it was announced that the price of steel was going up $3 a ton. That simply means that the price of farm machinery and implements which the farmer must buy is going up and the pinch is going to become tighter as between the low prices the farmer will receive for his farm products and the high prices he will have to pay for the things he must buy.

"Furthermore, unemployment is still 5.1 percent of the civilian labor force. Or, in other words, unemployment in June was 3,347,000, compared to 1,562,000 a year ago—an increase of nearly 2,000,000 during the past year."

Sparkman pointed out that the economy is further depressed by the decreased purchasing power caused by shortened working hours of other millions and involuntary part-time work for additional thousands of workers.

Agreeing that since March the economic decline has leveled off, Senator Sparkman said:

"Moving sideways is not good enough.

"Arrested development is not a desirable goal. Our economy must expand to absorb the tens of thousands that enter the labor force each year and the increased efficiency in man-hour production. It either expands or we slowly but surely move backwards into a deepening recession and eventual depression."

Senator Sparkman stated that the present Administration passed up the best chance to expand the economy when it pushed through a tax reduction program for the wealthy but refused to give tax relief to more than a handful of the low and middle income groups.

As additional measures to improve the economy, Senator Sparkman recommended:

(1) Continuation of farm price supports and more vigorous efforts to dispose of surplus farm crops to needy Americans and friendly peoples in need abroad.

(2) An expanded public works program, particularly for building of roads.

(3) Immediate start on construction of needed school facilities.

(4) Expansion and improvement of unemployment compensation.

(5) Stepped-up financial and tax aids to small busines.

Senator Sparkman has insisted ever since the recession began over a year ago that a depression could be avoided through the wise use of existing tools and reasonable efforts to assure a growing economy. He took the lead in successfully urging the Administration to reverse its "hard money" policy, which did much to start the recession in the first place.

Sparkman is ranking Democrat of the Joint Economic Committee that is directed by Congress to study the nation's conditions and to recommend ways to keep the nation's economy healthy.

Fence posts cut and peeled during early Spring and stored in an open pile or stack should be about ready for treating now.

NEW TAGGING SYSTEM FOR CERTIFIED SEED

Auburn, Ala.—A new system of tagging certified seed will be used next Spring.

R. R. Jones, API Extension seed crops specialist, said in Auburn this week that the Board of Directors of the Alabama Crop Improvement Association have announced plans to use a two tag system with all Alabama certified seeds.

The specialist explained that at present seed are officially marked with a single tag—carrying complete analysis information. Using two tags will require the analysis information to be placed on a separate label instead of the certification tag.

According to Jones this system is being adopted because it will place greater responsibility on the individual producer and will remove the necessity of replacing certification tags due to expiration of dates and other technical problems.

Jones quoted H. Owen Murfee, Jr., president of the Alabama Crop Improvement Association, as saying, "Announcement is being made at this time in order to acquaint farmers and others with the change which will take place next year."

Enjoy Fresh Fruits During Summer Months

Auburn, Ala.—What a parade of fresh fruit July offers! At this time of year, cantaloupes, watermelons and peaches are in full season, points out Dorothy Overby, API Extension consumer education specialist.

For high quanty and best flavor, the home leader says, but fully ripe fruit. A ripe cantaloupe, she explains, has a light-yellow rind that is well-neted with gray veins. The stem-end should have a sunken, smooth scar. A distinct, sweet aroma is also a sign of ripeness.

Watermelons are often sold in "halves" or quarters" so it is quite easy to, see the interior of the melon. Look for bright red, crisp flesh. The color of the watermelon seeds depends upon the variety not the ripenes of the melon.

Before you place melons in the refrigerator, wrap them in wax paper or put them in a plastic case so that their aroma does not mingle with other foods, advises the specialist.

Peaches are among the most popular fruits for eating fresh. They may be used with ice cream, also plentiful at this time, and scores of other desserts, including pie. In picking ripe peaches, points out Miss Overbey, be sure they have good under color with blushes of red and a sweet aroma. They should also be slightly soft.

Sort peaches frequently putting ripe ones in a cold place and keep green ones at room temperature so they may ripen. The specialist adds that they may be preserved by canning, freezing, spicing, pickling or preserve-making.

Now while they are most plentiful, concludes Miss Overbey, is a good time to enjoy these luscious fruits.

Safety Congress Meet Cancelled

Montgomery.—The Fourth Annual Alabama Safety Congress has been cancelled.

The Alabama Safety Commission and Alabama Safety Council, co-sponsors of the statewide safety meeting, announced that personnel and finance shortages, plus conflicting national meetings and conventions, have force dthe shutdown.

The Congress was to have been held at Mobile on September 10 and 11.

President Hugh Comer of the Alabama Safety Council and Safety Commission Chairman Earl McGowin said definite plans for the Congress in the future "are not indicated at this time."

Comer hinted that no further commitments would be made for several months.

"It is a regrettable development that this Congress, which we expected to draw 1000 leading Alabamians together in the cause of prevention of human and economic tragedy, must be cancelled," Comer and McGowin said in a point statement.

"Our two organizations hope sincerely that it can be rescheduled at some time in the future, to continue the life-saving activity initiated last year by the Third Annual Alabama Safety Conference held at Montgomery."

This year's Congress was to have included a Traffic Conference, a teen-age conference, and a Farm and Home Conference, in session concurrently at two Mobile hotels, the Admiral Semmes and the Battle House.

TRAFFIC DEATH RATE CLIMBS

MONTGOMERY — Alabama's 1954 traffic death toll climbed this week (July 23) to 407, exactly erasing a slight reduction scored during the past two weeks over the 1953 toll for the corresponding period.

Alabama Public Safety Director L. B. Sullivan said the official count for the period Jan. 1-July 22, 1953, was 407 deaths. Last week (July 15) the 1954 toll was 395, compared with 402 for the same period of 1953.

Sullivan was visibly distressed by the unfavorable closing of the gap, but he pointed out that a great gain has been made in reduction of the 1954 toll from a point 35 higher than corresponding 1953 levels which existed June 10.

Two-Way Radios Help In Fight Against Forest Fires

Miss Joyce Strickland, Radio Operator at Coosa River Newsprint Company's main office, Coosa Pines. She maintains contact with the Woodlands Field force.

Area Forester Burt Carlson uses his Mobile Radio unit to maintain contact with the Company's Main office.

The fire season this fall promises to be less nerve-racking for the Woodlands people of Coosa River Newsprint Company. Their newly installed General Electric narrow band two-way radio system means better control in the prevention and fighting of forest firese.

This system includes a 250 watt main station, 16 mobile, and 2 portable units. Kahatchee Mountain site of the main station, is the control center for this fire-fighting network. Kahatchee is 1300 feet above sea level, and the transmitter is located atop a 100-foot lookout tower on its crest. It is connecjed by remote control with the Woodlands office, nine miles away at Coosa Pines. Miss Joyce Strickland, operator at the office, maintains direct contact with a field force of 17 Area and Conservation Foresters.

The radio network has a maximum operating range of 75 miles in all directions from Kahatchee. Thus, it provides immediate contact with field representatives in the event of fire or other emergencies through out the twelve-county area from which the Mill draws most of its pulpwood.

The mobile units are 60 watt sets Located in the cars of field personnel, they provide a maximum car-to-car communicating distance of 20 miles. This feature adds considerable flexibility to the system. Field Area Foresters may communicate directly with each other, as well as with the Woodlands office.

The portable units are one-watt "Pak-Fone" sets. Weighing about twenty pounds, they fit snugly into a shoulder pack for convenient carrying. Designed for use in areas where mobile units cannot go, they allow the Area Forester to talk with the home station, or any mobile unit that is within range. Thus, a completely flexible fire-fighting unit, covering a twelve-county area, is maintained with constant direct contact.

Here is how the system operates in the event of a forest fire: The Woodland office is notified by a telephone from a private individual or by the Alabama Forestry Division through its radio system. Instant radio contact is made with the Area Forester, in whose district the fire has been reported. The Forester investigates the fire and reports to the Woodland office of his mobile radio. Additional manpower or fire-fighting equipment can be dispatched by the Woodlands office to bring the fire under control. Meanwhile, the Area Forester is able to remain at the site to do what he can to slow the fire's progress.

"Two-way radio is not altogether new at Coosa River Newsprint Company," according to John Raeburn, Woodlands Manager. "For several years we have had a dozen units tied in on the radio frequency of the Alabama Deaprtment of Conservation. We will continue to maintain radio contact with the Department. However, all divisions of the Conservation Department use this same frequency. Because of the extremely heavy traffic of the state system, and its urgent need for relief, we have considered for some time a private system. Too, with our private system, we have contact with our field personnel, which we could not have while using only the state's radio network."

Woodlands people can never relax entirely during the fire-fighting season. They can rest easier this fall in the knowledge that their own radio network plus that of the State Department of Conservation makes fire fighting and fire prevention work in the forests a great deal more effective than it has been heretofore. Radio is helping to Keep Alabama Green.

Pulp And Paper Industry Sets Out Nearly 12 Million Trees In State

Atlanta, Ga., July 23—Seven pulpmills combined their efforts and supplemented by at least seven pulpwood dealers, accounted for the planting of 11,838,12 trees in Alabama during this past planting season. The survey was conducted by H. J. Malsberger, Forester and General Manager of the Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association, Atlanta, Georgia.

The pulpmills engaging in this activity are the Alabama mills of Coosa River Newsprint Company, Gulf States Paper Corporation, Hollingsworth & Whitney Co., International Paper Co., Bowaters Southern Paper Corp. of Tenn., Rome Kraft Co. of Ga., and St. Regis Paper Co. of Florida. These mills supplied 9,848,612 trees and the remaining 11,900,000 were provided by pulpwood dealers Reform Pulpwood Co., A. Rigell, Sellers, Inc., William C. Jones, Jr., H. D. Ward, G. C. Coggin & Co., Inc., and a group selling wood to Gulf States Paper Corporation.

"This figure exceeds the industry's effort of last year by 3 million trees," Malsberger stated. "It has resulted," he continued, "in putting 11,839 additional acres of idle land to work growing profitable crops of trees." This is of great importance to the state whose economy is so closely related and dependent upon its forests and forest industries.

The industry produced over four million of these trees in nurseries operated by Coosa River Newsprint Company, St. Regis Paper Co. and Bowaters Southern Paper Corp. About seven and a half million were purchased from the state nursery operated by State Forester Stauffer and the remainder was secured from TVA.

The industry planted 8,445 acres of its lands and contributed to small landowners enough trees to plant 3,384 acres. In many cases, the use of tree planting machines by the landowner was also provided by the industry.

Study Shows State Road System Is In Bad Shape

Some $315,390,000 would be needed to bring federal aid highways in Alabama up to adequate standards, according to Arthur O. Dietz, president of C. I. T. Financial Corporation, the nation's largest independent financing institution.

Dietz quoted a study by the American Association of State Highway Officials in pointing out that some 7,180 miles of Alabama's federal aid highways are considered inadequate.

Nationally, he explained, improvements are needed on almost 64 per cent, or more than 429,000 miles, of the federal aid system. On all roads and streets — federal, state and local — he said at least $50 billion is needed just to bring the system up to adequate standards. Road spending in the United States, Dietz declared, must be increased to a level of some $11 billion a year, more than double the present rate, "if we are to solve the highway crisis."

Dietz said federal aid needs are particularly critical because the system's 673,000 miles, only about one-fifth of the nation's roadway mileage, carry four-fifths of the traffic.

Emphasizing the seriousness of the nation's traffic problem, Dietz said the average rural road is more than 20 years old and was last surfaced more than 15 years ago.

"Highway travel has climbed to more than two and one-half times the volume in 1931, when many of our roads were constructed," Dietz said. "Traffic volume in 1950 reached a level that had not been expected until 1960. Today we have some 55,000,000 vehicles on our roadways. By 1975, we will probably have 85,000,000 vehicles in use and traffic volume probably will be doubled by 1970."

If the nation is to continue to prosper, Dietz said, highway spending must be increased to a level of some $11 billion a year over at least a 10-year period.

Si Garrett's Office Carries On Work In His Absence

The staff of Atty. Gen. Si Garrett is carrying on the duties of the office, in the absence of the attorney general, who is recovering from injuries suffered in an automobile accident in Mississippi.

The staff is continuing to give expert legal advice to state and county officials, in accord with provisions of the state constitution.

In a recent opinion, Edward H. Reynolds, county solicitor of Macon County, was advised that state courts have no jurisdiction over persons accused of violating state speed laws, when the alleged offenses were committed on a highway owned by the federal government. The highway in question leads to the Veterans Hospital at Tuskegee, and is U. S. Property.

In another opinion, given recently to Frank B. Lloyd, Probate Judge of Crenshaw county, the attorney general's staff ruled that a candidate for sheriff, who was disqualified in the run-off pirmary because he failed to file a pre-election expense account, can still be a write-in candidate in the general election in November.

Voters who wish to cast their ballots for such a write-in candidate must actually write the name on the ballot, the opinion stated. They cannot use a rubber stamp.

A credit union may make FHA loans to its members up to the limit of unsecured indebtedness allowed in the by-laws, according to an opinion given to Joe H. Wilhams, state superintendent of banks in the Alabama Department of Commerce.

Witnesses summoned by a circuit solicitor while the grand jury is not in session can be punished for failing to appear, even though the state code does not allow payment of a witness fee, according to an opinion given to Thomas H. Boggs, solicitor for the 17th Circuit, Linden.

Failure to appear in response to such a summons, or to answer questions, constitutes a misdemeanor, punishable by fine of $10 to $500, in addition to hard labor sentences up to 60 days, the opinion states.

This is true in spite of the fact that the Circuit Court cannot issue an attachment in a case of this kind or bring contempt proceedings to enforce obedience to the solicitor's summons, the opinion continues.

The attorney general's staff also advised Ralph W. Roberts, director of the State Health Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics, that the exisence of a previous adoption does not bar the bureau from preparing a new record of birth in a new name when a child is adopted a second time.

Maximum use of home-grown grains for poultry can be made by feeding whole oats, whole corn, or grain sorghum and a high protein supplement.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

A conference committee is attempting to iron out the difference between the House and Senate versions of the Atomic Energy Act revision bill approved last week by both bodies.

This measure, debated in the Senate for thirteen days, contains the first revisions to the Atomic Energy Act since it became law in 1946. The bill has three broad objectives: (1) To permit the negotiation of bilateral agreements for cooperation with foreign nations in the area of peacetime uses of atomic energy; (2) to encourage the participation of private enterprise in development of peacetime atomic power; and (3) to authorize the passing of limited information on atomic weapons to Allies in the common defense against Communist aggression.

The major differences between the House and Senate versions of the bill involve provisions to permit the development of atomic-electric power by private industry. The House approved the plan for private development, but the Senate placed limitations on the bill's provisions for non-government participation in the atomic energy program. The House bill contains the Administration's proposal for outright atomic development for commercial purposes by private industry, and it includes a provision to keep the Atomic Energy Commission from developing and distributing atomic-electric power for commercial use, except as a by-product. On the other hand, the Senate voted to let the Atomic Energy Commission itself produce commercial power and distribute it, preferably to cooperatives and municipal power bodies. Both Houses, however, voted to permit the AEC to buy private power either for direct delivery to atomic installations or for delivery through the TVA system.

The conference report that will reach the floor of both House and Senate before adjournment could cause further delay in the plans of members to return to their respective districts.

Foreign Aid Voted

In passing the foreign aid appropriation bill last Wednesday, the House approved $2.9 billion in new cash fo rthe program. This is about $400 million less than the limit set on new funds for foreign aid by the authorization bill that the House approved earlier. As was ointed out in a previous column, appropriation bills actually provide funds that are authorized or permitted and they are separate from the authorization bills. Appropriations can be less, but not more than the amount authorized.

As passed by the House, the foreign aid appropriation bill allows a total of $5.2 billion for financing the Mutual Security Program through June 30, 1955. About $2.3 billion of this amount will be drawn from carry-over funds appropriated in previous years but not yet obligated, and the remainder is new money. The total is approximately $812 million less than President Eisenhiwer had requested.

Although a large amount of the funds appropriated is to be used for direct military assistance in the form of aircraft, tanks, and other weapons, a substantial part is still earmarked for economic aid.

The House bill allots $712 million in new cash for defense aid in Southeast Asia, a reduction of $88 millions from the President's quest.

At this date, the Senate has not yet completed action on either the authorization or appropriation bill for foreign aid. The House took unusual action by passing the actual appropriation measure before the Senate had even finished the authorization bill. However, the Senate is expected to take action on both measures this week.

Tax Laws Revised

Last week the House and Senate both approved and sent to the President for his signature the compromise version of the general tax revision bill. The approved bill provides an estimated $1.3 billion in tax relief for individuals and businesses, and represents the first general revision of the Internal Revenue Code since before the turn of the century.

Bobby Wood Visits

Bobby Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest K. Wood of Tuscaloosa stopped by for a visit with me last week when he was in Washington as a delegate to the American Legion-sponsored Boys' Nation. Bobby was elected Alabama's Governor at this year's Boys' State meeting in Montgomery and, as a result, received the trip to Washington.

Still another honor was captured by Bobby at Boy's Nation. Despite stiff competition, he was elected to serve as President Pro-tem of the Senate—one of only three officials elected by the 94 delegates.

During his Washington visit, Bobby met President Eisenhower, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, and other top government officials. He also attended the weekly luncheon of the Alabama Congressional Deleagtion.

When school resumes this fall, Bobby will take over his duties as President of the Student Body at Tuscaloosa High School.

Bobby Wood's friends in Tuscaloosa and the Sixth District have every reason to be proud of his outstanding record.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

THE one-year-old (she'll be two in September) has begun to talk. She has now almost given up her pointing and grunting, which served so long as her sole means of communication, in favor of real words. They are not sentences yet, just words.

The seven-year-old and the five-year-old are delighted with the small one's accomplishment, and she revels in their admiration. Whatever they tell her to say, she dutifully tries to repeat after them. Then they all join in hilarious laughter over her efforts.

She doesn't always have to be prompted. When she wants to, she comes out with words of her own choosing, words that sometime amaze us. Recently when we were on a vacation trip to the mountains, we came upon a giant boulder, an outcropping of rock almost three times as big as the car.

The one-year-old pointed at it observed solemnly: Big brick."

On that trip, I kept remembering the words I'd read in a magazine article in which the author advised:

"When traveling with children, care should be taken to see that the driver of the car is not distracted by their activities."

If only the author had said specifically what kind of care should be taken! After careful study, it seems to me that the only ways to avoid distraction in a car with three active children are (1) chloroform the children, or (2) hypnotize the driver. I considered doing both before we reached our destination.

The one-year-old's favorite pasttime on the trip was to reach over and yank the driver's hat down over his eyes—definitely distracting. After it finally occurred to us that the simplest way to stop that was to remove his hat, she had to content herself with crawlin garound on the floor, and, whenever possible, pressing down suddenly on the gas pedal.

I thought it would make the journey easier for us all to follow some of the suggestions in the magazine article. One was to encourage the children to read road signs. It sounded perfect for the seven-year-old, who is quite proud of her recently-acquired reading ability. I was congratulating myself on this project's success, when the seven-year-old shouted: "Stop!"

The driver slammed on the brakes, pulled over to the side of the road, and looked around to see what calamity had befallen the back seat occupants.

"Nothing's wrong," the seven-year-old said. "I was just reading road signs like Mother told me to do and one back there said stop."

STILL undaunted, I followed the author's suggestions to give the children old cloths to polish the inside of the car. What with everything else packed, I had neglected to include old cloths, but the children's socks (they had taken them off a mile from home) served fine. For several minutes, I thought that plan would be a success. But it turned out the junior travelers weren't satisfied with making just the interior of the car shine—they wanted to work on the exterior, too—hanging out the windows to give the doors a polishing. That ended that.

ONE suggestion I did follow from the magazine was to take along some homemade cookies to give filling station attendants as a token of thanks when rest stops were made. The cookies didn't last long, though. It would have taken the entire output of a big city bakery to provide enough cookies for all the stops we made.

BUT, despite the distractions, we finally reached our destination, and, after a brief period of recuperation, even the distressed driver admitted that the trip hadn't been too bad. And we did have fun.

MOLES AND WARTS

Moles and warts are common growths on the skin which, generally, are harmless. Most of these can be removed easily. Unfortunately, many persons link the harmless type with a cancer and, failing to have their fears quieted by a physician, live a life of anxiety.

Perhaps the most common growths are the ordinary moles which may be found on any part of the body but most frecuently on the face. Characteristically, moles are rounded, dome-shaped, smooth surfaced and often pigmented more darkly than the surrounding skin. Frequently a few long hairs will sprout from the surface which cause considerable annoyance. Cancer seldom is associated with these ordinary pigmented moles.

Another type of mole, however is identified with cancer. This form is flat, generally quite hairless and often very dark. Occasionally one of these will increase in size or become much darker, develop irregularities in its surface or become ulcerated. These moles particularly if thy are in areas subject to irritation, should have immediate attention to rule out any suspicion of cancer.

The common wart is another familiar type of growth. Warts are easily reconizable. They grow rapidly, seed into other areas by contact and have the typical corny, irregular surface with tiny rough projections. The common wart is erratic in its growth. Sometimes it is extremely resistant to treatment; other times it will suddenly disappear over night.

While, in general, warts and moles are harmless, those showing decided changes in color and shape or those associated with bleeding, scabbing and ulceration should be investigated. Early diagnosis will prevent much anxiety; and early treatment, if cancerous, can be begun so as to get good results.

The color of the eggshell has absolutely nothing to do with the quality of an egg.

Dairy Operators Are Not Supplying Enough Milk For State's Consumers

Auburn, Ala. — Alabama dairy producers supplied 99 per cent of the class one fluid milk needed in Alabama during 1953, 97 per cent in 1952, but only 92 per cent during 19.. reports John Parrish, API Extension dairyman

He points out that there were 10 months in 1951 and seven months in 1953 when Alabama dairymen did not meet the state's milk need.

Parrish makes the following observation on Alabama's fluid milk market

1. Surplus milk was produced in April and May of the last three years.

2. Producers failed to meet state needs in September, October, and November, which are base months. Plants have been forced to buy out-of-state milk at this time and the purchased milk became a base for out-of-state producers.

3. In 1953 the state imported 18 per cent of its total fluid milk which amounted to over 85 million pounds.

According to the farm leader, Alabama dairymen can take two steps to help correct this situation. First they can plot their total plan deliveries and class one milk sales by pay periods. The difference between these will be the surplus milk for a given period.

Secondly they can discuss this graph with distributors and request suggestions for changing the program to more nearly meet plant needs.

In all cases it would be wise for producers to check with plant operations before buying additional cows, advises the farm leader.

Famed Dixie Division Back At McClellan

Ft. McClellan, Ala.—After a four year absence because of the Korean War and faced with a major rebuilding job, the 31st Infantry (Dixie) Division is back at Fort McClellan, Ala.

The Mississippi-Alabama National Guard Division, proud veteran of three wars, opened its annual summer field training here Sunday.

The approximately 5,000 officers and men of the division completed their movement by train and truck into this base Monday and immediately swung into an intensive training program.

Major General Alexander G. Paxton, the Dixie Division's Commanding General, views the mission of the division at this summer field training period as a "rebuilding job."

The need for the "rebuilding" task stems from the fact that this new version of the 31st is heavily loaded with new men, men who have never before participated in a summer field training program.

Gen. Paxton, in a talk to the division's officers Monday, called the 1954 summer field training the "rebirth" of the Dixie Division. He praised the "termendous efforts that were put forth and the marvelous accomplishments" of the Division when it was on active federal service durin gthe Korean War.

"We are going to rebuild, knowing that we have the ability and know-how to do the job," Gen. Paxton said.

This is the first summer field training period for the Dixie Division since 1950. Only the Alabama units of the division participated in field training during 1953.

Training during these two weeks will include plenty of "basic" material designed to make proficient soldiers out of the National Guardsmen who wear the "Double D" patch.

First week of training will be devoted largely to individual training in the fundamentals of soldiering. The 31st units will go into the field during the second week for training at the small unit level. It is during this period that most of the division's heavy tank and artillery weapons will be fired.

The Training will also include firing of the infantryman's basic small arms weapons.

Although the emphasis during the entire two weeks will be on "Rebuilding" the Dixie Division into the efficient fighting force it was during the Korean War, the "Double D" troops will have plenty of recreational facilities.

At Fort McClellan are swimming pools, service clubs, theatres, post exchanges and stage shows.

Picking green cotton and cracked bolls or leaving cotton in the field too long may reduce grade.

Experts estimate that if all dairy cows which broke even or lost money last year were culled, there would be no surplus of milk products

In tests at the Black Belt substation the carotene content of crushed Johnson grass and sorghum hay was about twice that of uncrushed

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

We call our office "The Bee's Nest." Not because it is so busy but because it swarm up here.

A leading citizen called us this morning about the condition existing in the manner in which our police calls are handled—or we should say not handled. The existing method is to call the police department and wait. We say wait because the telephone is seldom answered when you call. The policemen are not to blame. They are doing their job, which is where they should be. The officers just can't be two places at one time. They can't patrol the town and sit at the phone and wait for calls at the same time. Well, what's the answer? Two-way radio of course. It has become so common that even small private companies can maintain it. Then why can't our city police department. Why can't the city put two full-time firemen on the Fire Department to relay all calls and at the same time reduce the insurance rates of all the business property at the same time plus give the citizens instant police protection. It is a good thought and one we believe should be looked into.

Another business man who stayed more than half the night at the Blackwood Singing called and wanted to know why we didn't get behind a move to clean out the mosquito bed at "Little Catoma" Creek close to the airport. The cess-pool there is a breeding place for the germ carriers and the businessman's thought was this: We know what happened at Montgomery last year so why not clean this creek out before the same thing happens here. As he says "mosquitoes are cheaper than caskets and funerals."

Hilman Mims was by to see us. He wants more people to call on the State Employment Office when they need help of any kind. Now don't get the wrong impression. When we say help of any kind, we mean when you need to employ someone, then call on them and they can fix you up with a good man or woman for the job. That is their business and they have plenty help to go around if you will just let them know.

L. W. Johnson, Chairman of the Membership Committe of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, has challenged the American Legion to a membership drive contest. Whether or not the American Legion will accept he doesn't know but he hopes they will so he can get some life into the local organizations. Deputy Johnson says he may even challenge the Thorsby Post of the American Legion, too. Now if he does he better be on his toes for that is a livewire outfit up there and they are likely to give him a hard time.

H. G. Heflin at the Peoples Savings Bank made the drawing of the winner in last week's Mystery Farm contest. W. W. Wingard was the name drawn and receives his choice of prizes. There is another picture in this issue so try your luck. Maybe you can be winner next week.

It's pretty cool these nights and we are enjoying it. But last week was one of the hottest we have ver witnessed. A dog was chasing a cat down the alley behind the News office and it was so hot they were both walking.

School Entrance Age Is Set By State Law

Title 52, Section 298 of the Alabama School Code sets forth the age at which children may enter the public schools of Alabama. This law reads: "a child who is under six years of age on October first shall not be entitled to admission to such schools during that school year." This means that a child that becomes six years of age on any date after October first of this year will not be able to enter school this year.

The Chilton County Board of Education takes the stand that the only course it can take is to comply with the law. To evade the law even for a child that becomes six on October second would make the Board a violator and would eliminate any control over entrance age. Therefore, according to the Superintendent of Education, no exceptions will be made.

Parents of children entering for the first time should be sure that they have the required shots. The purpose of these shots is for the protection of the children and to prevent the occurence of epidemics.

The schools of Chilton County will open on Friday, September 3 this year.

Third Annual

Fox Hunters' Bench Show, Field Trials To Be Held Monday

Next Monday, August 16, the third annual Chilton County foxhunters field trial gets underway with registrations at the Willingham Hotel. Hounds may be registered or entered until midnight Monday.

On Monday night at 7:00 p.m., the annual bench show preceding the field events will be held at the Clanton Airport in the hangar. All classes of hounds from pups thru all age will be shown with appropriate ribbons and prizes going to the winners in the various classes. The hounds will be ably judged by a nationally-known judge who has gained wide popularity throughout the south in foxhunting circles.

Paul Casey, Pocahontas, Tenn., will be Master of Hounds this year. Mr. Casey is widely experienced in field trials and President J. R. Porch stated this week the association was extremely fortunate in securing the services of this hound man and hunter.

After hounds are entered at the hotel, they may be numbered at the hangar, where a committee will be in charge. All hounds must be numbered before the bench show. All hounds that are competing for the Bell Hardware or the Clanton Jewelry Co. combination trophies must place in the first ten on the bench to be eligible. The combination challenge trophies go to the hounds scoring the highest points both on the bench and in the field.

Running will commence Tuesday morning, August 17, at daybreak with the first casts being made at the Buddy Ellison place near Dixie camp east of Verbena.

Ten trophies will be awarded the field winners on top of the combination trophies. Five will go to the first five derbies or hounds under two years old and five to the all-age field winners.

This year's running will be a little different to last year's in that derby hounds will be required to run the entire three days as the all-age.

The Chilton County Foxhunters Association urges all Chilton County hunters to enter their hounds and keep as many of the beautiful trophies in Chilton County as possible.

Pilot Club To Hold Rummage Sale 21st

The Pilot Club of Clanton will hold a rumage sale Saturday, August 21, at the County Health Office. Anyone having rumage to donate is asked to call 420 or take their rummage to the Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Co. The Pilot Club is especially anxious to have men's shirts and clothes which can be worn back to school.

To Be Remodeled—

Old SDA Building Is Now Trinity Episcopal Church

Last week the last payment was made on the old Seventh Day Adventist Church building to be known in the future as Trinity Episcopal Church. This building is located on Second Street, South, next to the new Calloway Garage.

Under the leadership of the Rev. E. M. Parkman of Montgomery and with the generous help of friends here in Clanton and in Chilton county, the small congregation has been able to raise the necessary funds in the past two months.

Members would like to take this occasion to thank the local people who have given so generously to this cause. Their unselfish gifts are very much appreciated and without them it would have not been possible to complete payment on the building.

Plans are now underway to remodel the interior of the sanctuary and to furnish it appropriately. There are also plans to furnish the rear rooms of the church for a parish house. Further information about this project appears elsewhere in the paper.

Second Sunday of each month—11 a.m. Holy Communion and sermon.

Fourth Sunday of each month—5 p.m. Evening prayer service.

The public is cordially invited to attend both of these services each month and to visit Chilton County's newest organized church.

Rev. J. W. Jones Has Resigned At Mulberry Church

After rounding out five most successful years as pastor of one of Chilton county's oldest churches Rev. J. W. Jones tendered his resignation at Mulberry last Sunday. During his ministry there that church has built a modern brick building adequate for all its needs for years to come, church members has been substantially increased as well as interest and attendance in Sunday School and other associated church auxiliaries.

During his forty years of ministry Rev. Jones has pastored in eleven counties, four churches of which were located in county seat towns. "I never enter political issues," says Rev. Jones, "to which I attribute at least a part of my success." He attended Howard College and Southern Baptist Seminary at Louisville, Ky.

Rev. Jones pastored at Thorsby for eight years, and eight in other churches in Chilton county. For a total of eighteen years he has served as member of the Executive Board of the Alabama Baptist Convention; has served as Moderator of four Associations in the eleven counties he has served, being moderator of Chilton County Association for a total of eight years.

Much of the success of Bro. Jones's ministry he attributes to his good wife. She has served as teacher and leader for women in many of the communities where he has served. Mrs. Vena M. Pyron Jones, native of Mt. Creek, is a daughter of the late J. M. Pyron and Martha Cotton Pyron.

Rev. Jones expects to remain in Chilton county and expects to do pastoral work here.

Little League Plays Last Game Of Season

The final games of the regularly scheduled season in Clanton's first year in Little League, Inc., will be played Friday afternoon beginning at 3:30 p.m. The first game will pit the Lions, winners of the first half play, against the Cardinals of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. The Cards are tied with the Methodist Braves for first place in the second half of play, both having won five, lost 2, and tied one. Last Tuesday evening the Cards and Braves played to a 5-5 tie and the Lions defeated the Kiwanis White Sox 2-1 behind the pitching of Tommy Shelton, ace south paw of the Lions entry. The tie between the Braves and Cardinals will be resumed in a regular six inning game on Monday August 16. This one should be an old fashion stem winder with the "blue chips" riding each and every pitch. From here it looks like that game will decide the winner of the second half and determine the opposition for the Lions in the Championship playoffs.

To say that this first season has been successful is putting it extremely mild. There is no doubt but that Little League has afforded our youngsters a clean program of entertainment—which has been sorely needed for some time. And, the boys have, for the most part, been highly enthusiastic—and always good sports.

Too, the general public is to be congratulated on their support. It could have been better, of course; but, for the first year, it has been quite gratifying.

Be sure that YOU see the "small fry" in action on this their last store. Don't miss the time! 3:30 p.m.—Friday August 13—at City Park. No admission charges

For Numerous Wins—

Legion To Honor Team With Bar-B-Q Next Wednesday

The Clanton American Legion Ball Club will be served barbecued steaks at a special meeting next Wednesday evening August 18th, 7 p.m. at the City Park. This feed is put on in appreciation for the outstanding manner in which the team won most of the games played this season. Several of these games were against some of the best clubs in this section of the state.

Of course it goes without saying that members of the Post will be doing some steak eating too—in addition to this their wives or most of them will be right there with them—for it goes like this: Your Post 6 membership card will admit you to the steak dinner and for only $1.00 your little lady may join you in all the trimmings that go with the barbecued steak. New cards available at picnic.

If you do not already have your membership card for 1954, you may take advantage of this eating deal besides getting about 15 months membership privileges in the largest Veterans organization in the world. Too, don't forget that there is a new Veterans Club being built and your membership card entitles you to be part owner in this fine club.

Don't forget the time and place, August 18th at 7 p.m. City Park, Clanton. Come and bring that little lady and a prospective member. Don't you think that we can have 500 members by this time next year—bring 'em in.

Together we stand—divided we might fall—join up yets.

Army Recruiting Officer To Be In Clanton Each Week

Master Sergeant Jess W. Gibbons, Non-Commissioned Officer in charge of Army Recruiting in the Clanton area today extended an invitation to all young men eligible for the military service to contact him on one of his frequent visits to Clanton.

Sergeant Gibbons stated that his job as a Recruiter is not to "high pressure" men into the service, but to present a true picture of the Army to eligible young men and women and to the public in general. He said that many people do not know of the many excellent advantages and opportunities offered by today's Army. As examples he pointed out the Army's three-year term of enlistment; the fact that volunteers can take their choice of the various branches of the Army; that high school graduates may select and be accepted for specific technical training before they enlist; the Army's twenty-year retirement plan and above average pay scale.

The Sergeant said he is always willing to answer questions concerning the Army and hopes to be of service in this community.

YOUR VACATION IS WHAT YOU MAKE IT

We've all heard the comment that we get out of life just what we put into it. Most people will agree that this is pretty true, particularly concerning vacations

If you put a lot of tension and hurry and bustle into your vacation trip, you'll end up with a harried holiday. If you approach the deal in a relaxed frame of mind, plan carefully not to bite off more than you can chew, and take it easy along the way, you're likely to have a pleasant trip.

What's more, you're far more likely to return home alive and unscarred, especially if you're driving. The hectic hurry of so many vacationing motorists invites traffic accidents and tragedy.

With time at a premium nowadays, too many people grudge an additional minute spent en route. They speed, they weave in and out of traffic, they take foolish chances. They short-change themselves on sleep, and drive when they're exhausted. They drive after they've been drinking or over-eating.

And what heels they are! They can't take time to be decently courteous. They never give pedestrians or other motorists a break. If anyone infringes slightly on THEIR rights, they bellow. No wonder they're nervous wrecks by the time they get back home!

If you are taking an auto vacation this year, make the word "vacation" and "driving" synonymous. Remember, a vacation is a time to enjoy yourself . . . to get as much relaxation and pleasure as possible . . . to iron out year-long tensions.

None of these escapes is available in reckless driving. Only tragedy can be found there. Make yours a pleasant, courteous, relaxing, and safe vacation trip.

Slow Down and . . . Live!

A SAFE DRIVING LESSON FROM THE SKY

A commercial airline pilot is reported to have told his passengers recently as their plane was landing:

"You are now about to experience the most dangerous part of your journey—the drive from the airport to your homes."

Unfortunately, the pilot was so right. The fatality rate per hundred million miles flown by scheduled domestic airlines last year was 0.7 as contrasted to 7.1 deaths for every hundred million miles of motor vehicle travel.

Why? In spite of clearly marked lanes channeling traffic over mile after mile of smooth pavement—in spite of traffic signals and warning signs at every potential danger point—why is driving on the ground still ten times more perilous than flying thousands of feet above the earth?

To get the answer to this riddle, we must look to the human element—to the man at the controls—whether it be the four-engine airliner or the six-cylinder motor car. He writes your safety record—good and bad.

Airline pilots are trained specialists—experts at their job of carrying people safely from one place to another. They have a healthy respect for both man-made and natural laws, because they realize their own survival depends on strict observation of those laws.

If you're the average motorist, you can't expect to equal the skill of a professional airline pilot. But you can work toward smooth driving, perfect timing, constant control, good judgment and respect for traffic laws.

Above all, it's necessary to remember that you're at the controls of a land vehicle, not a plane. The giant air transport of today can zoom safely through the air at fantastic speeds, but you had better slow down if you want to live.

BUSY APPLE PICKERS

Things we -SEE- and Hear

by "Tuck"

We'll bet all of you who guessed last week's farm correctly can't guess this week's. How about it?

Getting pretty bad when a fella can't remember his own post office box number. Went down to the telephone office the other day and told Mrs. Cobb my box number was 970 and when I got home my wife told me it was 907. I think both of 'em are wrong, but if Snead or any of the boys see someone wandering around through the boxes it'll just be me trying to find P. O. box 97007.

Looks like Rip Burnett took me at my word last week. Now he's broken the whole darn window out. It's expensive air conditioning but it's lot less trouble getting in and out.

Although we had a good many "guessers" last week on the "Mystery Farm," which by the way was the Laurie Ann Dairy owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brinker, there were some folks who still didn't quite understand the rules and regulations of our "Fun Contest." We did however, have some comments on the contest which in our estimation showed that the majority of the people go for a little clean fun now and then. Mr. Robert Bryant of Maplesville dropped by to guess and stated that he thought that was "all right," meaning the contest and the consequences we presume. Many others were very optimistic about the "Mystery Farms" and we hope the people of Chilton County enjoy it to the fullest the 52 weeks of guessing we've supplied them with.

It works like this: After the "News" has published the farm you bring your guess in to the office before the following Saturday noon. Your name will then be placed in a box along with the other contestants and a drawing will be held at the office the Monday following publication. The drawing is at no specified time so you do not attend it. One of the banks sponsoring will do the drawing. If you are the winner of the drawing you will be notified through our office. All who guess correctly and are not the drawing winner will receive 2 free passes to the Clanton Drive-In Theatre. The drawing winner receives his or her choice of the Electric Popcorn Popper or the Revised Standard version of the Bible, plus a complimentary subscription to your Chilton County News for one year.

The contest runs 52 consecutive weeks. They are all outstanding farms around the County, maybe not as well known as last week's, but if you live in the vicinity you'll know it. The owner receives, absolutely free, whether he wins or not, a framed picture of his farm. You can't miss, everyone has an equal chance. Better get the paper so you can keep up with the "Fun Contest."

There are many folks who talk about faith in our fellow man we sometimes wonder where those are who practice it.

If you find fault with someone the best way to remedy it is to let someone know who will tell them.

Seems someone left the jailhouse the other night and didn't say when they'd be back. From what we could gather a fella in for 50 days for violating the prohibition law got tired visiting with the local law and his brother obliged him and turned him loose.

The guy didn't have the money so they gave him 50 days on the street and he got tired of it and left without so much as saying good by. He was wanted in Walker County for something or other which seems to make him an all round bad fellow. Anyhow Walker and Chilton counties are out for him and he'd better put some distance between him and them since he doesn't seem to like their cordial hospitality.

Another day, another dollar; a million days, a lotta income tax.

Official figures obtained from the nation's meat packers reveal that 8.1 per cent of all market hogs slaughtered have carcass bruises.

Now is the time to take advantage of such temporary grazing crops as Johnson grass, Sudan grass, sericea, and kudzu.

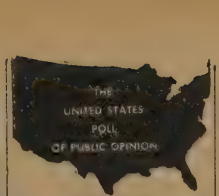
EMERGENCY
MARCH OF DIMES
AUGUST 16 TO 31



He's a Republican is Chief Reason GOP Supporters give for voting for Republican Congressional Candidates.

Princeton, New Jersey— This November, the United States will hold elections for Congress (House of Representatives) in every one of the 531 Congressional Districts across the nation to decide whether will have control of the House of Representatives during 1955 and the Republicans or the Democrats 1956.

The latest of a series of nationwide Congressional measurements shows that sentiment in the nation as a whole is very closely divided insofar as allegiance to the Democratic and Republican Parties is concerned, with the Democrats holding a thin edge over the Republicans. (Sentiment can and often does change in the period between August 1 and Election Day.)

To find out why rank and file supporters of the two major political parties want their own party to win control of the House, United States Poll staff reporters recently asked each person in a nationwide survey who expressed a preference for either political party's candidate, "Why would you vote for your Congressional candidate?"

Today's report will show the reasons the nation's Republican supporters give for preferring Republican Congressional candidates.

Next Thursday's U. S. Poll will report the reasons Democratic supporters give for preferring Democratic Congressional candidates.

Analysis of the replies of all those who said they would vote for Republican Congressional candidates shows that the No. 1 reason offered by people all over the nation is that he's a Republican.

People who say they will vote for Republican Congressional candidates this November mention this reason more than three times as often as they mention anything else.

The next most frequently mentioned reasons offered by GOP supporters are that they want to back up the Eisenhower Administration; that the Democrats were in too long; that the Republicans have the better candidates; that the Republicans ought to be given more of a chance, and that the Democratic Administration in the past did a lot of damage.

That the Republicans are trying to keep us out of war; that the present Eisenhower Administration has done a good job; that the Democrats are against Senator McCarthy; that the Democrats are too left-wingish; that the Republicans give better government; that the Republicans give less taxes; that the Republicans are better able to get us out of the international mess; that the Democrats are too wasteful, and that the Republicans are more conservative are reasons mentioned by smaller groups.

"Why would you vote for your (Republican Congressional) candidate?"

He's a Republican: I'm a Republican; we've always been Republican; I always vote Republican. 48 per cent.

To back up the Eisenhower Administration; want Republican Administration: Want to stick by Eisgress for Republican President; I'm sticking with Eisenhower; I'm with the party in power. 15 per cent.

The Democrats were in too long: had enough of them; 20 years too long; Democrats in long enough. 9 per cent.

The Republicans have the better candidates: the GOP candidate is better qualified; the Republican has better record; more experience; has good voting record in Congress. 8 per cent.

Republicans ought to be given more of a chance; haven't had enough time. 6 per cent

Democratic Administrations in the past did a lot of damage: messed things up; showed poor judgment. 5 per cent

Republicans trying to keep us out of war: brought us peace in Korea; only go from war to war with Democrats. 4 per cent

Present Eisenhower Administration is doing a good job: done well; doing a fine job; so far Republicans are all right. 4 per cent.

Democrats are against Senator McCarthy; McCarthy's a Republican. 3 per cent.

Democrats too left-wing: so many Democrats show leftist tendencies; Democrats lean towards socialism 3 per cent.

Republicans give better government: Republicans accomplish more, more businesslike; more efficient. 3 per cent.

Republicans give less taxes: Democrats give higher taxes. 2 per cent.

Republicans better able to get us out of international mess. 2 per cent.

Democrats too wasteful: spend too much money. 2 per cent.

Republicans are more conservative. 2 per cent

Other reasons. 6 per cent.

MORE FARMERS SHOULD PLANT OATS

Oats are next to corn as an important grain in Alabama. API

(Figures add to more than 100 because some people gave more than one reason.)

The Chilton County News presents the reports of the United States Poll exclusively in this area.

Extension Agronosit J. C. Lowery says that every farmer should plant this small grain crop. The farm leader explains that oats do well on most soil types and can be planted with any kind of equipment

For best results Lowery suggests planting plump well developed seed that have been treated for disease resistance.

YOUR Health

"Your Health," is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

SCIATICA

The term sciatica is commonly used to describe a pain down the back of the leg. Any motion requiring extra pressure to push or pull may bring on a pain in the back which may last and begin to travel down the back of one leg. The pain in the spine may disappear while that in the back of the leg will continue.

In other persons sciatica may develop differently. The pain comes on gradually over a period of weeks, and may finally involve both legs, with or without pain in the small of the back.

The condition, of course, involves the sciatic nerve, which is complex and composed of five parts or roots serving different segments of the lower leg. The commonest cause of sciatica is the slipped disc. A disc is a cushion-like or spongy material between each vertebra and is composed of an outside ring of strong fibrous tissue and inner semifluid elastic structure. When the disc slips, the spongy material, which oozes into the spinal canal, may pinch the nerve root as it leaves the spinal column.

Sciatica produced in this way is the result of repeated minor injuries to the disc until it finally gives way and the nerve is compressed. The attacks of pain may be constant, but frequently they come and go. Examination will reveal a stiff, sore back and the pulling over to one side.

A variety of tests is required to determine the specific cause of the sciatica. Because of the many factors involved and the area of the body covered by the nerve roots, x-ray films are required to aid in the diagnosis: If a tumor is suspected, a fluoroscopic examination of the spine is necessary. The film obtained through this process is called a myelogram. A complete pelvic examination is essential to rule out the possibility of a compressed nerve in this area.

ALABAMA FARMERS MAKE GOOD WHEAT

Wheat for grain and grazing is growing in popularity, especially among hog growers, says API Extension Agronomist J. C Lowery Good yields have been made for several years. However, keep up with the control program because there is a definite limit on wheat acreage, he warns.

Estimated hay and grain needs are 75 bushells of corn and two tons of hay per mule, 20 bushels of corn and two towns of hay per cow, 20 bushels of corn per hog and one bushel of corn per hen.

When sciatica stems from a slipped disc, surgery is very often necessary to correct the condition

Sciatica is a painful condition but after the specific source of the nerve injury is established, there are many procedures available which lead to recovery

CONGRESSIONAL Gung

Q—What is the difference between a self-executing and non-self executing treaty?

A—Provisions of a self-executing treaty take effect automatically when it is ratified by the President following consent by a two-thirds vote in the Senate. A non-self-executing treaty — or the portions which are non-self-executing — do not become binding law until implementing legislation is passed. The Senate may add a non-self execution clause to a treaty. In some cases — for example when money must be appropriated to carry out its terms — a treaty is non-self-executing on the face of it. One section of the Constitutional amendment proposed by Sen. John W. Bricker (R Ohio) would make all treaties and other international agreements non-self-executing as to their domestic effects.

Q—Can movie stars still escape income tax payments on their earnings abroad?

A—Not completely. A law enacted by the first session repeals the complete exemption enjoyed by Americans (movie stars and others) who work overseas for 17 months of an 18-month period. The new law exempts only the first $20,000 of such overseas earnings.

WHO OWNS THIS WEEK'S "MYSTERY PARK"?

John Tew Celebrates With Cowboy Party

Saturday afternoon was a happy time for John Tew, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tew, and seven of his little malefriends when they answered "cowboy hat" invitations and attended his cowboy party and helped John to celebrate his eighth birthday.

The cowboys reported to the L-Bar-Q Ranch on the back lawn of the Tew home which had been made into a carrol. The group happily participated in several cowboy games. Then refreshments were served to the hungry ranch hands.

The rectangular birthday cake was decorated with cowboys, horses, and Indians. A lasso made from confectioners sugar fell from the hand of the towboy to form the words "Happy Birthday, John!"

Large figured cowboy bandanas were given as favors to each one present.

The guests present were: Earl Wray, Bobby T. Miller, Mike Deinis, Jimmy Green, Gene and David Puckett, and Jimmy Dan Brock.

Around OUR HOUSE

WHEN each of the three children's teeth appeared, I was gratified to observe that the teeth came in straight, without any crowding or overlapping.

"Probably won't ever need braces" I told myself.

So it came as a bit of a shock the other day when I found the five-year-old sitting in front of a mirror busily pushing and tugging at his teeth.

"I'm just trying to bend a few of my teeth," he confided. "If I can get them bent enough, I can wear braces on them and I want to wear braces because they're so funny."

Before I could think of an adequate reply, the seven-year-old informed her younger brother:

"I really don't think you need braces on your teeth. When you get a little older, you'll lose your baby teeth and grow new teeth with ruffles on them like mine. They're funny, too."

SPEAKING of teeth, our neighbor down the street, the one with the big family, has a medicine cabinet placed low on the bathroom wall so that the children can reach it easily.

"We keep the children's tooth brushes and tooth paste in the low cabinet and now we have almost no prolbem with teeth brushing," she said. "Of course, the chart we have with stars after the names of the children who remember to brush their teeth after each meal helps, too."

THIS neighbor also keeps in the low cabinet a box of assorted bandages and an antiseptic to that the children can "doctor" their own minor injuries and insect bites. She says the convenient medical assortment saves her many steps and also makes the children more self-reliant.

IT was the same neighbor who found the perfect sandbox for toddlers to play in—a discarded tractor tire.

When her first children were small, she says, they constantly were falling as they climbed in and out of their wooden sandbox, and many skinned knees and bruises resulted.

"The children enjoyed playing in the sand, but that wooden box with its sharp edges was dangerous," this neighbor recalls. "One day when we were out riding, I saw a stack of old tires at a tractor sales outlet, and that gave me an idea.

"The man in charge told me I could have all the tires I wanted, so I chose one in good repair, finally got it into the trunk of the car and took it home."

After she had the tire on the backporch, she scrubbed it and gave it a coat of paint before she put it in the backyard and filled the big ring with sand. All of her children have played in tractor tire sandboxes, and there hasn't been a single injury.

They're no sharp corners or edges to hurt a child," she says. "If a child falls on the tire, all he does is bounce."

HERE'S our good cook neighbor's recipe for frozen cheese and fruit salad, refreshing on a hot day:

Blend one six-ounce package of cream cheese with 3-4 cup mayonnaise and fold in one cup whipped cream. Add 3-4 cup diced pineapple, 1-2 cup chopped maraschino cherries, ½ cup chopped nut meats and ½ cup diced canned pears. Combine carefully and freeze in refrigerator tray until firm.

REAR ROOMS TRINITY EPISCOPAL CHURCH MADE FOR WOMEN'S GROUPS

Plans are under way to convert the two large rooms in the rear of Trinity Episcopal Church into club rooms for use of women's clubs and other civic groups.

A nominal fee will be charged for the use of the room, and refreshments served if desired. These rooms could also be used for various exhibits and as a lecture room for out-of-town speakers.

Women of the Episcopal Church are collecting furniture and other furnishings necessary to make the rooms into desirable meeting places. Such things as straight chairs, sofas, easy chairs, old refrigerator or sink or stove or hot water heater, or table and any other appropriate furnishings are needed at the present.

Any contributions to this project much needed in Clanton and the county will be gratefully appreciated. Anyone wishing to make a gift of any description may contact any member of Trinity Episcopal Church.

A sewing machine needle can be adjusted quickly with the aid of a small mirror; placed under the shaft you can see where to put the needle.

A paper clip provides a marker for a tape measure when transferring measurements.

KEEP a jar of soft butter outside the refrigerator and you'll always have butter ready for toast in the morning, sandwiches for lunch or for seasoning cooked vegetables.

If you cut crusts from bread for sandwiches, save them for Apple Betty. In this way they can be used to good advantage.

Mix together cinnamon and brown sugar for cinnamon toast. It has a rich supply of minerals and vitamins and will give the family a flavor treat.

When you do not have time to make cheese sauce for vegetables, simply melt some processed cheese with a small amount of milk in the top of a casserole for an excellent sauce.

MORE FOODS ON THE MARKET

Auburn, Ala.—Every day we are interested in the amount of foods available on our markets.

Austin Ezzell, distributor marketing specialist, gives the following brief rundown on food supply prospects for the rest of 1954.

Among meats there will be more pork and less beef than during the last half of 1953. Milk will remain about the same.

Egg production, continues Ezzell will be more than last year. Broilers will be very plentiful and turkeys may reach an all-time high.

The over-all total of fruits will be greater than in 1953, reports the specialist.

Consumers probably will not benefit from lower average prices to farmers because of higher costs in marketing, especially labor used in marketing jobs. However, generally food may be a bit cheaper, with some local vaariation due to the supply situation.

ALABAMA HIGHLIGHTS

Alabama soil was not the scene for the great battles of the War Between the States, but while they took place elsewhere Alabamians participated in most of them.

Alabamians in the early days of the War Between the States responded to recruiting offices faster than they could be equipped and organized.

During early stages of the War Between the States, Alabamians who joined the Confederate Army were organized and shipped to points where danger to the Confederacy was considered most pressing and frequently they left before receiving their arms.

In all Confederate Armies east of the Mississippi River, Alabama was well represented.

Gen. Joseph Wheeler, cavalry leader, was one of the most outstanding soldiers contributed by Alabama to the War Between the States. He later became a general in the army of the United States.

Men for the Confederacy's fighting forces made up only a part of Alabama's contribution to the South's cause in the War Between the States. Many were the supplies and materials of war that came from the state's plants and factories.

Large quantities of war goods were turned out in the central part of Alabama because, until the latter part of the War Between the States that section was safe from Union invasion.

A top Confederate arsenal was Selma, which had excellent water and rail transportation facilities.

Selma's foundries and navy yards were supported with public money. Private citizens supplied money to pay for manufacture of iron, cotton, woolen and leather goods. Even Selma, guns, pistols, cannon, swords, powder, and caps were shipped to all Confederate fighting points.

Second only to Selma in the manufacturing of materials of war for the Confederacy was Montgomery. Alabama Arms Manufacturing Co. was located at the Capitol.

SHOCK AND SAVE DROUGHT-DAMAGED CORN

Many farmers have lost their grain to dry weather.

However, according to API Extension Agronomist J. C. Lowery lots of feed will be obtained if farmers cut and cure the drought-damaged corn.

The crop can be cured, shocked and left in the fields for a long time. Or it may be stored in the barn or stacked in the field and covered with grass or other protective material. In many cases says the farme leader, when pastures are short it may pay to graze fields,

Last Week's "Mystery Farm" Identified As

BEN BRINKER'S

The Mystery Farm of the Week appearing in the last issue of your Chilton County News is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Brinker.

The Brinker farm is located one and one-half mile southwest of Clanton and is probably better known as the Laurie Ann Dairy. It was named for the wife of a former owner.

The Brinkers came to Clanton in 1946 and bought the farm they now operate from Luther Little. Brinker was the first in the county to use silage in his feed program and was first to pasteurize and homogenize his milk.

Mrs. Brinker, or Ellen to all her friends, is the other half of the Brinker family. They have no children. Mr. and Mrs. Brinker were married in 1942. They are members of the Methodist Church, Jersey Cattle Association, Beef Cattle Association, Pilot Club, Kiwanis Club and Mrs. Brinker is a Beta Sigma Phi. Her hobby is sewing and she makes all of her clothes besides holding a position with the State Unemployment office at Calera. Ben Brinker says his hobby is "just mote farming, I guess."

The Brinker farm consists of 130 acres and his favorite crop is corn but he also ranks cattle raising and chicken farming pretty high. He has another farm of 305 acres that he also farms.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

A concerted effort was made by the Administration during the closing hours of the First Session of the 83rd Congress last year to secure a $15 billion increase in the legal debt limit. This increase was granted by the House but killed in the Senate Finance Committee.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey argued at that time that the Administration could not spend during the past fiscal year as authorized by Congress without spending over the $275 billion limit. Of course, the fallacy in Mr. Humphrey's argument was that there is no law making every department of the Government spend every dime authorized. As a matter of fact, the action of the Senate Finance Committee undoubtedly assisted the Administration in curbing certain expenditures in Government.

Time has proven the wisdom of the Senate Finance Committee's action. The increase was quite obviously not as urgently needed as the Administration and the Secretary of the Treasury would have had the Members of Congress and the public believe. Not only has the debt ceiling not been reached as yet, but Secretary Humphrey's request has now been reduced from the original $15 billion to $10 billion, with only one half of this increase to be permanent. These developments certainly vindicate the vote of those of us in the House who cast our vote against a debt increase during the closing days of last year's session.

Of course, the national debt limit still remains dangerously close to the legal limit and some action may be necessary before adjournment With this in mind, the Senate Finance Committee has approved a temporary increase of $6 billion in the statutory limit until June 30, 1955. The vote for this temporary increase came on a motion made by Senator Byrd of Virginia who has been the strongest opponent of the $15 billion increase. Senator Byrd pointed out that the temporary $6 billion increase will "make up the hills and valleys" which are created by heavy collections of corporate taxes during the early months of the year. Under the Byrd proposal, the debt ceiling will automatically drop back on June 30, 1955 from $281 billion to the present $275 billion.

A debt increase of $6 billion on a temporary basis will be more palatable to the House Members who opposed a permanent increase of $15 billion.

Anti-Subversive Measure

A measure was passed by the House last week that will give investigating committees of Congress the names of loosening their tongues of key witnesses who resist all inquiries into their activities by taking refuge behind the Fifth Amendment. Under this bill, a witness can be granted immunity from possible self-incrimination if he gives information concerning subversive activities of another person or group. Immunity in such cases will be granted only if it is believed the witness can furnish exceptionally valuable facts relative to crimes of treason, sabotage, espionage, or conspiracy. Witnesses can be promised immunity from prosecution only after a two-thirds vote of a Congressional committee, prior notice to the Attorney General, and approval by a United States District Court. However, witnesses can still be prosecuted if they refuse to answer after being given immunity or if they make false statements.

The Senate version of this legislation was passed during the First Session of the 83rd Congress. Although there is a good deal of similarity between the House and Senate bills, there are several outstanding differences. Under the terms of the Senate bill, Congress has the final power to decide who will be granted immunity, whereas the House bill leaves the final decision to the courts. Also, the House measure limits the granting of immunity to cases affecting the security of the United States, while it should be pointed out here that the Senate bill relates to all crimes, the House bill permits the use of immunity in courts as well as Congressional committees, but it stipulates that the cases must concern alleged subversive activities. In court cases, the application for immunity must be made to a district judge by the United States Attorney.

The House and Senate versions of the immunity bill will probably be sent to a conference committee. However, there is a possibility the Senate may agree to the House changes without a conference so that the bill can be assured of final action before adjournment.

Put Idle Acres In Production

Auburn, Ala.—According to the last census more than a million acres of potential cropland is now lying idle in Alabama, points out API Extension Soil Conservationist S. R. Doughty. This means that on the average farm, there are over five acres of such land.

What kind of land is this idle land? The specialist explains that it is land which is seriously eroded and cannot be cultivated at a profit. In most cases the land continues to wash away, thus becoming less valuable each year. Gullies develop and the area of gulled and gullied land increases and becomes a menace to joining lands.

Many Alabama farmers, according to Doughty, have found that such lands, when properly prepared, fertilized and seeded, can be made to produce profitable yields of sod crops. Once a good sod has been established, the erosion problem is ended. These crops, under the proper management, provide a continuous supply of grazing or hay. And with the expanding number of livestock in this state, more pasture will make the business more profitable.

The reason for putting these idle acres to some productive use is here. And when these acres go to work, explains the conservationist, farmers will have bigger profits from their farming operations. And they will also increase the value of their farm by having improved land.

What's New with Cows?

Catching up on my reading, I noticed three news items you might like to know about.

First, a farmer whose milk had a trace of garlic flavor is feeding his cows chlorophyll to sweeten their breaths.

Next, a college agricultural station has trained a herd to get milked when they are called by number. Seems 75 out of 80 cows learned their numbers in a few days. Guess the "dumb" five couldn't count that high. Final item — cows are getting "nose-printed" for identification.

From where I sit, I hope there is an much progress being made with humans . . . especially in regard to tolerance. Whether it's a choice of a political party, a basketball team, or a favorite beverage, let's learn to live and let live more. You may ask for a soft drink after a hard day's work — I'll choose a refreshing glass of beer. But let's not try to "cow" the other fellow into our way of thinking!

Adventist Church

Sabbath School 9:45 a.m. with preaching service at 11.

Through Moses the Lord gave a great many laws and regulations but there are two institutions for the blessings of all humanity which were given by the Creator Himself thousands of years before Moses and the' Jews ever lived—they are the marriage institution and the Sabbath institution. Both there were given as soon as Adam and Eve were created and are both found in the second chapter of Genesis.

The origin of the Sabbath is found in Gen. 2:3, "And God blessed the seventh day, and sonctified it; because that in it he had rested from all his work which God created and made." This has reference to the very first "seventh day" of the week. The marriage institution is found in Gen. 2:24, "Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife; and they shall be one flesh."

In the giving of the Ten Commandments, some two thousand years later, the Sabbath was protected and perpetuated by the wording of the fourth commandment and the marriage institution by the seventh commandment. When Jesus came to earth He never set aside these two institutions. He said, "The Sabbath was made for man" and "Whosoever putteth away his wife and marrieth another hath committed adultery." The devil has perverted both these institutions by bringing the "day of the sun" for the Sabbath and pagan adultery for marriage.

Under The Study Lamp

By William Crowe

Adoration at its Highest Level

"Our father which art in heaven, hallowed thy name." Matthew 6:9.

Of all prayers that have been uttered throughout the history of Christendom, that which is spoken of as the Lord's Prayer holds the topmost place, of which the words quoted here compose the initial petition.

If a modest citizen should have opportunity to present a request to an earthly monarch, his first concern would be how to make the proper approach to His Majesty. With anxious inquiry he would seek the council of those familiar with court formalities.

In the opening of this brief prayer, Jesus answers that question for all sincere petitioners. From His own lips we are assured that we are not meeting a heartless autocrat, but a Person who, though He be the Supreme Sovereign, will nevertheless respond to our faltering plan with measureless affection. "Our Father"—say just that, says He, and the door is wide open. Could that be true? Let the doubter read again the encouraging words of the ancient Psalmist, words as gentle and refreshing as an April shower: "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear (that is, reverence and love) Him."

Then what? Hallowed by thy name." In the Old Testament you will find several names for God, each like a facet on the Kohinoor diamond, shedding a different light upon His creative power, His character, and His supreme authority —all harmoniously united to present a perfect portrait of the unseen Sovereign of the universe.

The word "hallowed" comes from a Greek verb, the primary meaning of which was "to be seperate," or "to be withdrawn." From that was conveyed the idea of sacredness far removed from sin and all its attendant train of evil consequences. Even the house of worship, the sanctuary of the Lord, is a sacred place, wherein the foot-fall should be light, the voice subdued. It is not difficult, therefore, for us to understand that the approach to our Heavenly Father should be with due reverence along with intelligent and sincere adoration. That is exactly what the introductory sentence in the Lord's Prayer teaches us. And more; for therein we have emphasized for us the need of respect for authority even in our civil life. "The powers that be are ordained of God." Are we not, in our back-slapping generation, losing the grace of reverence, and for that divinely appointed offspring of reverence, respect for the law of the land? And is not that contributory to the impairment of our three-fold authority—executive, judicial, legislative? Is it not time for us to be revising our attitude toward the requirements for decent living that the Judge of all the earth has revealed? And should not that proposed revision make better citizens of us?

Sheep Growers Control Parasites

Auburn, Ala.—Internal parasite control is a practice that sheep growers must follow.

W. H. Gregory, API Extension livestockman, says there are many different kinds of internal parasites in sheep. But the real troublemakers found in this state are tape and round worms. Fortunately both pests can be controlled by pasture rotation and treating with Arsinate of lead for tape worms. Phenothiazine for round worms and these two materials are now combined in the proper proportion for dosing sheep and sold in an emulsion under the name of Pink Drench.

Under most conditions in Alabama, says the farm leader, three or four dosings a year are sufficient except where a large number of sheep are kept permanently on very small areas of land. The animal expert advises starting treatment for these parasites now.

Sardis News

We had a good attendance at church services Sunday and Sunday night. Bro. Paul Oden delivered two wonderful sermons that was enjoyed by all. We were glad to have Bro. Paul preach for us.

By keeping a mixture of 11 parts salt and one part Phenothiazine before the sheep at all times, concluded Gregory, the sheep will get a small dose of Phenothiazine each day. This practice will keep worm eggs from hatching and reinfesting pastures.

Everyone who possibly can come out to Sunday School Sunday as we will set the time for our summer revival. Vacation Bible School will begin here on Monday morning, August 26. We urge everyone and especially all the children to please come.

Our BTU Director, Mrs. Ruth Dean Thompson urges everyone to come out to BTU Sunday night. Let's all come out and enjoy working for the Lord while we have such wonderful opportunities

SAFEST JUNE IN 7 YEARS FOR TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Montgomery.—The safest June in seven years brought Alabama's traffic toll for first-half 1954 down below both the 1953 and the 1954 normal.

Alabama Public Safety Director L. B. Sullivan said nearly-final June scores show 44 deaths as the lowest toll for that month since 1947, when 37 persons were killed in traffic crashes.

Sullivan continued to credit "two jackpot programs" for the June drop—Alabama's experimental radar enforcement program, and the 24-State Slow Down and Live! summer safe driving campaign.

The half-year 1954 score was 365, Sullivan said, three under the half-year 1953 toll of 368, and 26 below the "normal" toll of 391 for this year

The traffic enforcement chief noted that Alabama's 1954 decrease from 1953 levels amounted to less than one per cent, compared with a 5 1-2 per cent national decrease for the same period announced this week by the National Safety Council.

He said that while "it is evident we have found some answers to our Alabama traffic tragedy, we must find more and find them quickly in order that our progress at least match national advancement."

Chairman Earl McGowin of the Alabama Safety Commission urged all city, county and state enforcement, engineering and educational authorities to "hit it harder than ever, with every available weapon and device, now that the tide has been turned."

And Hugh Comer, Sylacauga industrialist and president of the Alabama Safety Council, echoed McGowin's statement, calling on every local citizen's group in the state "to adopt a dynamic traffic safety program for your community at the earliest possible moment."

Montgomery. — The Alabama Highway Patrol made nearly 10 round trips to the moon during the first half of this year. An activities summary for January-June showed the state police rolled 4,601,500 miles. A round trip between earth and moon averages slightly less than 478,000 miles.

The semi-annual report also showed, however, that the state officers were quite busy on earth. They made 38,341 arrests for moving hazardous violations, issued warning citations for another 13,576 offenses, assisted 2,824 drivers in distress, and recovered 132 stolen cars.

QUEEN BESS CONTEST AT BESSEMER LIVESTOCK FESTIVAL

Many County organizations and mayors have received invitation to nominate girls for the 1954 Queen Bess contest, a feature of the sixth annual Bessemer Corn & Livestock Festival, Sept. 16-18.

Approximately 300 invitations have been mailed, according to an announcement today by J. W. Patton Jr., contest chairman, to clubs and towns in Walker, Shelby, St. Clair, Jefferson, Chilton, Blount and Bibb counties.

All girls nominated for the title of "Queen Bess VI" must be single and between the ages of 16 and 21 (as of Sept. 16), Mr. Patton said. They will be scored in private interview by out-of-town judges on the following points:

1. Beauty—features, figure, and vitality.
2. Personality— sparkle, friendly manner, and graciousness.
3. Poise—posture, grace, and assurance
4. Becomingness of dress—color and style.

Several changes have been made in the procedure followed last year, when from 66 nominees Miss Karen Keith of Bessemer, who was sponsored by the Literary Forum, was chosen Queen Bess V.

This year all girls nominated will ride on Chamber of Commerce floats in the parade on Thursday, Sept. 16. Likewise, they will all be presented at the Queen's Ball on Saturday, Sept. 18.

Though the judging will take place on Sept. 16, the identity of Queen Bess VI will be kept secret until she is crowned at the Queen's Ball.

The 1953 king, Leon Minor of Oak Grove, and 1953 queen will lead this year's parade. The king and queen chosen this year will head the 1955 parade.

"The Festival Executive Committee," explained Mr. Patton, "feels that this element of suspense sustained until the last night of the three-day celebration will increase greatly the public's interest in the Queen's Ball and thereby make it, indeed, the climax of the festival."

King Corn VI will be the Jefferson County 4-H boy who produces the greatest yield of corn on an acre.

In 1951 Queen Bess III was Miss Sue Davis of Clanton who was nominated by the Clanton Lions Club. There was no contest in 1952.

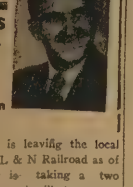
Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN



—By Ben

Oliver Esco is leaving the local station of the L & N Railroad as of today. Oliver is taking a two weeks vacation and will then go to the station at Verbena. He told us to extend his appreciation to the good people of this section for their cooperation in making his work so pleasant for the past fourteen years. He also stated he would be at home each night and would be at their service whenever he could be of help to them. We hate to see Oliver leave but are glad he is going no further than Verebna.

Take note of a letter in this weeks issue from Mayor C. Fenn Jones in regards to the water situation in our city. According to the Mayor bonds to the amount of $250,000 will be issued in the near future for the addition of new units to our water system. At the same time the Mayor warns that our water rates will be increased which of course is necessary if we are to have additional service. There's an old saying that "He who dances must pay the piper," but it looks from here that he who gets more water must pay the piper also. But seriously we do go along with the Mayor and Councilmen on their decision. We cannot expect to enjoy the necessities and convenences of life if we are not willing to pay for them.

J. W. Mitchell, office manager for Southern Bell was in to see us Tuesday. He had a hand full of new telephone directors and stated the company would mail out 2700 copies of the directory this week to local and rural subscribers. Incidently there are more rural than city telephone subscribers and Mr. Mitchell said that Clanton stood at the top of the list in the state for rural telephone subscribers—that is for it's size.

Nowadays people never look a gift horse in the mouth unless its with scorn.

Received a letter from Morris Moatts who is living in Athens, Alabama now. Morris is still working for the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company. He is also going to college nights. He tells us that he has been named editor of the college newspaper so we now have something in common. We want Morris to always remember the duty of a newspaper is to comfort the afflicted and to afflict the comfortable. Too a newspaper makes a good portable screen to hold between you and your wife at the breakfast table. Anyway, we hope he remembers none of this bad advice and has a happy time in his newspaper work.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones thinks maybe with the aid of Senator Lister Hill, John Sparkman and our Congressman Armistead Selden we may get some help in expanding our water system. If this be true we want our representatives in Washington to make the most of it. Every little bit helps and since Uncle Sam takes about ten times as much money from our city as he spends here we want all of the help we can get in building our new and bigger water system.

Oh yeah, about the new timetable for services at the L & N Station here. Western Union service will be given from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. only. Ticket sales will be made from 8 a.m. until 7:30 p.m. Express and freight deliveries will be made from 8 until 5 p.m. Monday's through Friday's only. All of this is because of a reduction in the personnel at the local station.

"Mama" said the six year old girlie. "The people in the church this morning must have sung terrible. "Why do you say that," the mother asked. "Well after they sang that hymn, "Sing Praise Unto The Lord," they all sat down and said: "Lord, have mercy on us miserable singers."

Annual All-Day Singing At New Prospect

The annual all-day singing at New Prospect will be held at the church next Sunday, August 22. The public is cordially invited to attend. The location is half way between Cooper's crossing and White City. A. O. Boswell, Chairman of Committee.

MRS. LILLIAN CHANCELLOR AT HOME FROM HOSPITAL

Mrs. Lillian Chancellor who has been confined to a Selma hospital for the past several months has been brought to her home on Rt. 1. She was returned home last Saturday by Martin's ambulance.

It has been requested that she have no visitors.

Chilton's Champion Crop-

Chilton County Peach Crop Exceeds $2,500,000 This Year

Keystone. New Peach Variety Released

Large, yellow-fleshed, free-stone peach ripening in Earl Hiley season (3½ weeks ahead of Elberta) may be of interest to many Chilton County growers.

Fort Valley, Georgia Field Laboratory's report on the "Keystone" peach gives a detailed description and suggests that it be planted on a trial basis. "Keystone ripens with the Early Hiley variety, slightly ahead of Triogem, or 3 to 3½ weeks ahead of Elberta. The fruit attains about the same size as its parents, Newday and Southland. It is round, has light pubescence, and a light attractive red blush over a bright golden ground color. The flesh is yellow, firm, smooth-textured and of good flavor. The pit is very nearly free resembling Newday in this respect. It is slightly less free than the Southland.

Trees of Keystone are vigorous and have been productive thus far in the few years they have fruited. They have had less bacterial spot than Southland and Elberta trees. The blossoms are small-petaled, self-fertile, and open about the same time as Newday and Southland in the Fort Valley section. The chilling requirement to break the rest period of the buds places it in the 750-hour group with Southland.

The variety has had only a very limited trial and it is recommended for planting as a commercial shipping variety only on a trial basis. It may prove most useful in filling the place in the harvest period formerly occupied by the Early Hiley variety, which is losing popularity because of its white-flesh character."

Cemetery Cleaning At Lawley

There will be a cemetery working at Lawley cemetery near the Tom Wallace place, on Saturday August 21st. Come early and bring tools to work with.

An election was held on Aug. 31, 1865 to name delegates to a convention for a new state government for Alabama. Ex-Gov. Benjamin Fitzpatrick was made chairman of the convention when it met in Montgomery on Sept. 12.

Morning Class Started For Veterans

A morning class for white veterans in general continuation will begin on August 19 at 7:00 in the Education Building on Second Avenue, according to news just released by Superintendent J. H. Boockholdt. All veterans interested in enrolling should see Francis Speaks, head teacher, at the earliest possible date. This class is being started for the purpose of assisting veterans in meeting the August 20 deadline.

Dr. H. D. LaBaron Hurt In Car Wreck

Just after noon last Sunday Dr. H. D. LaBaron, of Alabama College at Montevallo, was slightly injured in an automobile wreck near Ike's Place just north of the city limits. Dr. LaBaron was brought to Central Alabama Hospital where he received first aid, and several stitches were taken in his face where he was badly cut.

Dr. LaBaron is organist at First Baptist Church here.

Showmanship Aids Sale Of Produce

Auburn, Ala.—The present commercial type agriculture requires much greater showmanship than it did a few years ago.

Austin Ezzell, API Extension distributor marketing specialist pointed out that most things farmers grow now are produced for market. Thus, every item must demand attention in the market place if it is to meet with satisfactory sales appeal.

Be sure that every food product and its container is fresh, clean, and attractive, advised Ezzell. Even the truck bed, fruit stand, or market stall from which the farmer sells his products must meet the buyer's sight test approval.

The farm leader recommended adopting "paint up, clean up, and cheer up" as a slogan for market-minded farmers who wish to continue building better sales programs for their food products.

August is a good time for cleaning up, preparing, fertilizing and seeding grass-legume mixtures on idle acres.

Chilton County Peaches Enjoyed By Citizens of Nineteen States Canada, and Alaska. Three Hundred and Forty Carlots Sold Under U. S. D. A. Inspection.

A partial summary of peach shipments from Chilton County's USDA inspected packing sheds show that 136,000 bushels of the county's top quality peaches moved to consuming centers of many sections of the United States and to Canada and Alaska.

Packers report that a new record has been established for volume of shipments and sales price. All packers being considered, the 1954 price for quality peaches (US No. 1, 2" and better) never fell below $4.00 per bushel FOB shipping point, and more than one packer reported sales as high as $5.00 per one-half- bushel. Small fruit, regardless of quality, consistently failed to demand the top market dollar.

Peach packers are generally in agreement on their estimate of the percent of total Chilton County peach volume that was marketed under inspection. This estimate varied from 15 to 20 percent. That is, the packers' volume of 136,000 bushels, was only the above fraction of Chilton County's total 1954 peach sales.

Roadside stands, direct grower-hauler sales, sales at orchard to transient trucks, and curb market sales continue to account for the major volume of the county's peach transactions.

Adverse weather conditions in other peach areas reacted favorably on local sales in 1954. Admitting the above is true, it is still interesting to note that the comparatively large volume of 1954 peaches were marketed much more easily than were smaller crops of previous years.

Produce marketing references continually swell on the fact that a successful market must be built on carlot volumes of uniform quality growers had carlot volumes of uniform quality peaches in 1954. The buyers wired in, they sent representatives in, they called in, they bought at market price.

A new record in peach production and marketing has been established in Chilton. The care and management of peach orchards will largely determine whether or not Chilton growers are able to maintain the "foothold" that was secured in national consumer markets in 1954.

Packer by packer the story varies very little. Packer No. 1 reported total sales of approximately 65 cars of peaches. They reached consuming centers in the following areas of the continent: Texas, Massachusetts, Missouri, Tennessee, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio New York, Alaska, Louisiana and Alabama. Sales prices for quality fruit, 2" and up, never fell below $4.00 per bushel and varied upward to a top of $5.00 per one-half bushel.

Packer No. 2 shipped 43 carlots of fruit to Alabama, Massachusetts, Ohio, Tennessee, Georgia, Louisiana, Michigan, Missouri and Illinois. Sales price ranged from $4.00 per bushel to $5.00 per one-half bushel.

Packer No. 3 prepared 107 cars of Chilton's queen fruit and found cash outlets for same in Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Canada, Pennsylvania, Kansas, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Kentucky, Missouri and Connecticut.

Packer No. 4 reported a total sales volume of 65 acrs of Chilton County peaches. They were accepted in Alabama, Louisiana, Florida, Tennessee, New York, Missouri and Ohio. Prices received ranged from $4.00 up for top quality.

Packer No. 5 processed 50 carlots of Chilton's best. A major portion of this volume sold locally for resale through the hydra-cooler. Approximately 74,000 bushels of Chilton County peaches were processed through a chlorine-ice-water solution before shipment. This so-cooling and sterilizing peaches benamed hydracooling process of prefore shipment insures market quality of fruit at point of arrival. The hydracooler was a new addition in 1954 to peach market preparation It was well received and the county's peach industry will see more such units in future years.

VFW And American Legion Are Waging Membership Drive

According to information furnished by commanders of the VFW and American Legion, it appears that it is going to be a hard job for eligible veterans to keep from becoming a member of one or the other veteran organizations.

In the army soldiers were taught the importance, cooperation and coordination—they were taught that team-work pays big dividends when the showdown comes. These unselfish organizations are advocating just this in civilian life at this time. They feel that their first job is caring for the disabled veterans of all wars. They have a word for it known as rehabilitation, and it's a great program.

They are non-political and non-sectarian. They don't care what your politics are so long as they are American. They urge you to go to church and vote, but the choice is up to you. The first line of the preamble of the American Legion is "For God and Country."

Some veterans might ask the question "What could my membership do for me?" To those who know their veteran organizations and what they have done for millions of veterans and their families this question sounds silly. The veteran might say that the government has already given him a college education and that he is most grateful. To several families in Chilton County who have received a helping hand when there was no other place to go, the question of membership has already been answered.

They take an active lead in many activities designed to make the community, state and nation a better place in which to live. They are respected leaders in their communities because of their unselfish service to their home town. There is the Junior Baseball Program sponsored by the American Legion. It provides supervised recreation for hundred of thousands of boys and it teaches good citizenship. There is also the Boys State program which teaches better citizenship and appreciation for our way of life. American Legion carries on these and many other unselfish activities for the youth of America.

Many distinguished citizens are Legionaires. The list includes the President and Vice President of the U. S., the Chief Justice, members of the cabinet, 60 U. S. Senators and 224 U. S. Representatives. The cost is only about the price of one and one-half packages of cigarettes per month. You're missing a lot of fun and satisfaction—it's a fighting outfit—fighting for God and Country and for those less fortunate than you and I. Let's all join and help both causes. Watch for the American Legion emblem showing up on the various store windows—together we shall win for God and country. Join up today and become a member of the army that still cares.

Radar Speed Checks Are Paying Off

Montgomery.—The psychological effect of radar traffic law enforcement in Alabama seemed to be paying immediate dividends, as Alabama's 1954 traffic toll fell once again below 1953 levels.

Alabama Public Safety Director L. B. Sullivan said the 1954 score stood this week (Aug. 13) at 451, one under the toll for the corresponding period of 1953. A week earlier the 1954 score was an even dozen higher than the previous year level

Alabama Highway Patrol Chief Tom Carlisle reported, meanwhile that "business was slow" during the first two days of the state's radar enforcement program.

Out of thousands of vehicles passing through the Patrol's mobile radar speed nets at dozens of points in the state, only eleven motorists were stopped and issued warning citations. Illegal speeds for which the tickets were issued ranged from 38 to 76 miles per hour, Carlisle said.

Four of the motorists, tagged were Alabamians, three were from Tennessee, two from Indiana, one from Louisiana, and one an Alabama-based federal government ear

Copies of each warning citation will be entered in the motorists driving record in Alabama and in his home state if he is a tourist, Carlisle said, and will affect his driving privilege identically with an arrest citation.

Patrolmen manning the "electronic cops" reported drivers "in almost total compliance with speed regulations." Carlisle declared, and added that "this is the most encouraging report we have gotten in years."

Two New Filtering Units To Add To City Water

On May 29, 1952 I informed you through the city papers that our consumption of water would soon equal, or exceed, our capacity to filter it, and then we would have to add one or two filtering units to our plant.

That day has arrived, and on August 24th, we expect to issue bonds to borrow approximately $250,000 which will be used to erect two additional filtering units to our plant, and the building will be as large, or larger than the present building, equipment and capacity. Our storage capacity for untreated water will be increased 224,000 gallons, and there will be in West Clanton an elevated tank to hold 150,000 gallons of filtered water. This tank will afford those people greater water pressure and fire protection which they need and deserve and we are pleased to serve them.

Our pumping facilities at Yellow Leaf Creek will be increased, and the water pipe from the pumping station to the filtering plant will be increased at least part of the distance.

We have had an unusually large and unexpected growth during the past ten of fifteen years, and as stated we are using the water faster than we are prepared to filter it, therefore, the necessity for this expansion and improvement to our water system immediately. If, we grow in population and need for water during the next fifteen years as we have in the past, I really doubt now if we will be allowed by law to take from the creek the amount of water to supply us. We are taking now 400 gallons per minute, and the expansion we are making to our water system will bring it up to 800.

For that and other reasons, I strongly recommend to the City Council that we go NOW to Coosa River for our water supply, and settle for all time the question of sufficient water for our use and for prospective industries. But the Council thought best not to incur so great, and expensive, undertaking at this time. Their objections were reasonable, and I have no criticism of them for their decision. However I predict time will produce conditions that will convince them and the public it would have been more profitable to the City to have made the river connection NOW than to have postponed it ten or more years. The river is the final solution of our water problem, and the sooner we go there the earlier we begin to reap the benefits and attract industries to Clanton.

The expansion we are making to the water system is not a loss

BACK TO SCHOOL

Within a few more days the children of Chilton County will toss their books across their shoulder or under their arms and start the long trail through another school term. Needless to say our guess is that about 99 percent of the boys and 50 percent of the girls are sorry about the whole thing. School, it seems, just doesn't appeal to youth.

We oldsters won't be starting to school but it is our duty to take heed of the youngsters and see that they cross the streets safely and are "seen and not hurt." This is a good rule to follow throughout the year but especially do we need be on our toes during the school months.

There will be more enrollments this year than ever before so make a new school year resolution to drive carefully where school children load and unload on the busses and near school playgrounds.

GARBAGE CANS AREN'T FREE

The way our garbage cans are handled by the sanitary department employees you would think we are furnished them free. Such is not the case. They are expensive and we think that much more service could be obtained from our garbage cans if the garbage truck men would take better care of them.

So far as we can see there is no earthly use of the cans being thrown around like so much junk. The same service could be given by the city employees in a more careful manner.

At the present rate we are only getting about six bangs, a bump, and a crash—plus a few long forward passes per can. That isn't enough at the present cost.

SOUTHERN POLITICS

The South has headed back into the Democratic fold. Two recent primary elections show the decided change in sentiment in the region.

Two years ago the Republicans captured the presidential vote of Texas and Tennessee. Texas Gov. Allan Shivers, who supported Eisenhower, had a margin of 345,000 votes over his pro-Stevenson rival, Ralph W. Yarbrough. In the Texas primary of two weeks ago Yarbrough forced Shivers into a run-off, and cut the Shivers margin to a little more than 100,000.

Senator Estes Kefauver's overwhelming victory of last week indicates a sharp change in Tennessee thinking since the presidential election of 1952. Kefauver stood as a liberal candidate against a well-financed conservative who spoke like an out and out Dixiecrat.—Lee County Bulletin.

Q—What is a "peril point?"

A—"Peril point" is an unofficial term describing the lowest level to which tariffs and other import restrictions may decline without permitting an influx of imports which would cause or threaten serious injury to competitive American industry. When the President plans to negotiate tariff changes under the reciprocal trade system, he must inform the Tariff Commission what articles will be subject to negotiation. The Commission determines what it considers would be the point of peril. If the President overrides the Commission's recommendations, he must explain his reasons to Congress.

Q—What Congressman has the shortest official biography in the Congressional Directory?

A—The shortest in the new 1954 Directory contains only 24 letters: "Brady Gentry, Democrat, Texas." In brevity it is followed closely by biographies of Dewey Short (R Mo.), 28 letters; Pat Sutton (D Tenn.), 33 letters; and Edward J. Hart (D N. J.), 34 letters. Short and Sutton just note their home towns, while Hart includes the fact he is a lawyer. Among Senators, briefest biography is that of the upper chamber's only woman, Margaret Chase Smith (R Maine). It takes slightly less than two lines. The biography of Sen. Albert Gore (D Tenn.) takes a little more than three lines, that of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R Wis.) is only slightly longer.

Q—What are "carryover funds?"

A—Unspent money carried over from past-year Congressional appropriations. Such funds may or may not be committed for specific purposes.

Dear Sir:

The growing volume of litter along America's streets and highways, in its parks and on its beaches, concern everyone who takes pride in the appearance of his community. What was a minor nuisance only a few years ago has become a major problem.

Here and there individual citizens or groups have undertaken to combat the litter problem locally. In some areas, notably California, this activity has assumed state-wide proportions. A few national organizations—among them the National Council of State Garden Clubs, for which I am privileged to speak as president,—have recognized the seriousness of the situation and have urged that anti-litter activities be incorporated in the action programs of their member groups at state and local levels.

The public interest in these independent efforts indicates a widespread desire for an anti-litter plan that can be applied to the entire nation.

It is most encouraging, therefore to find that a group of the nation's foremost industrial leaders not only share our concern but have taken an aggressive step toward the elimination of litter from the American scene.

I refer to the recent organization announcement of Keep America Beautiful, Inc., a non-profit corporation established for the express purpose of combatting litter. For the benefit of those of your readers who may not know of this new organization I would like to explain that it represents a joint effort by industry and citizen groups to cope with the litter problem on a national basis.

Its program has three principal objectives:

1—To create a public awareness of litter and of the individual's responsibility for it.

2—To stimulate widespread public participation in cleaning up existing litter.

3—To prevent future litter by a combination of education, public opinion pressure and law enforcement.

Industry is contributing generously, not only in financial support but from its technological resources and ingenuity, to insure success of the program. More than 30 national organizations, including my own, have accepted the responsibility of representation on an Advisory Council to work with the industrial leaders who constitute the directorate of Keep America Beautiful, Inc.

They, and we, recognize the necessity for the widest possible public knowledge and understanding of the aims and plans of our new organization. We frankly want to attract to our ranks an increasing number of those who take pride in their homes and their communities and who, because of that pride, will want to be a part of Keep America Beautiful.

Yours very truly,
MAY D. WALTERS.

IS THE VOICE OF TRUTH THE TRUTH?

The policy of Baptist is to disregard the windy and misleading statements and teachings of other men who try to make the world believe that they and their way is the only way and all others are lost and bound for hell. (Or do they believe in hell?' But when I hear one make as many absolute false statements as did the Voice of Truth last week on WKLF as to what all other denominations teach I think it is time to call his hand or let those who listen to such teachings know that he is either ignorant of what others believe, or he is trying to deceive the people. He told you that all other denominations teach that the Second Coming of Christ is not necessary because when one dies he is taken immediately to heaven.

Baptist do not believe in such doctrine but believe that Christ will come back for his own as He said in his word. Therefore the Voice of Truth was not true in that statement.

He said further. That all other denominations teaches that the second coming of Christ will be secret. Baptist believe that He will come with a great shout as is taught in his word. So the Voice of Truth was wrong in that statement.

Hee says further. All other denominations teach that all Jews will be saved and after this life they (the Jews) will be sent out as evangelists and preach to those who have not been saved and give them the second chance to accept Christ. There is nothing farther from the truth than such a statement.

Baptist believe as the word teaches that the destiny of man is sealed with the closing of this life and that every man must believe and accept the Lord Jesus Christ or he will remain lost. We'll just have to say The Voice of Truth was very wrong again. There are many more wild statements that I could mention that was made but don't think it is worth while. I regret that it is worth while. I regret that it is necessary for me to bring these facts to your mind but I must defend my church and its doctrine. I am not after bringing out a newspaper controversy. I think this is my last article on this and related subjects now.

Respectfully yours,
G. C. POWELL,

PERFECT WAY

God's way is perfect.
God's work is perfect.
Every word of God is pure, and will stand forever.

Friends a certain class of people shut up the kingdom of heaven, another class took away the key of knowledge.

Because it is given unto you to know the mystery of the kingdom of Heaven.

I can lead you in this light putting the key of knowledge in your hand, where you cannot only open the doors of Heaven, and bring to light the deep things of God that has been kept secret since the world began, but you can know all things.

I thank thee O Father Lord if Heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent and hast revealed them unto babes.

Friends this is a part of the way of holiness, and you know the Lord said the unclean shall not pass over it, but it shall be for those, the wayfarring men, though fools shall not err therein.

I will make this so simple that a child eight years of age can understand how to possess this knowledge.

Please do not carry this article to a preacher, (he has already led you into a ditch) bring it to me with your Bible under your arm.

Thank you.
Yours in Christ
LEE A. POPWELL.

by "Tuck"

Somebody goofed, somebody goofed, oh, we don't know who it was but somebody goofed. That's a song in case you're wondering, but it's also something that happened to us here at the "News" this past week. If any of you noticed the subscription coupon last week the error wasn't to tangle you up, it was just to mislead you. It read: "Subscribe Now, And Miss Don't the Contest," well naturally any fool could see it should have read, "Don't Subscribe and Miss the Contest." Either way though it would have fouled someone up just as this probably will. Just in case you aren't a fool, it should have read, "Subscribe Now, and Don't Miss the Contest." We'll bet don't none of you know what it was suppsed to say, now.

Mr. Brinker remarked also that there were several people drove out by his place just to make sure they guessed right. "Some of 'em even got out and looked around" he said. If interest keeps up like that everyone will enjoy the contest to the fullest extent. It's good advertising for your farm, too.

We wish now that all the "Big Men" of the world could go through the beautiful Bellingrath Gardens at Mobile and then sit right down and have a conference. We'll bet things would turn out a lot different than they have in the past. Nature as it is there just does something to a fella and it makes you stop and think about things that you wouldn't have thought about otherwise. Looks like it'll take something like that to open their eyes so they'll see things all the same way.

Grandpa Yeargan, Ira to some of you, has his 70th birthday last Sunday and we made it down in time for some of the proceedings. We did get around to wishing him 30 more just like the last 70 but I don't think he was much for the idea. We'd like to have him around that long and longer. Seemed like we got more attention than he did by getting there late. We got fed. That's the way it is at his house though, your're always welcome and he's always as glad to see you as you are to see him. We still wish him 30 more and hope we're around to see every one of them.

A quality few of us have; more of us could have, and all of us should have, especially during the summer months, is patience. Seems hot weathr robs us of this trait that actually marks the extent of our intelligence. Maybe winter is best for us after all. At least during the summer it is anyhow.

We would like to start a movement of some sort to take the barker oft of dogs. It isn't that we have anything personal against old dogs, it's just that some of them would sound better if they couldn't make any noise.

We still say if you'll just say to yourself enough times that you know that it isn't anything you can do about the heat and accept what you have you won't be near as hot. You can't say, "I know I can't do anything about it, but it's still hot" and expect to get relief. Just take it like you would the inevitable, which is what it is, and maybe even see the good in it and you'll be more patient, much more cool, and enjoy yourself more. You know, if you're cool in the head it's a good start to being cool all over.

If you'll believe something long enough and practice it hard enough pretty soon it will be a habit. And that's something that's hard to break. Even good ones.

Public Overwhelmingly Opposed To Admitting Red China To The U. N.

Princeton, New Jersey—How do rank and file voters across the nation feel about admitting Communist China to the United Nations Organization?

Results of a nationwide survey just completed by U. S. Poll staff reporters show that 4 out of every 5 voters across the U. S. A. are opposed to admitting Communist China to the U. N.

Fewer than 1 in 10 say they would favor such a step.

In other words, those who are opposed to admitting Communist China to the U. N. outnumber by a margin of about 9 to 1 those who favor the idea.

These were the findings when U. S. Poll staff reporters asked a representative cross-section of the nation's voters:

"Would you favor or oppose admitting Communist China as a member of the United Nations Organization?"

NATIONWIDE

Favor	9 per cent
Oppose	80 per cent
No Opinion	11 per cent

Highlight of today's survey findings is that oponion on the question of admitting Communist China to the U. N. is highly uniform among all segments of the nation's adult population examined.

For example, more than 7 out of every 10 in each population group analyzed say they would be opposed to admitting Communist China as a member of the United Nation Organization.

And in no single group examined do as many as 18 in each 100 say they wiuld be in favor of doing so.

These groups include men and women, people in all city sizes, sections of the country, age groups, occupations, educational levels, and political parties.

This uniformity of opinion on the matter of admitting Communist China to the U. N. is best shown in the breakdown of the vote by political party affiliation.

	Rep.	Dem.	Ind
Favor	8%	10%	10%
Oppose	84	80	76
No Opinion	8	10	14

President Eisenhower has stated that he is opposed to admitting Communist China to the U. N. until it has proved its good faith with deeds. He also stated that he believed 95 per cent of the American people agree with him (Not too bad an estimate, judging from today's survey results.

Admission to the U. N. is decided by the U. N. General Assembly, where there is no veto.

The General Assembly acts only upon recommendations from the Security Council, where a veto can be used. The United States is a member of the U. N. Security Council.

Altogether, 21 countries have been denied admission to the U. N., either by Communist veto or by Western majority votes.

COLOR DYNAMICS AID FOOD SALES

One of the most important gimmicks that alert food salesmen have learned to use in advertising and merchandising is "color dynamics."

According to Austil Ezell, API Extension distributor marketing specialist, this means using color to suggest action or to induce people to buy. For instance, pointed out the specialist, orange is an activatin gcolor, it suggests a "do it now" mood. Food colors used in decorating displays that include orange tend to result in active sales.

The Chilton County News' "Mystery Farm" last week was a comparatively difficult one, but 12 lucky persons guessed right and will receive their free passes to the Clanton Drive-In Theatre.

Mrs. Edna Lane Higgins of Clanton won the grand prize when Mr. Otto Jones of the First National Bank drew her name last Monday. Mrs. Higgins has her choice of the new Servel Standard Vacuum Bottle or the Toastmaster Electric Popcorn Popper. Also she will receive a free one-year subscription to Chilton County News.

An interesting sidelight of last week's "Mystery Farm" was the fact that it was identified by two different farmers as their own farm. A close investigation disclosed the actual location though.

We would like to point out here that you may guess every week if you wish. Just be sure to get your answer in to the News office before noon on the Saturday following publication of the "Mystery Farm." Phone calls cannot be accepted.

It's fun, it's free, it's easy—just take a guess. Who owns the "Mystery Farm" pictured above? Be sure to let us know. You may be a winner.

In publishing the series of farm photos, this newspaper is recognizing farming as the big business that it is today . . . big in investment in land, machinery, livestock and buildings. The pictures are a tribute to agriculture in this community.

WHO OWNS THIS WEEK'S "MYSTERY FARM"?

Last Week's "Mystery Farm" Identified As The ARTHUR HEADLEY Farm

[illegible] of last week's [illegible] farm was Mr. Arthur Headley. The farm is located 3 1-2 miles outside of Clanton on the Lay Dam Highway. Rt. 5. Mr. Headley bought his farm from Gilva Foshee some 13 years ago.

His family consists of his wife, Ethel Florence Headley, whom he was married to Oct. 2, 1926; a daughter Doris Faye Headley, 15; and a son Horace A. Headley who is with the Air Force stationed at Lackland AFB, San Antonio, Tex. Horace is to be discharged about Sept. 3 and hopes to attend Howard College at Birmingham.

Mr. Headley says all his buildings and outhouses on his farm were constructed about 7 years ago. He does a good deal of truck farming and his main crops are berries and peaches. He, at present, has 25 acres of cultivated land most of this being in berries and peaches.

Mr. Headley is an active member of the Farm Bureau and a deacon at Bell Lane Church where he and his family attend regularly.

When asked what his future plans for his family and farm were he said, "Keep raising berries and peaches." He is a "tiller of the soil" so to speak and wouldn't be happier any other way.

Methodist Church

WHAT YOU BELIEVE IS WHAT YOU ARE

Amazing, but true! Psychologists have proven that if a person thinks often enough and long enough about committing a crime he will commit the crime, or at least try. They say, "What you believe is what you are."

Behind every wicked act is a process of wicked thinking. Murder is preceeded by urderous thoughts; immorality is preceded by unclean thinking. It is impossible to think wickedly and do righteously. "As he thinketh in his heart, so is he." Outward actions and words are just the expression of inner thoughts.

For years before her public service began, Florence Nightingale planned about such a work of mercy.

The assassin of Abraham Lincoln John Wilkes Booth, schemed and dreamed about this murder. The wicked act climaxed his wicked thinking.

Your outlook on life is determined by your thinking. You can't think pessimistically and live optimistically. A pessimist thinks about the dark side of life; an optimist thinks about the bright side of life. It's the same life, but not the same thinking.

Franz Joseph Haydn thought happy thoughts and wrote cheerful bright music.

Stephen Foster had a melancholy mood and his songs reveal his sadness. Life, like music, responds to your thinking.

Believing is important in regards to what matters the most: the eternal welfare of your immortal soul. Just as certain as your life here is determined by your thinking, your life hereafter is determined by your believing; "He that believeth on the Son (Jesus) hath everlasting life; and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him."

Many say, "It doesn't matter what a man believes as long as he is sincere." But it does matter! Sincerity will not help a man who takes strychnine in place of medicine. Poison is poison; medicine is medicine. Sincerity does not change these facts.

Sincerity does not change sin. Sincerity does not alter the fact that "it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment."

It's good to have sincerity it you have security, such as is offered in God's Word, the Holy Bible. "As many as received him (Jesus) to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." Believing in and receiving Jesus Christ gives you security for time and eternity. How blessed it is to believe in Christ in a topsy-turvy, sin-silly crime-crazy world!

Do you believe Jesus in the Son of God who died for the remission of your sins, rose again and is in heaven with the Father? And is your believing heart-knowledge as well as head-knowledge? Remember, you must have a possession of Christ before you can have a profession of Him.

What you believe is what you are. You can't change this fact, but you can change your believing.

"To every man there openeth a high way and a low,

And every man decideth which way his soul shall go."

You can change your belief. You can believe the truth by believing Jesus who is "the way, the truth, and the life."

What you believe is what you are. You have to believe someone or something. Why not believe someone, and may this someone be God: Who gave His only begotten Son, that whoever believeth in him should not perish but have everlasting life."

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

THE five-year-old came in from play this morning and made an announcement that startled the whole family.

"Oh," he sighed. "I'm so in love with Janie."

Janie, the object of his affections, is a young blonde visitor who arrived recently from New York to spend her vacation with friends in the neighborhood.

After the initial shock of the announcement wore off, the Head of the House asked:

"Son, how do you know you're in love with Janie?"

"Well," came the earnest reply. "Janie told me that I'm in love with her."

He had been told, and who was he to argue?

THE one-year-old has discovered the delight of coloring with crayons. She scribbles all over pieces of paper, and shows her art work proudly to anyone who will look.

Unfortunately, the other afternoon during an unobserved few minutes, she drew a picture on the wall paper. I was pondering over the best way to remove the wax crayon marks when the next door neighbor came in. Of course, she knew what to do.

"Get some very fine steel wool," she said. "Rub it lightly over the marks. The steel wool will remove the marks without damaging the wall paper."

It worked.

WHILE the next door neighbor was here, the seven-year-old came in to get a bandage on her skinned knee. I peeled the crinoline off the ends of the bandage and was about to throw the two pieces into the waste basket when the neighbor stopped me.

"Don't throw those away," she said. "Give them to me if you don't want them."

I certainly didn't want those two little pieces of stiff material, and I couldn't imagine what use the next door neighbor could find for them until she explained.

"Every time I put gripper fasteners on a garment, I use the crinoline to reinforce the places where I apply the fasteners. You'd be surprised how much more secure the grippers are with the crinoline to help hold them in place—they almost never pull out."

THE NEIGHBOR around the corner—the one with more imagination than money—wanted to give a present to a friend who was leaving on a 10-day vacation trip, but she couldn't find anything that was appropriate yet inexpensive.

She was about to give up the idea of a travel gift when she happened to think of the problem travelers face in doing their nightly wash. Then she got 10 envelopes, filled each one with enough soap flakes to wash a few garments, tied them together with a gay ribbon and presented them to her friend.

"The idea was so successful," she says. "I plan to make the envelopes of soap flakes a regular gift to all my touring friends."

OUR good cook neighbor saves the syrup from canned pineapple and other fruits, freezes it in her refrigerator tray and spoons it over dishes of fresh fruit for a refreshing dessert on a hot day.

Sabbath School 9:45 a.m. with preaching at 11:00.

When a man is "born again" he will then have a clean heart, a clean life, and a clean body. For the first time he recognizes his body is the "temple of the Holy Spirit" and is to be "cleaned from all filthiness of the flesh" 2 Cor. 7:1. There is no such thing as a "born again" person smoking cigarettes, chewing tobacco or dipping snuff. When Jesus cleansed the temple of worship, He said, "take these things hence" and that is just as true of the body temple. If man refuses to do it proves he is still "walking after the flesh" and "shall die." They "that are Christ's have crucified the flesh" says Paul. Lutheran Church—

Services will be held on next Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. The Rev. Dermon A. Sox of Birmingham will conduct the service. You are cordially invited to attend.

The home coming last Sunday was a grand success in every way. A large crowd attended. Rev. Moser preached a good sermon and after the service a "pot luck" dinner was enjoyed at the Institute dining hall where something over a hundred people enjoyed a most bountiful dinner. During the afternoon, group singing was enjoyed, led by Rev. Moser who mixed quite a bit of fun along with some more serious selections, and all in all, everybody had a swell time. Among those who attended from out of town were: Mrs. Clara Soberg Henderson of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Hilma P. Mikesell of Cedar Rapids, Iowa; Mr. and Mrs Arnold Soberg and Ann Bess of Mobile, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss and Bobb, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Petersen and Ruth, Mrs. Anna Long, Mr and Mrs. Louie Self, Mr. and Mrs Chas. Blackenburg, Mr. and Mrs Nills Neilson, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Gerald and two children, Mrs Agnes Leary Abrahams, Rev. and Mrs. Dexter Moser and two sons, Mr. and Mr. John Brothers, all of Birmingham; Mrs. Ralph Mason of Selma; Mrs. Erle Ellis and Mike, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Diefenderfer of Clanton; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vilhadsen and Joe of Montgomery; Mrs. Anna Thorson of Wasca Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Petersen and Sandra of Jemison. Friends who also enjoyed this occasion with the Lutherans were Congregationalists, Baptists, Methodists and Episcopalians.

Thorsby Institute News—

Rev. and Mrs. I. A. Hart had as their guests last Wednesday, Mr and Mrs. C. M. Williams of Tallassee. They attended the Fellowship supper at the Congregational Church Wednesday night. Mr. and Mrs Williams planned to visit her sister in Clanton and brother in Mobile for a few days before returning to their home in Tallassee. Mr. Williams will again be a member of the Thorsby Institute faculty beginning in September. He will teach mathematics, economics, civics and have charge of the boys' physical education.

Miss Helen C. Jenkins and her mother, Mrs. Sarah E. Jenkins, left August 5 for Andover, Conn., to make school calls and to visit her neices and their mother, Mrs George C. Stanley. While there she also called at Mystic, Chaplin and Gilead, Conn. Miss Jenkins attended church Sunday, August 8, at the Andover Congregational Church and was back at her desk in Chesham, Mass., Monday, August 9.

The teachers at Thorsby Institute are active church members—thus setting a good example to the students. We think this an important assgt in these days of loose morals in so many of the high schools.

Chapel is held every school day. It begins at 8:30 a. m. which gives ample time for students to come by car or bus if they live out of town. The recreation period comes the 7th period, which is the last period, each day. Girls have glee club work this period two days a week.

There is considerable discussion now about the new segregation law. Thorsby Institute is a private school and not tax supported. Therefore, it is not affected by this law.

Classes here are not large which makes possible more thorough work and indlvidual instruction if needed. Register now!

He arrived August 15th at the Rock Mart Aragon Hospital. His name is Norman D. Burkette, Jr. Congratulations, grandmother.

ALABAMA HIGHLIGHTS

After Alabama's government was outlawed at the end of the War Between the States plans were begun to reorganize it in keeping with President Johnson's plan for reconstruction.

Keep newly-ginned cotton bales separated from others for a few days until you are sure they are not fire-packed.

The various buttercups or crowfoots contain a poisonous substance causing severe infection of the intestinal tract of cattle.

Removing non-layers from the flock is one of the best ways to increase profit, reduce feed cost, and raise the per cent of production.

Report from Washington

BY ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Although the 83rd Congress was scheduled to adjourn on July 31, it now appears that the earliest possibility of adjournment will be this week end. The House has virtually completed its work, but it is necessary for the House members to stand by so that they can act on House-Senate conference reports and certain Senate-approved bills.

In an effort to adjourn by this week-end, the Senate last week stepped up its schedule. Convening early and adjourning late, the upper body voted on a number of major bills.

Bills Sent To President

Several important measures received final Congressional approval last week and went to the President for his signature.

The Senate passed the House-approved bill increasing by 5 per cent the pensions of veterans with service connected disabilities. It also passed a separate House-approved measure increasing the pensions of veterans with non-service connected disabilities by the same amount. Both measures have gone to the White House.

The House and Senate agreed on a compromise bill extending until June 30, 1955, the veterans' direct home loan program. The compromise measure makes available to the Veterans Administration an additional $150 million to be used for this program during the current fiscal year. While the House bill provided $100 million, the Senate increased this amount to $200 million. The conferees split the difference and recommended the $150 million that was adopted by both bodies. The President is expected to sign the measure.

Another proposal passed by the Senate and sent to the White House is a House-approved bill to extend by one year the period in which Korean veterans can apply for and complete their GI education.

In addition to the veterans' legislation, the House and Senate endorsed and sent to the President a compromise $3.2 billion foreign aid authorization bill.

Still another measure to receive final Congressional action last week is a bill which grants immunity in Congressional hearings and court trials to certain persons who testify in cases involving subversive activities. This proposal, discussed in my column last week, is designed to encourage testimony concerning suspected spies and traitors from persons who might otherwise invoke the Fifth Amendment to avoid possible self-incrimination.

Conference Groups Busy

The Senate acted on a number of bill last week that have been sent to House-Senate conference committees. It is hoped the conferees can iron out differences in the two versions of these measures early this week so that a final vote can be taken before the weekend.

The farm bill, passed last Monday by the Senate, sets price supports on the five basic commodities during 1955 at 82 1-2 per cent of parity. This provision, adopted earlier by the House, constitutes a major Administration victory over the farm bloc.

There were several significant differences in the House and Senate farm bills, however. The Senate voted to leave dairy price supports at 75 per cent of parity; the House voted to raise them to 80 per cent. The House voted to limit to two years the program of direct subsidy payments to wool growers, while the Senate left it unlimited. A two-price wheat plan was contained in the House bill but omitted in the Senate version. The matters in controversy must be worked out before Congressional action on the bill can be completed.

Although the House had approved the conference report on the Atomic Energy bill, the Senate sent it back to conference by a vote of 39 to 41. If the conference committee cannot solve the differences between House and Senate conferees can be appointed, time permitting.

Last Friday the Senate passed by a voice vote the House approved Social Security bill, and on Saturday the Senators completed the foreign aid appropriation bill. Conferees must iron out differences between the House and Senate versions of these two proposals, but the measures will most likely be sent to the President before the end of the week.

A temporary $6 billion increase in the public debt limit also received Senate approval last week, although the House approved a $5 billion permanent increase. Action by before adjournment last night by general agreement by both Democrats and Republicans on the $6 billion temporary increase is expected.

The 1865 convention called an Alabama election to be held in November of that year, and Robert M. Patton was elected governor. Congressmen were elected and the new Legislature pamed two U. S. Senators. It appeared that Alabama was ready to go ahead with rebuilding and President Johnson was asked to withdraw federal troops from the state.

The Ordinance of Secession of 1861 was declared null and void by the 1865 convention that met to reform Alabama's state government.

Accepted by the Alabama convention of 1865 was the fact that the institution of slavery no longer existed. The convention also declared that all debts made in behalf of the Confederacy were not to be paid, in other words were repudiated.

MINUTES OF THE BOARD OF REVENUE AND CONTROL OF CHILTON COUNTY, ALABAMA OF AUGUST 2, 1954.

BOARD - MEETING

August 2, 1954

The Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County, Alabama met in special session at the courthouse at Clanton, Alabama, on August 2, 1954, at 9:00 o'clock a.m., on the call of the Chairman. The following were present: M. D. Tingle, Judge of Probate and Chairman of said Board, and the following Associate Members of said Board: V. O. Lenoir, A. H. Smith, Herman Motley and J. M. Dunlap. Judge Tingle presided as Chairman of the meeting and, a quorum being present, declared the meeting open for the transaction of business.

Mr. Motley offered the following resolution for adoption; which was duly seconded by Mr. Lenoir:

BE IT RESOLVED AND ORDERED: That the reading of the minutes of the meeting of the Board held on July 26, 1954 be deferred until the next Board meeting.

The above stated resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote of all the members present.

Mr. Lenoir offered the following resolution for adoption; which was duly seconded by Mr. Dunlap:

BE IT RESOLVED: It is with extreme sorrow that we are assembled here, and with sad hearts mourn the death, on July 30, 1954, of our fellow associate, Mr. James Douglas Bullington, County Engineer for Chilton County, Alabama. Although he had been in our midst for only a short while, he was beloved by all who knew him as a Christian gentleman, whose Christianity flowed into his every thoughts and act.

It is with great sorrow that we record the loss of one of Alabama's most distinguished public servants. His knowledge of engineering, his lovable disposition, his high character, and the fearlessness with which he discharged his official duties, were the attainment of the highest ideals of an American public servant.

We know him as a learned, wise, well balanced, reliable engineer, who was modest, courteous, honest and kind toward all people. He was always a good citizen and practiced his good citizenship by placing the interest of the people whom he represented foremost and above the interest of all others. It is with great humility that we deeply mourn with the family and relatives of Mr. James Douglas Bullington, their great loss, and as evidence of our sympathy, confidence and love for him, the Chairman of the Board is hereby directed to send a copy of this resolution to his family.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED: That this resolution be entered upon the minutes of The Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County, Alabama.

The above stated resolution was adopted by unanimous vote of all the members present and the Chairman declared said resolution duly adopted.

Mr. Motley offered the following preamble and resolution for adoption; which were duly seconded by Mr. Smith:

WHEREAS, On said date said County Engineer departed this life

WHEREAS, The Alabama State and

Highway Director has informed the Chairman of the Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County, Alabama that he can not nominate at this time an Engineer who is qualified and will accept employment by said Board under the terms of the act creating said Board, and

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

BEGINNING SCHOOL

In a few weeks your child will start a new life, that of going to school for the first time. Is your child equipped for this new venture, physically and emotionally?

The child who has received careful periodic checkups from babyhood through his preschool years will be in a better position to have his "best foot forward" on entrance into class study. Defects that have been corrected are a good standard for maintaining the youngster's health.

For example, the child who sees poorly will have difficulty in the classroom. The letters on the blackboard will be meaningless as will the posters and pictures used to illustrate points to the young mind. The child who sees perfectly will be retarded if the hearing is defective, and certainly more regular attendance at school will be assured if the child is free from respiratory and nasal infections. Don' ignore baby dental defects. Certainly a second set of teeth will appear, but give them the opportunity to arrive properly by having the youngster examined by your dentist.

Has your child been immunized? How about the youngster's heart? Can you be sure that it can stand the stress and strain of group activity? A child's physical and emotional makeup is established in the early years. Any condition that will forestall the natural development of social, environmental and cultural outlets should be brought under control early. This can be done only by correcting the troubles found in a physical examination.

Your child's first days of school are a few weeks away. See to it that he is prepared physically and emotionally to answer the demands of the school bell. Insist that he have a good physical and dental examination, and prepare him too for the teacher who will supervise his hours away from you. Tell him about the fun of learning as well as the need. With your interest it won't be difficult because of the natural curiosity of a small child's mind.

Protect your smaller tools from rusting by keeping a pail of sand near the garage or cellar door and plunging them into the sand when you are through with them.

Treat Seed To Reduce Disease

Auburn, Ala. —Every Alabama farmer should be on the alert this fall against un-treated oat and other small grain seed, warns API Seed Suecialist Ralph Jones. If the seed are not treated, he warns, don't plant them!

The specialist explains that seed treatment controls hostile organisms which exist on the seed and in the soil. These organisms stand by to attack seedling plants causing seed rot, seedling blight, victoria blight, Helminthosporium, bacterial blight smut and other diseases. Ceresan M and Agrox will control these diseases at a cost of only a few cents per bushel.

When buying oats or other small grain seed, check to make certain that they have been treated. State seed laws require that treated seed be labeled showing the kind and amount of material used. Treat home grown seed or have them treated before planting, concludes Jones.

Grade of cotton is determined by color, smoothness (gin preparation) and amount of trash or foreign material.

or waste of money. All we do in the City will be used after connection is made with the river for water, and the pipe line to Yellow Leaf Creek can be salvaged then.

The amount of money required to make the improvements necessary now is considerable, and the Bankers who are preparing the bonds and will sell them for us, told us plainly the bonds could not be sold under the present water rate, and it was necessary to increase the rate to realize sufficient money to pay the interest and retire a portion of the principal each year.

Question then is whose duty and obligation is it to pay this debt? Is it not perfectly clear and just to you that we who live in the City of Clanton should pay it, and does it matter so much which pocket we take the money from just so all of us who use the water have a part in the paying?

The City Officials are of that opinion, and in the near future an ordinance will be published giving you the new rate and effective date. None of us welcome more living cost but everyone should rejoice to know Clanton is growing larger and richer each year, and our property enhances in value accordingly. You will notice the small users will pay very little more under the new rate than we are paying now. So, let us all SMILE and work together for the improvement of Clanton.

My philosophy is, if the people are given the facts, and made to understand any expansion and improvement is for the public good, and they are individually benefitted along with the public, they will cooperate. Therefore, I write this letter of explanation.

Respectfuly,
C. FENN JONES, Mayor.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Earl O'Neal was in the shop the first of the week raising particular cain about not getting recognition for ginning the first bale of cotton of the season, and especially for his customer, Millard Reynolds, not getting credit for raising the first bale. Well, it seems that Earl had ginned a bale of cotton on August 11, nearly a whole week before the one reported in last week's paper. He had sent us word but it was never received by us and, although we checked around, we didn't learn of Earl O'Neal's report until he came and told us about it. It amounts to this however, the Earl O'Neal Gin and Warehouse ginned the first bale of the 1954 crop and Millard Reynolds raised the first bale. We congratulate them both on being first this year.

Fellow down at the dafe the other day was killing flies. He was wearing his bifocals and just as he got ready to hit the fly he glanced down through the lower part of his glasses which magnified the fly many times. He drew back his swatter and gave up. The fly looked so big he was afraid it would hit back.

Speaking of the above paragraph puts us in mind of a good one on J. E. Easterling that we can't resist repeating. J. E. was awakened the other morning rather suddenly by his telephone ringing. He jumped out of bed, reached for his glasses in a hurry, put them on and said, "hello?"

We hope those in the north who agitate the race troubles read this week of the young doctors wife in Meridian, Mississippi, who lost her life in an effort to save that of a little colored girl 13 years old. The girl was with them on a picnic and got off a float into deep water. The wife and mother dived into the water for the 13 year old but was drowned herself. "Greater Love Has No Man Than This, That He Lay Down His Life For A Friend."

Our deepest sympathy to the family of Mrs. Janie Jones Lawrence who died in Mobile last Friday. She was the mother of Dr. C. O. Lawrence and Mrs. Thera Martin, of Clanton.

M-Sgt. Ted Gafford's wife and children leave tonight for Germany to join him there. He has been stationed there since last Spring. The beautiful Mrs. Gafford is thrilled and excited over the prospects of her new home in Germany and we hope her fondest dreams are realized.

Willie Crowson and family just returned from the coast where they spent their vacation. Willie said they had a wonderful time except for the heat. He said that where they were it was one hundred and ten in the shade and there wasn't any shade.

All-Day Service At Univ. Highway Church Of God

It is a pleasure to report for this place. Health is good for which we are thankful. We had good week end services. I, the pastor, brought the morning message. Rev. C. F. Barrett of Opp, Ala., brought the evening message.

We don't want you to forget our all-day service next Sunday, August 29th. We feel that we are going to have a real good service all day. We have worked hard and made plans for the service. We have the promise of the Miller Trio of Bessemer and the Collier Family of Wetumpka to bless our hearts with special singing and they are as good as the best.

Besides our different singers from the different churches that we have invited, this is a special invitation to everybody to be with us.

Rev. Earl Miller of Bessemer will be the morning speaker.

Rev. Willey Davis of New Hope Baptist Church will be the evening speaker.

If you miss this service you will always be sorry. So don't miss it. Bring a well-filled basket and spend the day.

—Rev. Jesse Mitchell, pastor.

County Road Engineer-

New Engineer Killed In Auto Accident

The new County Engineer, N. E. Agee, who was to come to Chilton County to replace J. D. Bullington was killed in an automobile accident Monday night in DeKalb County. He was to have started work here on September 15th.

It is reported he started around another car and ran headon into a truck loaded with corn that was driven by L. B. Patton of Guntersville, Alabama.

Bullington, County Engineer for the past 3 years, was drowned in the Gulf while vacationing with his wife and nephew several weeks ago. He had made an enviable record here and the members of the Board of Revenue & Control had employed Agee, who was highly recommended by the State Highway Department, to fill the place left vacant by Bullington's death.

Agee was a Lt. Col. in the Alabama National Guard and had visited here several times recently with his family in preparation to moving here. He was 49 years old.

The morning services will be broadcast over the local station at 7:15 until 7:45 o'clock. Evening services will beign at 7:00 o'clock.

The new auditorium which God has so graciously blessed this church with will be near completion for this meeting. Members of the church and its pastor, Rev. R. E. Wilkins, extend a most cordial welcome to all to come and worship with us during this revival service. The closing service will be the night of Sept. 5th.

For the benefit of those who have children of nursery-age, the nursery will be open.

Williams Reunion To Be Held Near Billingsley

The families of Philip and Mandy Williams will hold the annual Homecoming at Concord Church near Billingsley on this Sunday, August 29th, beginning at 9:30 a. m.

The families of Uncle Joe and Aunt Mary Williams have been invited and they have accepted the invitation of having their Homecoming with us. This should be a great day for all the Williams' in renewing old acquaintances, strengthening friendships and spirituality. All the families and their decendants are requested to be present and bring a basket of lunch.

Rev. Joe Gibson will bring the morning message. All members and former members of this church are urged and requested to be present. There is some business to attend to. Sometime during the day go by the cemetery.

We cordially invite all our friends in the community and everywhere else to join in with us.

Please observe clean-up day at the church Thursday, August 26th, at 8 a.m.

Very small cracks and chipped places in linoleum can often be repaired by melting a wax crayon into them, using one of a color to match that of the linoleum around the crack or dent.

If wax is applied to painted window sills, the coating will protect the paint from dirt and the surface can be cleaned without streaking.

P. F. Singley New Owner Of Thorsby Tractor

A. D. Headley has sold the Thorsby Tractor & Implement Company to P. F. Singley who has been employed with the company for the past two months.

Singley was raised in Mississippi and graduated at Auburn in agricultural science. He worked with the Alabama Extension Service for several years but has been associated with Ford Tractors and equipment since 1945, both in the retail and the wholesale business.

Singley says he and his family have learned to like Chilton County and its people and invites the farmers of the County to come in and get acquainted.

Dr. W. W. Renning To Open Offices

Dr. W. W. Rennings, formerly of Pell City, Ala., will open his offices in the Exchange Hotel Building. Dr. Rennings and his family have already moved to Clanton and are residing at 1806 Glendale Drive.

Dr. Rennings stated Monday that he liked the people of Chilton County and was sure they would enjoy their life here. There are four children. The Rennings are members of the Seventh Day Adventist Church.

Leftover paint can be kept for a long time if you seal it in small glass fruit jars which have been labeled according to color and type paint.

Mrs. Maggie Taylor Loses Home To Fire

The home of Mrs. Maggie Taylor, three miles east of Clanton, burned Monday morning destroying everything. The local fire department answered the call but were too late to be effective in saving the property. Amount of the loss was not ascertained.

A small amount of money was destroyed but serial numbers were legible and the money was redeemable. Mrs. Edwin Taylor, a daughter-in-law, stated the money belonged to one of the grandchildren.

Legion Accepts VFW Membership Drive Challenge

The Membership Challenge by the VFW recently was readily accepted by Clanton American Legion Post No. 6 and it appears that the contest is gaining momentum almost daily. The American Legion has organized into thre seperate groups headed by the three Vice Commanders; John W. Pitts, 1st Vice Commander, John D. Mullins, 2nd Vice Commander and Fred Smitherman. Each of these has two members to assist him in securing members.

As a special incentive to join or pay up dues in either the American Legion or VFW, the following merchants have donated valuable merchandise appearing beside their names:

Mullins & Scott—$68.00 tailor made suit of clothes.

Daniel Dry Goods—Manhattan Shirt.

Kemp Dry Goods—$12.50 pair of shoes.

Upchurch Drug Co.—Schaffer pen.

Other merchants have indicated a desire to offer prizes and this list of valuable prizes will grow between now and the deadline date which is November 11—Veteran's Day. Any merchant who wishes to donate a prize may do so by calling 392 for we do not want to leave anyone out who wishes to donate to this worthy cause.

Many of you who are eligible to join one or both organizations will be interested to know that our Veterans Home which is now under construction will begin taking form shortly and you will be glad to know that you have had a small part, at least, in making this dream come true by being an active member.

We feel that we as Veteran organizations have a place in our "way of life" to fulfill. We owe a debt to our comrades who did not come back to their loved ones. We feel that our major obligation is to God, our government, our communities for better government, better schools, better undertakings that make the difference between an average community and one that is truly a fine place to live.

In numbers there is strength so —write 5 in 55—we must join in effort to perpetuate our high ideals—God first Americanism is the only ism that we will tolerate.

Facts About ARC Services—
PROCEDURE FOR OBTAINING EMERGENCY LEAVE FROM THE ARMED FORCES

1. What is the present procedure regarding applications for emergency leave?

Servicemen in all branches of the military services who are stationed in the United States must make applications for emergency leave to their commanding officers.

A serviceman in the Army or Air Force who is stationed overseas may make application for emergency leave to his commanding officer, or the serviceman's family may make the request. In the case of the Navy, Marine Corps or Coast Guard, the family cannot make the application; the serviceman must submit his own application to his commanding officer.

2. What steps should the family take when an emergency leave is desired?

If the serviceman is stationed in the United States:

The family may report the situation to the local Red Cross chapter, which will make a verification and will submit a report of the facts to the Red Cross field director at the serviceman's station for decision by the man's commanding officer.

If the serviceman is stationed overseas:

The family may report the situation to the local Red Cross chapter, which will make verification and submit a report of the facts thru Red Cross channels to the military headquarters, to a Red Cross field director overseas, or to the commanding officer of a ship, in accordance with established regulations.

3. Does the Red Cross recommend that leave be granted or denied?

No. The Red Cross makes no recommendations. It submits verified factual reports for consideration by the military authorities.

4. Who makes the decision?

The decision is made by the serviceman's commanding officer or by the military headquarters, depending upon where the serviceman is stationed and his branch of service.

The above is for the information to the Chilton County people who have relatives in the service. Your local Red Cross is glad, at all times, to assist you whenever possible.

Emergency-

Chilton To Join In Drive For Much Needed Polio Funds

★ The parents of Chilton County will march against the dreaded enemy, Polio, Friday night between the hours of 6:00 and 8:00. The march is being held in an effort to raise desperately needed funds for the National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis. The march of dimes drive in January fell $20,000,000 short of its much-needed goal. The Foundation has declared that a state of Emergency will exist until these funds have been secured.

In Chilton County, workers have volunteered their services in many large and small communities. The City of Clanton will be covered by members of the Pilot Club and Beta Sigma Phi. Maplesville will be directed by Mrs. E. T. Clapp; Verbena, Mrs. Winston Calloway; Thorsby, Mrs. Wood and Rev. L. E. Daniel; Liberty Hill, Mrs. Cecil Powell; Mitchell Dam, Mrs. B. L. McCary; Jemison, Mrs. L. C. Shields; New Providence, Mrs. H. L. Glass; Pleasant Grove No. 1 and Macedonia, Mrs. E. H. Crane; Pleasant Grove, on Billingsley Hiway, Mrs. J. E. Hosey; Colored People, Prof. E. M. Henry.

The above mentioned workers, and many others whose names we have been unable to secure, will call on you Friday evening between the hours of 6:00-8:00. They will then meet at the City Hall in Clanton at 8:30 to turn over their collections to Miss Flora Harris, the Emergency Drive Treasurer. You are asked to give whatever you can to this important cause. Each contribution will be gratefully accepted by the thousands of people who suffer from the effects of polio.

Eight From Clanton Join Armed Forces

Sergeant Gibbens stated that by volunteering for service in the Army each man was able to choose his branch before he enlisted. Three of these men picked the Corps of Engineers—Littleton, Lewis and Prickett. Donovan choose the Ordnance Corps and Quartermaster Corps Army Medical Service and Signal Corps were picked by the others. The Sergeant said this is only one of the advantages offered by the Army today. That the Army offers advantages, benefits and opportunities that are hard to find in most civilian occupations.

City Park Swimming Pool Closes Friday

On Friday, August 27, the swimming pool at the city park will close for the 1954 season.

The announcement was made this week by V. L. Bulger, park superintendent. The city park has enjoyed the most useful season since its construction and should hot weather remain the youngsters will have to resort to outside showers with the garden hose.

Superintendent Howard Boockholdt sends a reminder to all parents and school children that the opening day of school will be Friday, September 3. This day will be for registeration and for obtaining book lists. There will be no school on Labor Day, the following Monday. Tuesday, September 7th, will be a full day. Jaycees' Champions-

Little Leaguers End Successful Season

After tying the Lions team in the midle of the season and the Lions stepping down the Jaycee's little leaguers came out on top to win the 1954 championship.

Lary Culpepper, the slugger for the Kiwanis team came out top batter of the season, with a .515 even though he started late in the year.

The Jaycee's won the closeout game by a score of 12-0 with the pitching of Wayne Little sparking the victory.

High Bating averages for the entire season are as follows:

Jaycee "Cardinals"—
John Will Wyatt .426
Wayne Little .415
Jimmie Dennis .406

Kiwanis "White Sox"—
Larry Culpepper .515
Joe H. Johnson .442
Tomie Tifin .371

Lion Club's "Lions"—
Mack Downing .365
Tommy Sheiton .340
Don Jones .314

Methodist "Braves"—
David Puckett .440
Jimmie Tiffin .423
Mike Mims .288

A game is trying to be scheduled with a team from Calera now but at press time no word was given to indicate the time and place.

The purpose for the delay on the game is that the team from Calera is not a member of the Litle Leaguers and therefore the Leaguers were not allowed to play them during season. It may turn out, however, now that the season is over, that a game will be scheduled. If this is the case announcements will be made in later publications.

Take note, now that the season's over that the Little Leaguers did not get the public support this season that they deserved. It is indeed a worthy organization and should be supported by all of us; those with kids and those without. Next year's teams will do their best, you do your best to support something for the good of youth.

IF WE ALL COOPERATE

The contest that began in your Chilton County News a few weeks ago is more than reaching the expectations of all of us. That includes the farmers, the businessman and even us here at the "News."

The reason for this widespread interest, we think, is due mostly to the fact that the contest involves everyone. Many farmers benefit through the publicising of their farms. The businessmen benefit through the advertising columns due to the many new subscribers and the added number of readers. We all benefit through the medium of good clean fun and entertainment.

Many have already joined in on the contest, in all of these different ways and we are expecting more of you to join in before it's over. There is nothing throughout the entire proceedings that should not benefit someone in some way or other. We had already been working on a bigger and better Chilton County News for a bigger and better Chilton County and you can see now with the public behind it that's exactly what we can do, with little cost and trouble to everybody. It benefits you, it benefits us, it benefits our county, and that's what we've been striving for so many years.

Progress is showing up all over the County lately. Folks are waking up to the fact that with a little public spirit along with the right kind of interest we ourselves can build and improve our community and county without waiting for someone else to do it for us.

There have been new recreational facilities for the kids which have been needed for so long a time, such as the new skating rink up north Clanton way, the VFW recreational hut which is nearing completion on the new Enterprise road and will be at the disposal of our youth one night out of each week, the over-all efforts of the people to build up our park ficilities for the benefit of all of us, and many ways which, in the past, we have seemingly ignored.

The new Chilton County Hospital is getting well toward completion and the County roads never looked better.

All in all, the people of the County have finally taken the initiative to do for themselves what we waited so long for someone to do for us. To stop now would mean we're not what we appear to be so far as our efforts are concerned.

And now the County Fair is on it's way and if we will, we can make the State and even the Nation see what a growing, prosperous, energetic county is really like by turning all out effort into makin our county and people what they should be.

"You can't get something for nothing," as the old saying goes so if we're willing to trade something for something such as effort for results we and our county will go far towards the biggest and best in the state of Alabama.

We're not talking about just you; it's you and me and John Jones next door and the whole kit and kiboodle working together just as if you were building a church or your community or tending your farm for yourself. It will take all of us on the Fair, all of us on the recreation for the betterment of our youth, all of us cooperating with the hospital board and the road department, and even all of us on the "Farm Contest" to really get any real fun out of it. So if you can get your next door neighbor or your cousin or uncle to join in on community affairs and he in turn gets his, we'll all benefit from something that we'll be proud to have been a part of.

CURE FOR A NEW DISEASE

There's a new disease on the loose today. It claimed some 670,000 victims last year and was responsible for almost 14,000 deaths. Striking only when a person is seated behind the steering wheel of an automobile, this disease is called "acceleritis."

Its symptoms are a heavy foot and a light head, a combination which usually results in insane speed. The virus of this disease attacks the mind and destroys all habits of courtesy and caution.

Excessive speed—"acceleritis"—is regarded as the greatest single cause of traffic accidents and deaths.

Although no known vaccine has been developed to combat this mental sickness, preventative medicine measures can be applied to young persons through high school courses in proper driving. In the case of incurables, a driver's license can be taken away in order to remove an individual as a highway menace.

And as for the rest of us—we must see to it that we always drive at a speed suitable to the conditions of traffic and weather.

To end the modern sickness of "acceleritis," the best available remedy is simply to slow down so that you and others may live.

SURVEY SAYS GOP CAN DO BETTER JOB OF KEEPING COMMIES OUT OF GOV'T.

By Kenneth Fink, Director, Princeton Research Service.

Princeton, New Jersey—Which political party—the Republican of the Democratic—do American voters think can do a better job of keeping Communists out of the government and handling subversive elements?

Results of a nationwide survey just completed show that the weight of sentiment across the U. S. is that the Republican Party can do a better job.

Two out of every five of all those questioned say that the Republican Party can do a better job of keeping Communists out of the government and handling subversive elements in the country.

One in four says the Democrats can do better.

In other words, among those with opinions on the matter, the number who believe that the Republican Party can do a better job of keeping Communists out of the government and handling subversive elements outnumber by a margin of about 8 to 5 those who think the Democrats can do better.

When United States Poll staff reporters asked a representative cross-section of the nation's voters:

"As you feel today, which political party—the Republican or the Democratic Party—can do a better job of keeping Communists out of the government and handling subversive elements in the nation?"

The results:

NATIONWIDE—
Republican 40 percent
Democratic 26 percent
No Difference 16 percent
No Opinion 18 percent

Highlight of today's survey findings is that the weight of sentiment among the country's Independent voters by a 4 to 1 margin believes that the GOP can do a better job of keeping Communists out of the government and handling subversives.

INDEPENDENT VOTERS, ONLY NATIONWIDE—
Republican 40 percent
Democratic 10 percent
No Difference 22 percent
No Opinion 28 percent

Among GOP voters, 7 out of every 10 are of the opinion that the Republican Party can do a better job of keeping Communists out of the Federal government and handling subversive elements.

Only 1 in every 20 Republican voters thinks the Democrats can do better.

REPUBLICAN VOTERS ONLY, NATIONWIDE—
Republican 70 percent
Democratic 5 percent
No Difference 11 percent
No Opinion 14 percent

The weight of sentiment among Democratic voters, on the other hand, by a 3 to 1 margin is that their own political party can do a better job.

DEMOCRATIC VOTERS ONLY, NATIONWIDE—
Republican 16 percent
Democratic 48 percent
No Difference 18 percent
No Opinion 18 percent

Results of a recent survey show that keeping Communists out of the government and handling subversives is regarded as one of the top four issues that voter would like to hear discussed in the coming Congressional election campaign.

This is the first of a series of analysis of key election issues. Watch for them in this newspaper.

Self-Discipline for Growth (Temperance).

Matthew 16: 24-25; I Corinthians 9: 24-27; Hebrews 12: 1-4.

Golden Text: Matthew 16: 24.

The lesson begins with the great paradox that giving is life; withholding is death. The man who takes up his cross and follows after Jesus will save his life, though he gives it, while he who would save his life and live for self alone, will lose all in the end. Mr. Emerson writes that some men live all their lives under the delusion that they can be cheated out of the value of anything. We really cannot give anything away. What we give, and more, too, will come back to us by and by.

The lesson of discipline is learned on the athletic field. Paul observed that in his day the man who ran for a prize was careful to keep his body under, that is, to deny himself anything that would interfere with the rigorous training that was designed to fit him for strenuous effort. As it was in that day with the runners, it is with runners of the present time and with those who contend on the field of football or baseball.

Therefore, we are to run with patience the race before us, with our faces toward the Lord Jesus, not only as an example unto us in giving himself, but also as our help and support. It is easy to see that this lesson admits of nothing that will disqualify one for vigorous action and clear thinking and willing. Beverage alcohol is a terrible detriment to all worthy discipline and high endeavor.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Fay Pentland, Springdale, Washington: I remember, when I was very small, seeing our old lamplighter go about his job in the evening. My home town was Rosalia, Washington, just a wide place in the road.

He used to go down by the park and sometimes forget to light a lamp near the benches. We didn't need a town curfew because, for the kids, he was the curfew. I was too small to go out of our yard, but the lamplighter always gave me a nickel as he lit our corner light. Every time I hear the popular song I remember when he went along, lighting each of the lamps.

From Elva G. Mecum, Portland, Oregon: I remember how I noted the "I.R.C." in my weekly newspaper and found it beguilingly appropriate . . . and that back in the 70's our family newspaper was two sheets, sometimes with a supplement called the "Green Back" . . . Benjamin F. Butler ran on the Greenback (later Populist) ticket for President of the U.S. and the first President I ever lectioneered for was James A. Garfield . . . and how my older sister talked to me about the President being killed by Chas. Guiteau while we were hunting water snakes up and down a big ditch by the country road. She had some of the snakes named. One was "Madam Patti," and one maybe, was Parmalee.

Things we -SEE- and Hear

Seems to be quite a controversy over religion these days. Heard a fella say Sunday that he didn't see why there was so much arguing since everyone is working to get to the same place so there shouldn't be so many differences. Only trouble is everybody seems to have a different idea of how to get there. And for all we know they might all be right. We'll find out though, that's for sure.

Good friend Ralph down at Upchurch's has added something to his fountain service. Hambergers. No that ain't wrong because that's the way he has it spelled on a sign on the counter, hambergers. You always used a U we'll bet. Well, U is wrong (or you is wrong) because Ralph uses an E. U know I think U is all right and E is wrong. (E meaning Ralph of course). If you're not thoroughly confused by now it's your own fault not mine. Let's just call 'em hamdogs, what say Ralph?

Like to take this opportunity to thauk the members of the Worker's Council of The Methodist Church for bestowing upon me the honor of being Sunday School secretary. Since there are no speaking requirements for the job I won't make one. We'll do our best.

Payne, here at the "News" tells us that he has some kind of flower bush growing an apple. He says it looks like an apple, it smells like an apple, and he didn't say it tasted like one because he was afraid it might not be. Payne went to Florida not too long ago and visited the Ripley Believe it or Not Museum at St. Augustine so you can see he probably is trying to fool us. At any rate we don't recommend that he eat it, but if he did it would make a swell front page story.

Guess grandpa Yeargan thinks we think he looks older than his years. On the contrary we think he looks younger. Someone here at the "News" last week had him 74 years old instead of 70. When you get past the 30 mark I guess it counts up fast enough without any pushes.

Noticed lately the marked improvement of the Chilton County High School Band in their marches. Mr. DeLoach is really putting them through their paces and we wouldn't be a'tall surprised if he didn't come up with something new and fancy this year. Now if they'll just make some prety music we'll be ready for them. Looks like they are trying to do themselves proud though so don't be surprised if they really come through this year.

It's being talked that Mr. Joe Jackson up Clanton Drive-In way is going to enlarge his present screen a good deal and make a Cinemascope screen out of it. We knew you movie fans would just hate to hear about that. Can't say about the advance in prices or any of that yet, but we're hoping there aren't any. If there are, I can't go.

Packaging Poultry For Home-Freezing

Auburn, Ala.,—Good packaging is important when home-freezing poultry.

According to Lavada Curtis, API Extension food preservation specialist, air tight moisture-proof wrappings should be used to keep out as much air as possible. This keeps the meat from drying out, and it also prevents freezer burn.

Many moisture-proof wrapping materials are available, but most of them in sheet form only, says the expert. The sheets make it difficult to get airtight seals because of the irregular shape of poultry. However, aluminum foil is one exception. It con be molded closely to the bird with the hands.

When using plastic bags, Miss Curtis advises pushing out as much air as possible before applying the twist seal. This can be done by submerging all except the open end of the bag in water, she concludes.

It is estimated that if all dairy cows in the U. S. which "broke even" or lost money last year were culled, there would be no surplus of milk and milk products.

DALE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

SOME YEARS AGO Robert I. Forsht, 205 Second Avenue, S.E., Glen Burnie, Maryland, quit a good paying job for one paying less because of a feeling of insecurity and worry. Where do you think he went to work? In one of the largest Mental Hospitals in the country.

The first few days he had many misgivings. Like most people, he had many of the old world superstitutions and fears of the mentally ill.

During his first day in the ward a tall patient dressed like an ancient king came to him and said, "I am King here and when you need money to run this ward my Treasurer will issue it to you." He replied, "Thank you King." As he turned to walk away the "King" handed him some paper and said, "Here is $100,000 for today."

CARTOON

Shortly afterward a distinguished looking patient came up to him and said, "I own all the banks here and will take care of your money." You can see he was rapidly profiting; the king was giving him $100,000 a day and his banker was taking care of it for him.

Robert Forsht says those are examples of the many humorous incidents that happen in the wards every day. Because of worry and fear most of the patients were living in their subconscious minds rather than in their conscious minds.

The fourteen months he worked at the hospital he declares to be the most enlightening experience of his life, and he would like to suggest to us that if the load of fear and worry gets too heavy to carry, that we visit one of our mental hospitals, for then you will be able to count your blessings and thank the good Lord for each one of them.

MOVING PULLETS FROM RANGE TO LAYING HOUSE

Auburn, Ala.—According to John Weeks, API Extension poultry specialist, many poultrymen throughout Alabama will be putting their pullets in laying houses within the next few weeks. Therefore, a word of caution on handling these birds is in order.

Weeks gives the following suggestions to help minimize losses while housing pullets. Move birds from range shelters to laying houses during the cool of the day. With small flocks it is much better move them at night. Transfer li in coops with only 10 pullets each coop. Be sure that you not borrow coops for handling c ens. Borrowed coops may har disease organism which could spr to the entire flock. If pullets to be held overnight, place sli ings on the floor of the coop keep birds clean.

The farm leader advises hold birds by both legs. Never h rusting by keeping a pail of sa avoid injury confine chick to small area before catching them

In conclusion, the specialist ommends preparing the lay house for the birds before mov them. Be sure that plenty of ter and water containers are ava able. Provide the birds with pl ty of feed. Open all ventilat so that the birds will have ple of fresh air.

WHO OWNS THIS WEEK'S "MYSTERY FARM"?

District Tractor Care Clinic Held At Airport

One of the more recent changes that has taken place in agriculture is the change-over from horse and mule power to that of the farm tractor. And with this switch came the problem of care and maintenance.

That's why Assistant County Agents and adult 4-H Leaders from 17 counties attended a two-day clinic here Thursday and Friday August 12th and 13th, studying care and maintenance of farm machinery.

API Extension Mechanization Specialist Tom Gaillard, in charge of the clinic, shot the works while giving the group specific training in maintenance jobs that can be done on the farm. Gaillard said that two years is the life of a neglected tractor. But the specialist was quick to point out that a well cared for machine will run at least four years without a major overhaul.

During the workshop, Agents and Leaders were divided into two groups—those that had not attended a clinic before and those who had attended one or more in the past. New Leaders and Agents studied workbooks and care of tractors while those having had this training at previous clinics studied advanced stages such as farm equipment, its use, attachments, etc.

Hanchey Logue, State 4-H Leader said that more than 65,000 tractors are being operated by 4-H'ers and adult farmers throughout Alabama. And that's not all. Logue also brought to light the fact that this state ranks second in the nation with more than 5,000 4-H Club boys projects.

The Club leader revealed that the only excuse a farmer has for owning a tractor is to power farm equipment. And its for this reason that leaders attended this clinic—to learn how to use and care for a tractor.

Another thing Logue brought out was the improved tractor maintenance literature being used this year. He says it is much better than that used in past years.

Leaders attending the clinic, upon returning to their respective counties, will organize county clinics and pass on knowledge and techniques of better farm machinery maintenance to 4-H'ers and adults.

Years of Colonial Rule Made Indochina Easy Propaganda Mark, Set Up Communist Victory

By WALTER SHEAD
Washington Correspondent,
National Weekly Newspaper Service.

TO GET at the real crux of what happened and what is happening in Indochina, or in the whole of South Asia for that matter, one must lift a backdrop of centuries of colonial rule and exploitation of peoples and resources by the western powers.

The civil war against the French which started in Vietnam in 1946 was a manifestation of the general unrest among the peoples of South Asia which has resulted; (1) in the independence of India which has been given dominion status by the British; (2) the independence of Indonesia, which won freedom from the Dutch, and (3) self-rule in Burma, though not complete independence from Britain. This sweep of nationalism has won also a measure of self-rule in the federated Malay states.

French Indochina is made up of the two independent kingdoms of Laos and Cambodia, which date back centuries, and Vietnam, which is a federation of the states of Tonkin in the north, of Annam, a former kingdom in the center and the former French colony of Cochinchina in the south, all within the French Union.

Of these three states, Vietnam is the more important with a population of some 23 million. Laos contains 1½ million with about 3½ million in Cambodia. A million or so Chinese live in Vietnam, most of them around Cholon and Saigon in Cochinchina. A large number of Thai and Moi and other tribal people live in the mountains of the central regions. So the total population is around 28 million people alternately squeezed and scattered over 286,000 square miles, an area one-third larger than France, and twice the size of the British Isles.

The Vietnamese have their own language, structure of government, system of education, religion and family patterns. Centuries of infiltration have left the population, however, a tangle of influence, mostly Chinese, in Laos and Cambodia, their culture and traditions are symbolized in magnificent temples and the ruins of Angkor, dating back to Indian inspiration.

The truth of the matter is, that as a result of so many centuries of colonial rule these peoples in south Asia, who seek to revive and reassert their own cultural and historic traditions have been easy prey to the propaganda, the promises of agrarian reform and the help of Russian Communism, and more recently of Red Chinese communism.

Despite the fact that in 1949 France, which has held complete sway over Indochina since 1886, and parts of it since 1858, promised independence to Vietnam, it was comparatively easy for the Moscow trained Red Chinese leader Ho chi Minh to sway the nationalist leaders of the rebellious Vietnamese into accepting aid from Red China in their fight for freedom. A year ago, in July 1953, the French signed a pact with Bao Dai, former emperor of Annam and now chief of state of Vietnam, for complete independence of his country, once a stable government was assured. However the communists were able to prevent any stable government and the French and Vietnamese troops were routed and forced to move out of Hanoi, the capital, leaving the Reds in full control of the northern section of the country.

What happened at Geneva merely made the French defeat official, and more, gained a partition of the country about midway down the narrow neck near the town of Hue. Insofar as the French were concerned, it was a peace at any price for the new French premier, Mr. Mendes France. It was a disastrous defeat for the western powers and another communist victory in the Far East in the continuing battle to keep Communistic imperialism from winning by erosion more territory in that part of the world. It means that approximately 13 million more people in north and central Vietnam are today behind the iron curtain, as a result of the ratification at the Geneva conference in which our country, together with Britain, France, Russia and Red China participated.

The question now arises, will the Chinese Reds and their Moscow allies be content and permit the rest of Indochina to work out their independence from the French? The answer of course, is a well known "No," for the pattern of Communist aggression does not work in that fashion.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles early this year pointed out the danger of any successful communist coupe in Indochina. He said:

"The tragedy would not stop there. If the communist forces won uncontested control over Indochina or any substantial part thereof, they would surely resume the same pattern of aggression against other free peoples in the area. The propagandists of Red China and Russia make it apparent that the purpose is to dominate all of southeast Asia. President Eisenhower himself expressed his concern over possible loss of Indochina to the Reds as one of "transcendent importance."

So the process of erosion will continue. And at this writing it appears it may continue unchecked in the Far East, lest we become involved in a shooting war either unilaterally or with our western allies, against Red China.

In the meantime the fate of the rest of Indochina, of Thailand, of Burma, of Malaya and the rest of the underbelly of the Asian continent hangs in the balance.

(Editor's note: This is the first of four articles relative to the Communist victory in French Indochina and what it will mean to the United States and the rest of the free world. The next article will cover United States policy in the Far East with particular emphasis on Indochina.)

WHAT HAPPENS WHEN WIRING IS AT FAULT

The wiring in most homes, even many relatively new, is inadequate. There may have been enough circuits and the wire may have been sufficient when the house was built, but so fast has been the development of labor-saving and convenience-giving electrical devices that the wiring in most houses cannot carry enough current to properly operate appliances.

"Strangler" plugs are not an answer to the problem. They just make it worse.

THE HOME OF TODAY should be wired to make it possible to use satisfactorily, without strangler plugs, all the following:

- One or more radios or television sets
- Automatic washer and clothes dryer
- Electric range
- Electric water heater
- Ventilating and other fans
- Room air conditioners
- Refrigerators
- Quick freezers
- Improved lighting
- Garbage disposal unit or incinerator
- Coffee makers, toasters, mixers
- Ironer
- Outdoor lighting
- Some electric heating
- Automatic heating equipment
- Electric tools
- Mechanical power work shop
- Sewing machine
- Electric roaster
- Electric razor

Very often radio and television interference is caused by faulty wiring in the home, loose connections typical of "strangler" plugs or frayed cords. Adequate wiring will help eliminate this trouble.

Refrigerator runs all the time and yet doesn't get cold enough? It likely is not getting enough current because of inadequate wiring. This could result in serious damage to the motor.

Window air conditioners just won't do the job they're supposed to if wiring is inadequate; efficiency is greatly reduced and damage may result to the mechanism.

Fuses blow frequently when circuits are overloaded. Misuse of "strangler" plugs similar to this contributes to the trouble. Oversize fuses do not remove the trouble and create a fire hazard.

When electric irons won't get hot enough, chances are that's an indication of inadequate wiring. Another indication is cords burning out frequently.

Toasters fail to toast bread quickly and satisfactorily when wiring is inadequate.

A Plan to Make This Possible In Your Home

Alabama Power Company has worked out a plan with electrical contractors in its service area whereby its customers can finance a partial or complete home re-wiring job over a period of 24 months and have a home as up to date as a brand new one in so far as electric wiring is concerned, so that they may use additional appliances to their hearts' content.

For a booklet describing the plan, mail this coupon or inquire at your nearest, Alabama Power Company office.

POWER!

This is a power conscious age. I wonder just what thoughts go through your mind when I mention the word, POWER? Every person has some concept of power. To some it means the tyranical power of a dictator. To the military man it means man power or fire power. To the manufacturer it means horsepower. And now the world has become aware of even a greater power than heretofore dreamed of—atomic power. There are many other phases of power we could think of, but let's think of the greatest power in all the world: the POWER OF GOD.

While it is one of the potent powers, sad to say it is one of the most unused powers. In fact, it is to many an unknown factor. In the Bible we find many accounts that reveal the power of God. The greatest revelation was in the gift of His only Son to be the Saviour of mankind. His power was seen as Christ opened deaf ears and made blind eyes to see. His power to raise the dead was only to show His great victory when He Himself would break the bands of death that early Easter morning. It takes great machines and a staff of skill ed men and women to produce atomic power, yet the power of God can be released by the prayer of even a child who in faith will call upon Him.

To know God is to come in contact personally with the greatest power this world will ever know. There are many who say they don't believe in God because they can't understand all the facts. Yet these same people will not deny the fact of the atomic bomb, even though they don't completely understand all the facts of nuclear research. Just recently the great new atomic powered submarine, "Nautilus" was launched. Amidst the cheers of 14,000 visitors the world was notified that here was a ship that could go around the world fueled with a piece of uranium no larger than a marble. It is beyond the average mind to figure out how so much power can come from such a small source. However, the scientists say it is so, and on their word we accept it. An aerodynamic research engineer tells us that a little over 1|10th of an ounce of material completely transformed into energy would produce heat or power equivalent to 10,000 tons of coal. It's hard to understand, but on the word of an authority we accept it as an undisputed fact. It's also difficult to believe that an atom bomb could bring such great devestation and death, but we believe it because we have seen the proof in pictures and heard reports over radio and T.V.

Why is it then that so many either completely ignore or reject the Word of God, as we find it recorded in the Bible? Certainly there is proof that the Power of God is a transforming power as we see it take a drunk from the gutter, free him from his sin, and transform him into a person with character and a new purpose to live. This power can take a thief, on the loose or in prison, and in a moment make him a new person as he puts his trust in the Son of God. It is the power of God that can take a person whose life is filled with sorrow, unrest and discontent and instantaneously fill it with peace and satisfaction in Jesus Christ. It is the power that can take the cursing from the lips and put in its place a song which nothing the world can bring.

Whether or not you understand all the details is not the question. Just take personal inventory of yourself right now. Try the power of God and find to your heart's delight life, peace, satisfaction, and forgiveness of sins. Then the greatest power on earth will be working for and in you. That's the power of God, released by your prayer and belief in Jesus Christ.

SCANNING THE NEWS

SOME political observers say that Democratic leaders are no longer as confidant about sweeping House and Senate contests in the general elections as they were a few months ago.

They say that the Democrats feel sure they will win the House but that the Senate is doubtful. The Republicans, whether over-confidant or not, say the Democrats will not get the 50 additional seats they expect in the House.

Republican confidance is based upon the brighter economic picture, continued popularity of Eisenhower, the improved Indochina situation and the fact that farmers are not opposing the Benson flexible price support program as heavily as was expected.

● The outcome of the T.V.A. issue is certain to be an important factor in Congressional elections. The events which led up to the Senate controversy on the matter offered the Democrats opportunity to hammer home their favorite theme; that this is a rich man's administration and that the President is concerned with the problems of the big corporate interests.

The issue arose as a result of the order by President Eisenhower on June 17, directing the Atomic Energy Commission to negotiate a contract with Middle South Utilities, Inc., and the Southern Company, to build a $107 million steam plant at West Memphis, Arkansas, which would feed 600,000 kilowatts of energy into the T.V.A. system, to replace T.V.A. power being provided for the atomic energy plant at Paducah, Kentucky. The Democrats pounced upon this order as the beginning of a Republican attack on public power. They cried that this was class legislation, and another in a series of measures like the offshore oil bill, the divided tax-exemption amendment, and others.

It was argued that the handful of companies which acquired atomic experience fulfilling wartime and defense contracts would obtain a stranglehold on atomic power development.

When the Republicans referred to the Democratic "filibuster" as "obstructionism," the Democrats responded with the retort that the Administration had "wanted" five weeks earlier in the session in fruitless debate on the Bricker amendment and should not expect passage of a measure so important as the atomic energy bill within a matter of hours.

● The documents signed at Geneva recently changed the course of history. They sanction the lapse of the last colonial rule of a Western holding on the Asian continent, with the exception of Malaya. This critical turning point in the cold war brought much of Indochina under Communist rule and left the rest of it open to easy infiltration and domination.

The prestige of Communist China has been greatly increased and the free world now has to find ways to prevent Communist infiltration of Thailand and to associate India, Burma and Indochina with the defense pact.

TRIBUTE PLANNED TO LATE STAR

Hank Williams

Top hillbilly artists of the nation and a crowd of perhaps 100,000 persons are expected in Montgomery Sept. 21, for an unparalled program dedicated to the memory of famed Hank Williams, top composer of country-style tunes, who died early last year at the height of his fame. Former colleagues in the profession who will direct the event are Roy Acuff, Ernest Tubb and Hank Snow.

GO EASY!

There are a few precautions a farmer should think about before building a pond. He must be sure he has a good clay foundation to put his dam on, build his dam out of good clay soil, an dcut a spillway large enough to take care of an extremely large rain.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. M. J. Overson, Mesa, Arizona: I remember over 65 years ago, the Pioneer days of Arizona. We lived in the Northern part of the (then) Territory, in a log house with a dirt roof. It was 30 miles over rough, mountain roads to the nearest small store. We didn't speak of "buying" things then, but when in need of "store" goods, the neighbors got together and decided on someone to go to the "valley" to "trade."

Each family listed their needs, such as sacked grain or potatoes, eggs, butter, cheese, molasses, or maybe a steer or a few sheep.

Those days shoes were shipped to the stores in very large boxes made of lumber, and dozens of pairs were put in without any wrapping. Pairs were fastened together by boring a small hole in the back of each shoe and putting a stout string through with a large knot on the inside. They were made of leather, often with a brass cap across the toe, and lasted well, tho' so different from the soft, pliable ones we have now.

We washed, carded, spun and dyed our yarn, and knit our socks and stockings for winter, and mostly went barefoot in summer.

The children helped with the work. The girls were taught to cook, do housework, tend the children, sew and knit, and the boys helped with the farm work and stock. We had no problem of juvenile delinquency, but were a busy, happy, friendly community.

BUYING NEW MATERIAL FOR SCHOOL WARDROBES

Auburn, Ala.—Homemakers are busy stocking up the children's wardrobes.

And Kathleen Thompson, API Extension clothing specialist, says carefully planning before buying material means less work and lower cost for clothing care. For example, she points out that younger children are hard on their clothes, thus washable materials are ideal and definitely more economical.

The specialist explains that many woolens are being chemically treated and blended with man-made fibers to make them washable. And she says this puts them in the easy-to-care-for category. "Then too," asserts the home leader, "most transitional and winter cottons are washable. And never before has there been such as good selection of these materials on the market."

Another point to keep in mind while buying cloth, advises the specialist, is wrinkle resistance and body of the material. Before buying, grasp a corner of the cloth and squeeze to see how well it resists wrinkling. Then lift and handle a single thickness to observe its body and draping quality.

Another thing to remember is that the material should be comfortable. Some novelty fabrics with special finishes are unpleasant to tender skin.

Always read the label on each piece of material, continues Miss Thompson to find out the characteristics, quality, and cleaning instructions. Ask for this label for future reference.

"Don't forget," concludes the clothing expert, "in many cases a garment can be made out of the same material at home for about one-third the price of a readymade outfit."

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

All business people have problems, even the operators of so small an enterprise as a sidewalk lemonade stand.

The seven-year-old, with her five-year-old brother and a neighbor's boy of the same age, set up a lemonade stand in front of the house the other morning. It was a hot, sultry day and virtually everybody who passed was a potential customer. The pile of nickels grew, but the supply of paper cups dwindled down to nothing.

The manager of the stand looked thoughtfully at her two assistants. Then she mused aloud:

"Which one of you can I trust to take charge and not to put your fingers in the lemonade while I go get some more cups?"

Such problems!

The lemonade was pink that day, which may account for its popularity. Anyhow, that's the theory of the neighbor around the corner, the one with more imagination than money.

This neighbor is a great believer in using color to perk up food. For instance, she adds a drop of food coloring to her meringue before she spreads it over her pie.

The colored meringue makes even the plainest pie look like party food," she says.

Colored meringue on pies is all right, but somehow I can't get enthusiastic about another of this neighbor's colorful ideas: she uses tomato juice instead of milk in her biscuit dough to brighten the finished product.

Now I keep wondering if she ever serves her family mounds of blue mashed potatoes!

When this neighbor makes fruit pies, she adds two teaspoons of grated lemon or orange rind (uncolored) to the pastry dough, giving it a tart flavor that's delightful with the fruit.

Her imagination helps this neighbor turn plain cookies into something special by pressing designs on them with the bottoms of fancy salt shakers and ash trays.

She puts the balls of dough on a greased cookie sheet, dips the bottom of the salt shaker in flour and presses it down on top of each ball, flattening the ball and leaving a fancy imprint. For variety, she uses several different designs on each batch of cookies she bakes. The finished products look something like the cookies made with a cooky press, but they're quicker and simpler to do.

It was this neighbor who taught me how to put a jiffy frosting on a cake.

When she takes her plain cake from the oven, she puts several chocolate colored peppermint patties on top. As the heat from the cake melts the candy, she spreads it over the cake. The resulting chocolate-peppermint frosting is delicious!

Good News For Veterans

According to information furnished by Bob Fullen, veterans service officer, State Department of Veterans Affairs, direct loans from the Veterans Administration for the purpose of building homes will once again be available to veterans of World War II and the Korean conflict.

The measure of extending for one more year the direct loan program has been approved by the House of Representatives and the Senate. The sum of 150 million dollars has been made available to those veterans who are unable to get regular GI loans from private sources.

Those veterans who already applied for direct loans, but were unable to get one on account of no money being available after June 30th, this year, will probably be given first chance at the funds which will start coming in the regional offices of the veterans administration in Montgomery in the near future.

According to information furnished us, Fullen said, the Montgomery office already has about 1700 applications on hand. We are told, by reliable authority, that if you make your application for a direct loan now, you will have a waiting period of from six to eight months before the money may be available to you. All applications are treated on a first-come-first-served basis. If you're planning on building a home at some time in the future, I suggest that you contact your nearest veterans service officer of the department of Veterans Affairs and have him put your name on the waiting list. If and when the money becomes available to you, of course you're under no obligation to take it.

To the disabled veterans who are drawing compensation, I am happy to report a bill to increase your benefits has passed the House of Representatives and Senate and is now on its way to the President for his signature. There seems to be no doubt about the President signing the bill, as it is passed, as he recommend it's passage. Although the various veteran organizations fought for an increase of 10 percent only 5 percent increase was granted in this bill. They felt that a half loaf was better than no increase at all, and compromised accordingly.

Here is still further good news for the Korean veterans who were discharged before August 20, 1952. The Congress has passed and sent to the President a bill calling for one year extension of the original two-year discharge date. This means that Korean veterans who for one reason or another could not enter school or training before the two-year delimiting date of August 20, have been given an additional year to take advantage of schooling or training benefits.

PLAY SOME TOO

The saying "a change is as good as a rest" is a fact. This is particularly true of the person who loves his job and, in fact, is so fond of it that he doesn't want to be away from it, even for a time.

Everyone needs a vacation because, unconsciously or not, everyone gets tired of doing the same thing, no matter how happy one is in the accomplishment, and it is wise to remember that sameness can produce staleness.

A vacation need not be expensive. One does not even need to go away. A vacation is just taking time out to do many of the things that are not included in the ordinary working day. Getting away from the job and carrying on these different activities, if not carried to excess, is a form of recreation that puts a new zest and vitality in returning to the work-a-day chores.

Children for example, grow tired of school life. The routine of classes and study have a palling effect on the child which shows in the wild cry of "school's out" on the last day of the school year. In the adult, there is pleasant excitement in planning for vacation, and the first day away from office routine is every bit as satisfying as the child's joy that school is out.

So plan your change and plan it with all the enthusiasm of a young heart. Bear in mind, however, that a wise head will really keep your vacation a happy time for yourself and those for whom you are responsible.

Plan your vacation as carefully as you would any other constructive program. If, on the return to your routine, you feel it necessary to catch up on sleep and rest, then your leisure time has been misspent. If, on the other hand, you return to your job, or your child to his school room, with a new zest, you have accomplished the true purpose of a vacation

Union officers sent throughout the state to administer the oath of allegiance to be taken by eligible Alabamians at the end of the War Between the States found that ex-Confederates had little interest in taking the oath Only about 50,000 took it. They were the only ones eligible to participate in setting up the new government.

CONTROL FOREST FIRES FOR BIGGER PROFITS

Tree growers can't afford forest fires. Tests started at the API Experiment Station in 1925 show that woodlands burned annually produce only about one-fourth as much timber as those protected from fire.

API Extension Forester I. R. Martin says that records kept on a three-acre forestry plot where one-third of the area was protected from fire, one-third burned every five years, and one-third burned annually show that even occasional fires reduce timber growth. According to Martin, since the experiment was started the acre protected from fire produced 17.4 cords of pulpwood and 146 board feet of saw logs; the acre burned every five years produced 6.3 cords of pulpwood, and the acre burned annually produced only 4.3 cords of pulpwood during the 29-year period.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Congress passed a number of important measures before adjourning sine die last Friday.

The far mbill was finally approved after a House-Senate conference committee agreed to leave dairy price suports at 75 percent of parity. The two-price wheat plan of the House and the grazing rights provision of the Senate were discarded however. The bill in its final form sets price supports on wheat, corn, cotton, peanuts and rice at 82½ to 90 percent of parity during 1955.

The House approved the temporary $6 billion increase in the public debt limit that had been pased earlier by the Senate. Under the terms of this legislation, the ceiling can rise to $281 billion but will have to go beck to the present $275 billion by next June 30.

A compromise atomic energy bill was approved and sent to the President last Tuesday after it had twice been to a House-Senate conference committee. The bill is designated to permit the United States to share its atimic information more widely with its miltary alles and to encourage participation by private industry in the atomic energy program.

Both the House and Senate passed a compromise $2.8 billion foreign aid appropriation bill for fiscal 1955. The use of $2.4 billion of previously appropriated but unspent funds was authorized in this measure. Congressional action was also completed on a billion-dollar rivers and harbors authorization bill.

After several days of legislative hassle, the House and Senate both passed a revised "anti-commuist" bill. This measure does not make communist party membership a crime, but it does remove the party's legal rights and privileges and imposes stiff penalties on members of "communist action" groups who do not register under the Subversive Activities Control Act.

On the day of adjournment the House and Senate agreed on a compromise social security revision bill which extends coverage to nearly 10 million additional individuals. The bill increases benefit payments for those who retire at 65 and it permits retired persons to e to $1200 a year without losing social security benefits. The bill also reduces from 75 to age limit at which a retired may earn any amount and sti a pension.

A measure providing a 5 increase for postal employe classified federal workers a ceived. final approval on day of teh session. The Adm tion-backed postal rate provision was not included final bill. The measure pro minimum raise for classifie ers of $170 and a maximum Postal employees will rece minimum and $440 aximum es. Last Week's "Mystery Farm" Identified As

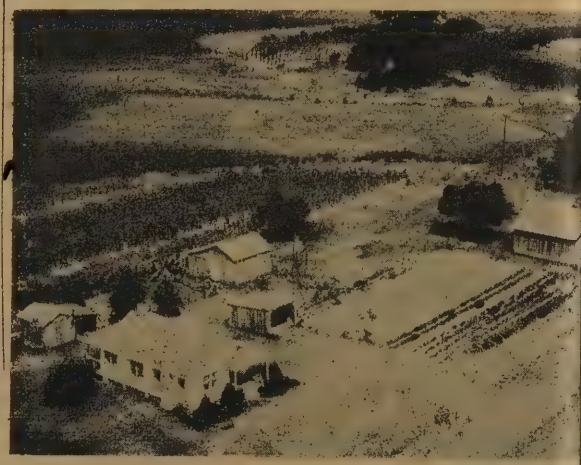
The L. C. LECROY Farm



Last week's contest was unusual due to the fact that all who guessed and there were a good many, guessed the right farm. Seems everyone is pretty familiar with Mr. Lecroy and his farm.

The Lecroy farm has been owned and operated by L. C. for 5 years, before that his father owned it for 32 years. Mr. Lecroy does not have time to work his farm due to the work he does with the Highway Department. He is a foreman with them. He only has time to plant row crops for his own use.

His family consists of his wife, Pauline, whom he married in 1930, and two children, James Alton, who is serving in the Navy aboard the USS Helena, and Mrs. Gene Knight who lives on Rt. 1 Maplesville. Mrs. Knight has one daughter which makes Mr. Lecroy a grandpappy and probably makes him feel older, too.

He made many improvements on his farm last year and says tends to make more next ye has installed gas and electri ers and stoves and expects a bath to his home someti the near future.

If you'd care to look o farm it is located nine mile of Clanton just off highway

HOWARD COLLEGE EXTENSION SCHOOL BEGINS SEPTEMBER 14

The Howard College Extension Division for Christian Training will begin the Fall Term here at the First Baptist church, Clanton, on Tuesday night September 14, at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. and Mrs. Hutchinson will be the Class Instructors. There will be only two periods of about fifty minutes each. However, three courses will be offered as heretofore, but the first two will be taught parallel.

Mrs. Hutchinson will teach the Sunday School preview the first period, and Dr. Hutchinson will instruct the class in an exegetical study of the Gospel of John. And, for the second period, Dr. Hutchinson will teach a course on "The Baptist and other Denominations." Mrs. Hutchinson is a real good teacher, and the class enjoys her presentations of the preview of the Sunday School lessons. You just cannot afford to miss it, especially if you are a teacher or plan to teach. Dr. Hutchinson has made a close study of other Denominations and is fully capable of sharing some very important things with his class. However, the principle instructions in this class will deal with the fundamental doctrines of the Baptists along with a brief historical sketch and a summary of the doctrines of other major denominations of the south. You will surely appreciate this period also because of our great need for most helpful information just here. Just think: we will have 17 nights of good rich study from the above sources.

Mrs. Hutchinson will continue her class of the Sunday School Preview right on through the second Semester which begins in January. Dr. Hutchinson will instruct his class the same period (Parallel) on the subject: "Church Administration." This subject of course, will deal with administering a Baptist Church. This will surely be a most helpful study that will be a blessing to all of us. Then, for the last period of the second Semester, Dr. Hutchinson will take up the Epistles of John and Jude which will be both inspiring and informative.

Now, look the matter over carefully and you will readily see that we have in store awaiting for us some very thrilling study for both Semesters. It would be fine if you or some one would discuss the matter in your church and explain to them something of the great privileges offered through this Extension Division for Christian Training.

The courses are only $4.50 each and a small registration fee of $2.00. Just think of the privilege of taking a college course right at home for eleven dollars per Semester plus books. And, furthermore you can get college credit if you have finished High School and furnish records of same. Or, you can study for Certificate credit and after working out 24 Semester hours in the school, you can finish with the group at Howard. If you desire to attend and pay the regular tuition you can do so without any credit or examination whatsoever. However, I think that is fine to take the courses for credit, but you can take your choice.

The writer is grateful for the privilege of attending one of the very first Extension School sponsored by Howard College back in 1947. There was an enrollment of 600 the first year. 881 in '48; 1099 in '49; 1105 in '50; 1400 in '51; 1665 in '52; 2364 in '53 and 2304 in 1954. There will be about 50 Centers that will open this fall all over Alabama. More than 600 ministers attended the last term.

Make your plans to be with us on the very first night at the First Baptist Church, Clanton, at 7:00 o'clock p.m. September 14.

NEW CIRCULAR "WHAT KIND OF HOGS"

Perhaps no one phase of market hog production has been getting more "across-the-board" attention in the big corn-hog states than this matter of meat-type.

Just off the press, reports API Extension Swine Specialist G. B. Phillips, is the Extension circular 370 (revised), "What Kind of Hogs?" This circular pictures and describes the various types of hogs undesirable to grow, such as Piney-woods rooters, cob-rollers, and hamless wonders. It also emphasizes production of the new meat type model.

Certain people have been pushing stringy, underfed, "hungry" hogs as the right type. Along with meatiness, growers must always consider prolificacy, rate and cost of gain. Phillips says, "We think the meat-type shown in the revised phamphlet is the right type."

IF YOU ARE BUILDING A HOME
1. Remember the advantages of DRY lumber. If uncertain have the lumber checked on the job site.
II. Deal only with reputable contractors and reliable lumber dealers.
IF YOU ARE BUYING A NEWLY BUILT HOME
3. Request the specifications for the job to see if properly seasoned lumber was called for—and used.
IF YOU MAKE UP THE SPECIFICATIONS
4. Specify the following: For framing and sheathing — 19% maximum moisture content; for finish, woodwork and flooring—12% moisture content.
5. If unable to judge lumber grades or the condition of seasoning, require that lumber be certified with a grade-mark of a recognized inspection agency, or have it competently inspected when it is delivered.
IF THE JOB CALLS FOR BIG DELIVERIES
6. When there is a constant flow of incoming lumber, it is wise to employ qualified graders to check each delivery before unloading. Electrical instruments known as moisture registers or meters are now commercially available for testing lumber to determine the moisture of each piece.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Julia C. Barth, Pawpaw, Illinois: I remember the rural school of 75 years ago—a rectangular building, in need of paint outside and in. It was heated by a pot-bellied stove in the front of the room — the pipe extending to chimneys in the rear.

There were windows on two sides and at the rear of the room, no curtains, nor shades of any sort.

The school year was seven months: September and October, school; November, vacation. December, January and February, school; March and April, vacation. May and June, school, July and August, vacation.

The enrollment was from five to 20 ranging in age from six years to 20 years. The "big boys" from 14 years up attended school only in winter, helping on the farms the rest of the year.

The teacher was generally a young lady who had been able to pass a written examination in the 3 R's. No teacher of rural schools had any preparation — usually not even a few months of high school, but we got along nicely and many fine men and women recall their school days with a certain amount of pleasure.

The teacher received $25 per month and did her own janitor work.

From E. E. Meredith, Fairmont, West Virginia: Do you remember when poor land was described as not even being able "to raise an umbrella?"

When no one thought of a girl having money of her own until she married?

When "not on your tin-type" was a common expression?

When people were struck with horror when the livery barn caught fire?

Noblemen by Divine Appointment

"Now these (of Berea) were more noble than those of Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, examining the Scriptures daily, whether these things were so." Acts 17:11.

In that statement we got an inkling of what genuine nobility is; that is, the type of nobility that merits divine commendation. Its mark is not that of birth or of human rank, but of a determination to know the will of God, and to put that knowledge into practice. Such a person is the real nobleman, whether he dwells in palatial hall or in a peasant's hut.

"They received the word with all readiness of mind." That was said of the Bereans—and of the Gospel. Like pilgrims in the night, the Bereans scaled their testimony upon their minds, and passed on. The Bible however, is still here—and to stay. There is no doubt of that. In the eye of the sales-manager, it is more here than ever, if you will pardon an Irishman's way of putting it. From the year (1449) that John Gutenburg started his first printing press until now, the Bible (the first book from John's modest movable type coitraption) has enjoyed an increasing circulation, is now admittedly the world's best seller, and has been so for two genegations. What other book can be read in nine hundred languages? None! In the Book of Revelations it is pictured as the Tree of Life, with the amazing prediction, "And the leaves of the trees are for the healing of the nations."

All that has been written in the preceding paragraph is historically true, every word of it. And yet some demonic power seems to be clogging the wheels of the agencies appointed for applying this "Balm of Gilead" to the needs of the peoples of the earth. A serious situation—one that must give us pause. The answer? In the opinion of this writer, it is found in the tribute paid to the people of Berea. Today Berea would be called a back-woods town. It was off the main arteries of travel and traffic. But noble people they were! What was the mark of their nobility? They took the word of God seriously. Therein lay their testimony which comes to our ears even at this late day. Diligent and intelligent students, they were. Are we?

The Berean spirit is needed in our churches right now, this year, this week. Right glibly do we proclaim that we believe the Word. Actually, do we know what we are talking about? We may know something about the Bible, but do we know the Bible? Despite the impressive fact that it is still the best seller, is it the Living Word to our churches? One more remark, if you please. The Bible exerts less influence in the "Sweet land of liberty," of which we sing with such gusto, that it did a half century ago. Ask the FBI for a confirmation of that statement. The remedy for an appalling moral situation? Read again Acts 17:11, and wipe the dust off your Bible. You mothers and fathers may have to get one of the children to find the place for you. But go ahead anyway. And may you be numbered among the nobility that meets divine approval.

my PET PEEVE by Mike Bennett

MY WIFE has a theory about giving gifts. She says you should always give something that you know the recipient would like to have, but would never own unless someone presented it to them as a gift.

I must say that I agree wholeheartedly with this idea. Yet I must raise a strong point of objection. Just how does one go about the matter of deciding what the object is that another person is anxious to have, yet wouldn't spend money to get?

Within the past few months, having observed Father's Day, a birthday and a wedding anniversary, I have been greatly enlightened to discover that I once had secret ambitions to own (1) a portable outdoor grill; (2) a set of lawn chairs; and (3) a pair of bright blue walking shorts.

Now I am confused. Would I have longed for a portable grill had I known that there would be a family rule that no one else in the family would cook on it?

Did I realize how much trouble lawn chairs really are? One must lug them in and out of the garage twice a day to protect them from the weather and as often as four times a day should it cloud up and look like rain.

And walking shorts? In Florida, California, New York City or Chicago, maybe, but not in the old home town. Take one step out of the backyard with those knees showing, mister, I just dare you!

Taking everything into consideration, however, I guess the little woman is rather smart. Cooking outside the way I do three or four nights a week would get awful boring if I couldn't wear shorts to keep cool.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Lets make September a big advertising month. You can bring big business to Clanton and to Chilton county by advertising regularly in your community newspapers.

Lawrence Calfee and the Mrs. has a baby girl. She was born Monday evening and the parents are as proud as puppets. We congratulate them both and are glad to know that Mother and daughter are doing just fine. Lawrence is "right-hand-man" at Clanton Motors, Inc.

Congratulations to Mrs. Mary (H. G.) Heflin on being chosen by the Birmingham News as one of Alabama's Gracious Ladies in last week's issue. Mary Heflin has meant a lot to Clanton and Chilton County and richly deserves the honor.

Ruth Hicks tells us of pop corn that popped in the field of E. T. Scott of Maplesville, Rt. 2, during the recent heat wave. Several years ago George McCain brought several ears of corn with popped kernels to the News office for display. When corn pops in the field its getting pretty hot.

The mother was not pleased at all with the learning her little boy was getting at school so she wrote the teacher and told her so. Among other things she told the teacher that the boy had learned nothing but how to swear and if that was all he was going to learn she would keep him home and teach him herself.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones wants a rumor spiked that our water supply at Yellow Leaf Creek is running short. He says there is plenty of water in the creek that the only trouble is our capacity for filtering the water is inadequate. That, we believe, is going to be taken care of by the present Mayor and City Councilmen.

Cecil Ramsey tells us that several of the chain stores will be closed all day Labor Day which is next Monday. That means that you will need do more shopping than is usual on Saturday. According to reports the Atlantic & Pacific, Piggly Wiggly, Hills and the Jitney Jungle will all be closed and the empoyees enjoying the holiday.

Check your subscription date by your name on this newspaper. If you are "past due" you can send us $2.00 for one year from Sept. 1st, 1954 or for an extra dollar we will send you the Chilton County News for two whole years. It's a bargain. Better send your subscription today to insure getting next weeks issue.

ATHENS COLLEGE AND ADULT EDUCATION

Athens College is located in a most strategic place to serve adults to meet their educational needs. At present, the College has 153 students who are adults and not recent high school graduates. This group includes 55 from the leading industries of the Valley such as Redstone Arsenal, Chemstrand Corporation, Goodyear Manufacturing Company, Worthington Corporation, and other smaller industries.

There are 26 teachers who are working to complete their undergraduate preperation.

Other vocational groups include students in business, engineering, agriculture, secretarial, accounting, chemistry, drafting, pre-law, premedicine, pre-architecture, and in the last two quarters, there were 14 ministers continuing their preperation. Others are doctors' assistants, nurses, and a sizeable group preparing for further post-graduate study elsewhere.

The College provides classes two nights a week so that adults who are employed can take part-time work, and offers work directed to the needs of these employed persons.

Another service provided these adults is counseling and advice as to their educational needs, vocational preparation, facilities elsewhere for graduate and professional study.

A recent study brought to light the records of over 250 Athens College graduates who did postgraduate study elsewhere, and the record is not only interesting, but also very significant as to the quality of the work many other undergraduate colleges.

It should be remembered also that Athens College has an agreement with Alabama Polytechnic Institute whereby students receive credit there for work done at Athens College, and each student can know in advance just what courses to take at Athens College to transfer to API.

Commerce Dept. Offers Business Men New Service On Sale

Business men of Chilton County and others interested in buying surplus Federal property have been provided a new service for obtaining information on such sales more quickly and easily.

Information has been received from Merrill C. Lofton, manager of the U. S. Department of Commerce office in Atlanta, that beginning immediately that agency will carry lists of the property in its daily publication showing goods and services wanted by the government and contracts being currently awarded, which has been distributed for the past several years.

The publication is available at all Department of Commerce field offices and cooperating local Chamber of Commerce offices in Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee and North Carolina.

"The action we are taking was in response to numerous requests from business men for a centralized source of information on the millions of dollars worth of surplus property being offered for sale by the government," Mr. Lofton said. "Also, it was in recognition by the agencies involved of the necessity for a wider dissemnation of information on surplus property disposal, thereby increasing the monetary return to the government from such sales."

Business men of Chilton County were invited by Mr. Lofton to communicate with the Department of Commerce field office, 336 Peachtree-Seventh Street Building, in Atlanta, for further information regarding the new program.

Schools Still Borrowing to Get Started

Montgomery, Ala.—The Alabama Schools Corporation has made arrangements to borrow $12,000,000 to pay initial expenses of the 1954-55 school year.

The money will be used to pay bills that will come due before revenues from taxes earmarked for education start pouring into the State Treasury during the new fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

State Finance Director D. W. Hodo, a member of the three-man corporation, said the money is being borrowed from a group of banks headed by the First National Bank of Birmingham.

This will not mark the first time the state has had to borrow money to get a new school year under way. That has been happening for several years.

Last year the corporation borrowed $9,000,000, the last of which was repaid July 31. The final payment was $2,000,000.

All during this administration the Alabama Schools Corporation has had to go to private lending agencies to borrow the money. For some years prior to that the corporation had been borrowing what was necessary out of the surplus in the Alabama Special Educational Trust Fund.

The 1949 Legislature, however, appropriated that surplus (approximately $16,000,000) for the education system's current operating expenses for the 1949-50 and 1950-51 fiscal years and the corporation then had to turn to private lending agencies.

Hodo said that the $12,000,000 being borrowed this year is at an interest rate of 1.375 per cent. Interest rates on the $9,000,000 borrowed nearly a year ago was 2 per cent. Thus, he said, the state will save $48,539 in interest on the upcoming loan because of the cheaper rate.

Olin Williams Changes Row Crops To Sod In 4 Years

Excerpt From Progressive Farmer Magazine)

Mr. Alexander Nunn
Editor, Georgia-Alabama-Florida Edition

Dear Alex:

I had a very interesting visit with Olin Williams of Chilton County Ala., yesterday. You will be interested in what he has done and is doing. He's a small farmer doing big farming. Before 1949, he was strictly a row-crop farmer. Now the only row crops he has on his 90-acre farm are in the garden.

He told me that before 1949 he and his family couldn't handle their 70 acres of open land in row crops (cotton, corn, and berries.) He had to rent out about 20 to 25 acres. "And that's not all," he said, "we had to hire about half of our cotton picked and nearly all of our berries picked. In all, we spent about $500 a year for outside help."

Well, you may not believe it, but now he and his family (mostly his 11-year-old boy) are operating the entire farm. Then, too, he is renting 50 acres of cornland from a neighbor. "We are having to spend very little for outside help," he added. "We hire a little labor to help us clean fertilizer from some of our neighbors' broiler houses. Then we hire some help to get our corn in, but that's about all, nothing like we used to."

Another interesting thing he told me was about his income, how it had changed with his farming, and for the better, too. He said his income tax returns for the five years before 1949 showed his average gross income was $3,600 to $3,700 a year. By last year it had jumped to $9,000. And a higher per cent of this is net income now than it was in his row-crop days.

He has been interested in conservation farming for a long time. With the help of Olin Fields, his county SCS technician, he did a good job with his row-crop farming. He developed a complete water disposal system on the farm, including permanent meadow outlets and an up-to-the minute terracing system. He did such a good job that in 1946 he was made soil conservation district supervisor representing Chilton County. His interest grew in conservation farming.

Guess you are wondering what happened that changed his farming so much. Well, I asked him that very question. He worked hard toward developing the farm, trying to make it a paying enterprise. But he was not getting ahead—he was not satisfied. So, he decided to make some changes.

Here are the reasons he gave me for changing:

"First, I've always wanted some cows," he said. "Even as a child I enjoyed fooling with cows.

"Second, we needed more income. We had five children (two girls and three boys) coming along and about ready to start finishing high school. We wanted them to have a better chance than we had. We wanted to send them to college. We couldn't do that on our row-crop income.

"Third, we felt we needed a steady income, something coming in every month.

"Fourth, with the best conservation farming we could do, we still got more erosion than we wanted. I wanted to see our land tied down."

Well, Alex, in May 1949 he started milking three cows and selling Grade B milk. Then things began to happen. He began to develop pastures and do fencing. By September 1951 he was milking nine cows. He checked on the possibilities of changing to Grade A production. It looked good. He decided to change. Since then he has been building pastures and his small herd. Now he is milking 24 cows. This is near his goal of 25 milking cows the year-round.

He says this does not mean he is near his production goal. From here on he plans to increase quality and production in the herd and improve pastures. This is the first year he has had a chance to begin culling low producers. He is getting some registered blood in his herd. He has a registered bull that topped the county show last year.

In further building he plans to select his five best heifers and grow them out each year. (He has a good calf pasture set aside for this purpose.) This will let him cull out his live low-producing cows every year or replace his herd every five or six years, if necessary.

On The Ball--

Football Season Gets Under Way Soon

With the opening of school and the coming of somewhat cooler weather attention is turned toward the all time favorite game . . . football. Coaches over the County will not reveal the extent of their power as far as their teams go this year. They claim it's way too early to make any predictions as to what they'll have in their favor.

The only two games acknowledged with the information we have gathered is the Maplesville "Red Devils," under the coaching of J. L. Kelley, will have a game with Orrville on Sept. 10 at Orrville. The Chilton County "Tigers" will stage their first game of the season with Maplesville on Sept. 17, and will play it at the local park. Time for both games will be announced later.

The first game of the season is always a good one because it gives you a chance to make some predictions of your own. The schools request that the public support the teams in every way possible so that a football team will be assured in the coming years. A team without the support of the public does not have the right spirit to make the game what it should be and too, cannot last long without financial support of the patrons.

Go to all the games this year, or at least the home games and next year you'll be a real football fan. See if your team doesn't respond more ambitiously with the full support of the people, when they know they are playing for results rather than excuses.

Schedules for the Maplesville team and the Chilton County High team are below.

Chilton's Drought Crisis Still Not Worked Out

By Bob Tucker

Since the talk Gov. Persons had with the two high officials, R. S. McLeish and K. L. Scott there has been no indication of Chilton getting aid due to the severe drought conditions we are having here.

"There is hope," he says, "but nothing is in sight yet." They turned down the plea before saying that the drought in this area was "spotty" meaning that it was not an overall condition, but a widespread local one.

It is true that the drought is worse in some "spots" of Alabama than in others, but that shouldn't deprive those in the really bad areas from receiving government help.

The Gov. made the plea to get the recognition of a disaster area so that Chilton County farmers and others like them could receive low cost feed and grain that was lost to a certain extent, in this year's crop.

It was stated that further checks would be made, indicating we hope that chances were favorable, and that prompt action would be taken on the renewed request.

The peach and strawberry crops were short this season and now indications are that cotton won't quite come up to capacity production this year. These indications seem to show that Chilton is indeed in the upper brackets of needing help. If you asked the man who grows it he would probably tell you right quick that the drought has effected his crop considerably and that he would appreciate a little consideration on the part of the government.

We, along with the Gov., urge the immediate action of the aid to Chilton farmers and will be glad to see that prompt action is taken.

WATCH FOR THE STICKER

The City garbage department, through Mr. Sloan, has notified the Mayor that all garbage cans in the city that have become unfit for use will be marked the sticker condemning the cans.

The Mayor wishes to cooperate in every way with the Health Department and has instructed the garbage men to pick up all such cans and cart them away to the city dump. Now if you go out to put your garbage in a can that had been marked by the Health Department with a sticker, and said can is among the missing, you will know what happened to it. It rests at the city dump.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones stated Monday that he requested the cooperation of all the housewives in keeping their garbage in well kept, closed, containers so as to lessen the chance of spreading disease as much as is possible.

BOY SCOUTS ON THE JOB

No matter what you say, we know you feel as we do about the recent Polio Emergency Fund Drive.

We feel that the boy scouts of Chilton County are due unprecedented credit for the work they accomplished for the crippled children. They were a nuisance at times, as you've probably said, but sometimes it takes that to do a job right, and nobody can say they didn't do a fine job. Any number of times and on different days the same little boy came up to me and asked for a contribution, but they were out to do their best and it showed in the response they received from their persistence.

We know there were others in the march that deserve due credit for their efforts. Organizations all over the County got out and worked, but we say, and we think there will be no disagreements, that the Boy Scouts deserve all due considerations for their "above and beyond the call of duty" efforts in a worthwhile cause.

IT STINKS"

It has been suggested, but not recommended that something be done about the sewerage or whatever it might be out on the airport road. It has been that way for much too long now and the reason nothing has been did is because it was thought that something would be done about it sooner. It hasn't been done. It may have been intended or planned, but it hasn't been done.

It is not of as much significance to us who do not patronize that particular neighborhood as it is to those who live around there. Though it does not involve us directly it does indirectly in that it is not the most healthy atmosphere there is. Not only is it the most unhealthy atmosphere, but it is unsightly, and to put it mildly, it stinks.

We hope something can and will be done about it sometime soon. We know it is not neglect of the city or county, but it could be an oversight. We're only recommending that something be done about it before we have an epidemic or something nearly as bad; and as we said, it stinks.

COUNTY FAIR TIME

The Fair time is here again. The 1954 Chilton County Fair is to be held September 6-11 at the Clanton Airport. This year's edition of the fair will include all of the previous years entertainments plus . . .

There will be exhibits of all kinds; agricultural, industrial, and local businesses. There will be entertainment for all including a carnival. Food and refreshment stands will be throughout the grounds. If you're there it will be that much more interesting.

The Chilton County Dairy Maid contest will also be an added feature of this year's fair. Quite a few young ladies have entered the contest and the winner of the county contest will contend for the State Dairy Maid title.

It's going to be fun this year; you'll be sorry if you miss it.

It's Your Life...

Do You Want It??

ARE YOU GOING TO DIE THIS WEEK-END UNNECESSARILY?

By BOB TUCKER

Labor day with all its fun and "get away from the grindstone" pleasures is unfortunately also the time when 13 Alabama folks will die in auto accidents between tomorrow (Friday at 6:00 o'clock) and midnight Monday. Seems there is nothing, not even this kind of warning, that will slow folks down. The only thing that will is an accident.

3440 of you people will suffer broken bones and injuries gotten over not to quickly and forgotten even slower. The Safety Council says that many will live through it all. They'll still be torn and mutilated, all unnecessariiy.

Nearly 1400 traffic accidents . . . why should you have to be in one of them? Drive carefully, obey the rules, regard the other fellow. Respect the power of the vehicle you are driving and the one the other fellows are driving and you will live to see another Labor Day. Disregard the warnings, drive like your life depended on getting there . . . and it will.

There will be one death every six hours, one injury every 14 minutes, an accident every 3 minutes. It isn't at all necessary for us to kill each other. There are too many natural deaths without adding to the list one that is easily preventable.

Look at it this way. Just what would happen if you were responsible for taking a man or woman or especially a little child's life. Even if you weren't guilty in the eyes of the law you'd never be the same happy person. And it would all have been preventable with a little effort, or thinking, or courtesy on your part.

Your life and hundreds of others will be in your hands this weekend, why take a chance with someone's life? Take it easy, and get where you're going whole, happy, and maybe just a little later . . . but at least you'll get there, and so will the other fella.

Things we -SEE- and Hear

by "Tuck"

Failed to mention, in our fire department story the other day, the fact that we have some members on the force who get little recognition and less pay than do the members who don't get much themselves.

The folks we're speaking of are those volunteer volunteers who direct traffic when a fire alrm is sounded. Joe Smith and his boys up at the north end of town help out quite effectively when a truck comes their way. It's possible they might ,even save one of the firemen someday.

Best one we've heard in a long time came to us the other day. Seems the old gentleman, (and this is supposed to be on the level) was in the field plowing and came all the way up to the house. Asked his wife what it was burning. She looked around, and came to find out it was him. He had come all the way from the field to the house to see what was on fire and it was his pocket. He'd put his pipe in it and set himself on fire. That's a hot one, isn't it?

There aughta be a law! Little cousin was riding a pony the other day. He had a saddle on him and she said, "I'm holding on to this stick in the horse's back." Must be rough on the pore ole critter to drive stakes in his back just to hold on to.

Good friend Harold Parr was in to see us the other day and he's headed for Japan. Harold's in the Quartermaster Corps and says he likes it fine. He has a little better than a year to go in the service and says he might just re-enlist when he gets out. He also says he'll wave to us when he leaves meaning tha we'd have to be over there and Harold, I can think of a few places I'd rather be. Anyhow we wish you luck and we'll see you when you get back; here, preferably.

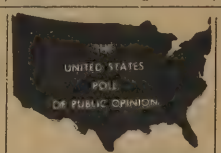
Heard the swimming pool called a lot of things, but this is a new one, especially since it is supposed to be reasonably modern. Heard Richard Easterling say the other day that he was going to work. When his old man asked him where he says, "At the wash hole." That's the high brow expression for swimming pool. I guess when you get right down to it though that's what it is. We're sorry to see it close up so early, but we understand that the management had to go back to school. See kids, you aren't the only ones.

The best way to win an argument is not to say anything.

Had the inside of the plant covered with white paint the other day and darned if it isn't so bright now our eyes stay blood-shot half the time. Don't even need lights any more. Might need glasses before long, though.

Our loyal and hard-working associate here at the News plant, Kenneth Patterson, decided the other day that he would do as so many others are and purchase himself an automobile. Now he says he's having trouble with the switch. The old voice of experience in this case can tell him right now he'll have other troubles before he gets it paid for. Not being a killjoy, I wouldn't be without one myself . . . a car not a killjoy.

We'll just have to congratulate the old boy. Maurice Maddox has got hisself hitched. By that we mean the boy is wed. The lucky girl is, (or was) Norma Foshee. He was in the other day looking for an apartment. We know just what he's up against. We wish he and his Mrs. much happiness and success in their new job, (and don't say it isn't a job.) Now I've done it.



He's a Democrat Is Chief Reason Democratic Supporters Give For Voting For Democratic Congressional Candidatese.

Princeton, New Jersey— Last week, the United States Poll showed the reasons GOP supporters give for voting for Republican Congressional candidates.

Today's report will show why Democratic supporters say they will vote for Democratic Congressional candidatese.

Analysis of the replies from all over the nation of those who said they would vote for Democratic Congressional candidates this November shows that the No. 1 reason offered by Democratic supporters over the nation is that he's a Democrat.

People who say they will vote for Democratic Congressional candidates in November mention this reason more than three times as often as they mention anything else.

The second most frequently mentioned reason offered by Democratic supporters is that the Democrats do more for the working people.

That the Democrats have the better candidates; that they don't like what the Republicans are doing; that there's more employment under the Democrats; that farmers are better off under Democrats; that times are better under the Democrats, and that they would like to see a change are the next most frequently mentioned reasons.

That the Republicans are just for big business; that the Republicans haven't kept their promises; that they don't like Senator McCarthy; that the Democrats are more progressive and liberal; that the Republicans haven't done anything and that the Republicans have no program are reasons mentioned by smaller groups.

"Why would you vote for your (Democratic Congressional) candidate?"

He's a Democrat; I'm a Democrat; we've always been Democrat; I always vote Democrat—56 per cent.

Democrats do more for the working people; do more for poorer people; help working man more; better for the people; little man gets a better break from the Democrats; they're for labor—18 per cent.

The Democrats have the better candidates: The Democratic candidate is better qualified; the Democrat has the better record; more experience; has good voting record in Congress—8 per cent.

Don't like what Republicans are doing: don't like what's going on in Washington; not pleased with results of the Republican Congress; dissatisfied with the way the Republicans are running the country now—7 per cent.

More employment under the Democrats: Democrats will raise employment; Republicans bring more unemployment—6 per cent.

Farmer better off under Democrats: Democrats do more for farmers—4 per cent.

Better times under Democrats: we had it much better under Democrats; we're better off with Democrats—4 per cent.

Like to see change: had enough of this regime; wouldn't want Republicans to get in again; think Democrats should be brought back —4 per cent.

Republicans are just for big business: not for average man; always have been for big business—2 per cent.

Republicans haven't kept promises; promised tax cuts and cheaper cost of living; not done the things they promised—2 per cent.

Don't like McCarthy: McCarthy's a Republican; I wouldn't want to perpetuate McCarthy's chairmanship of Congress; don't like McCarthy and McCarthyism. — 2 per cent.

Democrats are more progressive: more liberal—2 per cent.

Republicans haven't done anything: no results from Republicans —2 per cent.

Republicans have no program to follows: nothing—2 per cent.

Other reasons—7 per cent.

(Figures add to more than 100 because some people gave more than one reason.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

SEASONAL HAY FEVER AND ASTHMA

What are the causes of hay fever and asthma? One of the most important causes is ragweed pollen. Every year beginning in August and ending in September or October an estimated quarter of a million tons of ragweed pollen is released into the air. Each individual pollen grain, which is too sall to be seen by the naked eye, may be carried by the wind for as much as a few hundred miles. When these minute particles come in contact with the nose, eyes or lungs of a susceptible person, a reaction sets in. The eyes may water itch; there is a tickle in the throat, and breathing is difficult.

There are other causes of seasonal hay fever and asthma. During the spring the pollen from trees will cause trouble for some persons. A little later grasses pollinate, causing other persons to suffer. This is called rose-fever and is due to grass pollen, not roses.

Some persons are allergic to molds. Molds, such as the type seen growing on bread, oranges, preserves or cheese, have seeds called spores. Many of these spores are smaller than pollen grains and travel long distances in the air. Persons sensitive to them suffer just as do persons susceptible to the pollens.

To obtain satisfactory relief of the symptoms of hay fever and asthma, the exact cause or causes must be determined. This requires a complete review of the patient's history by the physician and a series of laboratory tests to detect the cause or causes.

When one cannot avoid the cause, the best objective is to build up the body's defenses against them. Good results have been obtained in many susceptible persons by injections of an immunizing agent, which is an extract of the offending substance. As the dosage is gradually increased, the body's tolerance increases also. While most persons respond, admittedly the relief is not always complete. Thus the persons suffering from seasonal hay fever or asthma may also require seasonal treatment.

Mary Elizabeth Mullins Enjoying Many Honors

A whirl of pre-nuptial parties has begun for Miss Mary Elizabeth Mullins in honor of her forthcoming marriage to John Horace Lavette of Birmingham on September 9

On Friday morning, August 27 Mrs. Claud C. Craig was hostess at a kitchen shower at the Clanton Country Club.

'Kitchen' ideas were used throughout the decorations. A miniature electric stove containing real little cakes, cookies and other small dishes formed the center of interest on the party table. This was marked on either side with pine boughs interspersed with fruit and vegetables. Other decorations in the club room included an Italian woven basket which held dried woodland boughs and plants. A colorful arrangement of pine and red gladioli was also used.

Several rounds of bingo were played with Mrs. Erie Ellis; Mrs. Harold Lawrence, Mrs. M. C. Hayes, Mrs. J. W. Hayes, Mrs. William Buchanan, Miss Ann Huddleston and the bride-elect being the winners.

The hostess, Mrs. Craig, was assisted by Mrs. Harold Lawrence and Mrs. J. W. Hayes.

Twenty-five were present for this delightful courtesy.

METHODIST NEWS LETTER

Grandpa Jones was celebrating his ninetieth birthday. Telephone calls, telegrams, cards and visits from friends and relatives made this day memorable.

"So you're 90 years old today?" questioned a friend.

"That's right," replied Grandpa, as a smile pulled at the corners of his mouth. Then he added, "I haven't an enemy in the world."

"Not an enemy?" the friend asked.

"No, I have outlived everyone of them." Grandpa laughed.

Grandpa Jones had outlived his enemies but he hadn't outlived himself! Every minute, every hour, every day, month and year, for 90 long years he had lived with himself.

You have to live with yourself! The person who gives you the most trouble, trials, and problems is that person whose face you wash, whose stomach you feed, and whose body you rest—yourself.

If you can live with yourself happily and peaceably, you are a blessed person. In fact, if you can live with yourself, you can live with others.

I know a man who got into trouble because of a wicked deed. He left the country where he lived, crossed the ocean, settled in a new land, and changed his occupation and environment. But he still caused heartache and heartbreak. Why? He had changed everything but himself. He had a new home and a new job, but not a new heart!

The core of your problem is your heart. In order to live with yourself in peace and joy, you must have it changed, because "all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." As long as there is unforgiven sin blackening your past, you cannot live happily with yourself.

The full wages of sin is eternal death, but there are other wages we receive because of sinful living There are tears of regret, a smiting conscience, restless nights, and untold heartaches and heartbreaks You can't get away from them. You have to live with yourself.

But for the one who trust Jesus as Saviour, sin's wages have been paid, for "God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us."

Since you have to live with yourself, trust the Savior. You have to live with yourself in the hour of death! Therefore, look to the assurance that David the Psalmist had: "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for thou art with me." You have to live with yourself for all eternity! Therefore, don't worry about what people will say if you accept Jesus as your personal Saviour. Be concerned regarding what God knows about you, rather than what people think! Social standing, friends, and everything that can be seen is temporal, but your soul and the things which you can't see are eternal. You have to live with yourself!

Above all, you can live with yourself through believing this glorious message: "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

You have to live with yourself!

"I REMEMBER"
BY THE OLD TIMERS

From A. W. Curtis, Galesburg, Michigan: I remember when my uncle ran the dairy in our town in Ohio. He would come along in the evening with milk and we would have our meal out of the way so we could meet the milk wagon and buy ice cream by the dish.

It was dipped out of the freezer into a pan at five cents for a large scoop. Milk was ladeled out into a pan at that time as there were no bottles. What a long way we have come in fifty years.

I can also remember the man who opened the first ice cream parlor (he is still alive and in his 70's). It was closed up the first winter, for who wanted ice cream in the winter time?

I also remember the first auto in town. Most horses were scared and a lot of people would get out and hold the horse by the bridle until the noisy contraption went by.

From Mrs. Alice M. Thorn, Lemmon, South Dakota: I remember the old fashioned wall to wall carpets that were pulled, stretched and tacked down, and were taken up in the fall and spring, hung out on the line to be dusted and beaten.

I also remember the straw-filled bed ticks that were emptied and filled each fall after threshing time with new, clean oat straw—the troubles we girls had making beds, as mothers insisted they be stirred and fluffed up each day—and to do that without leaving hollows and lumps required an expert hand.

REPENT OR PERISH

Jesus said, I am the beginning and the end, the first and the last, Rev. 1:8-11. As he spoke by the mouth of his holy phophets, which have been since the world began. Luke 1-70.

Yes firends, Jesus spoke, the Holy Spirit inspired, Moses, Psalmist Phophets and Apostles wrote, from Genesis 1:1 to Rev. 22:21.

He that hath not my commandments, and keepeth them not, and my father shall not love him, and I will not love him, neither will I manifest myself to him. John 14:21

We do know that we do not know him, when we fail to keep his commandments 1 John 2:3-4.

We know he will not give us what we ask, because we do not keep his commandments and do the thiugs that are pleasing in his sight. 1 John 3:22.

We know that we do not love the children of God, because we do not love God, and keep his commandments, 1 John 5:2-3.

All that are ever born again, or ever see immortality and eternal life, will see it through repentance and obediance, God never gives any thing through sin and transgression for the transgression of God's law is a sin, 1 John 3:4.

Tried guessing the "Mystery Farm" yet?

Thirty persons did last week and twenty nine of them are receiving free passes to the Clanton Drive-in Theatre. So you see, your chances of being a winner are high.

Obie Patterson, of Clanton, Rt. 2, won the Grand Prize drawing Monday and will receive a year's subscription to Chilton County News plus his choice of either an electric popcorn popper or a Revised Standard Version of the Bible.

A point that should be brought out is the fact that the HOUSE in the picture is the main identifying point in the picture in the contest. The aerial photographer had no means of telling the farm boundaries apart and sometimes included parts of other farms, BUT not the house.

If you are the owner of the above pictured "Farm of the Week" please come by the News as soon as it is convenient. We have as a gift to you, a framed enlargement of the aerial photograph of your farm. Also you may guess your own farm and be eligible for the grand prize.

Please remember that we cannot accept answers over the phone. Bring your answer in or send it by someone if you are unable to come. Get it to the News office before the Sat. following publication before noon.

It's easy to win and fun to try !

Adventist Church

Sabbath School 9:45 a.m. with preaching service at 11. Sermon topic: "Fellowship With Jesus."

There has never been a companionship that has been closer than that of Jesus and His disciples. On the night of His betrayal Jesus prayed: "Father, I will that those whom thou hast given me be with me where I am." Did Jesus mean that they hurry and die and come up to heaven and be with Him? On that same night Jesus said to His disciples: "Whither I go thou canst not follow me now but thou shalt follow me afterwards." Jno. 13:36. Did Jesus mean that as soon as they died they would follow Him to heaven and we with Him? Let Jesus answer this question. He said: "If I go and prepare a place for you—I will come again and receive you unto myself that where I am there ye may be also." Jno. 14:1-3. Jesus, by these words, fixed the time when they would be with Him. Not when they died, but when He comes again. In I Thes. 4:16-17 Paul said that Jesus is coming again; that at that time "the dead in Christ shall rise first" and that the living "with them" will be caught up together to meet the Lord in the air. Then he added, "and so shall we ever be with the Lord." Notice that Paul repeats what Jesus said. That when He comes we will be "with the Lord." That makes sure that they do not go up to be "with the Lord" at death. Else there would be no need of a resurrection and the second coming.

Under the carpetbagger-scalawag regime following the end of the War Between the States there was little protection for life or property in Alabama and most of the white population was helpless.

From the National Association of Christian Schools, Chicago, Ill.: "Let those who name the name of Christ awaken to the full meaning of this. By ignoring God in education at least two devastating consequences are inevitable. Imparting education without bailing it upon religion is sharpening tools without giving directions as to their use. Education without God is an engine without a governor. An educational system divorced from religion is a maladjustment of the first magnitude."

Corn Festival Plans Are Shaping Up Fine

Plans are "shaping up fine" for a gala parade in Bessemer on Thursday afternoon, Sept. 16, to open the sixth annual Corn and Livestock Festival, according to an announcement today by J. D. Wates and James H. Roy, parade marshalls.

"Fine bands with high-stepping majorettes, glamorous girls competing for the title of Queen Bess VI, attractive floats, and distinguished visitors, and the latest farm machinery will make up this year's parade," Mr. Wates said. "We think it will be the best festival parade we have ever staged."

Three cash prizes totaling $225 will be awarded the organizations entering the most outstanding floats. Mrs. Edward Ball, chairman of the float contest, has mailed invitations to approximately 5 organizations in the Bessemer Area to enter floats.

"Competition is not limited to those groups," she explained; "we will welcome entries from any organization in Blount, Chilton, Jefferson, St. Clair, Shelby, and Walker counties."

Those are the six counties competing in the District Dairy Show, the featured event in this festival presented annually by the Bessemer Chamber of Commerce and the Jefferson County Extension Service.

"We are hoping to have in the parade several high-school bands from those counties in addition to the fine bands in this immediate area," said Mr. Roy.

Jack Bridges has designed four floats for the Chamber of Commerce. Three of these will be for the 75 girls expected in the Queen Bess Contest; the fourth will be for the 1953 king and queen who will lead the parade.

"The identity of the 1954 queen will be a closely guarded secret until her coronation at the Queen's Ball on Saturday night, Sept. 18," stated J. W. Patton, Jr., Chairman of that contest. "The 1954 king and queen will head next year's parade."

Already more than 2 girls from three counties have been enter the contest, he added. "And confident the total will re before the deadline on Sept.

WHO OWNS THIS WEEK'S "MYSTERY FARM"?

Last Week's "Mystery Farm" Identified As The Z. F. BOLTON Farm

Last week's owner of the "Farm of the Week" was Mr. Z. F. Bolton. Odd thing about it is, though, that he doesn't run his farm; his 18 year old son runs and works the farm for his dad and has recently received an honor which should make Mr. Bolton Jr. and Sr. duly proud. By the way, Jr. is G. C. Bolton and not a Jr. at all. G.C. had a writeup in a recent issue of the REA magazine on the efficient and capable way in which he handles his dad's farm. Dad works for REA and therefore, is not on hand much to help out with the crops so that leaves it pretty much up to G.C. who is by all evidence, doing a fine job and one anybody would be proud of.

The Bolton's have owned their farm for the past 9 years. Their farm is located just three miles east on the Lay Dam road. In recent times they have added a chicken house to their credit and done some remodeling around the old homestead which indicates a prosperous and industrious bunch of fine folks.

The Bolton's were married in 1932, her name is Odell. Mr. Bolton mason in the Bell Lane Ch and another mark to his credit w puts them in the "Our kind of fo class is that he donated the prop on which the church now stand that worthy cause.

They're your kind of folks, aren't they??

They're another Chilton Co family that has made Chilton Co what it is today and we're pr to add them to our "Farm of Week" family.

Miller and John Mullins, f Clanton, fished separately, n Bird Creek and the head alling Creek, Lake Mitchell, d that the Stripes were not schools to a large extent at they were scattered. Jeff hn caught their strings while e. M. A. Inman's Fishing reports that Emmie Walker ngham, fished Cargile Creek in the morning with a Black Bug and hooked a Large- and Smallmouth Bass each ng better than three pounds. also states that several have outstanding strings of Crap- om the power line crossing gile Creek.

W. Estes, Eclectic, is finally ng down and telling us about ecret fishing hole on Lake Mr. Estes will tell you, t blinking an eye, about g White Lakers weighing up pounds each from the cool of Yates Lake. And stand- re to back up his story was A. Powell, also of Eclectic. bout that? We didn't even there were any Stripes in Mr. Estes said that he start weighing in a few in etest, now that the cat is out bag about his almost pri- ishing spot.

Henry Yeackle, Riverview Fishing Camp, Lake Lay, reports that action is pretty slow around his neck of the woods. He said that Crappie and Bream are about all that is being caught this week but he assures us that Black Bass and Stripes will put in a grand appearance very shortly.

Now for a daily fishing schedule as gathered from successful experiences: Start the day off, before sunrise, Bass plugging, preferably with a large top water plug with a skirt. After sunrise change to live bait and fish deep about tree tops for Crappie. From 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. sleep. In the latter part of the afternoon try a little fly fishing. About 4:00 p.m. start watching for Stripes to appear in schools. Then about 7:00 p.m. go back to Bass plugging. Somewhere around 9:00 p.m. stop fishing, your boat must surely be loaded.

Last weeks entries in the Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest are as follows:

Lake Martin—

Lake Hill Inn, near Alexander City on U. S. Highway No. 280, reports: R. E. Pearson, Alexander City, fished near Piney Woods Slough with a Bass Bug and boated without the aid of a dip, a 5 pound 8 ounce Smallmouth Bass. Mr. Pearson stated that his fly rod was broken the week before by a Bass that got away in the same spot where the one above was caught.

Lake Yates—

E. V. Estes Store, near Eclectic on State Highway No. 63, reports: J. A. Powell, Eclectic, used a top water darter to attract a couple of nice Largemouth Bass weighing 7 pounds 13 ounces and 5 pounds 6 ounces.

Lake Mitchell—

Little Joe's Fishing Camp, Fixico Slough near Weogufka, reports Walter Killingsworth, Birmingham was trolling Fixico for Stripes and caught a 1 pound 9 ounce Crappie.

Lake Jordan—

Mrs. J. R. Gibson, Blackwell's Fishing Lodge on Shoals Creek near Holtville, reports: Charles Carr, Montgomery, fished with fly rod and Joe's Grasshopper on Shoals Creek and picked up a nice string of Bluegills, the largest was 8 ounces.

C. P. Dick, Bonner's Fishing Camp, near Holtville, reports: Frank Curlee, Wetumpka, went chugging for Stripes in a splashing school and reeled in a 4 pound Black Bass.

CHIEF ALAPOCO SAYS: If you have any doubt about the safety of your boat and would like a competent opinion as confirmation, invite a Coast Guard Auxiliary inspector aboard for a courtesy inspection. These fellows know what they are talking about and are most cooperative with safety suggestions. Trousdale Fishing Camp, Lake Jordan is their meeting place, each Sunday.

On a suggestion from the Black Belt that a resident of north Alabama be elected governor, George S. Houston of Limestone County was nominated and elected in 1874. Houston, who had had long experience in Congress before the War Between the States, was an honest and level-headed official who had the interests of Alabama at heart.

When the last federal troops were withdrawn from Alabama during the term of President Rutherford B. Hayes, the carpetbaggers left the state and the scalawags and Negroes were left to fight a losing battle.

The Statistical Look At This Year's Labor Day Maniacs

Montgomery.—The Alabama Safety Council has predicted 13 traffic faltalities for Alabama during the coming long Labor Day week end, and Alabama law enforcement is out to beat it.

The Council today reported this "normal" experience for the state during the 78-hour holiday period which commences at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight next Monday:

13 deaths
340 injuries
1370 accidents
$1,300,000 economic loss to the state.

But, State, county and municipal enforcement agencies cooperating in the 24-state Slow down and . . . Live! summer highway safety campaign made it clear that "unlucky 13" would be reached over their exhausted bodies.

Alabama Highway Patrol Chief Tom Carlisle said all vacations and off-days have been cancelled, long working hours established, and radar enforcement crews "have practiced themselves into peak operating efficiency" for this is a most critical holiday period in the nation.

Other state enforcement agencies Conservation Department, ABC Board and Public Service Commission will add their customary holiday period assistance on the state's rural highways.

All sheriffs and police chiefs in Alabama have been fully advised by the Alabama Safety Commission of the Slow Down and Live enforcement emphasis for the Labor Day week-end and most have responded with stepped-up traffic enforcement plans.

Some local agencies are equipping auxiliary police vehicles with special Slow Down and Live emblems in readiness for the holiday patrol.

Press, radio and television have stockpiles of holiday safety messages and news accounts in readiness to supplement accident coverage.

The council said six traffic fatalities were reported in Alabama during last year's Labor Day week end, lowest toll in six years at that time. Five-year average toll is one death every six hours, 51 minutes during the 78-hour period. With vehicle use increase, the Council said, the hourly interval drops nearly to an even six hours, if fair and hot weather continues over the state this year.

Hugh M. Comer, Council president, issued a last-minute appeal to Alabamians to use our roads with utmost caution if you must use them at all during this very dangerous time. Expect every person you meet out there to be a potential murderer or suicide. Above all, slow down and . . . live."

NON-FARM EMPLOYMENT TOOK SHARP DROP IN JULY

Montgomery, Ala.—Plagued by vacation shutdowns and labor disputes, Alabama non-farm employment during July fell to 650,600. "This figure," said Joe L. Coleman, Director of the Department of Industrial Relations, "represented a drop of over 10,000 workers from June and around 20,000 from the year ago period."

"Normally of short duration, vacation shutdowns occur annually among several state industries.... particularly in the textile and apparel fields," Coleman added.

Widespread losses in the durable goods group saw the lumber industry drop 800 workers. Some sawmills closed down for vacations and there was a noticeable decrease in box factory activity. An overall loss of 600 was sustained in primary metals plants, with a loss of 1,000 blast furnace and steel workers partially offset by a 300 increase in iron and steel foundaries.

Combined machine industries suffered a 700 worker decrease due to unpaid vacations. In spite of a 200 worker loss, employment in the transportation industry was still over July 1953 totals.

In the soft goods group, minor seasonal fluctuations were overshadowed by the textile industry's 6,600 worker loss, due to vacation shutdowns. Another decrease was the 2,700 rubber workers who were out on strike.

A sizeable drop in state and local government workers along with a decline in the service and miscellaneous group were noted, while increased trucking and warehousing activity produced the opposite effect in transportation, communications and utilities industries.

Contract construction continued its six-months advance by adding nearly 2,000 workers to payrolls in July. Average hourly earnings of $1.43 for production workers in manufacturing remained unchanged from June. However, as a result of a slightly longer work week, average weekly earnings advanced from $55.06 to $55.63.

ALABAMA HIGHLIGHTS

Alabama officials elected and appointed after the convention of 1867 were the most ignorant, and probably the most dishonest, group ever to hold high office within the state.

During the reconstruction days in Alabama the carpetbaggers and scalawags used the Negroes' votes but gave little in return except promises.

Out of the confusion that reigned in reconstruction days, grew the Ku Klux Klan, a secret society founded in Pulaski, Tenn., and soon it was flourishing in Alabama because the people turned to such groups for their own protection.

After the War Between the States the price of cotton fell to 30 cents a pound (in 1867) after selling at $1 a pound in 1864.

4-H Older Youth Enjoy Picnic

Members of 4-H older youth enjoyed an all day meeting at Wyatt's Fishing Camp on the Coosa River Tuesday, August 24th. Swimming was the main activity of the day. Four-H records and projects for the coming year were discussed. A picnic lunch was enjoyed by the group.

The following members attended: Ellis Burgess, Peggy Blackmon, and Elaine Davenport, Jemison; Jimmy Kincaid, Ralph Mims, Ernest Hayes, Patsy Boles, and Doreen Shackelford, Thorsby; Tommy Smith, Carolyn Cox, and Lucille Blalock, Thomas, Jr.; Patsy Young, Gloria Robinson, Mary Lou Robinson, Judy Miller, Linda Miller, Priscilla Hubert, and Caroline Dickinson, Chilton County High; Helen Edwards, Enterprise; and Mrs. Johnnie Lane, John Sellers, and Dan Mims, County 4-H leaders. Mrs. Aubrey Smith and Martha McGuire were visitors.

In 1874 Alabama Democrats and Whigs forgot their differences and united to wrest control of state government from corrupt carpetbaggers.

COUNTRY GIRL

By F. L. Rowley

MISS BETTY JOHNSON'S heart danced to the clickety-clack of train wheels as her eyes settled on familiar country. She swallowed hard when the conductor poked his head into the car to announce: "Hillcrest—next stop!" After a grueling year of facing glassy-eyed cameras and carping directors Betty was returning home.

Her stay in Hillcrest would be brief. She would then leave for New York in a blaze of affected glory—and complete oblivion. For Miss Betty Johnson was through with show business; irrevocably finished; washed up. True, she had made one picture—of sorts. Hillcrest was playing it up big in anticipation of its release—DESERT FEUD, starring our own Betty Johnson."

If her friends and neighbors had only known! If they'd been with her on the set day after day; if they had seen the director slapping his toupe on the floor in despair Many a night had she allowed herself too little sleep in order to study a script—only to forget it by camera time. Her friends would look upon her as a quitter. Let them! She'd be buried in some New York business school by the time all this excitement had died down.

"I think the whole town's here!" cried Mayor Fulcrum doffing his topper as the train came to a halt "Best turnout I've seen since Willie Watkins won the hog-calling contest over by Silver Creek."

"How's it feel to be a celebrity?" came a voice from the crowd.

Betty blushed. "I wouldn't know," she said faintly.

"Hear that?" Mayor Fulcrum half turned to face those on the platform. "That's a Hillcrest girl! No airs for her. Just real honest-to-goodness talent." The mayor then proceeded to outline the plan drawn up by the entertainment committee. The festivities would begin with an old-fashioned square dance in Pat Quigley's barn.

"Hello Betty!" A familiar voice spun her around as she was entering the big barn later that evening.

"Why Bill Saunders!" she cried, feigning surprise. "Whatever happened to your promise to write?"

Bill was no fool; she knew that the hurt look in his eyes was the result of her own attempted whopper. His letters hadn't gone astray—of that he was sure. She tried to make up for it by catching his hand as the music started.

Square dances were never designed for serious conversation between partners. Betty soon allowed Bill to steer her into the cool night air; the moon was just rising behind Quigley's orchard.

"I—I wish things were different," he whispered.

"What do you mean, Bill?" She knew perfectly well what he meant. The poor chap was pitying himself for being a farmer, while she—why she was Betty Johnson, the big movie star.

"Why you're famous. If you weren't so important—if you were just a country girl; oh, what's the use! Let's go in—"

She caught his flannel sleeve: "You never was a coward, Bill."

Even in the moonlight she could see the perspiration on his brow. "All right," he gulped, "I'll say it. You've probably heard it from a dozen guys who can say it real fancy-like; only I mean it. I love you, Betty. Will you marry me?"

She thought of her New York plans. She thought of those difficult days in Hollywood where she had struggled to be something she was not.

"It's like coming home after a long trip; I guess maybe I am just a country girl after all. Yes, Bill—I will marry you."

And as they started back toward the barn to tell all their friends the good news, Betty didn't see the crushed letter that Bill tossed into the high grass; a letter that contained a newspaper clipping describing Betty Johnson's release from her studio.

my PET PEEVE by Mike Bennett

NO MATTER what you're doing, it's always possible to get off a predestined course and suddenly find yourself in a spot you weren't headed for in the first place.

That has happened a couple of times in this column because the author sat down to write about a particular "peeve" and in leading up to the topic uncovered, or shall we say "recovered," from thoughts and recollections something in a similar vein even more peevish.

I started out not long ago to give unto science my idea of a gadget needed by the male population. It's still needed and, in fact, I wish the services of such a machine had been available to me today.

The gadget: a 2-way television set. With one of these hubby can keep the home front tuned in all day. When he walks in, he can quip "Oh, you mopped the floors, and rearranged the furniture, didn't you, dear?"

The polite, and smart husband, of course, will wait until he is asked, "Notice anything different?"

If the services of such a gadget had been available to me today, I would never have called my wife on the telephone, despite the fact that she has time and again expressed the wish I would do so each day, just in case she needs a loaf of bread, some ten penny nails or a tube of toothpaste.

In trying to lead up to the possibility of an "extra" night out with the boys, I admit, I stuttered and stammered. Yet I would have gotten right to the point had I known that she had one child in the bath, another in her arms, a priceless roast about to burn in the oven, and someone buzzing the front door bell.

Her response to my discreet inquiry irritated so much that I probably won't speak to her the rest of the day, unless she calls to remind me to bring a loaf of bread or else gets the (un-burned, I hope) roast on her side of the table during the evening meal.

IT'S easy to add decorative touches to your rooms if you use imagination. Here are some ideas with which to start off:

An old hat rack can be painted white or pastel and makes a wonderful display for party favors, hats, beach bags, scarves, ties or umbrellas.

Do you have a collection? Miniature animals, tiny dishes, doll-house furniture or other knick-knacks show off well in shadow boxes.

Easiest way to make a dressing table is to take two orange crates and smooth off rough edges with sandpaper. Stand on ends and use a board or piece of plywood the same width as the ends of the crates as a table top. Paint in a pretty pastel or cover with a skirt made from tinted muslin or old curtains.

Make tie-backs for ruffled curtains of wide ribbon, letting the ends flutter to the floor. Tuck small artificial flowers in the knots for a pretty effect.

Fill narrow wall spaces with vertical rows of pictures in identical frames. Wax these to a nice satin polish for an expensive look.

United States Policy in Indochina Dates Back to Vandenburg Resolution

By Walter Shead
Washington Correspondent
National Weekly Newspaper Service
(This is the second in a series of four articles relative to the Indochina War where a truce has recently been signed.)

United States policy in Indochina dates back to 1948. Basically it is set out in the resolution of June of that year sponsored by the late Senator Arthur Vandenburg. It pledges our assistance to guarantee that weaker nations may develop in freedom, but these conditions are under a system of collective security, or of collective defense.

In other words the United States is willing to enter into an agreement with the states of Indochina, and with other nations in the far east, or with our allies, Britain and France, to guarantee the freedom of these weaker nations.

It was under the terms of the Vandenburg resolution that our present Secretary of State, John Foster Dulles in 1951 went to the Far East representing our then Secretary of State Dean Acheson, in an attempt to set up such a system or pact in the area.

He was partly successful only. He succeeded in forming separate pacts with the Philippines, with Japan, and a third with Australia and New Zealand, the so-called ANZUS pact.

Unfortunately it was the colonial status of Indochina in the French Union which made us suspect. Indochina wanted its freedom. We were allied with France and France did not move fast enough in giving independence to the Indochinese states.

Secretary Dulles recently put it this way: "We are not prepared to go in for a defense of colonialism. We are only going to go in for defense of liberty and independence and freedom. We don't go in alone. We go in where other nations which have an important stake in the area recognize the peril as we do."

However even under this policy we have poured billions of dollars into Indochina for military aid and material to help the French, hard-pressed both militarily and economically, against the communists. We have given aid to the Indochinese themselves for rehabilitation, public health improvement, projects and other means to increase the welfare of the people. We have conducted exchange of persons program bringing students, teachers, leaders to this country for study and advanced training in engineering, agriculture, public roads, mass education.

When the French returned to Indochina after World War II in 1945, the Japanese, who had overrun the entire peninsula, had reduced the people and the country to a state of abject poverty. It took years for the French to rebuild, and at the same time fight a war which lasted over seven years. This was one of the factors which prevented the independence which had been promised in 1949. French investments run into millions of dollars in rubber plantations, mines. What few roads and railroads were left had to be rebuilt. Even today the rivers are the chief highways and lines of communication in the terrain of mountains, vast jungles, fertile deltas and virgin timberlands. Only two ports serve the country, Haipong at the mouth of the Red River in the north, now in Communist hands, and the twin cities of Saigon and Cholon in the delta of the Mekong.

To sell our friendship to the Indochinese leaders themselves has been an uphill job, despite our known attitude toward giving freedom to smaller nations, such as our action in the Philippines. We are pictured by the wily Communists as the occupying masters in Japan, and because of our alliance with France our proffer of aid was held up as just more colonial rule. All this despite the fact that the United States has recognized Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia as sovereign nations, Britain and 32 other free nations also recognize their sovereign status, but only two Asian countries so recognize them . . . Korea and Thailand.

Vietnam maintains a diplomatic mission in Washington, and in London, Rome, and Bangkok. Laos has a mission in Bangkok and Washington. There is conclusive evidence during the past several months that this distrust of the United States has been gradually disappearing, particularly among the top leaders in the associated states. Bao Dai, chief of state, and the Vietnamese president Nguyen van Tam have managed to set up a fairly stable government and, with U. S. help, both in money and training, largely increased the national army under a defense ministry, with the nucleus of a general staff started under General Nguyen van Hinh, who served as a pilot in the European theatre of operations during world war II.

However, since the great appeasement at Geneva, whether this new found trust will deteriorate or not is a matter for conjecture.

Commenting on the Geneva settlement, Secretary Dulles said that while we do not like the outcome, we were not a party to the conference results and that in accordance with the U. N. charter we would not seek to overthrow the settlement.

"The important thing, from now on," Mr. Dulles said, "is not to mourn the past, but to seize the future opportunity to prevent the loss in northern Vietnam from leading to the extension of communism throughout southeast Asia and the Southwest Pacific. In this effort all the free nations should profit by the lessons of the past."

(Editor's note: The next article will discuss why Indochina is considered so important to the United States.)

OUR HOUSE

EVER since the five-year-old and the seven-year-old first started to the Saturday cowboy movies, Gene Autry has been their favorite actor. According to them, Gene Autry can ride better, shoot straighter, sing more melodiously and catch more bad men than any other cowboy in the business.

So you can imagine their excitement when they learned that Gene was going to make a personal appearance in a nearby city. They talked of little else for days, and they gave their Gene Autry guns and their Gene Autry boots a special polishing for the occasion.

Then, as an almost unbelievable treat, they got to go backstage to shake hands with Gene and to get a close look at his big six-shooters. The seven-year-old chatted with the friendly star, but the five-year-old was too overcome to say a word—he just looked.

But he was duly impressed. When his friends: "I saw Gene Autry alive!"

THE mother down the street, the one with the big family, has been busy sewing for weeks to get her children's wardrobes ready for school. She knows more sewing tricks than anybody else in the neighborhood, and she is delighted to share them.

When we stopped by to see her, she was sewing snaps down the front of a blouse. She first sewed all the halves of the fasteners down one side of the front, and then she rubbed chalk over them and pressed them against the other side of the blouse where the mates were to be sewed. The chalk marked the places where the other halves of the snaps should go, taking all the guesswork out of the process.

THIS neighbor taught us an amazingly simple way to lubricate the scissors, too.

Her scissors were squeaking and binding while she cut out the material for a new dress, and she quickly remedied the trouble with "finger oil," just rubbing each blade with her fingers.

"Then I give scissors all the lubrication they need," she explained. "without the risk of spotting your material by using oil from a can."

LIKE all other little girls, this neighbor's daughters grow so rapidly that it seems she is always having to let down hems.

She disguises the old, unsightly hemline by covering it with rick-rack braid in a bright color. By adding three or four more rows of the braid around the bottom of the dress, she gives the garment a gay new trimming.

When she is busy with her sewing, this neighbor likes to serve her family casserole dishes which are easy to prepare. One of her standbys is corned beef casserole made like this:

Cook 1 cup macaroni in boiling, salty water about eight minutes rinse and drain. Cut 1 can corned beef into cubes and brown in 3 chopped onions. Add 1 cup tomato soup, 1 can red kidney beans, 3 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon dry mustard, dash pepper and macoroni Pour into casserole dish and bake

State Receives Bids On 2 Chilton Projects

By Bob Tucker

Chilton County is in for two development projects on county roads this month according to bids opened August 20.

On the Lay Dam Road in the North end of the County bids were made for 4½ miles of grading, drainage, bituminous treatment and a bridge on the Mineral Springs Road. The roadway was bid on by the Giddens and Rogers Contracting Co. of Georgia and the bridge was bid on by the Cohron Construction Co. The first bid was $90,442 and the bridge bid was $36,273.

The other project was 1¼ miles of grading and drainage on the county road approach to the bridge over Waxahatchee Creek. The bidders were the Giddens and Rogers Contracting Co. and the bid was $33,667.

This month's bids ran an estimated $96,435 below what the estimated cost had been. This was unusual due to the fact that normally there is a much wider gap.

There were 43 bridge and roadwork projects bidded on August 20 and the total cost was $3,252,279.

Chilton was among the few this month to get more than one project bidded on.

SCANNING THE NEWS

LOOKING over the record of the Republican Administration for the past year and a half, it's interesting to note that many times Administration-appointed citizens advisory groups have been charged, literally by the score, with telling Washington what to do.

Citizen advice on policy has been sought in such fields as agriculture, foreign economic program, housing, military reserves, social security, Taft-Hartley labor law, and the anti-trust laws.

The National Agricultural Advisory Commission advised the Secretary of Agriculture on flexible price supports, drought problems, cattle prices, foreign agricultural trade policy, reorganization of the Department of Agriculture and the plight of the small farmer. President Eisenhower's special message to Congress, urging flexible price supports, insulation of surpluses, a new wool program and increased borrowing authority for the Commodity Credit Corporation, was prepared with benefit of the Commission's advice. Proposed legislation included these objectives, in modified form.

The recommendations of the Randall Commission on Foreign Economic Policy, which became the basis of the President's special message to Congress in this field, fared less well. One of the major recommendations of the Randall group was extension for three years of the Reciprocal Trade Agreement. Congress voted only a one-year extension.

Fifty-two recommendations were made by the 21-member Advisory Committee on Government Housing Policies and Programs. Of these the President's special message to Congress included facilitation of some slum clearance and improvements in existing housing, reorganization for low-income families, and the revamping of some federal housing mechanisms. Both houses passed an omnibus housing bill but their versions differed Universal military training was studied by the National Security Training Commission, while another citizen group, the Advisory Committee on Manpower Resources for National Security, weighed the impact of military manpower procurement on the supply of personnel for other security needs. The NSTC proposed training for 18-year-olds parallel with the draft. the manpower resources group outlined a plan for an immediately callable and selective reserve. On the basis of these findings, the Pentagon submitted plans for a complete overhaul of the reserve policy.

Most of the advisory groups were set up by executive order. Others were established by statute. Some groups include Senators or Representatives among their number and some were instructed to report to Congress. Since the Eisenhower Administration began, lawmakers are serving or have served on groups advising on both policy and government structure, including the Hoover Commission, Kestnbaum Commission on Intergovernmental Relations, Randall Commission and the Commission on Judicial and Congressional Salaries.

Alabama's reconstruction Legislature levied taxes on almost everything in the state and from 1868 to 1870 the state government spent nearly $4,000,000 a year, five times as much as was spent the year before the War Between the States. Much of the money was spent without records being kept to show where it went.

New Waterfowl Hunting Season Is Announced

MONTGOMERY, Ala.— Alabama's new waterfowl hunting season of 55 days extending from Nov. 17 through Jan. 10 were announced here today by Graham Hixon, Chief of Game and Fish for the Department of Conservation.

The season dates, principally the same as those set last year, were chosen by conservation officials within the framework of basic seasons set by the U. S. Department of Interior. Alabama is included in the Mississippi Flyway in Federal waterfowl regulations.

Major changes from last year's migratory waterfowl seasons and bag limits include no open season on wood ducks and require counting of mergansers in the bag and possession limits on ducks. Time for waterfowl shooting was set at half hour before sunrise to one hour before sunset.

Season dates are Nov. 17-Jan. 10 for ducks, geese and brant, rails and gallinules, sora, coot, and mergansers. Bag and possession limits for ducks and geese will be the same as last year—four a day or eight in possession for ducks and five a day or five in possession for geese.

The coot bag and possession limits remain unchanged—10 a day or 10 in possession.

The 15-day jacksnipe season will continue from Dec. 27 through Jan. 10 with bag and possession limits of eight birds. The woodchuck season will extend from Dec. 2 through Jan. 10 with bag limit of four a day or eight in possession.

Hixon said the federal officials state that there have been adverse reports from northern waterfowl breeding grounds.

American Legion Post And Auxiliary Post 206—

Several days ago it was brought to the attention of our Post the hungry, pitiful condition of an itinerant family that recently moved to Thorsby from a neighboring county and live in the tenant house at the rear of the Heida home. The Post immediately investigated the case and carried several dollars worth of staple groceries arriving while the three small children were breakfasting. For their breakfast they had a small glass about half full of milk for each little one and the committee saw no other food on the table. Up to this time Mr. and Mrs. Heida and Mr. and Mrs. Grover Knight had borne the major part in contributing to the food needs of this family. The father is a handicapped veteran, having lost one arm, but we hope that these little ones are taken care of.

The Auxiliary has contributed food and clothing to several needy ones during the month of August.

Methodist Church—

Pastor Walter Ellisor, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Yeargan, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. Hershell Hayes attended a Williams family reunion at old Concord church, near Billingsley, on Sunday afternoon. This church has been discontinued and they have donated $40.00 in cash, the pulpit and pews to the Thorsby Methodist to use in their church when they get it built. The Thorsby folks are very grateful to the fine people who are former members of old Concord in the generous, Christian action they have taken in helping us go forward in our building program.

We have services every Sunday Sunday School 9:45, worship at 11 a.m. and the Sunday evening service at 7:30 p.m. And everyone is cordially invited to worship with us.

Everything is in readiness for the Sept. 3 opening of the school on the first floor of the Adventist church in Glendale. The school board feels fortunate that R. B. WHO OWNS THIS WEEK'S "MYSTERY FARM"?

Miss Joyce Thacker, of Montgomery, cousin of the bride, presided over the bridal book which was placed on a marble top table adorned with pink carnations and three lighted tapers.

Following the reception, the bride changed to a two-pieced suit of silk shantung in delphineum blue for travel. A blue clip ornamented her black velvet hat. She wore a corsage taken from the bridal bouquet.

After a wedding trip to the Lakes on the Ozarks, Sgt. and Mrs. Stricklin will be at home in San Antonio, Texas where the bridegroom will be stationed with the Air Force.

Clantons Water Situation Serious!

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Gen

What success a man attains is half due to his wife help—and half in spite of it.

We have just noticed while meeting people at the Fair this week that the most complicated of all puzzels is putting a man's name and fact together.

Announcement comes from V. L. Bulger, City Park Superintendent, that the park will be open each Tuesday night and all day on Saturday. This will please many a youngster who have learned the past year to enjoy their city park. Bulger also announces that at anytime facilities of the park are needed for barbecues or picnics to contact him at the Chilton County High School and he will see that your needs are taken care of. Playground equipment will be issued on Tuesday nights and Saturdays for the young folks Bulger says.

Chilton County is enjoying its best Fair to date. We believe more interest is being shown and although far from what it should be there is great improvement and we are sure it will develop into just what the county needs. Of course this didn't just happen. It was the work, and we do mean hard work, of many of our county leaders and the Chamber of Commerce. It will require the help of us all to really make the kind of County Fair that you have dreamed about.

What do the ladies talk about while they sit under the dryer in the beauty parlor? Well, a beautician friends of ours has very stingily assauged our curiosity on this score by relating the following exchange which occurred the other day between two of her patrons:

"Does your cook ever give you any of her impertinence?"

"No, she charges me $30 a week for it."

Getting just a little rough when a man can't have friends visit him in his office without getting arrested and having to appear in court—isn't it?

Burke Allison has moved his Main Store into the building formerly occupied by the Morrison Furniture Company. Burke was in the Downs Building across from the News office.

my PET PEEVE by Mike Bennett

THERE are few things in this world that can be as trying to an adult as a child doggedly determined to do something that frightens him almost to death. When the kid belongs to you, you can bolster his courage with a gentle greeting down around the Texas-Mexico line. If he belongs to someone else, you must endure it, if you can.

Have you ever taken a youngster to the fairgrounds who was so young and small that he looked like an ant on a mole hill when placed on the saddle of a small pony? If said youngster, like mine, will try anything once and do it again if he fails to break his neck, you can't appreciate what happened to me.

We took several kids to the fairgrounds. One, the smallest in the lot, wanted to ride the ponies, nothing else. Yet, when brought within several feet of one, he began to scream, kick, and go into contortions. Remove him a safe distance, and he pestered you continually to be taken back.

The first time we started out, I was opposed to the idea, because there were at least 15 kids and their parents ahead of us. But I sweated it out just to please the little man and stop his constant, "Wanna' ride the pony!" Inside the gate (far enough for the attendant to get the ticket) he went into his act. I beat a hasty retreat, fearing the crowd would think I was beating the poor screaming youngster to death.

I didn't get very far before he wanted to try it again. We did and this time got so close I could touch the horse. He broke out the vocal fireworks and 30 minutes of standing in line went for naught.

Plan Even Better Season-

Little League Backers Will Hold Open Meeting Sept. 13th

Anyone having young boys from the ages of 9 to 12 and parties interested in furthering the Little League in our communities next year are requested to attend the open meeting that is being held at the City Hall auditorium Monday night, September 13.

The purpose of the meeting is to elect new officers for next season and to transact any business that may come before the meeting. It is also hoped to put new spark in the backers of the Little League in order to make it more effective next year.

R. R. Sutley stated in a letter Tuesday that "We believe that little league baseball has been of great benefit to the boys of Clanton and this part of Chilton County this past year, and should be of even greater benefit next year as we now have the organization set up, and if we all work together we should get off to a good beginning at the first of the season next year."

Much good has come of the Little League, and the businessmen of Clanton who have so untiringly and unselfishly devoted much of their time in efforts to build the organization up to a worthwhile level deserve the thanks of the parents and the citizens for making it possible for our young folks to have recreation in a wholesome and worthwhile manner.

Since the organization has been improved to the point where it is of significance to the growth and good of our community it deserves the full time backing and cooperation of all the people and should be deemed worthy of any help we might see fit to give it.

The fine record set by J. D. Bullington who was drowned in the Gulf of Mexico while vacationing will need a good man to continue and all reports are that Tolbert will fill the requirements.

JEMISON PLAYS CHILDERSBURG HIGH

The Jemison High School football team opens the new season tomorrow night, (Friday, Sept. 10) at Childersburg. The latter team has replaced Billingsley on the JHS schedule.

The Jemison team this season begins with virtually no veteran players as graduation last spring took 10 of the regular starters, but Coach Eubanks has been busy building a team from substitutes and new comers.

Assisting Coach Eubanks as assistant coach is C. B. Wright from Columbus, Ga., coach Mark Smith having moved to Miami, Fla.

The Friday of September 16th Coach Porch brings his crack team from Verbena High to Jemison.

The local team, even though rated as the underdog to give the shifty veteran-studded team from Verbena as good a tussel as they are capable of.

But Not This Year-

Bond Issue In Question May Solve Water Crisis Next Year

Due to the drought that the County has been suffering lately and also due to the misuse of the consumers, Clanton's water supply is fast diminishing.

It was stated early in the week that Yellow Leaf Creek, where the water is taken in, is only a few feet deep at the intake indicating the necessity of imediate action by the city on the matter.

The $250,000 bond issue, it is stated, would have to be doubled to really take care of the present condition. If it were doubled the water line could be connected to the Coosa River and also new filtering units could be installed.

It is also brought to the attention of the citizens that even though immediate action is taken on the project it would not benefit the town in the crisis we now face. In order to stave off an epedemic it is important that everyone take all precautions in their use of water as stated in the request from the mayor.

This is the request issued by the Mayor Monday: "Through your paper I have spoken to the people twice or more about our water supply. Today I want to impress them more seriously than ever before of the very critical condition the unusual dry weather, especially, has placed us in.

Until the present, our greatest handicap was incapacity to filter the water as fast as we consumed it, and that condition has not been improved, and cannot be immediately. But now we are confronted with actual shortage of water to filter. I am amazed at the decline in the flow of water in Yellow Leaf Creek during the past thirty days. I am reliably informed that the flow of water through a pasture actually stopped one day last week. This does not mean there was no water at all in the channel of the creek. There were pools along the way, and at our intake the water was possibly two feet deep, but it does show there is less water flowing than usual, and the decrease in amount of water is alarming.

For those reasons, I do, as your Mayor, most sincerely beseech you to economize in the use of water. Do not water your lawns or flowers; do not wash cars; take fewer baths—and use less water when you take one; use less water in shaving, and less in the kitchen.

Your home and the business property is being exposed to total loss by fire. Are you willing to continue extravagance in the use of water and place your home, and that of your neighbor in jeopardy. I am sure you will not, if you just think for one minute what a great loss even in one home, and to stand by and see the business section of Clanton destroyed by fire which we could control if we leave the water in the tanks.

Yellow Leaf Creek has been furnishing us sufficient water for sixteen years, but now the demand on it is greated than the supply.

Be unselfish; a good citizen and economize to the very limit, in ther use of water."

Christian Giving. — I Corinthians 16: 1-2ab; II Corinthians 8: 1-9. Golden Text: Acts 20: 35.

Christian giving as an indispensable part of Christian living. No man can be sincere in his Christian life if he is not willing to give unto God that which is due. Paul was concerned in raising a collection for the poor saints in Jerusalem and he was urgent in emphazing the responsibility of converts toward the needs that were brought to their attention.

The apostle laid down a plan that anticipated by nearly two thousand years the every-member canvass and the weekly bringing of contributions to the church. Upon the first day of the week, he wrote, Christians should lay aside the part of their earnings that should be consecrated unto God.

Paul cited the example of a generous giving by the Macedonian Christians, who had given above all that he expected of them, and more, beyond all that he thought was their ability to give. He also revealed the secret of their generous giving—they first gave their own selves unto God. When a man gives himself to God, there is nothing that he will withhold from God.

But Paul, in urging the Corinthians to give freely, also cited the greater example of the Lord Jesus who was rich but surrendered his kingly glory and became poor that men might be rich.

Is The Coosa River Our Answer?

(An Editorial)

It is the opinion of many in town that the bond issue for the water improvements should be doubled in order to meet the needs of the city and the people. If we should have to go in debt to get the job done there are few among us who would be against such measures.

Nothing is as important to a growing community and town as proper facilities for water, gas, etc. Our water problem is acute.

Realizing the financial end of it there are other aspects that should be considered. One is the fact that there are no factories or mills on the Coosa near enough to Clanton to even suggest pollution. Another is that since we have seen that Yellow Leaf creek is inadequate for supplying us with the proper amount of water it would save money and worry in the long run to spend double or even triple the previous amount if it would insure us of adequate water and no longer endanger our living conditions. Also, there is the fact that if we did go through with the overall change we would never again have the situation we face this year.

It is true that the additional filtering unit without proper connections to water would do us little, if any good in another time such as we now face. Due to this fact, our opinion is that there is no one who could possibly disagree with an overall change since it would be for the good of the town and its citizens.

We go along with the city officials in requesting your cooperation in the use of water. It is of the utmost importance to the town as well as yourself that you preserve all you can during this critical time. Immediate action on the project in question could not possibly help us in the condition we now face. Be careful with the water. We don't want an epidemic started in our town due to the careless use of precious water. That's right . . . now it's precious water. . . save it.

NOT ONE IN A THOUSAND

In all of our years of newspapering the past week was the first time we had ever been accused of being crooked. Regardless of what the public may, or may not, think—not one newspaperman in a thousand is a crooked newspaperman.

Recently the public has been prone to label anyone who didn't think, or agree, with their way of thought, a Red, crooked, or any one of several uncomplimentary handles. This, of course, is far from the truth.

A newspaperman is too doggone stubborn to be crooked. The first hint of someone trying to "buy" him and his back bows and then is when you are likely to be in trouble.

The experience we had was due to the fact that we wouldn't publish a letter a certain citizen wanted published. In our opinion the letter was libelious and the writer as well as the newspaper would have had a lawsuit on their hands. Well, to make a long story short, the writer of the letter called us and wanted to know how much we got for not publishing the letter.

Immediately our blood pressure rose to unknown heights and we saw red. It was quite a shock that anyone would think that we would accept money for withholding an article and second there just hasn't been enough money made yet to pay us for withholding one little line of eight point type if we thought that line would be of benefit to someone, or aid in promoting something good for our county, our state and our nation.

But, as things always go in this business, just as sure as God makes little green apples, this party will be around and want something, sometime. They always do. And if it is a worthwhile idea, created to build-up, instead of tear-down, we'll probably go along with him. Because after all, that is our life's work—doing worthwhile things. Boosting always for a bigger and better land in which to live.

But you can't buy our services for crooked dealing or for serving your own selfish ends and the best way in the world NOT to get our influence and support is to try and buy it.

Speed doesn't kill people; it's those sudden stops when they hit something while speeding.

Things we -SEE- and Hear

by "Tuck"

Wonder how many of us folks know that when a siren is heard it automatically means to get out of the way, or stop, or whichever may be the case. We know some folks don't know what it means because too many of them haven't been practicing it. The reason we say, they don't know it because we know they wouldn't intentionally do something they shouldn't, ahum. Well, anyhow, a siren means the vehicle it is attached to has top priority in traffic and the public should treat it accordingly. After all, that IS the public.

When the joke's on you, laugh; when it's on the other fellow, sympathize with him; you won't enjoy it as much, but when you need sympathy he'll be the one who gives it.

The way the "Slow Down, and Live" campaign is ignored by some folks you'd think "Speed like the devil" would hold just as much significance.

Heard a young fella say the other day, that "it wasn't so bad going to school, what was rough was when you got there."

A pretty good philosophy of life we heard the other day went something like this: "When I get up in the morning I have a choice of two things, to be happy or unhappy, I choose to be happy." An 80 year old man said this so it must bear thinking about, after all, 80 ain't to be sneezed at.

See where wash jobs have gone up to $1.25 now all over town. I guess I can still get one for the old price though, because the dirt I'm using now isn't any more expensive than what I did use when they were cheaper.

We'll just have to give Mom credit for the booth out at the fair this year. It was her idea from the start and she worked like a trojan (we wouldn't be surprised if she weren't part trojan) all through the makings to help out. We think it's original and a good idea and she deserves the credit.

And while we're on the subject of the County Fair we'd like to say that this year's fair looks like the biggest and best shore nuff. The booths are boothier, the carnival is carnivalier, (wow) the fun is funnier, and the . . . cows sure do stink. Nope, we can't lay it on the cows this year, they smell fine compared to the atmosphere over the entire area out there. We sincerely hope that by next year, whatever it is,out there will be improved upon.

Ya noticed lately how spring has sprung and fall has fell (and that's as far as we know) and winter's just around the next bend. You'd better get the longies out cause before long you'll be hollering about how cold and wet it is and how you wish it would hurry up and turn warm again. When the time comes when anybody is satisfied with the weather (and I want to be around) it sure will be a dull place to live in. Won't be a darn thing to start off a conversation with. Anyhow, winter's almost here.

Had a rather perturbing, but interesting, talk with the local telephone operators the other day. Yeh, I believe it was every last one of them. Called my home number and the operator said, "There's been some change in that number, I'll give you Special operator," so I waited an indefinite time and somebody said, "Special operator," and I said I was calling 9056943 (That's not my real number, I just wanted to foul 'em up). There was another indefinite pause and she said, "Just as for 9056943, please." So I did and here's what I got. "Operator," 9056943, please," "There's been some change in that number, I'll give you where I got on the merry-go-round Special operator." Well, this was so I figured since I was the only one who didn't know what was going on I might as well hang up. The operator did call me back though, and I got my number and I've had no trouble since. I think they were trying to worry me into believing my wife didn't want to talk to me. I knew she did though, I had to bring home a loaf of bread.

Like to congratulate Mrs. Omar Reynolds on her nomination as one of "Alabama's gracious Ladies." If anyone ever deserved the honor Mrs. Reynolds is the one. We don't know about her party and tea affairs, but she has always been more than gracious to us. She's friendly and considerate, and just the type of person that would make an impression on you the first time you met her. We're proud to have her in our community and hope she's duly proud to be here with us.

Obery Lawson is the new insurance agent replacing our Charlie Patterson, who we hope, is going to make a fine Chilton County Tax Assessor. Mr. Lawson was in to see us the other day getting acquainted and he'll probably be around to see you before long, so be nice to him, he's a nice fellow.

FIVE ELEMENTS FOR EYESIGHT LISTED BELOW

Anniston, Ala.—Five elements of adequate eyesight for the school child were listed today by Dr. F. W. Williams, Jr., president of the Alabama Optometric Association in connection with the opening of the fall term.

They are:

Near acuity—ability to focus and see clearly with each eye and both eyes together at a distance of 10 to 15 inches. This is the distance at which most school work is done.

Far acuity—the same for a distance of 20 feet. This is necessary for normal outdoor seing.

Depth perception — ability to judge space and distance relationship. This is necessary for sports, games and for normal interpertation of the three-dimensional world.

Field of vision—ability to see over a large area withoiut moving head or eyes while focused on a point. Lack of this ability may be evidence of glaucoma or other serious eye disorder.

Binocular coordination—ability to make the two eyes work together. Crossed eyes represent one form of this common shortcoming.

Dr. Williams decried the fact that the eyetests usually given in most schools do not cover the essentials.

"In the typical school the child merely reads a letter chart at a distance of 20 feet," he said. "This is inadequate, and thousands of children who cannot seet adequately for their nearpoint school tasks and normal life fail to get the care they need."

Dauphin Island To Be Linked With Mainland

Montgomery, Ala. — The State Highway Department has announced that bids will be opened here Sept. 3 for the last portion of the new bridge that will link Dauphin Island with the Alabama mainland.

The notice to contractors calls for .058 mile structural steel superstructure with lift span and operating machinery of the Dauphin Island bridge.

Contracts for other parts of the bridge already have been awarded and the bridge is now under construction. The cost is being financed by the State and locally in Mobile.

As is customary when only one project is up for bids, the Highway Department announced no estimate of the cost.

Contractors bidding on the project must agree to complete it by Jan. 1, 1955.

Plans are already under way for the development of Dauphin Island into a resort area. Sections have already been subdivided and lots sold. The bridge connecting the island to the mainland is a vital link in the overall program of development.

SCANNING THE NEWS

IF THE Democrats can win enough seats this year to take both Senate and House, it will be the third time an "out" party has accomplished the feat during the 20th Century. The Republicans did it at the 1918 mid-term election, in Woodrow Wilson's second term, and again in 1946, when Harry S. Truman was President.

The first time, the GOP gained, over the preceding election, six seats in the upper chamber and 21 in the House. In 1946, they organized both chambers after gaining 13 Senate and 56 House seats.

The only mid-term election in which the "ins" made gains in both Senate and House through wins from the opposition was in 1934, during Franklin D. Roosevelt's first term. It took another four years for the Republicans to make any gains.

Gains by one major party have not always exactly reflected losses by the other. Splinter parties, especially early in the century, sometimes held several seats and membership of both House and Senate still were being increased. Neither has been expanded since 1912.

From general election to general election, the biggest mid-term gains made in the Senate by Democrats were in 1910 and 1934, when they picked up 10 seats. Top Senate gain by Republicans, 13 seats, was in 1946.

Democrats made their biggest House gain in 1922, winning 75 more seats than they did in 1930. In 1946, the Republicans made their heaviest gain, 56 members over their elected membership of 1944. These figures do not take into account fluctuations in membership between general elections.

In 1906 the Republicans, in power, upped their Senate majority by three seats. In 1914 the Democrats increased their balance of power by five.

Political odds for or against the Democrats getting "in" during mid-term elections must take into consideration these historical facts:

The party out of power has wrested seats from the "ins" in all except one non-Presidential election (during the past half-century.)

But only twice has the party out of powe captured control of both Senate and House.

Only twice have mid-term election gains won control of the Senate for the "outs"; four times the Presidential opposition has captured the House.

But rarely have both chambers been as closely divided as they are before this year's mid-term election.

Since 1900, each new President has taken office with a Congress controlled by his party, but the party in power nearly always has lost seats with the dip of the calendar.

In one unusual control-winning instance, in 1930, the Democrats hiked their membership in the House by 51, still had six fewer members than the Republicans. However, 14 Congressmen, mostly Republicans, died between election and convening of the 72 Congress, and Democrats won enough special elections to take over.

From the Bassett and Henry County Journal, Bassett, Virginia: An American living in India hired a native electrician to wire her house. As the work proceeded, he kept coming to her for instructions: "Where shall I run this wire?" "Where should I put the wall plugs?" "Do you want the light switch by this door or that one?"

At last the woman became annoyed with his questions. "Don't keep asking me what you should do," she said, "You know what I want, use your common sense and do it."

"Madam," the electrician replied, "you are expecting too much of me. Common sense is a rare gift of God. I have only a technical knowledge."

How often have we said the same thing to our children, our wife or husband, our friends, "Use your common sense"?

When you think about it, this man was absolutely right. We speak of common sense as if it were something almost everybody has in abundance. Actually it is rare. In fact, it is much too rare ever to be taken for granted.

From the Greenwood Commonwealth, Greenwood, Mississippi: A Greenville, South Carolina widow is insisting on her right to free speech in an argument she is conducting with a neighbor dog.

The dog has a habit of barking at the moon and at imaginary intruders at all hours of the night. In self defense the widow equipped herself with a megaphone, through which she bellows back at the dog. It is not surprising that neighbors find her replies almost as disturbing as the dog's barking. She will not be silenced, however, until someone does something to keep her opponent quiet.

The woman has received a great deal of publicity. She has been interviewed by a number of newspapermen. Our advice to television and radio newsmen, however, would be to ignore the argument. If she is permitted to present her side of the case what is to stop the dog from demanding equal time to reply?

From the Webster Times, Webster, Massachusetts: Distractions cause 75 per cent of all automobile accidents, according to a prominent traffic judge. Window shopping, looking at pretty girls, setting squabbles among the children in the back seat, lighting a cigarette, these are the things that cause accidents.

It takes only a second of distraction on the part of the driver to cause a serious injury or death. It has been pointed out in an article dealing with human behavior behind the wheel.

Whose Farm Is This?

The above is a farm somewhere in Chilton County. Can you guess who it belongs to? Is it yours? If you think you know, turn in your entry to the "News" office before Saturday noon. A drawing will be held the following Monday and a lucky winner will be chosen. It may be you!

The Winners!

Winner of the Grand Prize last week was Mr. Carlos Owens of Rt. two, Maplesville. He will receive his choice of the two big prizes and his year's subscription to the Chilton County News.

The other winners last week were Mr. Giles hinself and Mrs. Carlos Owens.

my Pet Peeve by Mike Bennett

THAT yearly tribute to the hard-working American — two-weeks-vacation-with-pay—is almost past history for another sun-blistered season, I think it's a shame.

What's ahead? Cool, relaxing weather. The World Series. Fish are coming out of their summer doldrums and are anxious to bite at anything thrown into every lake, river or stream. Football and the great spectator sport, basketball, are just around the corner. There are only so-many-more shopping days 'till Christmas. Yet, whoever took a vacation at Christmas? Not the average citizen, who gets two, maybe three days off, and spends most of that on the holiday crowded highways en route to the Old Hometown.

I think it's all wrong. What can you do in hot weather, say July and August, but try to keep cool? Which you try to do anyway.

To my way of thinking, vacations should be scattered throughout the year. The average company crowds its vacations into a two or three month period. In order for Joe to get away he has to get his work far enough ahead so John can take care of the details while he is gone. When he returns, he has to pick up the "details" John didn't get around to, carry his regular load and at the same time handle the little "details" left for him by John, now away on his "vacation." By the time John returns, Joe is ready to go again; doesn't seem like he had a vacation at all.

In lieu of the above, I would support any theory designed to move the world series back to July or August; keep the thermometer below 100 degrees during this period; convince fish that a worm i just as delectable in ho water as in cold water; and give me an extra week to recuperate from my vacation before getting my sun-blistered nose back on the grindstone.

It is evident that folks in the corners of the County aren't watching for their farm in the News. This is probably due to the fact that some of the first few farms were located in the same vicinity. It's just human nature, we suppose, to say "well, they aren't even in my neck of the woods." Don't bet on it. We haven't even started yet, and by the time we finish every "neck of the woods" in Chilton County will have been represented.

We'd like to bring in a reminder here that no person under 21 years of age is eligible to win the grand prize. The parents can win and give it to them, but due to the fact that there is an age limit no minor can be counted. It isn't being unfair, because we'd rather see the kids get the prizes anyway. If they do, however, the grownups will have to win for them and then present the children with it.

Winners last week were numbered only three. There were numerous guesses, but as we said, evidently someone wasn't on their toes this week and missed the boat. We could run any farm any time so you'd better be on the lookout. It would mess up the fun if someone failed to come and identify their own farm. Folks might think they were uninterested. We know everyone is interested in a little publicity now and then and rightly should be.

By the way, grand prize winner this week was Mr. Carlos Owens, of Maplesville, Rt. 2.

As we've said in the past, if the owner of the above farm will come in to the News office by Monday we have a gift for him. An enlarged photo of his farm and he can be eligible for the grand prize, also. We know you don't want to miss any of the fun so be on the lookout for next week's farm; we still say it might be yours.

Be sure to turn in your guess to the News before Saturday at noon following publication. No guesses can be accepted after noon

LIQUOR SALES IN STATE STORES DECREASE

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama drinkers may not have drunk less liquor in July than they did the same month a year ago but they certainly bought less from state liquor stores.

Electronic Cops Stop 97 More This Month

Montgomery.—Another 97 motorists learned the hard way about Alabama's electronic cops and the state's traffic toll this week (Aug. 27) fell once again below 1953 levels.

Alabama Public Safety Director L. B. Sullivan announced the 1954 death score at 484, six under the toll for the corresponding period of 1953.

Total drivers arrested by Alabama Highway Patrol radar enforcement crews, meanwhile, passed the 200 mark. Patrol Chief Tom Carlisle said the 97 stopped at dozens of check points over the state during the week ended Tuesday (Aug. 24) brought the total since Aug. 9 to 201.

These 97 motorists, precision-clocked by the "radar cops" at illegal speeds ranging from 40 to 75, were given stern lectures and warning citations, and released.

Warning citations carry no fine or court appearance, but have the same weight as an arrest citatiion insofar as a driver's reecord and license are concerned.

Seventy-six of this week's 97-drivers, or 78 per cent, were Alabama-licensed, Carlisle said. The remainder included three each from Tennessee and Florida, two each from Missouri, Michigan and Ohio, and one each from Oklahoma, Louisiana, New York, Kentucky, Mississippi, Ilinois, Texas and Pennsylvania.

Last Week's "Mystery Farm" Identified As

The BARTLEY GILES Farm

Last week we fooled the folks and got over on the other side of the County. Evidently they weren't expecting it due to the lack of guesses compared with past weeks.

Mr. Bartley H. Giles is the owner of last weeks farm. He is on Maplesville, Rt. 2 and about four miles southeast of that town.

The Giles' have been on their farm for about seven years. It was previously the Raysey Farm. During that seven years Mr. Gil s has constructed three new buildings on his place and is still improving it.

Mr. Giles married Mrs. Giles in 1941. Her name is Florence Harrison Giles. They have two fine children, Annie Joyce who is 10 years old nd Bartley Allen who is eight. The family attends the Mt. Carmel Baptist church. Mr. Giles says his favorite hobby or pastime is bird hunting, in season of course.

The Giles Farm consists of 120 acres of rich, fertile land. He even claims that after tests on his land were made there was found some type of soil that is unlike any other in Chilton County. His is a truck farm and his main crops are watermelons and okra. He raises some beef cattle. Another progressive farm is added to our "Farm of the Week" Family.

Brenda Kay Lecroy Is Three Years Old

Happiness just beamed from Brenda Kay Lecroy's face the morning of Aug. 31 as she greeted her little guests who arrived at 9:45 to wish her a "Happy Birthday." The beautifully wrapped gifts were placed on a table covered with pink crepe paper.

The children were directed to the back yard where the gym set, sand box, and toys were ready to be used. After playing a little while the children were led on a candy hunt. The candy, covered in bright colored celophane, was hidden in the grass and shrubbery. Next the children came inside to enjoy the thrills of opening the gifts. Just as the last gift was opened Mr. Scott arrived to photograph the group.

The group assembled around the table in the dining room which was lined with inflated balloons. The table was covered in a pink and white "Happy Birthday" paper table cloth. A large 17 inch blue birthday candle, with gold letters down the side to mark the years stood in the center of the table. It had pink satin bows of ribbon on either side and pink carnations at the base. It burned slowly until it reached the 3 which marked the age of the little honoree. On one end of the table was a big punch bowl with pink lemonade. Pink and blue paper cups encircled the bowl. On the other end was the three tier birthday cake holding a pink, white, and blue candle for each year of her life. They were lighted while the children sang Happy Birthday to Brenda Kay.

After the candles were blown out the children were seated and served ice cream, cake, and pink lemonade by Brenda's mother, Mrs. Herman LeCroy and Brenda's cousin, Elizabeth Mims, with several mothers assisting.

Before the guests departed they were given a baloon and a horn as party favors.

SECRET ROMANCE

By Priscilla Smith Botti

THE young men stood before delivery trucks belonging to the Adams Drug Store. They were college friends spending their summer vacations working for a druggist in a distant city. Dan was assigned deliveries on the east side of town and Fred the west. Everything had gone smoothly until Dan, very suddenly, wanted to change runs with Fred.

"Sure I'll change," Fred answered, "but for Pete's sake why?"

"I'm in a jam," Dan replied. "Last night when I enrolled in that evening typing class I met a girl. Her name is Marcia Morgan and she's a college student learning typing too this summer."

"So it's a girl! I might have known."

Dan ignored his friend's remark. "Remember how it was raining and I told you I got wet? Well, not her. She arrived in a long sleek limousine driven by a uniformed chauffeur. We became acquainted and when she asked what line of work I was in, I lied."

"You what?"

"I told her I was a pharmacist at Adams Drug Store and intended going to school for advance study in the fall."

"Wait," called Fred. "I'll take your run, but for the life of me, I don't get the connection."

"The connection is this—Marcia lives at Estate of the Elms on the east side."

"Well, why didn't you say so in the first place," cried Fred as he jumped into Dan's truck and drove off.

Seeing Marcia walking the next night they attended class, he asked if he could escort her home. She readily accepted. When they reached Estate of the Elms, she said they were having company, but not caring to visit, she slipped quietly in the back door—a habit she continued all summer.

One morning in early September Fred was stricken with a virus. Dan would gladly have changed places with him, rather than risk being seen on the east side driving a delivery truck. To make matters worse, there was a delivery for Estate of the Elms.

Fred coached him as best he could. "Use the last driveway and pull up to the rear entrance. Ring the buzzer and the cutest little maid you ever saw will answer, but don't ask her about Marcia. I've tried it, but she's been well trained and won't say boo."

Following Fred's advice, Dan drove to the back door. As he stopped, he felt weak all over because he saw Marcia enter the door. The day was unseasonably chilly and she was wearing a light top coat. Suddenly his carefully guarded secret ceased to matter. He decided to tell the truth and take his chances.

Ringing the buzzer, he cheerfully called, "Delivery from Adams Drug Store."

He smiled at the look of bewilderment which came over Marcia's face when she opened the door and saw him. Stepping inside, he forced a brave grin. "My apologies my dear for eight weeks of deception. I am not a pharmacist. I took this job as delivery boy to help pay my college expenses. I should have told you that first night, but seeing your car, your chauffeur—well, I couldn't—"

Marcia's eyes began to dance, then she threw back her head and laughed until she cried. "To think," she finally said, "all summer I've been afraid you might find out about me through that other delivery boy 'My car, my chauffeur'—they were only loaned to me because it was raining. You see Dan, I too am working my way through college." And as Dan stood speechless, Marcia slipped off her coat, revealing the neat, trim, tiled and white uniform of a maid.

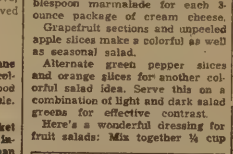
Every American military plane that flies over water carries a collapsible boat which contains food rations and a copy of the bible.

The number of middle bracket families—with $4,000 to $7,500 income a year—has more than tripled in our country since 1939.



STUFFED dates for salad are made by pitting dates and filling with a mixture of cream cheese and orange marmalade. Use 1 tablespoon marmalade for each 3-ounce package cream cheese.

Grapefruit sections and unpeeled apple slices make a colorful as well as seasonal salad.

Alternate green pepper slices and orange slices for another colorful salad idea. Serve this on a combination of light and dark salad greens for effective contrast.

Here's a wonderful dressing for fruit salads: Mix together ¼ cup mayonnaise with 2 tablespoons crushed pineapple. Fold in ¾ cup heavy cream, whipped just before serving.

Canned, ready-to-serve vegetables form the basis for a colorful but simple salad. For a good dressing, blend together equal amounts of mayonnaise and chopped cucumber and thin with a bit of cream.

Cooked prunes can be stuffed with crushed pineapple to give accents to other fruit salads. They give flavor and color contrast to fruits now in season.

METHODIST NEWS LETTER

Dear Teacher:

Well, this week we turn him over to you. For the next 12 years, in grammar and high school, you'll have him on your hands. Next to his mother and I, you'll probably be closest to him and you'll have more influence on his life than any one else except the members of his immediate family.

He's such a little boy now. A pair of sturdy legs, tanned shoulders, bright eyes, a tow head and an infectious grin. He's yours to mould. Clay for your hands and mind to fashion as you will.

He's not afraid of anything. His mind is alert and quick to learn His body's healthy, his curiosity boundless and his stubbornness agravating.

There's a lot you can do for him in the coming years. I hope you will.

Teach him to remain fearless. Never metnion the word, "fear," and perhaps he'll never know what it's like to be afraid. Respect for danger and caution and carefulness, yes, but not fear.

Cultivate that healthy curiosity he's blessed with. Let him ask a million and one questions, and you come up with a million and one answers and be waiting for the next. Keep alive always that spark of interest in the people and things around him in himself. He'll never be bored or disillusioned or cynical if his curiosity's never satisfied.

Sure, you're going to have to spank that little caboose of his occasionally. We do ourselves. Teach him discipline and respect for authority and understanding of rules and regulations, but don't curb his spirit. Let him not become a regimented automation who follows others, lockstep style, through life, never hunting a better or different way of doing anything and always being content with the status quo.

Instill in him a sense of fair play and a deep admiration for justice. Let him not be the school-yard bully, nor the school-yard coward. Show him that it is one thing to stand up for his rights and quite another to attempt to depose the rights of others. Breed in him a compassion for the weak and a feeling of kindness for the oppressed.

He already knows love, and he knows God. The two are anonymous with him. Fan the glow! Breathe with understanding and love upon that ember so that it may become a strong, enduring flame. Instruct him in the wonders of God's universe and the glory of God's works.

Teach him tolerance. Place no word or deed or malice of antagonism or hatred toward any of Heaven's children in that small heart. Let none of the venom of intolerance that any of us might feel spill upon and scar that clean soul of his.

Impress upon him the importance of cleanliness. Help him to keep clean his ideals, his mind and his body. Show him by example and illustration how strong is a clean life. Build within him a deep sense of honor and a knowledge that in way of life. Teach him that it mattegrity is not merely a word, but a ters not what a man's reputation may be. A reputation is merely what the world thinks of a person. But tell him that is character that really matters, for character is what God thinks of a person.

He'll be coming to your school and into your heart and your mind this week. Teach him all these things. Teach him well, and when these things have begun to be learned—the arithmetic and the spelling and the reading and all the rest can be taught too.

Do a good job. Some day you may be proud of him as I am right now.

Sincerely

—DAD

Christian Citizenship and Coopera- tion.

Lesson for September 12: Romans 13: 1-10; I Corinthians 5: 4-9.

Golden Text: I Corinthians 3: 9.

Christian duty demands an alle giance to the power that is supreme in the land. However bad some rulers may be, it is Christian duty to be in subjection under them because of what they represent They represent the law of the land and that law is binding upon the Christian citizen For government in its origin and authority is of God. The powers that be are or- dained of God.

It is obvious that Paul deals to some extent with an ideal situa- tion. He regards law in its highes, sense and argues that in good conscience a man will obey the law and be a good citizen and a Christian. To accomplish obedience to the law Paul would bring men under the supreme law of love which worketh no ill to a neigh- bor and which therefore leadeth a man to the fulfillment of all obligation.

In writing the Corinthians, Paul urges the laying aside of all ani- mosity in the church. The same lofty reasons that should lead a man to be loyal to the law of the land, should lead him to be true to the divine government that is over him. It is often the case that churches may be divided by par- ties clinging around different lead- ers. The first loyalty of Christians should be to their Lord and Master. For they are "God's fellow-work- ers," they are his husbandry and his building.

"I REMEMBER"
BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Margaret B. Moore, On- tario, California: I remember when a young farm hand made $17.00 a month, and room and board, with laundry sometimes included. This did not mean he had an eight hour day, but often was busy at field work from three o'clock in the morning till nine at night. There were always the chores around the barns before the early breakfast, as milking, feeding the stock, pumping water by hand and per- haps, harnessing the horses he would use for the day's work. As there were no tractors in that long ago day and only a few riding plows, it all meant foot work. This was before the Spanish-American War.

From Henrietta S. Greene, Day- tona Beach, Florida: In these days of free-flowing tile baths, it may be hard for the young 'uns to grasp the difficulty of a bath when the water had to be brought into the house in two buckets and heated on the range (ours was called "The Farmer Girl"). We had an iron kettle and after cooking the roast- ing ears for dinner I often had a bath in the same water — very sweet smelling it was, too.

From E. E. Meredith, Fairmont, West Virginia: Do you remember when . . . mother used a broom- straw to see if the cake in the oven was done? When bricks cov- ered with old pieces of carpet were used as door stops? When the basic emotion was not referred to as sex-appeal?

Can United States, as Leader of Free World, Let Communist Expansion Upset Our Applecart?

By WALTER SHEAD
Washington Correspondent
National Weekly Newspaper Service
(This is the third in a series of articles on the crisis in Indochina.)

IN CONSIDERING the importance of Indochina to the United States, two premises must be assumed. The first is that whether we like it or not, this country is today looked to for world leadership. The second is that we have vital stakes in the Far East for which we have spent billions of dollars and sacrificed thousands of American lives . . . these stakes are the Philippines, Japan and Korea. We are morally obligated and committed by treaty to preserve their freedom.

Therefore the question arises can we as the leader of the free world allow our position to be eroded, piece by piece, by the expansion of either Russian or Chinese Communist control further into Asia.

Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith, puts it more dramatically. "Dare we permit" this further expansion, he asks. Our principal allies, Britain and France have even more of a stake. Burma, Malaya, the crown colonies, Singapore and Hong Kong are the remnants of a once vast colonial British empire in Asia. Britain also has the Commonwealths of Australia and New Zealand in the Southwest Pacific with which the United States has a mutual defense pact.

While France is giving up its colonial rule in Indochina, her huge investments made there during some 90 years are perhaps safe from expropriation.

Indochina is a rich, almost untapped nation as to natural resources. Indochina is the "rice bowl" of the orient and the rice crop covers approximately 3 out of 4 acres cultivated.

Should this rich source of food and natural resources disappear behind the iron curtain, the economy and the peoples of Japan, the Philippines and Korea would suffer.

From a strategic standpoint, Indochina lies across the most direct route, both sea and air, between the Pacific and south Asia. There is an almost unanimity of opinion among those best qualified to judge in our state department that (1) Red China will seek to overrun all of Indochina, and, (2) if Indochina falls, then Thailand, Burma, the Malay peninsula and the Republic of Indonesia will be next in line of erosion. This would mean 145.4 million more people swallowed behind the iron curtain . . . Indochina, 29 million; Thailand, 18.3 million; Republic of Indonesia, 78 million; Burma, 17 million; Malay states, 2.1 million and Singapore 1 million. Hong Kong with its more than 2,000,000 likely would go.

But despite the tremendous world stakes on the block in Indochina, there is still some foot-dragging as between Britain, France and the United States in getting together on any acceptable agreement for united action. Thailand, thus far is the only Asian nation which has indicated its willingness to join a collective security pact. India is cool and remains neutral. Indonesian sympathies appear headed towards communism. Burma and Malaya will follow the British lead. Australia and New Zeland may go along. So will the Philippines.

But there the united policy espoused by Secretary Dulles and this administration appears to be stymied by the "co-existence" propaganda so appealingly put forth by Moscow, and virtually accepted in lieu of "united action" by Great Britain and France.

The results of the Geneva conference boil down to the fact that the western world failed in its objective to eliminate the partition of Korea, and agreed to partition of Indochina . . . were not willing to take the calculated risk of Moscow co-existence line . . . and the Moscow bluff worked.

As this writer sees the picture in the Far East now, the stalemate in Korea will remain unless the USA is willing to reopen the war there on its own, and despite Gen. Van Fleet's recommendation that we do just that, we will NOT do so unless Red China's violations of the truce become so flagrant we can no longer remain passive and keep our self-respect in the eyes of the world and particularly in the eyes of Asians.

Certainly our prospects for peace have not been bettered, either by the truce in Korea or in Indochina. Secretary Dulles has been in favor of a strong policy. He has not been upheld either by our principal allies, nor by influential leaders in his own party at home. He has been forced to accept a policy of appeasement which may cost this country dearly. Mr. Dulles knows as do many here in Washington, that all is not well behind the iron curtain, that the western world has appeased when Communist Russia and China may be at their weakest point both by over-extension and by internal revolt. He admits his plan of united action or massive retaliation might involve serious risks.

"But these risks," he says, "are far less than those which will face us a few years from now, if we dare not be resolute today . . . sometimes it is necessary to take risks to win peace just as it is necessary to take risks to win a victory. The chances for peace are usually bettered by letting a potential aggressor know in advance where his aggression could lead him."

Editor's note—the next article will deal with the individual stake of every American in the Indochinese war and the situation in the Far East.

"SEZ I TO MYSELF"

Sez I to myself, as I grumbled and growled,
I'm sick of my church, and then how I scowled.
The members unfriendly, the sermons too long,
In fact, it seems everything's wrong.
I don't like the singing, the church, a disgrace,
For signs of neglect are well over the place.
I'll quit going there, and I won't give a dime,
I can make better use of my money and time.

Then sez my conscience to me, sez he,
The trouble with you is you're too blind to see,
That your church reflects YOU, whatever it be,
Now come, pray and pray and serve cheerfully.
Stop all your fault finding and back it up strong,
You'll be proud to belong.
Be friendly and willing to sing as you work
For churches aren't built by members who shirk.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

THE five-year-old won't be old enough to go to school this year, but all the talk of school he hears in the neighborhood has stirred in him a great desire for knowledge.

For several days now, he has busied himself learning to print letters and even a few short words. His results aren't perfect by any means, but he is improving. He ran into trouble with one of his efforts. He called to me:

"Mother, please come show me how to make a money 'S.' I've tried and tried and I can't make one."

For a minute, he had me baffled. Then I realized that what he wanted to make was a dollar sign!

The next door neighbor paused in the kitchen door as she started home the other morning, and said "If you have any tea left over, please don't throw it away. I can put it to good use."

Now, I had always thought that the only good use for iced tead is to drink it, but I know that she never drinks tea. So, of course, I had to find out what other good use she had for it.

"I use cold tea as a fertilizer for my house plants," she explained. "It acts as an insecticide, too. I use it also to help with my house cleaning. You'd be surprised at how varnished surfaces shine when they're wiped with a cloth that has been dipped in cool, weak tea."

Now, I'm conscience-stricken over all the good plant fertilizer and household cleanser I've allowed to be wasted all these years.

THE thrifty next door neighbor says that stale but not hardened pieces of bread make the best wallpaper cleaner she knows anything about. She rubs chunks of the bread over the wallpaper in even, vertical strokes to erase the soiled spots on the paper.

Even unsightly fingerprints disappear like magic," she says. Thus is found a practical use for another leftover.

THE neighbor down the street has some particularly pretty house plants (she uses cold tea on them occasionally, too, and I wondered who would take the responsibility of caring for them while she was away on vacation.

When I asked her, she replied, "I won't need anybody to water my plants for me. I have a system."

Her system is to cut a strip of soft white cloth about two inches wide and two feet long, put one end of the strip in a pail of water set slightly higher than the plant and bury the other end near the roots of the plant. The strip will keep a plant well watered for about a week, she says.

OUR good cook neighbor makes special dressings for her summer salads. Her basic dressings is made by whipping 1-2 cup sour cream into 1 cup of sieved and salted cottage cheese. For fruit salad toppings, she adds sliced maraschino cherries to the dressing, and for vegetable salads she adds chopped onion.

ARE YOU GETTING THE MOST FROM YOUR HOME'S ELECTRIC SYSTEM?

Electrical appliances and lamps give best service when receiving the required amount of electricity. When electric wires in the home are not large enough or there aren't enough circuits, lights burn with less than full brightness . . .

- . . . lights flicker as an appliance starts
- . . . there may be radio and television interference
- . . . refrigerators run excessively
- . . . air conditioning units do not perform well
- . . . fuses blow out

Alabama Power Company has worked out a plan by which you can finance a re-wiring job over a period of 24 months. This offers you an opportunity to have a home as up to date as a brand new one in so far as wiring is concerned so that you may get full performance from the electrical appliances you have now or expect to have. Hey Farmer-

Emergency Farm Loans Are Available To Drought Victims

Mr. James T. Lunsford, State Director of the Farmers Home Administration, Montgomery, Alabaphree, County Sueprvisor, that Chilton County has been designated as a disaster area, and authorized the making of Production Emergency Loans to eligible applicants who suffered drought damage in 1954.

The primary purpose of the Production Emergency loan program is the extension of credit to farmers and stockmen who have suffered substantial damage as a result of a production disaster and who are unable to obtain from commercial banks, cooperative lending agencies or other sources the credit required to carry on their farming or livestock operations.

Any farm owner, farm operator or stockman (including a partnership of corporation engaged primarily in farming or stock-raising operations) who has suffered substantial damage, as a result of a production disaster, is eligible to receive an Emergency loan, provided he is unable to obtain the necessary credits for continuing his farming operations from other local sources of credit. Before a loan is made, the local County Committee must certify that, to the best of its knowledge and belief, the applicant has suffered a substantial loss in production, is unable to obtain needed financing from other local sources of credit to continue his farming operation and that the applicant has the necessary experience and ability and will honestly endeavor to carry out the undertakings and obligations required of him under the loan. The local County Committee is composed of the following Messrs. R. L. Culp, F. T. Williams and E. E. Edwards.

Produciton Emergency loans may be made for the purchase of feed, seed, fertilizer, insecticide, fuel for tractors, the purchase of livestock and other agricultural purposes not inconsistent with the limitations set forth in connection with any of the above purposes. These loans will not be made for the purpose of refinancing existing debts either secured or unsecured or for the payment of cash rent on crop land These loans will bear interest from the date of the advance at the rate of 3 per cent per annum on the unpaid principal balance and will be scheduled for repayment when the principal income from the sale of the livestock or livestock products normally can be expected.

Each Production Emergency loan will be secured for its full amount by a first lien on all livestock, machinery, farm equipment purchased with the proceeds of the loan and a first lien on all crops growing or to be grown. When a loan is made to a tenant, the landlord will be required to subordinate all his interest in the crop being financed with the proceeds of the loan if the rental agreement is for cash or standing rent. Where tenants are renting for a share of the crops, landlords will not be required to subordinate their interest in the crop for the crop year for which the loan is made.

Farmers interested in making application for Production Emergency loans should contact the local Farmers Home Administration office, which is located in the Higgins Building, Clanton, Alabama. All applications will be given prompt consideration.

Q—How many signers were there to the Declaration of Independence?

A—There were fifty-six signers. These included 15 lawyers; 1 brewer; 8 farmers; 16 judges; 2 physicians; 3 soldiers; 8 merchants; 1 manufacturer; 1 college president and 1 printer-publisher.

Q—Do parity price supports keep retail food bills high?

A—The House Agricultural committee conducted a recent survey on this subject and declared while farm prices are reported down 30 points from the peak reach on the official index in 1951, you pay today about as much as you did then for your groceries.

SCANNING THE NEWS

PROBABLY the most important measure to come out of this congress, once it clears all the hurdles, is the Atomic Energy Act of 1954. It is the first major revision of the original McMahon Act of 1946

Its objectives are three-fold. First—to open up the entire field, except weapons, of atomic energy to private enterprise for peacetime purposes; (2) to protect the taxpayers' investment of some $12 billions of dollars which the government has put into research and know-how, and (3) to continue to safeguard the national security and safety by building up a stock pile of essential by-products from source materials.

A study of two years of hearings by the Joint Comittee on Atomic Energy indicate the committee and the Atomic Energy Commission both have been put under tremendous pressure to turn this vast new field over to private industry with few safeguards. And as a matter of fact, the armor of the committee was punctured here and there by the tremendous lobby pressure, on several important points—on the question of patent rights which would build up a monopoly by the few huge industries which have been working with the AEC, and which presumably would be the first to apply for licenses under the act . . . on the question of power generated from government operated pilot or research plants. Business did not like the patent provisions which threw a protective screen around patent rights for a period of five to ten years, forcing firms to share patents with newcomers in the field for an adequate royalty fee. Neither did business like the power provisions which sought to maintain the half-century of government public power precedents by giving preference to states, municipalities and farmer cooperatives. The fight over these issues brought on a 13-day filibuster, and when the conference committee weakened and failed to maintain the senate amendments, the Senate voted to send the bill back to a new conference committee after some of the most dramatic parliamentary maneuvering yet tried at this session of the Congress.

Senator Walter George, the veteran member of the Senate in point of service, asserted his vote on this bill the most important in his long years of service.

What to expect from private enterprise in this new field is difficult to determine. The cost is heavy, the risks great, and the rules laid down in the law and by the commission will be complex. But it is a lush new industrial frontier to create power, to aid agriculture, to propel ships, trucks, tractors, locomotives, for medicinal research and treatment, for preservation of foods without refrigeration.

There were early predictions that if the Administration farm bill failed to clear congress this year, it would go into effect. It will be remembered that in 1949, the 80th congress passed a flexible price support law. That act never saw the light of day, since before it became effective, the Congress passed an amendment calling for two more years of 90% rigid parity. But this old 1949 act remained on the books, as the Aiken-Anderson-Hope Act and if no farm bill was passed, or if the President vetoed a bill that was passed, the old Aiken act would become law. Thus the administration had the farm bloc over a barrel on the flexible-rigid price support issue which resulted in a compromise of 82½ to 90% of parity instead of 75 to 90%

my PET PEEVE by Mike Bennett

GLANCING through the editorial pages of America's weekly newspapers these days one realizes instantly that editors everywhere are supporting the crusade to cut down traffic deaths on the nation's highways.

These editorial blasts, more than often, refer to a page one story recounting a crash that snuffed out the life of one, two, three, or sometimes several human beings.

I hope that editors everywhere continue to carry on the campaign, for the situation on our highways today is certainly appalling. The average citizen, out for a leisurely Sunday afternoon drive, shouldn't have to compete with some of the nuts that use the automobile as a weapon of death and destruction.

Some rather lucky motorists manage to get along for a while without encountering a speed demon or an intoxicated driver. Fortunately, they're not as numerous as they could be. You can't get on the road at all, however, without meeting some of their "cousins," who are just as dangerous.

In my book, two of the worst are classed as "bumper riders" and "scooters." The "bumper rider" comes out of nowhere, usually in the vicinity of hills and curves, and rides along behind you, so close you couldn't drop a piece of paper between the two cars. He's so anxious to get ahead, he'd go over or under if he thought he could make it. The "scooter" isn't always sure he can make it, but he tries it anyway, scooting out into the oncoming traffic lane, zipping in and out, in and out.

If the situation gets any worse, automobiles, like medicine should be inscribed with the words: WARNING — Use caution. This product is extremely dangerous if not used properly.

WENDY DREW who plays the title role on the top rated daytime show, "Young Widder Brown," no longer has any doubts as to how seriously the show is taken by the public . . . She was shopping recently when a middle-aged woman approached her and said, "I recognize your voice — you're 'Young Widder Brown' . . . and I want to tell you, young lady, you had better wake up to the schemings of Millicent Lorring and the rest of your conniving friends . . . or they're going to wreck your life" . . . Dumfounded, Wendy promised to heed the lady's well-meant warning . . . But never again will she question the credibility of the soap opera!

Incidentally, Wendy leads radio's most interesting double life . . . Every afternoon, she is heard as the 13-year-old daughter of "Young Doctor Malone" . . . Upon finishing that quarter hour stint, she hastily ages 20 years as she hurries over to the NBC studios to assume the role of the "young widder," Ellen Brown . . . That should set some kind of record or other.

successful farmers depend upon.....

Practically every farmer in Chilton County will need good grazing this winter as a part of his year-round feed program. And those who do the best job of producing winter grazing will make the highest profits from their livestock.

Recently quite a few farmers have told me they are going to plant grazing crops on as many acres as possible because:

1. Winter grazing stretches feed supplies and cuts costs of producing meat and milk.

2. Winter grazing helps keep livestock in a healthy, thrifty condition.

3. Winter grazing saves the labor and cost of harvesting and storing feed.

4. Winter grazing helps improve the land and reduces soil erosion. These are sound reasons. I am sure you agree not only with these points but also with the fact that we in Chilton County must plant more land to grazing crops so we can have more livestock and products to sell.

Perhaps you have already planned for a good acreage of winter grazing. If you have not, think about this fact: Experience of many of our best farmers and research results prove that every farm, large or small, needs ample winter grazing for all types of livestock—milk cows, beef cattle, hogs and sheep.

We in Chilton County are fortunate to have a fairly large number of crops and mixtures that grow under our conditions. Some of these crops are;

Crimson Clover-rye-grass. This is one of the oldest and very best winter grazing mixtures. If fertilized right and with favorable weather, the mixture furnishes grazing from November until about May.

Vetch and either oats or wheat. Both of these mixtures have been standbys for nearly half a century. In addition to being good grazing crops, they make big growths to save as hay or silage if top-dressed with nitrogen in spring.

Oats alone. Every farmer in Chilton County can grow oats. The crop can be grazed from fall until March and then be allowed to make a grain crop. The grain can be either harvested or left in the field for hogs to graze.

Winter Legumes Alone. Crimson clover, vetch, manganese burr and button burr clover seeded alone for grazing. The crops are especially good for hogs and poultry. If animals are taken off the grazing by early March, enough growth is normally made to turn under ahead of a corn crop.

Other grazing plants. Other grazing plants we can use include rescue, rye, Austrian peas, burr clovers, and fescue on very wet lands.

Some of the pointers that must be flooded to succeed with any of the crops listed are:

1. Plant on suitable, well-prepared land.

2. Fertilize according to county egent's recommendations or soil test.

3. Seed on time—early September in this county.

4. Use plenty of well-cleaned seed, preferably certified seed.

5. Be sure to innoculate legumes and treat grains.

It will pay to cut drought-damaged corn and cure it for roughage. This will give you extra land on which to seed winter grazing.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

We cannot understand why a few citizens of our county continue to harrass our county officials. You don't have to ask us. Records at the office of Ralph Sagerton, State Examiner, will show that these same men who are accused have brought Chilton County from a county smeared in every nook and cranny of the state to a model county. Today, whether you believe it or not, Chilton County is pointed to by officials in the Highway Department and in the State Examiner's office, as a county in good financial condition, and a road program with accomplishments that are unsurpassed. This mind you, in only three years. Yet there are some who continue to nag and condemn instead of cooperating. How can we expect to get good men to contest for these offices if this disgruntled few continue their unfair tactics. Chilton County today, is in the best financial condition it has ever been in. Today our roads and our road system is in excellent condition. These conditions were brought on by Probate Judge M. D. Tingle, Joseph Mullins, who is County Attorney, Jack Lenoir, Jim Dunlap, Harold Smith and Sherman Motley. Let's give them a pat on the back instead of a kick in the pants for their faithful work for our county.

Received a very nice letter this week from Mrs. Delos (Martha) Culp. You know Delos is President of Livingston State Teachers College now and she was anxious to get her Chilton County News changed to her new address. She says they are going to love their work and all of us, knowing Delos and Mrs. Culp like we do, know that Livingston State Teachers will love them.

Roy Mahan's little six year old son Bobby, fell from a tree late Sunday afternoon and broke both legs just above the knee. Bobby had only been in school for four days and will now have to be laid up in the hospital for several weeks plus a long stay at home in bed. Bobby is at St. Vincent Hospital at Birmingham in room 41 Visiting hours are 3 to4 and 7 to 8 p.m.

Kelly Gentry came by to see us last Saturday afternoon. Kelly is a real old-timer and is still interested in keeping up with what goes on in Chilton County even though he has only visited his old home town twice in the past 48 years. He says he came back in 1933 when his father died and again last year when his mother died. His headquarters at Mobile is room 605 at the Cawthorn Hotel which he has had since 1918. That should set some kind of a record for keepin gthe same hotel room anyway. While here he stayed at the Willingham Hotel and commended Buddy and Ruby Willingham highly ou their nice place. Seems everyone who stays there enjoys their stay. Kelly Gentry is with the L & N Railroad and has been in their employ for nearly half a century.

Judge R. B. Carr of the State Court of Appeals and Judge M. D. Tingle were presented to the North Alabama Methodist Conference last Saturday at Birmingham Southern where the Methodist were holding Annual Conference.

We understand the Chilton County High School Band will blossom out Friday night in their new uniforms for the first time. Thanks to the Band Boosters Club and the hard work of many of the parents the uniforms are paid for with the exception of a very few dollars. The cost was more than three thousand. Lamar DeLoach has worked very hard to give CCHS a good band we hope the parents will stay behind him this year as they have the past year and help him in every way possible.

This is the time of year when the trees start taking their clothes off and we start putting more clothes on.

Here lies the bones of Johnny Blight,
He drove too fast they say.
He didn't see the warning light,
His bones are her to stay.

More than 30 million transactions per hour take place in American retail stores. This means that one out of eight Americans is buying something in a retail store at any given hour.

The 33 million dollar Greater Pittsburgh Airport, opened about two years ago, is the world's second largest.

Half the meat produced in the world is beef and veal, four tenths is pork, less than a tenth is mutton, and the rest is goat and horse meat.

Four Of Counties Top Teams Play Friday

The Chilton County High School Tigers open their 1954 football season here tomorrow night against the Maplesville Red Devils. Kickoff time will be at 7:30. Clanton has eleven 1953 lettermen returning this season, namely: Obra Wilson, Curtis Baker, Donald Smith, Jimmy Puckett, Charles Payton, Edward Billingsley, Billy Joe Ingram, Edmund Littlejohn, Roy Mims, Arthur Robinson and Boyce Comer.

The probable starters for the Tigers against the Red Devils will be Wilson and Oaks, Ends; Puckett and Glasscock, Tackles; Payton and Powell, Guards; Billingsley, Center; Littlejohn, Quarterback; Roy Mims and Arthur Robinson, Halfbacks; and Boyce Comer, Fullback.

Leading the cheers for the Tigers this year will be Janice Young, Martha Bell, Ardith Askins, Ann Spicer, Janice Wood, Mary Lou Greene, Geraldine Melton and Gloria Robinson.

The seating capacity at the football field has been enlarged this summer and a crowd of over two thousand is expected to be present at kickoff time, 7:30.

Friday night at 7:30 the Jemison Panthers will take on the Verbena Red Devils at the Jemison High School football field.

It is to be Jemison's second game of the season and Verbena's first. The Verbena team now boasts a 39 game winning streak which should make the game an interesting one. The Jemison Panthers got beat in their first game of the season by the Childersburg team with a score of 33 to 0.

It is reported that a record crowd is expected at the game tomorrow night and everyone is urged to attend the game.

Verbena Coach Porch and his squad are reportedly out to make their winning streak a round 40 and the Jemison team under Coach Eubanks leadership are out to break that winning streak. Be there and be a witness to a well fought, clean football game between Jemison and Verbena.

Heard Quashes Cases On County Officials

Last Friday morning Judge Victor J. Heard quashed the cases against Probate Judge M. D. Tingle, Joseph Mullins, Jack Lenoir, and Jim Dunlap relating to the holding of secret meeting behind closed doors.

When the papers were issued the defendants demanded an immediate hearing which was granted and which ended in all claims being quashed.

Attorney Joseph Mullins stated "the occasion was brought about through ignorance and a lack of knowledge of the law," in an interview later.

Judge Victor J. Heard stated this week that the claims were quashed on the grounds that the warrants were not legally issued in that when turned over to the Clerk they instructed him to hold for further instructions. This according to the ruling of Judge Heard was illegal.

Living Witnesses. Matthew 5: 13-16; Acts 8: 4-6; II Corinthians 5: 14-21.

Golden Text: Matthew 5: 16.

Salt has been employed from the remote past as a preservative of food and it is significant that Jesus told his disciples that they were the salt of the earth. A devoted husband once told the writer how he dreaded to take his wife to live at a sawmill where conditions were rough and many of the men were wicked. But she insisted on going with him and with pride he told what a fine effect her presence and her influence had over the place. But if the salt has lost its saltiness through adulteration, what good is it?

Jesus also likened Christians to a city set on a hill and to a light lifted on high. If the light borne by a man who is respected and trusted is allowed to grow dim and die out for lack of fuel and timely care, how great may the injury to those who have followed him as their example!

The love of Christ supports those who witness for him and makes them to bear a bright and shining light amid the darkness of sin. They must lay aside all personal considerations and even the thought of Jesus as a man to think of him as the ever-living God who was in the world to reconcile men unto himself. This is our highest witness—to tell the world of a Savior who can cleanse and save unto the uttermost.

County Clean-

Grand Jury Submits Report to Judge Melton

When the Grand Jury made its report to Judge Oakley W. Melton this week 27 True Bills and 6 No Bills were found. The body reported 54 witnesses examined during the hearings and gave the various county offices under their inspection a clean bill of health. Here is the report:

We, the Grand Jury, empaneled for the September Term of the Circuit Court, after receiving your Honor's most able charge, entered upon our investigations of the matters that came before us as Grand Jurors, and herewith submit the following report:

We have examined 54 witnesses and found, in our best judgement, 27 True Bills and 6 No Bills.

We have made a personal inspection of the County Jail, and believe it to be sufficiently safe for the keeping of the prisoners and find that the prisoners confined therein are being well fed and cared for with reasonable comfort.

The public books and records of this County were not examined, inasmuch as periodic detailed audits of such records are conducted by the State Examiner of Public Accounts.

This Grand Jury made a diligent inquiry into gaming in this County. From the evidence presented to us, we are of the opinion that no professional gambling exists in this county at the present time. We were informed that no pinball machines, slot machines or other illegal gambling devices are now in operation in the county. We commend the law enforcement officials of our county for this state of affairs and we urge them to be ever diligent in the enforcement of the gambling laws in order that our county may not suffer the same fate as at least one other county in this state.

This Grand Jury made an inspection of the County Courthouse. We find the building to be dilapidated and in places apparently unsafe. Various public officials are badly cramped for working space and the need of a new courthouse or extensive remodeling or repairing of the present building is obvious to everyone. We, therefore, recommend either the building of a new courthouse or a complete remodeling of the present building.

The Grand Jury wishes to commend Sheriff J. L. Kendrick and his deputies for the able and efficient manner in which they are discharging their official duties. The Grand Jury feels that the good people of our county should continue to give our Sheriff and his deputies their cooperation and lend their aid in every way possible to try to make our county a better place in which to live and rear our children.

The Grand Jury wishes to commend and thank Mr. Mitchell DeVaughn, who acted as Bailiff for this Grand Jury.

And, now having completed investigation of all cases brought before us, we ask to be recessed according to law and the rules of this Court.

Respectfully submitted,
-s- H. Dalton Bice

New City Ordinance Authorizes Penalizing Careless Water Users

It was reported this week that Clanton's water situation is still one for concern and one that could become very acute. Yellow Leaf Creek, the source of our present water supply is nearing the point where it will no longer be useful for piping water to the town. Such a state is trying to be prolonged as long as possible and the only hope is a good old fashioned rain.

The co-operation of the citizens was asked last week and it is reported by the mayor this week that most of the people complied with that request. There were some few who did not heed the warning, however, and forced the mayor and council into passing a city ordinance placing a fine and possible jail sentence for any one using the water for unnecessary purposes.

The mayor stated in a letter Monday that the ordinance had been passed and that anyone not complying with it was guilty of breaking the law. Here is the mayor's most recent letter:

I wish to publicly praise the great majority of Clanton people for their splendid cooperation by economizing in the use of water when informed of the acute shortage. I am proud of them, they are doing a patriotic and unselfish public service and proving excellent citizenship.

We regret, however, there are a very few people who refused to help in the least, and they are directly responsible for the City Council passing an ordinance last night placing a penalty up to $100 and six months labor or imprisonment, on any one violating the emergency regulations.

We hope they read the ordinance published elsewhere in this paper, and will comply with the law because the City Officials do not want their money or labor; we only want to conserve the water we have for the benefit of all, not just a few.

A green lawn causes cruel criticism of the owner instead of a friendly compliment, and justly so.

Respectfully,
C. FENN JONES, Mayor.

A NEW ORDINANCE

We learn on good authority that Mayor C. Fenn Jones will back a movement this week within the City Council to have an ordinance providing a fine for the misuse of city water while the crisis last.

We believe this to be fair and that it should have been enacted before our water supply got so low and not after.

Just let us hope we haven't again locked the door after the horse was stolen.

ED YEARGAN PRAISED

E. R. Yeargan, who is the 1954 chairman in Chilton County for the American Cancer Society received high praize for his work during the recent campaign to raise funds for the society.

Results were announced this week and show that Chilton Countians gave $1,899.17 for cancer research. The county quota was $1,185.00 which indicates that we in Chilton County are behind the American Cancer Society and its work and are willing to back it with our money.

Mr. Yeargan expressed appreciation to both those who donated money to the campaign and also to those who, besides giving money, gave of their time and energy to the work of conducting a successful campaign.

COULD BE REMEDIED

We see no need for the hap-hazard parking that was practiced this past week at the air port during our County Fair. With acres of parking space there was absolutely no need for anyone to be "hemmed in" for hours waiting to "get out" when it could have been prevented so easily.

We noted that many Fair visitors parked along the road outside the grounds because of inability to get onto the grounds. This was not necessary with all the room that was available had parking lanes been drawn off and rules and regulations enforced.

Don't get us wrong. We are not condemning M. R. (Red) Glasscock or any of his force, male or female, for anything. We have never seen a harder working crew or a crew more deserving of the praise of a people than is Red Glasscock and his co-workers. They worked day and night to bring to Chilton County a "County Fair" and they did a mighty swell job.

Now since we who held a lesser light have been handed the pattern let's put our efforts and ideas with those of Messrs. Glasscock and assistants and have a real County Fair next year. You see what can be done with only a few working—think what could really be accomplished with the rest of we drones working also. Couldn't we show off our home county?

THIS GUIDING LIGHT MUST NOT FAIL

Things we -SEE- and Hear by "Tuck"

IT'S UP TO YOU

If "give a little, take a lot" is your philosophy,
You'll never gain the place in life
That you would like to be.

If, on the other hand, you give,
And take the same amount;
You still won't find the happiness,
The things in life that count.

But, if you strive at taking less,
And giving that much more,
You'll find the happiness you seek,
The things you're striving for.

We're mighty glad that Chilton County isn't noted for its apples. If it were, someone might think those used out at the carnival last week were home grown, and from the looks of some of them we don't think we'd be very apt to advertise the fact.

It is inspiring to hear a man of means advocate the saying, "everything happens for the best." It is more impressive, however, coming from a man who has little or nothing.

Mr. J. Congor Cummings dropped in again Saturday to see us and talked for a while on this 'n that. He comes in quite often to talk to us and to renew his subscription. He seems to like our braud of thinking and we think his is pretty straight, too. He's a big talker, but everything he says is something that needs saying, and no matter how many times you hear it, it still helps to be reminded now and then of what's right and what's wrong and what the other fellow thinks about both.

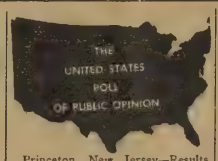
We've gotten on three sides of two highways (you figure it out) with our "Farms of the Week" series now, so maybe folks will believe that we did cover the entire county after all. We haven't run but a few farms so far and different parts have been represented so if you live in the northeast corner of the southwest side of section 42A you still have a chance at getting your livestock's picture in the paper. Watch for it.

There's an old saying . . . what goes up has to come down. We sure wish some of that water that old Sol has drawn up would begin to come back to terra ferma. Preferably, Chilton County terra ferma.

Ya' know, we never have gotten around to reminding you folks that the Shell station here in town is under new management. Hoover Armstrong, the big red headed fellow who, a few years back did pretty good on the CCHS tigers football line has taken on the responsibility. He is a most ambitious cuss and we think he's going to do all right in his new job. He has assured us of satisfactory treatment of our car and we know he'll do the same for yours.

If you're one of those folks who doesn't believe it isn't one of the driest times we've seen in some time in these parts go out in the back yard and try driving a few stakes with a double bitted ax. We'll bet there are even some creek beds in the county that would be hard to dig a hole in.

There are so many types and kinds of insurance these days, it's a wonder they haven't started trying to sell you insurance to insure your insurance. What we really need is some insurance on the premiums that seem to come around so often.



Princeton, New Jersey—Results of the latest United States Poll survey show that among the nation's Independent voters, those who lean toward the Democratic Party outnumber those who lean toward the GOP by a margin of 9 per cent.

And Independents by a margin of 10 per cent prefer Democratic Congressional candidates (House of Representatives) over GOP Congressional candidates.

Each Independent voter in today's nationwide survey was first asked:

"As of today, do you lean more to the Democratic Party or to the Republican Party?"

Lean toward Democratic	46%
Lean toward Republican	37
Lean toward neither	17

A comparison of today's survey findings with those reported by the United States Poll on January 28, 1954 (7 months ago) shows that the number of Independents who say they lean toward the Democratic Party has jumped 2 percentage points while the number leaning toward the GOP has jumped 3 percentage points.

At the same time, the number who say they lean toward neither party has dropped 5 percentage points.

The January 28 United States Poll results on the same question showed 44 per cent leaning toward the Democratic Party; 34 per cent leaning toward the GOP, and 22 per cent leaning toward neither political party.

Answers to a second question in today's survey show that the nation's Independents TODAY express greater preference for Democratic Congressional candidates (House of Representatives) than they do for GOP Congressional candidates.

"If the eletcions for Congress were being held today, which party would you like to see in this state—the Democratic or the Republican?"

Democratic	55%
Republican	45

A comparison of today's Congressional candidate vote with that reported by the United States Poll on January 28 shows that Democratic Congressional candidates have registered a 1 per cent drop among the nation's Independent voters; whereas Republican Congressional candidates have registered a 1 per cent gain since that time.

The January 28 United States Poll results on the same question showed 56 per cent Democratic; 44 per cent Republican.

Today's results on the above question are all the more significant when it is realized that in the 1952 Congressional Elections, Independents preferred GOP Congressional candidates by a margin of 6 per cent.

In the 1952 Congressional Elections, the nation's Independent voters divided as follows: for GOP Congressional candidates, 53 per cent; for Democratic Congressional candidates, 47 per cent.

The latest United States Poll findings show that 1 out of every 5 of the nation's potential voters These Independents will hold the consider themselves Independents. balance of power politically in the nation in November's all-important Congressional Elections.

It must be emphasized that today's Poll findings reflect only current sentiment and that much can happen between now and November.

The United States Poll will continue to follow shifts in voter preference, reporting on election events and showing changes as they occur right up to Election Day.

The Chilton County News presents the reports of the United States Poll exclusively in this area.

Growing in Christian Love.
Lesson for September 19: Matthew 5: 43-48; 1 John 4: 11-19.
Golden Text: Colossians 3: 14.

Jesus told his hearers that they had heard by them of old time that men should love their neighbors and hate their enemies, but he would give them a higher law, that they should love their enemies and pray for them that despitefully used them and persecuted them. Thus did he condemn a perverted law and give them the higher law of love.

Without this higher law of love, Christians would be no more and do no more than others and would be entitled to no reward for good deeds. In order to grow in Christian love, men must become like God and be as perfect in their degree in the matter of love as God is himself.

In the first Epistle of John, we find the writer setting before men the high reason for their striving toward perfect love. They must love because God first loved them. And by the Spirit of God dwelling in them through faith, they may attain unto a love that will bear testimony to the fact that the Father hath sent his Son to be the Savior of the world.

And with the love of God in the heart, there will be no fear and nothing that will destroy the good. For the love of God will bring men into constant communion with him.

BRUISING MARKET HOGS COSTS FARMERS MONEY

Handling market hogs carelessly can be costly.

According to G. E. Phillips, API Extension animal industry specialist kicking and prodding hogs while they're being sent to market results in a great loss of good ham.

Very often packers have to cut away bruised places on many carcasses. This loss, says Phillips, falls to the hog producer indirectly. If growers and stockyard workers will handle animals carefully their loss will be reduced.

Canvass slappers should be substituted for rough handling, concludes the livestockman.

DALE CARNEGIE
AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

GEORGE C. GERSTNER, 1907 Chesterfield Drive, Garden City, Kansas, says that he once worried so much that he worried himself right out of a job.

He was manager of a shoe department in Garden City, Kansas, and the business was good, exceptionally good. But as the months went by the business kept falling off, and he did not know the cause. He worried so much about the business that instead of trying to sell the customers the shoes, he worried about whether they were going to buy them. This kept on to the point where he was not selling even one pair of shoes a day.

CARNEGIE

One day his wife said she was sure she could tell him what was wrong with his business. He answered, "Yes? Then do so." She said, "You worry about every little thing that comes along, and people do not like a man who worries. You will have to stop your worrying and be yourself, before people will come into the store to buy your merchandise.

But he kept on for more than six months, and he was not making enough money on salary and commission for their living expenses. So he was forced to get a new job.

Several months after he got the new position, his mother-in-law passed away, and he and his wife started going to church three and four times a week. He found that by going to church and telling the Lord his troubles and worries, he found a solution. Faith in God restored his peace of mind and with peace of mind came contentment, happiness — and eventual business success.

METHODIST NEWSLETTER

A General Speaks:

The other day I ran across a statement which I would like to pass on to the readers of the Chilton County News. This is a quote from a Lieut.-General of the United States Army, W. K. Harrison.

"It is wonderful to be a believer in the Lord Jesus Christ and I am exceedingly thankful that God has graciously led me to saving faith in Christ. In the Bible, the Word of God, the Lord has promised that anyone who believes in His only begotten Son, the Lord Jesus Christ, has been forgiven his sin and its consequences, has been given eternal life and has entered forever into the kingdom of God. God has done this for me entirely of His own gracious kindness, in spite of the fact that I am, of course, unworthy, as is every other person.

"God gives us who believe in Christ a daily personal experience which is convincing evidence of the reality of the new life in Christ. I find that God changes my life and gives me victory over the evil weakness of my mind, and absolute assurance for the future. It is not given to us to see into the future except as it is revealed in the Bible and therefore, as a Christian I am dependent on God and with all other believers have absolute confidence that God goes with me and will not fail me nor forsake me. Anyone who has this confidence can face the future without fear, worry or doubt. Certainly, I have every reason to be thankful to God.

"The blessings which I have received, and certainly shall receive from God, are available to anyone who will trust in the Lord Jesus Christ. I have observed that to most people the Gospel of Christ appears to be foolish, and while they understand what the words mean in a purely intellectual sense, they do not apply these words to themselves. It is a sad thing to see people defiantly reject the mercy of God when they could experience all the joy of salvation."

I hope that some who read this will understand that this is a real experience of an Army man. It is not a philosophy; it is not fatalism; it is nothing but taking at His word the Omnipotent God who controls in all details everything that is in the universe, and who loves to do good things for men in spite of their enmity against Him. Yes, even in the Army, there are Christian men and women.

WHO OWNS THIS WEEK'S "MYSTERY FARM"?

Eastview Church

(Omitted Last Week)

All members are urged to be at church September 21, Tuesday nite, at 7:30. There will be two preachers, showing colored pictures and they ask you to be present. Everyone is invited to come see this picture, you will enjoy it. Don't forget the time, Tuesday, September 21st, at 7:30 p. m.

For a mortgage on the crop, a local merchant would supply a farmer with seed, fertilizer, machinery and food during the planting crop was harvested, the farmer and cultivating seasons. When the paid the merchant for the goods he had received. This practice, began after the War Between the States, has not completely disappeared.

The crop-mortgage system served a useful purpose in Alabama but it is said to have held back agriculture because it kept farmers from experimenting.

FARM LABOR IS HIGH USE MORE MACHINERY

Auburn, Ala.—Labor is the most expensive item farmers buy. Present farm wages are more than four times as high as they were before World War II.

Making this statement in Auburn this week Foy Helms, API Extension economist, pointed out that during the same period, prices of machinery have approximately doubled, and prices of motor supplies, including fuels, have increased about 50 per cent.

The economist explained that the amount and cost of labor saved by adopting mechanical methods of performing farm work will continue to be an important consideration in farm planning.

Much less labor is used per acre on most field crops now than was used back in 1910-14. The main reason for the big drop is the almost complete conversion from horses and mules to tractors, trucks, and other forms of mechanical power.

"According to recent statistics, the greatest proportional decrease in man-hours per acre occurred on small grains and other crops similarly produced," Helms concluded.

Alabama farmers and plantation owners, after the War Between the States, found that it was all but impossible to get outside capital into the state for rebuilding agriculture. Therefore, they had to work out their own system.

Much of Alabama's land in those days when the state was trying to rebuild following the War Between the States and reconstruction was worn out from too much cotton growing; the need was for crop rotation and fertilization.

Right in front of Granny White's beautiful old house on Maple Avenue there's a brand-new sign: "Antiques. Inquire Within."

Now—don't get excited. Granny explained it all the other night—after we settled down in her parlor, me with my temperate beer, Granny with her tea.

I asked her if she was really going in the antique business. "Oh, no, says Granny, "I wouldn't sell anything. I put that sign up so folks would come in and talk—and look around. If they insist on a price, I tell them some outrageous figure! I guess I just like people," she said.

From where I sit Granny can be excused for her little ruse. She may be in her eighties, but her mind is young—and open. She's the kind of person who's made this town so wonderful. Granny not only likes people — but she respects them and their preferences and opinions. Come to think of it, "liking" and "respecting" mean much the same thing, don't they?

WHO OWNS THIS WEEK'S "MYSTERY FARM"?

"EASY DOES IT"

BY ..... HELEN HALE

YOU'LL find it easy to make ham and eggs quickly if you brown ham slices for a minute in the skillet, break an egg on top of each slice, then add 2 teaspoons water, cover and cook gently for a minute or two until the eggs are coated with white. Remove egg and ham slice together to warm plates for serving.

Quickly does it: Melt 8 large chocolate-covered mints in top of double boiler, adding a tablespoon of cream and blending thoroughly.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Cheese Beanies
(Serves 4)

1¾ cup cooked 1" pieces green beans
1 teaspoon salad oil
2 teaspoons vinegar
⅛ teaspoon garlic salt
Salt, pepper
Salad greens
1½ cups cottage cheese
3 strips bacon, cooked, finely chopped

Drain beans, add oil, vinegar, garlic salt, salt and pepper to taste. Toss together to blend. Press lightly into small ring molds. Chill 1 hour. Run knife around edge to loosen. Unmold on greens. Spoon cottage cheese into centers. Sprinkle bacon over beans.

Spread on cake or cookies and let set for a few minutes before serving.

Fruit tarts and pies will have a nice glaze if you melt bright red jelly and top them with this.

Mashed cooked prunes blended with softened cream cheese make a tasty spread for sandwiches or breakfast toast which everyone will enjoy. It's healthful, too!

Have some sandwiches left over from lunch? Don't toss them out even if the bread has dried. For your next lunch or snack dip them in egg-milk mixture (as for French toast) and brown in a skillet with melted fat.

THE COMPETITOR

By Sally S. Eads

ALL through college, I planned to own a small town newspaper. My uncle Tom had left money for me to go into business, and I felt sure old Mr. Thorne of Hardinsburg would sell The Clarion. But when I went to see him, he refused to talk about selling, and I learned that his granddaughter, Lily Thorne, was the reason for his refusal. Lily loved the newspaper business, she was the power behind the Clarion, and she did a fair job. But not as good, I thought, as I could do.

Well, I decided, I wouldn't be outdone. I would start a new paper and show the Thornes what a good paper was like.

At first, the noise from my printing press and other machinery was music to my ears. There was an oil boom in the county, and people responded surprisingly well to my call for subscribers and advertising. I was doing fine. I was a newspaper man, and I would show the Thornes who was who.

The only "fly in the ointment" was the way Mr. Thorne took what I was doing to his business. I had thought he would make a fool of himself, cavorting around over my starting a second paper in a town of six thousand. But not him. He treated me like a brother.

"Hello, Son," he would say when we met, and Lily would smile and say, "Good morning, Mr. Conrad. My friends called me Burt, but I didn't want to encourage familiarity with the Thornes.

Their friendliness, under the circumstances, made me jittery. I was even unhappy in church. Lily sang in the choir, facing me as I sat in the audience, and her white and pink complexion and her pansy-blue eyes fascinated me. Her smile lifted me right off this earth. What a way to feel toward your competitor!

One day when I was in the Post Office, Lily and her handy man came in. She didn't seem to notice that I was mailing out only about a fourth as many papers as she had to send out. When she went out, one of the clerks teased me about her.

"Being a newspaper man, you could interest that girl," he teased.

"Yes?" I said, and hurried out.

I made up my mind right then, that I would leave Hardinsburg. I was whipped and I knew it. But how could I leave Lily? I knew she was too loyal to her grandfather and The Clarion to marry me. I planned all week how I would get out of Hardinsburg without appearing to be a quitter. Then, just as The Leader went to press, I had a bright idea.

"Whoaa!" my helper called, and the press stopped.

"Defect in the press," I said and sat down.

In a short time, Mr. Thorne hurried in. "May I help you, Son?" he asked, and went to the press. I coaxed him away from the press more quickly than I expected. But he asked me to come and help them get out The Clarion, and said as soon as their paper was off the press, mine would go on.

I was never so humiliated in my life. I worked like a trouper to cover my embarrassment. We all hurried, and both papers went out on time.

"Son," Mr. Thorne said when the last paper was gone, "why did you gum the works this morning—deliberately stop your press?"

I knew my face paled, but I made a clean breast of it. I had been wrong in starting The Leader, and I wanted him to have my business. I would go to some other town.

"Son," he said, "The Clarion needs you, and we need your new equipment. We need The Leader. How does 'The Clarion-Leader' sound to you?"

"Oh!" I was too happy for words.

I looked at Lily, and knew right then, that The Clarion-Leader would eventually become a family affair.

Congress Wonders if Individual Americans Would Support Strong Indochina Policy Which Risks War

By WALTER SHEAD
Washington Correspondent, National Weekly Newspaper Service
(This is the last of four articles on Indochina and the Far East).

WILL individual Americans support a strong policy in Indochina and in southeast Asia which might risk a shooting war?

It was under the belief that they would not support such a policy that some congressional leaders in this administration refused to back up Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and the policy he advocated . . . either united action or massive retaliation. Particularly was this true this year with a congressional election coming up in November. Whether this is a true appraisal of the thinking of the American people or not, has no place in this article. The fact remains that on this assumption, true or false, the United States elected to bow in deference to its two principal allies, Britain and France, at Geneva. Further, the belief that the American people were sick of war and would no longer support the Korean conflict, led to the almost frantic peace at any price settlement in Korea.

And so it remains to be seen whether or not, as Mr. Dulles predicts, failure to follow a resolute policy now, will result in greater war danger within a few years.

And so without accomplishing real peace, the American taxpayer will go on spending his tax money in both Indochina and Korea, in Japan, in Formosa . . . to maintain the huge military and naval bases we have extending from Alaska and the Aleutian islands down through Japan, Korea, Formosa, Okinawa, the Philippines and other Pacific islands. We maintain an army of occupation in Japan, and another huge army is ranged along the truce line in Korea. In addition we are extending loans, economic aid and Point Four assistance in India, Pakistan, Nepal, Afghanistan, Indonesia and Arabia.

Our federal budget for 1954 included $800,000,000, exclusive of military-end items, programmed for Indochina. The budget for 1955 asks for $712,000,000 exclusive of military-end items. We have given and will continue to give technical assistance through the Foreign Operations Administration on repair and improvement of roads, airports, seaports, seed and crop improvement and other assistance.

We are the biggest importer of raw natural rubber from Indochina, importing some 72,000 metric tons last fiscal year. Already teams of FOA technical experts are in Indochina making a reappraisal for Point Four and economic assistance needs in the remaining free area. There are those in the isolationist group in Congress who declare, as they have on all the economic aid programs, that this American money is just being poured down a drain. In this case, money going to Indochina is also a support for the whole budgetary position of the French nation which includes the French commitments to NATO in Europe. Without this help in Indochina, France could not have met her commitments to support NATO which this country considers vital to the buttressing of the entire western world against Communist Russian imperialism in Europe.

So aside from the human element these are some of the stakes the American people have in Indochina. Up to this day it has not been the American way to desert an ally nor a weak nation seeking its own liberty as is Indochina.

There is clear evidence that as a result of the uneasy Korean truce, both Russia and the Chinese Reds were able to divert huge quantities of ammunitions and the materials of modern warfare to the Indochinese front. And both nations furnished some manpower at the division level in experienced officers. While there is no open proof any Chinese army was used in the invasion of Laos, or in the fighting in north Vietnam, there is plenty of evidence that the ceasefire in Korea permitted the Reds to step up their aggression and support of Ho chi Minh with powerful artillery, tanks and ammunition.

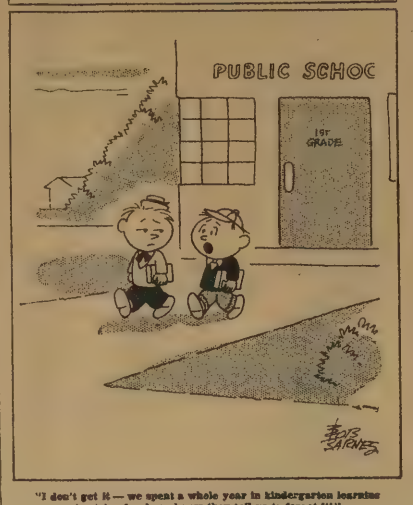
It also must be admitted that French failures in Indochina were not only military, but political as well. Some Far East experts believe that only a miracle can save Laos and Cambodia from being swallowed up without much trouble. The guarantees of their security and independence were so weakened in the final Geneva agreement they probably cannot be saved from Communist penetration without open intervention.

That's the Indochina-Far East stake. If the American people support Secretary Dulles in his firm, resolute policy there's the chance the Reds may back down, and communist aggression may be halted in its tracks. That's the best that could happen. The worst would mean world war III . . . An atomic-hydrogen bomb war.

If we back down and further appease the power-hungry Reds, it could mean the loss of all for which we fought in the Pacific . . . the Philippines, for instance. Japan and Korea would become other Red satellites behind the iron curtain and the U. S. perimeter of defense would be withdrawn eastward in the Pacific.

The question is, do we have the leadership for such resolutions now, and will the American people back up that leadership?

LAFF OF THE WEEK



"I don't get it — we spent a whole year in kindergarten learning to string beads and now they tell us to forget it!"

Under The Study Lamp

By William Crowe

Divinely Bestowed Mercies—Unmerited and Unnumbered.

"How precious also are thy thoughts unto me, O God! If I should count them, they are more in number than the sand." Psalm 139:17-18.

The vestibule wall of the old St. Giles Church, Cripplegate, London is literally covered with memorial tablets that give the visitor a bird's eye view of happenings in that ancient city reaching back through hundreds of years. For instance, one tablet carries a list of all the members of that parish who died in the Great Plague of 1665. But among those historic markers there is a queer one indeed. It records an incident of two hundred years ago, in which a venturesome Englishman while traveling in Africa was attacked by a lion. In some mysterious way it came about that the beast was prevented from completing his job. Therefore, on the return of the sojourner to his home city and church, he established a fund, the income from which was to be used for the preaching of an annual sermon in old St. Giles on the subject of lions. We are told that the endowment is still operative.

Think of two hundred or more sermons on lions! While the king of beasts is mentioned several times in the Bible, yet it appears to us that the theme would be rather threadbare by this time. But such is the power of the dead hand, recognized by the law of the land.

The blunder of that grateful Londoner was caused by the failure to realize that the constant care of the Almighty covers far more than an occasional deliverance from a wild beast in an African jungle. Otherwise we would have little to prompt us to a daily expression of thankfulness to our God. What we think of as special providences are no more than routine incidents in His care of us. Probably no reader of this article has ever been on a safari in the Dark Continent, nor ever will be. But every reader has abundant cause for singing a hymn from the pen of the learned Joseph Addison, the opening verse of which is:

"When all thy mercies, O my God,
My rising soul surveys,
Transported with the view, I'm lost
In wonder, love, and praise."

There is no omission of privilege and duty that impoverishes the heart of a professed believer so much as that of daily neglect of the cultivation of the grace of gratitude to God for His constant care. There are no lions on our streets, of course. But every Christian lives dangerously every day, and only He can deliver. Faith in Him is no mere rescue mechanism for special occasions. It is an eye-opener to the amazing fact that His thoughts toward us are more in number than the sand.

(Omitted Last Week)

Sunday School and preaching services were well attended Sunday and Sunday night. We had some visitors, and hope they will always feel welcome at anytime. We would love to have you come to our prayer services each Wednesday night beginning at 7 o'clock. Also we have preaching every Sunday and Sunday night and you are always welcome.

Sunday our pastor, Rev. Herman Lowery, and family, his mother, Mrs. Ada Lowery, enjoyed a picnic dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Houston Littleton. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Crockett and family, Mr. and Mrs. Feen and family. Everyone enjoyed this fine fellowship and good food.

The Intermediate Sunday School Class had a social Tuesday night at the church. They enjoyed fellowship, games and delicious refreshments. Fifteen young people and their teacher, Mrs. Crockett, Mrs. Houston Littleton, Mrs. Oscar Williamson and Rev. Lowery were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Newell Ruff and Wilodean of Montgomery visited Mr. and Mrs. Lee Wyatt and family Friday of last week.

Mavis Wyatt visited friends and relatives in Siluria last week.

We are sorry to learn of Mr. T. L. Williams being seriously ill. He is the brother of Mrs. Wallace Wood. Let us all pray for those who are sick.

Those visiting the Z. F. Bolton family Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Brewers and family and Mrs. Frank Brewer and daughter of Talladega.

Key man in the program to bring back Alabama agriculture from the low state into which it had sunk as a result of the War Between the States was the local merchant.

Because there was less chance of failure of a cotton crop and because of its cash value, merchants preferred making their loans on it. Thus, land made poor by cotton was made poorer in those post-war days.

GARDENERS TAKE CARE

Garden soil, particularly if taken from around chicken houses, may be the source of a form of lung disease once considered rare and fatal. The danger of spreading the fungus which causes the disease should be considered by gardeners.

Two physicians and two scientists recently reported a case of the pneumonia-like disease, histoplasmosis, which resulted from inhaling the dust of infected soil. The patient suffered severe headaches, sore throat, general aches, and fever not long after sifting soil bought for his garden. He said the soil was dry and contained chicken feathers. It later was proved to contain the disease-causing fungus, Histoplasma capsulatum.

A neighbor who used the same soil in her flower beds suffered a similar illness, but soil tests taken several months later did not show fungus. Both patients recovered without apparent after effects.

Epidemics of the disease often have been associated with inhalation of dust in abandoned houses, dusty silos, storm cellars, and chicken coops. Chickens probably are not the source of the infection, but areas frequented by chickens may favor development of the fungus.

The danger of infecting new areas with H. capsulatum and the danger of exposing new persons should be considered in gardening. There is a potential hazard of sifting garden dirt in areas where histoplasmosis is common.

Also used in farming during and after reconstruction days was the system known as sharecropping, in which the landowner furneshed the land, seed, fertilizer and machinery and the sharecropper the labor. The crop was divided at harvest time according to a prior agreement.

The Sunbeams will hold their September meeting Saturday afternoon at the church at 2 o'clock. All the members are asked to be present.

As we all know how dry everything is, now, we should be extra careful with fire. There were several huge fires out of control Sunday around this vicinity, and we know how dangerous this can be, so please be careful with your matches.

Mr. I. M. Hicks and son Johnny, of New Jersey are visiting Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Hicks for a few days. Mr. Johnny Hicks has entered the University for another year.

Mrs. Ray Young (Edna Earl Snead) and four children, Pattie, Bonnie, Danny and Rodger, of Aberdeen, Miss. and Mr. Carson Snead of Centreville visited here Saturday afternoon and evening with their aunts and sisters-in-law, Mrs. Sam Shults and Mrs. Willie Hathcock. They were the supper guests of Mrs. Hathcock.

Late one afternoon last week Mr. Robert Latham and Mr. Truet Bearden met with a head-on collision on the curve in front of Pleasant Grove church in this community, both Latham's pickup truck and Bearden's car were demolished. Luckily they were not injured. This is another warning that we need good straight roads.

Mrs. Grady Harrison was surprised Sunday with a birthday dinner at her home. Her relatives brought in food and many nice gifts. Those enjoying this dinner were: Mrs. Malcolm Gilliland and two children, Mrs. Brady Gilliland of Bessemer, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Lawley of Bessemer, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vining of Greenpond, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Stypes, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stypes of Bessemer and Mr. Acker of Greenpond. This was a very happy day enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Bessie Motley wishes to take this time to thank each and everyone that had part in helping to fight the huge fire over at her home Sunday afternoon that almost destroyed her home. If it had not been for Mr. Melvin Carter of Stanton, going to his home again after his tractor to plow ahead of the fire the house would have been lost, so again she wishes to thank everyone, she could not thank each one personally Sunady afternoon. So again everyone please be careful with your fires and matches.

The Maplesville Red Devils lost their first game Friday night, they played Orrville. But practice makes perfect so maybe they will do better next time.

Many from the community enjoyed the County Fair last week that was held at Clanton. The booths were very interesting and the Maplesville Home Demonstration club was nice and well built.

WALK UPRIGHTLY

God's way is perfect. God's love is perfect. God's will is perfect. God's commandments are perfect.

Till Heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law till all be fulfilled.

Preacher, Sunday School teacher, and Supt., you all well know the earth is still standing. Heaven still exists, Matt. 5:18; Luke 16:17. Yet you are transgressing God's Holy Sabbath day and teaching little children to transfress instead of obedience. Matt. 5:19.

Jesus said It were better for him (you) that a millstone were hanged about your neck and be cast into the sea, Luke 17:2.

Obedience is better than praying and fasting Luke 6:46. Jesus hears those that obey.

You may cover your head with sack cloth and ashes, and pray till Jesus comes, and leave off doing his will and you will die and go to hell, Matt. 7:21. God's will and love is that you love God and keep his commandments, 1 John 5:2-3, St. John 14.21. And hereby we do know that we know Him if we keep his commandments (otherwise we are liars), 1 John 2:3-4.

And whatsoever we ask we receive of Him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight, (if you fail to do his commandments, please leave off praying. 1 John 3:22.)

4-H 'ers! You Can Own This Registered Heifer

FOUR-H Club members, how would you like to own this beautiful registered Jersey heifer? You can do just that if you have applied yourself to project work, taken active part in 4-H Club meetings, and will now take the time to bring your project records up to date.

Who is making this gift possiole? The Jones Seed and Feed Company of Clanton, located next to the railroad on Second Avenue, North.

Mr. Sellers, Assistant County Agent, says this was a volunteer act on the part of Mr. Jones in an effort to encourage 4-H Club members to keep accurate project records, as well as to stimulate interest in the County 4-H Program. Owners of the Jones Seed and Feed Company are to be commended for their interest and forethought of the county's young boys and girls.

To qualify for this award a 4-H Club member must complete his project records and turn them in to his teacher-leader at the school which he attends, or some of the Extension personnel at the County Agent's office by November 10, 1954.

The heifer will be accepted on a chain basis. In other words, the first heifer this animal produces must be passed on to some other worthy 4-H Club member in the County.

TO THE VOTERS OF CHILTON COUNTY

ED LITTLEJOHN

To most of the people of Chilton County I feel that no introductory remarks about myself and my family are necessary, however, for those who might not know me personally, I will say that my family consists of my wife, a son, James L. Littlejohn, whose wife is the former Robbie Sykes of Murray, Ky., and a daughter, Mrs. Harold L. Foshee also five grand children.

I have been a member of the Missionary Baptist church for many years.

To most of you, I'm sure that I need no introduction, as I have been associated with a large number of you in different business connections.

I served the county on the Sheriff's force for four years. Have also served on the City Police force. I am sure by having this experience, I would be able to serve you more efficiently in the work should I be your choice for Sheriff.

I am deeply appreciative of the confidence the committee has shown in me by nominating me to be their candidate. I was hesitant about accepting the nomination at first, as I am deeply conscious of the great responsibilities that would be mine should I be your choice in the November election. I also hesitated about accepting the nomination because, a lot of time and work is usually expected of a candidate in a campaign, however, I am sure that you are aware of the fact, that I'm like a great majority of the people of the county, I have to work to earn a living for myself and my family and therefore will have to devote most of my time to my job.

I wish it were possible for me to see everyone of you, but I'm sure you will bear with me and will understand that making a house to house canvass and seeing everyone personally will be an impossibility. So will you please take this as my personal letter and appeal to you for your support and influence in my behalf. My success in this campaign will depend to a great extent on the help and influence of my friends. I am going to see as many of you as I possibly can during my spare time, but if I don't see you personally, please feel that you are just as influential and important as the people I will be able to contact.

Should I be your choice in the November election, every person, regardless of race, creed, color, party affiliation, or station in life, will be given the same consideration in serving you and enforcing the law.

Again, may I express to the large number of my friends, who urged me to enter the campaign, my profound thanks and appreciation for your confidence and earnestly solicit the support and influence of every one.

I have but one promise to make, and have made no other, than that if elected, I will to the best of my ability perform the duties of the office of Sheriff of Chilton County.

E. P. (Ed) LITTLEJOHN

my PET PEEVE by Mike Bennett

IT PEEVES me no end to admit that my mother was right, many years ago when she said to me, "One of these days—if you live so long—you'll discover why parents have grey hair."

My two-year-old son and his continuous escapades keep my follicles in a constant uproar. Some of his recent hair-raising adventures: a fall down a flight of concrete steps; a second-best tangle with a family of wasps; an unsuccessful attempt to drive an automobile.

I have to give him the benefit of the doubt where the fall is concerned; that happens to a lot of grown-ups, too, when they get careless. I can't however, overlook the fact that it's definitely seeking trouble to poke a nest bristling with wasps. And, letting off the emergency brake on a car when it's sitting on a steeply inclined driveway is a bad thing for anybody not strong enough to hold down the brake pedal.

In the matter of the wasps, the situation was handled with a liberal dose of DDT (for the wasps) and a like dosage of baking soda (for the boy). A serious injury to both child and car was prevented only because daddy just happened to open the door in time to see the car start to roll downhill.

My wife, of course, shares my concern, but I think she is equally troubled over the fact that I spend so much more time recently in front of the mirror. She accuses me of getting vain with age, although she knows well enough that I am looking for the first tell-tale tinge of gray.

The attitude on the part of grandparents is something, too. "Oh," they say, "you must expect these things. After all, children will be children."

Thorsby Institute Library News—

We are starting the new School year with a new magazine. The United Nations Review. We have been receiving the United Nations Bulletin which has been superseded by the Review.

The Review will continue to furnish an account of the United Nations. In addition it will present a greater depth and perpective detailed accounts of specific activities:

Of resettling jobless refugees;

Of preventing the spread of disease;

Of improving local, economic and social conditions and cooperation among peoples."

Leslie D. Weatherhead has given one of his books this title—That Immortal Sea. I think that I can name three people who know where he found it. Let me tell you that I didnt know and I ought to have known.

Quite a number of people are bringing in books. We are so glad to see the books again and of course the people too.

Once some one brought the book back with a fine dollar bill. This is not a hint but just think what I could do with money! There is no book fund and to lose a book is not short of a calamity. I am and have been thinking of some way to raise a fund for paying for the new books a library should have. I am weak in arimthmetic so some boys helped me to figure out how much we would need to have an income of fifty dollars a year to buy books. That would pay for about dollar. would not?

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. Bessie Greeley, Sherwood, Michigan: I remember when a trip to the city 12 miles away was a real event. Grocery trading was done at a small town nearer, but each spring and fall the family went to this small city to buy clothing, bedding or perhaps a piece of furniture.

Early in the morning grandfather hurried with his chores, then hitched the team of horses to the farm wagon. A spring seat with a sheep pelt for a cushion was for my mother and grandmother. A board across the wagon box, covered with a blanket was for my grandfather and me.

We covered the 12 miles in about two and a half hours, did some trading, ate lunch at a restaurant. What a thrill!

Other times grandma bought cheese, bologna, rusks (a light, raised biscuit) and little cakes to eat on the way home. How different from the hustle of nowadays.

From Mrs. R. M. Daugherty, Stryker, Ohio: I remember with thrills and joy our journey to Danville, Illinois, 20 miles from my childhood home.

We would get up at 3 o'clock and be ready to start on our journey to see the circus by four. Father always took us. He didn't have a real buggy whip (I never knew him to own one), just a stick with a bit of leather tied on it.

We journeyed for miles and miles, till the pavement we reached, and . . . how grand it was.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Ludwig Tobe Mathes

THE advantage of having sisters is that little boys learn early about women. At least, the fiv-year-old is learning.

The other morning, he and his inseparable companion, Joe (sister-less), were busy with an important building project when his seven-year-old sister appeared on the scene. The entire project met with her disapproval, and she had many suggestions to offer.

"See," said the five-year-old to his friend. "I told you tha's the way girls are—always trying to boss you and always thinking they know the best way to do everything."

Joe nodded. He's learning, too.

OUR neighbor around the corner—the one with more imagination than money—has a husband who is a do-it-yourself hobbyist, a decided help in carrying out her imaginative schemes.

Recently they have been devoting their time and energy to converting an old office desk into two end tables. First, they sawed out the center section of the desk, removed the drawers from the end sections, and sawed off the braces between the drawers.

They put doors with hinges where the drawers used to be, gave all the surcases a good sandpapering and painted the two finished pieces a dull green to harmonize with the color scheme of their living room. Their new end tables are not only decorative but they also provide storage space, always desirable.

THESE neighbors even put the drawers from the desk to good use, too. One of these was converted into a spice shelf for the kitchen by hanging it lengthwise on the wall and adding three shelves inside it.

Another was given a coat of dark paint and turned into a woodbox to go beside the fire place in the living room. They added shelves and a door to another of the drawers and hung it on the wall of their workshop to hold tools.

They're thinking of giving the other drawers to the next door neighbor, knowing she'll find a good use for them!

NOT every family has an old office desk to convert into end tables, but many families have small trunks or foot lockers which can be made into perfect toy chests for the children.

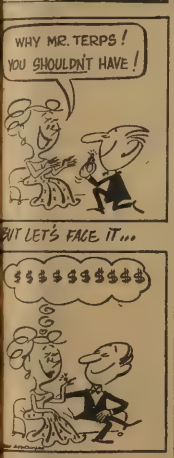
The neighbor down the street—the one with the big family—has two foot locker toy chests for her youngsters and recommends them to all mothers.

To make them, her husband nailed each foot locker to a wooden base with small castors at each corner. They painted the chests gay colors and added to the decoration by letting the children write their names helter-skelter over them with tiny brushes dipped in several colors of left-over enamel.

The toy chests are easily moved about the house. They serve as extra seats when the children have guests, and they hold an amazing quantity of playthings.

For an extra good chocolate sauce, place in the top of a double boiler 1-2 cup hot water, 20 marshmallows and 2 one-ounce chocolate squares. When melted and smoth, remove from heat and add 1 teaspoon vanilla. Serve warm.

ORDS & THOUGHTS



Whose Farm Is This?

The above is a farm somewhere in Chilton County. Can you guess who it belongs to? Is it yours? If you think you know, turn in your entry to the "News" office before Saturday noon. A drawing will be held the following Monday and a lucky winner will be chosen. It may be you!

FARM BRIEFS

Removing non-layers and keeping down pultry parasites will increase profit, reduce feed cost, and raise the production percentage of the laying flocks.

More than half of all cotton gin fires can be traced to some type of foreign material in the cotton—wooden matches, metal fragments, or rocks.

One of the best ways to reduce costs in dairying is to produce quality roughage and feed concentrates according to the quality of roughage and milk production level of individual cows.

If you use a chemical defoliant on cotton, be sure to consider the importance of crop maturity before you remove leaves from plants.

Cut annual lespedeza for hay when blooms appear; later cutting means poor quality.

As we go into the seventh week of the Mystery Farm contest, interest and enthusiasm are still running high.

Twelve persons named last week's "Mystery Farm" correctly and each will receive a pair of passes to the beautiful Clanton Drive-In Theatre. Just think—a dollar's worth of movie tickets for just telling us the name of a farm. And too, the grand prize winner has won a year's subscription to Chilton County News plus his choice of an electric popcorn popper or a revised Standard Version of the Bible.

Even if you don't win you can't lose, so bring us your guess as to who owns this week's "Mystery Farm" pictured above. Your answer must be turned in to the News office not later than noon next Saturday.

If the owner of this week's Mystery Farm will drop by the News office he may guess his own farm, and we have for him a beautiful framed enlargement of this aerial photo.

It is evident from these first seven farms that the photographer got a good coverage of the county and you can see we are not running them in a set pattern. Your farm or your neighbor's may be next week's "Mystery Farm so don't miss a single issue of the News. Tell your neighbors about this exciting new contest. Don't let them miss all the fun and prizes!

ALABAMA HIGHLIGHTS

At the end of the War Between the States and Reconstruction the one thing Alabama had in abundance was land, and agriculture was the most important business in the state.

As time went by, however, following the end of the war, Alabama farmers began diversifying their crops, using fertilizer and otherwise employing methods that brought about progress in agriculture and thus increased the standard of living of all the people of the state.

Market Your Cotton In 500-Pound Bales

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama cotton farmers are urged to make every effort to help ginners turn out uniform 500-pound bales.

O. N. Andrews, API Extension cotton improvement specialist, explains that overweight and underweight bales present costly problems in processing and marketing cotton all the way from the gin to the spinning mill.

"Uniform 500-pound bales save the gin and compress time and labor in handling, save buckle and band breakage, reduce the 'rolling bale' problem in storage and transit, and make preparation for export easy," the specialist points out.

Andrews says, USDA studies show that in Alabama, during the 1952-53 season, about 14 per cent of bales weighed less than 450 lbs. and 16 per cent more than 551 pounds.

Producers can save the expense of off-weight penalties by keeping a close check on the amount of seed cotton required to turn out a 500-pound bale of lint. The specialist says these checks should be made often, because the amount of seed cotton needed to make a 500-pound bale will vary with time of harvesting, methor of harvesting (hand or machine), and cotton variety.

Trailers or wagon beds should be built to hold—without tramping—just enough seed cotton for an equal number of 500-pound bales. Some producers divide multiple-bale trailers with cross wires to measure exact amounts for standard bales, he concludes.

ALABAMA FAIR AT MONTGOMERY OCT. 18-23

Montgomery.—The arena area of the State Coliseum will be in full bloom during the South Alabama Fair the week of Oct. 18-23.

Entries in the Fall Flower Show will deck the arena, in which ninety-two commercial booths will be used to display products and services of area businesses.

The Flower Show, supported by area garden clubs, will feature competition in a number of categories. Ribbons will be awarded for various individual varieties, for potted plant varieties and for arrangements.

The arena also will be blossoming with entertainment during fair week. From the bandstand at the north end of the Coliseum, two variety shows will be presented daily. The show features Ish Kabibble and a supporting cast of top-flight professional entertainers.

An Armed Forces band will alternate with an organist to provide arena music.

Fishing prospects on all Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes are about the same as of last week's report. That is, Stripes, Black Bass and Crappie are the game fish being taken in largest numbers.

Mrs. J. R. Gibson, Blackwell's Fishing Lodge, Shoals Creek, Lake Jordan, reports: W. D. Jones and M. J .Cleveland, 'Montgomery, caught 27 Stripes from a single school.

Peoples' Bait Shop, near Swayback Bridge, Lake Jordan, reports: Billy S. Royall, Montgomery, fished Weoka Creek with a Hula Popper and had good luck with the Smallmouth Bass. Billy's best catch and contest entry was a 4 pound 5 ounce whopper.

C. P. Dick, Bonner's Fishing Camp, near Holtville, Lake Jordan, reports: R. E. McPherson, Montgomery, used a Baby Do-jig in a school of Stripes and caught several all weighing about the same, 1 pound 14 ounces.

The Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest is in the home stretch,-and any and all catches should be weighed-in. It's later than you think! If you plan to be on the list of prize winners, let us hear from you now.

CHIEF ALAPOCO SAYS: Boating is a safe past time, especially if you put a little thought on making it so. It is a hobby without built-in hazard, and can be made about as safe as you want to make it. Safety Doubles the fun of boating.

Last Week's "Mystery Farm" Identified As

The ZACK LOWERY Farm

Last week's Mystery Farm was owned by Mr. and Mrs. Zack Lowery of Thorsby, Rt. 1.

The farm is located near Liberty Hill church just 3 and one half miles from downtown Clanton. The Lowerys have owned and operated this beautiful farm of 138 acres for the past 47 years and have reared 7 fine children there.

Mrs. Lowery, who was the former Miss Jeanie Foshee, has lived on the farm for 61 years her husband having bought the farm from her father the late G. L. Foshee when the Lowerys were married nearly a half century ago. All the Lowerys are members of the Liberty Hill Baptist Church and hold their membership there except one.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowery raise blackberries, peaches, cotton, and cane as their money crops and show the diversification practiced by most Chilton County farmers. Mr. Lowery says he also has about 50 acres of timber on his place.

A beautiful glossy framed picture of the Lowery farm was presented them at the Chilton County News office Monday.

Eighty acres of land situated 24 miles east of Birmingham. Has seven fresh water springs, and a creek running through it. The springs are so situated that two medium size fish ponds could be constructed. There are plenty of rocks for abutments and clay for completions of dams.

There is enough timber on the property to build a house, or two, and to fence the property. There is a black-top road already constructed within three miles of the property, and the road is now being graded for black topping within one block of the property.

I had planned for the above recreation center for myself for thirty-eight years, but now I will pass it on to someone else, with my blessings.

The land is fertile and will make several isolated home sites, yet it is just four miles from the fifth railroad facility city in Alabama, Leeds.

DALE CARNEGIE

★ AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING" ★

JOHN W. COLLIER, Clarksville, Tennessee, says when the Weather Bureau issued warnings for his vicinity he recalls the fear that his father had for storms.

At the first flash of lightning and clap of thunder he would get out of bed, dress and begin pacing the floor. First opening the front door looking toward the West, then the back door looking toward the East and as the thunder storm approached more closely, he could hear him say to his mother, "Get up and dress the young 'uns. This one's going to take us. It's the worse one I ever saw." He heard this remark from his father time and time again.

CARNEGIE

After hurriedly dressing, the children would be herded like a flock of chickens into a small room in the middle of the house, doors and windows bolted. There they would huddle together to await the inevitable end, that dreaded moment when the storm would swoop down out of the Heavens and smash their house into a pile of ruin and rubble, taking all the family along with it.

As he grew older and was able to read and think he observed throughout the city that not one house in the city limits had ever been seriously damaged by a storm. So by using the law of averages he decided that it was time to stop worrying, that there would be very little chance of his ever being injured in a house due to a storm.

SCANNING THE NEWS

DESPITE austere warnings of some voices in Congress, in the State Department and outside of government, it appears that the United States has decided to give passive acceptance to the theory of "co-existence" with the Red Moscow-Peiping axis, at least until some overt act forces a change in our policy.

As a matter of fact this nation's most powerful friends and allies are going in for this "peaceful co-existence" with Communism whether the USA likes it or not.

Here is the picture—Britain, our most powerful ally, has given tacit approval of the trip of its former prime minister Clement Atlee and other Socialist British leaders for a good-will trade junket to Communist China. The British government is also giving encouragement to another trip to Moscow for talks with Malenkov.

In Paris, as was shown up at the Brussels conference, Premier Mendes-France is dead set against the European Defense Community and the set-up of a supra-national army, including West Germany for the defense of Western Europe. Whether Mr. Mendes-France is motivated by the desire to have the French parliament ratify EDC or not, he could not more directly play into the hands of Moscow, thereby weakening EDC.

The objectives of imperialistic atheistic communism does not change. And it has long been the avowed purpose of Moscow to wreck EDC and set up a Moscow-Berlin-Paris axis for the spread of Red Russian control to all Europe. Since the Communist victory at Geneva, Moscow has been playing up the "peaceful co-existence line" which means the end of any EDC for Western Europe, the neutralization and unification of Germany and the ousting of the United States from European soil.

So the Moscow campaign to prevent German rearmament via EDC, is on the surface gaining ground. All around the free world . . . In Japan, Britain, the Netherlands, France, Germany, Italy, Denmark, there is a tendency to close eyes to what is going on . . . there is a spirit of optimism for more trade with Communist nations and communist satellites.

In the meantime Russia bides her time . . . continues to build armaments, has outstripped us in longe range bomber production. Russia won out in Korea with her satellite Red China . . . She won out in Indochina and that war torn nation is partitioned and it appears now that even in Free Indochina, if free elections were held today the Vietnamese might vote to join the communists. Russia is readying for war. We cut our defense needs.

Business in the non-communist world is good and as of now new war scares are hidden behind the thundering clouds of Russian intentions . . . so our policy now seems to be to go along passively with "co-existence."

In the meantime a, committee of our Congress, The House Select Committee to investigate Communist aggression, in a recent report declares that "co-existence" is a communist myth and will lead to war . . . that such "peacefu co-existence can be attained only through the complete surrender of our free way of life for one of slavery under Moscow-controlled communism."

AN ORDINANCE

An ordinance authorizing the Mayor and Council to declare an existing emergency in the City's water supply and for curtailing the use of water and punishment therefor.

That, whereas, since 1939 the City has obtained its water supply from Yellow Leaf Creek and, whereas, due to the increased use of water by the inhabitants of the City, the City's water supply system has proven inadequate to supply the needs and, whereas, for the past few years and particularly in the present year the supply of water in said creek has decreased, all to the result that at this time the City is unable through its present filtering, storage and distribution system to sufficiently supply water to the users and due to the increased consumption and the unprecedented drouth and decreased rainfall the City rarely has sufficient water on hand to protect the property in the City from fire hazards and, whereas, it has become necessary to protect the property of the inhabitants of the City and to declare an emergency with reference to the water supply system, therefore,

SECTION 2

That the state of such an emergency may be declared by the Mayor and City Council as herein provided and when so declared, notice thereof shall be published in one of the county newspapers for one publication, setting forth the state of said emergency and the prohibited uses of said City water during said emergency and said emergency shall commence on Friday following the publication of said notice in said county newspaper on the Thursday preceding, and said emergency shall continue until notice likewise given in said paper of the lifting of said emergency.

VOLUME XXXII — CLANTON, ALABAMA — THURSDAY, SEPT. 23, 1954 — NUMBER 42

To The Voters Of Chilton County

ODELL PAYTON

I would like to be your next Sheriff and public servant. I can say this in earnest for having submitted myself in two Democratic Primaries and having won over my four opponents for this important office, I would like to say too that I received 95 of the 104 votes cast in the first Primary in my home beat and in the second I received 9 of the 105, for which I am very grateful.

As to the rumors of using G. Rose Connell as a deputy it is a false rumor, or any other man that has ever been convicted and sent to the penitentiary, or any former bootlegger or any one with a criminal record. If I am your Sheriff none of the above WILL BE USED ON MY FORCE. And too, as I stated back before either Primary if I am elected Sheriff I WILL NOT USE ANY OF MY OR MY WIFE'S RELATIVES OR ANY OF THE PRESENT SHERIFF'S FORCE.

And too, there is a rumor that I sold some land to some shady characters in Birmingham, Ala., and that I was backed by them. These men have 54 years with the Police Department of Birmingham and working for the Police Department now as Law Enforcement Officers. These men are of the best character;

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN: This is to certify that Claude Clinton Erric Harris, Jones Tipton Howell and Maurice Herman House were members of the Birmingham Police Department. They each hold the rank of Detective.

Claude Milton Eric Harris was employed by this Department September 10, 1940, as a Patrolman, Detective August 1, 1952.

He was promoted to the rank of Jones Tipton Howell, was employed by this Department February 28, 1927, and was promoted to the rank of Detective August 16, 1941.

Maurice Herman House was employed by this Department December 5, 1941, and was promoted to the rank of Detective April 13, 1951.

Mr. House was promoted to the rank of Detective Sergeant June 2, 1954.

Yours very truly,

IMALENE KELLER,
Notary Public, State at Large.
My commission expires November 7, 1955.

I can truthfully say and go on record that I HAVE NOT made any promises to any one, and I am not financially or sponsored by any clique, but I do promise honest and efficient law enforcement at all, with special favors to none.

I will try to see as many of you as I possibly can between now and General Election November 2. Your support and influence will be deeply appreciated.

Looks Like Coosa—

Bigger Bond Issue For Water Supply

It now looks like Clanton will have plenty of water for new industries and private use of her citizens too. Mayor C. Fenn Jones announced Wednesday that the city had sold bonds to the extent of $440,000 for the use of added facilities at the water plant and to pipe water from a different source than Yellowleaf Creek, possibly the Coosa River. The Council is to vote this week on where the source of our water supply will come.

The $260,000 in bonds issued several weeks ago went unsold when the attorneys for the buyers refused to recommend their purchase. This was because of the limited water supply we now have and a condition which the sale of the new bonds will correct.

The Council also voted this week to run the gas mains to Lomax so that the residents there will have the use of natural gas. This has been under consideration for some time and the residents of that community have put up a hard fight to get natural gas piped there.

Cotton Ginning Report

Census figures show that 1,453 bales of cotton were ginned in Chilton County from the crop of 1954, prior to Sept. 1st. This is more than double the number of bales of cotton ginned to the same date last year. On Sept. 1, last year only 94 bales had been ginned from the 1953 crop.

The Chilton County High School Band Boosters Club has bedecked the members of the high school band with beautiful new uniforms. And something else, their band leader, Lamar DeLoach, has built the best band that the school has boasted in many a day.

Of course this was all made possible through the work of the individual and Mr. and Mrs. Public has the honor of making this vast improvement possible.

Mr. DeLoach brought a list of names of the business houses in the county that aided in this undertaking and we are publishing hundreds of private citizens who same below. Remember, there are also aided in this drive whose name we do not have. They too, are due a standing vote of thanks for their fine work in this worthy cause.

Water Shortage Is Endangering Clanton Sewage Disposal

Clanton is confronted with a serious water problem. The problem of securing an ample supply of water is recognized by all, and the realization that an additional cost will be levied against the users is accepted. The water problem does not end, however, with an adequate supply. Water is used and then returned to the earth in as pure a state as is feasible. The water used by the citizens of Clanton is deposited in Walnut Creek in a highly polluted state, contaminating the stream from the point of entry throughout the balance of its course. In fact, as this is written, the stream is practically 100 per cent sewage, and any person coming in contact with its waters in any manner is taking a risk. The water in Walnut Creek below the sewer outfall is unfit for any use.

It is not to be inferred that the sewage problem is a new one, indeed it has existed for many years in spite of the absolute knowledge of the hazards to health coincidental to the improper disposal of human wastes. The problem is not new, it has simply increased in size and importance. In all probability when Clanton's sewage was first emptied into Walnut Creek, the flow of the stream was quite sufficient, in ratio to the amount of sewage, to dilute the sewage to such an extent as to prevent a nuisance, and to reduce the hazards to health. Today this is not the case. Clanton has been and is still a rapidly expanding community. Since 1950 approximately seven miles of new sewer main have been installed with over 300 new sewer connections made to this main, and serving over 1500 people. With the construction of the proposed highway bypass of the down town district, new businesses and new residences will come into being and the sewer lines will be further extended. Fine new hospital facilities are under construction, the sewage from which will be added to the already overburdened Walnut Creek.

Among all the natural enemies of mankind, disease and ill health can be the most destructive. With good health we are able to work out the other difficulties we may encounter. Great strides have been made in our efforts to hold in check the various human diseases, and many have been and are being controlled, but always lurking in the background ready to pounce upon its as are the organisms of disease. It is an irrefutable fact that many of our most dreaded diseases are transmitted because of careless disposal of human wastes and through water polluted by these wastes. It is also a fact that these diseases can be controlled almost 100 per cent.

The County Health Department and the State Health Department have advocated for many years the construction of a sewage treatment plant, for the City of Clanton. The Alabama State Legislature, realizing the dangers of stream pollution, enacted laws to control it on a state wide basis—laws which are applicable to Clanton.

No one argues against the need of an improved water supply, the need is acute. Equally as necessary is a sewage treatment plant, so that we may enjoy our other conveniences.

Chilton Farmers-

Aid For Farmers Is Outlined In Congress

Drought Victims—

Here's What To Do And Who To See

The Secretary of Agriculture has assigned to the Farmers Home Administration the responsibility for determining the eligibility of applicants for assistance under the Department's Emergency Feed program.

The bass objective of the Emergency Feed Program is to assist eligible established farmers and stockmen in providing necessary feed to maintain their foundation, herds of livestock and replacements. This aid is available to allow farmers and stockmen to continue their present operations. The County FHA Committee, consisting of R. L. Culp, chairman, E. E. Edwards and F. T. Williams, is responsible for passing upon applications for this assistance.

The feed program will consist of corn, oats, barley and grain sorghum either in their natural state or in a combination of mixed feeds The Government will pay $100 per 100 lbs. of any of the above-mentioned grains.

The entire staff of the Farmers M. Murphree, County Supervisor, Home Administration with Mr. Joe Messrs. R. A. Robinson and E. H Waldrop, Assistant County Supervisors, Mrs. Helen P. Blackmon, County Office Clerk, and Mrs. Martha E. Meehan, Assistant County Office clerk, are in a position to process applications and provide any other information desired

Rep. Armistead Selden pointed out today that farmers in Chilton County and in the other seven counties of the Sixth Congressional District are now eligible to apply for drouth assistance under the emergency hay and feed grain program. This form of drought assistance was made available on September 16 when the President and the Secretary of Agriculture designated the Entire Sixth District as a drought disaster area.

"The feed program is designed to give more help to farmers who are forced to buy supplemental feed supplies to maintain their foundation herds of cattle and sheep," Congressman Selden explained. Application for feed grains at reduced prices can be obtained from the local offices of the Farmers Home Administration or the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee offices. After the application is approved, farmers can buy surplus feed grains, such as wheat and corn, at a reduced cost of $1.00 per hundredweight below the regular local price. When a farmer is declared eligible to buy the low-cost feed, he is issued a certificate which he presents to his feed dealer. The Commodity Credit Corporation pays off these certificates with grain from its surplus stocks.

Congressman Selden pointed out that cottonseed meal is not available at reduced prices since there is no surplus of this crop at the present time. When a mixture of a surplus grain and cottonseed meal is purchased, the farmer pays the reduced price only for the surplus grain and must pay full price for the proportion of cottonseed meal which is used in the mixture.

"Hay will also be included under a similar program as soon as the Governor of Alabama and the Secretary of Agriculture have completed a contract for the hay distribution program," Rep. Selden stated. The hay program is worked out so that federal funds can be used for paying transportation costs, as long as the cost to the government does not exceed one-half the actual cost of transportation or $10, whichever less.

Detailed information concerning the hay and feed grain programs, as well as other types of government drought assistance, is now available to farmers of the Sixth District and can be obtained from the county agents, Farmers Home Administration offices, and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee offices.

"I am very pleased," Congressman Selden said, "that our efforts to have all eight counties of the Sixth District declared eligible for emergency assistance have been successful. "I hope," he continued, "that this assistance will alleviate to some extent the critical conditions confronting the drought-stricken farmers of the Sixth District and of other sections of our State."

FOLSOM COMING

Big Democratic Rally And Bar B-Q At City Park

The Democrats of Chilton County put on a show of strength last Wednesday afternoon when they staged a big rally and barbecue at the City Park here.

Democrats from all sections of the county were present for the "get together" and many visitors from out of the county were present. Candidates in the November election made short talks to the crowd.

Jemison To Be Host To Isabella Mustangs

Tomorrow night (Friday, Sept. 24) the Jemison High School Panthers will be hosts to the Isabella Mustangs.

The Isabella team upset the Panthers last year in a real thriller, and will be out to repeat, but the Panthers will be out to off-set this loss. Both teams are determined to win, and thus, far, evidence points to the fact that both are fairly evenly matched. Isabella came within a nats eye-lash of defeating Montevallo High two weeks ago, while Jemison was up against the two tough teams from Childesburg and Verbena, making a fairly creditable stand against both. So, folks, with this kind of game coming up it'll be something to see. Come on out and root for your favorite team. Kick-off is at 7:30 p.m. and we'll be expectin' to see you there.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends, neighbors and relatives for sions of sympathy in the recent death their many kindnesses and expressstruction of our home by fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Jones and family.

WOODMAN CIRCLE TO MEET

The Woodman circle will meet at 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall on Thursday night, September 23.

Clanton Meets Montevallo Here Friday Night

By Harold Smyer

The Clanton Tigers meet Montevallo here tomorrow night on the local gridiron at 7:30. Come out and see the football team and band in their new uniforms.

The Tigers opened their 1954 football season here last Friday night as they defeated the Maplesville Red Devils 27 to 7. The Tigers looked sluggish in their first game and must show great improvement against such teams as Wetumpka, Prattville, B. B. Comer, West Blocton and Verbena. Against Maplesville, Roy Mims showed the spectators that he had "that old Go, Go, Go," as he ran for four touchdowns on runs of 45, 24, 27, and 78 yards. Roy accounted for a total of 251 yards. Arthur Robinson picked up 74 yards. For the Red Devils, Bobby Moore picked up 79 yards, while Jap Perry got 60 yards. The Red Devil score came when John Motley intercepted Edmund Littlejohn's pass and went 35 yards down to the 21 yard line. From there, the Red Devils drove down to the two yard line where Moore bucked over for the TD. Motley passed to Perry for the extra point, Littlejohn place kicked all three of the Tigers' extra points.

Verbena Red Devils Swamp Jemison Panthers 33-6

Before a record throng at Jemison, the Verbena Red Devils continued their winning ways last Friday night by defeating the Panthers 33-6. It was a bruising game as each team plowed into the other with plenty of gusto. However with Patterson (6) DeLoach (12), J. C. Moore (6) running and passing with some excellent blocking, the JHS boys were unable to cope with it. Verbena received first, and on five plays Harold Patterson banged over for the first TD. Moore converted for the extra point. Jemison then received, and on the first play the usually reliable Jr. Rhodes playing FB fumbled and Verbena recovered on the Jemison 14 yd. line. On two plays DeLoach ripped through the center of the line going over for TD number two. Patterson passed to Turner for the point. Jemison made several nice gains the first quarter, but when they would get into Red Devil territory, the Red Devils would get naughty and stop 'em. Moore scored the third TD with Nicky Sanders registering the extra point. The half ended 21 to 0.

The Panthers edged the visitors the third quarter, holding them scoreless, while racking up their

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT FARMERS—IT'S NOT TRUE

Farmers and farm programs are being grossly misrepresented by many magazines, radio commentators, and newspapers

A few weeks ago we read in Life magazine: "The system (rigid 90 per cent supports) guarantees the six basic crops—corn, cotton, wheat, rice, peanuts, and tobacco—a fixed price no matter how much is needed or how much is produced."

The clear implication here is that a farmer can grow all the cotton or wheat or peanuts he desires and get a 90 per cent of parity price for unlimited production. Not a word is said about production control. The fact that whenever there is a surplus of a basic commodity, a grower must reduce his acreage and comply with an acreage allotment to get the 90 per cent price support is ignored.

A columnist writing in a Dallas (Tex.) daily paper made these misstatements:

1. "Agricultural price supports have made the producers of supported products better off than any other working group in the United States."

2. "The amount which has been paid out of taxes (for commodity loans) will soon reach the huge total of $7½ billion.

3. "Western farmers, who can produce wheat for less than $1 a bushel in a normal year are guaranteed a price support of $2.40 a bushel. At the same time, the per capita consumption of wheat in the U. S. has dropped from 200 pounds to 120 pounds per capita because people are eating less wheat."

In 1949 the average net income per farm person was only one-half that of the average nonfarm person. This was when farm prices stood at 99 per cent of parity! in mid-June 1954 they were down to 88 per cent.

In 1951, when farm prices were at 107 per cent of parity, the average net income per farm worker was only $1,718 against $3,416 for the average industrial worker.

It is also interesting to consider what the operator and family on an average farm, producing price-supported commodities, are getting per hour for their labor and management.

Here are the figures for the year 1952 when farm prices were at even parity, taken from USDA's Agricultural Statistics, 1953":

	per Hour
Cotton farm—Black Prairie of Texas	.75
Dairy Farm—Eastern Wisconsin	.74
Tobacco-Livestock—Kentucky Bluegrass	.93
Hog-Dairy—Corn Belt	1.13

The "minimum wage" in this country is 75 cents an hour. In 1952 these Texas cotton farmers and Wisconsin dairy farmers barely made the minimum. It doesn't look like they are rolling in wealth or even that they are "better off than any other working group in the U. S."

In stating that "the amount which has been paid out of taxes (for commodity loans) will soon reach the huge total of $7½ billion," the impression is given that the Government has lost this amount. Really there is no way of knowing how much, if any, loss the Government will take on its loan program until it disposes of the commodities under loan. The $7½ billion is the amount the Government is expected to lend on these commodities. But it has the commodities, and it is conceivable that they might be disposed of for as much as $7½ billion or even more.

A considerable number of farmers, by their efficient methods and large acre yields, are able to produce a crop at considerably lower costs than the average grower. No doubt there are some producers who in 1954 grew wheat for $1 a bushel. But to lead people to believe that the average western wheat producer can produce wheat for $1 a bushel, and that he is making $1.40 a bushel profit, is a rank misstatement of fact.

Even in 1946, the last year for which such information was prepared, USDA figures indicated that with the 10-year average yield, it cost U. S. growers $1.40 to produce a bushel of wheat. Certainly in the year 1954 the average cost is much closer to $2 a bushel than to $1.

As to the per capita consumption of wheat, it has been dropping for nearly a half-century. The decline has had no relationship whatsoever to the price of wheat. A farmer could give away his wheat and it wouldn't materially affect the per capita consumption. Look at these figures:

Year	Price of Wheat	Wheat Used Per-Capita Pounds
1917	$2.05	201
1923	.93	178
1928	1.00	179
1932	.38	161
1940	.68	154
1945	1.50	160
1961	2.12	133

The fact is that people have changed eating habits. They now eat more fruits and vegetables, more meat when times are good. They wouldn't go back to consuming 200 pounds of wheat per capita, even if it sold for less than $1 a bushel.

So much for these misrepresentations. The country is flooded with them. And very little is being done to counteract their effect. Unfortunately, the national farm organizations, which are expected to fight the farmers' battles are so divided on the farm program, that their efforts to carry the truth to consumers have been futile.

Things we -SEE- and Hear

by "Tuck"

The force at the News welcomes a newcomer into their midst who is setting his sights on a printing career. His name is Paul Connell. We'll have to agree with Paul that there is nothing to compare with the printing business as far as pleasure and pride in your work is concerned. Every "printer's devil" that ever got his hands messed up for the first time in a printing office probably thought that the business was not what it was cracked up to be; we know we did the first time we had to put up riglets and slugs. We have never, however, come across a guy who stuck with the work who didn't like every bit of it, long hours and all.

Paul has promises of being a good printer someday and since we had the good fortune of going through school with his brother Ray we know we'll be as proud to be associated with him as we were his brother. We would like to impress on him, however, that although it doesn't seem to be so hot being an apprentice it will repay him time and again when he learns the trade. We were no different than he when we started and we're proud that we stuck with it.

You can always ask the Lord or your own conscience; if one doesn't answer you the other one will.

Like to clear up a little misunderstanding with some of our friends in the county. It is understandable to you, we're sure, that since the Drive-In is so crowded on week-ends and holidays it would not be fair to the management to throw on him the added number of passes given away through our contest every week. Take this week for instance, there were 46 winners and that means 92 passes. You can see that it would be illogical to try to run all or even half that number in on Saturday or Sunday night when it is already crowded. If you were going anyway on Saturday night or Sunday you would be willing to pay and use your passes during the week. Any broad-minded person can see the point in limiting the passes to week-days. You can still consider yourself benefiting by going on Friday night if you don't want to go during the week. There are a lot of good shows during the week up there anyway. You benefit and we don't want any hard feelings in our contest. It is supposed to be all in fun and all we want is that everyone enjoy it. It is true that you can't please everybody, but we don't want to make any enemies either. That would defeat the purpose of our contest, and it is also not our policy, if we were to lose even one of our friends or customers, so try to see both sides of the thing before you jump the fence and we'll do the same, we assure you.

Hear about the college boy who wrote home and the letter read something like this: "Dear folks: Please send four hundred dollars at once, the school is going bankrupt and each student is having to pay double tuition. Uh, please make the check out to me. Your son, Elmer."

Highway 31 is getting pretty bad in spots. Hear about the fella who was riding through Alabama with a friend from out of state. The friend said, "You folks have pretty good country roads down here, I'll bet your highways are super." The guy had to tell him that he was on the main artery right then.

Another version of that would be; stranger: "what road are we on right now?" Local man: "Oh, this is the main artery." Stranger: "If this is the main artery I'd hate to see some of the veins." Yuk, yuk, yuk.

Talk about will power, the height of that is the fellow who can eat one peanut and quit.

You know, someone who is always dishing out credit for something or other and who seldom gets much for the fine job she does is Miss Helen Parrish. Helen is very active in all county and local doings and always does more than her share. When a person is like that, a lot of times we're inclined to take that person for granted when we want a job done. Helen is a big talker, but we can't think of anyone we know who doesn't appreciate her and the work that she does for our county and her friends. She has been associated with the local radio station for a few years now and is an established figure and a constant advertisement for that concern. You may think she gets the credit she deserves, but we don't heart it, and we think she does deserve it. We hope she continues to work for the good she has accomplished in the past and has even a bigger influence for getting things done in the future.

If you feel rundown . . . be sure and get the license number.

Looks like football season finally caught up with us doesn't it? Noticed that Maplesville got taken in by Clanton last week. Jemison was run down by Verbena last week, also. The CCHS Tigers take on the Montevallo team here at home this week end and Jemison tangles with Isabella. We don't know about Maplesville, yet. Verbena seems to be the outstanding team in the county these days by having won 40 games on a straight now. That is a pretty good record and one that will get harder to hold the higher it goes. We think there are any number of teams out to put a stop to that this year so the "Red Devils" had better be on their running toes if they expect to hold their title next season. We haven't seen any of the teams play this year yet, but Verbena has come up with the usual good team with the usual good coaching, it seems.

See you in church Sunday.

Democrats Gaining in Congressional Races —Would Win Control of House If Elections Were Held Today

Princeton, New Jersey— How would the two major political parties stand in the nation if U. S. citizens were voting for Congressmen today instead of in November, 1954—less than six weeks from now?

By a margin of six per cent, a cross-section of the nation's voters interviewed by United States Poll staff reporters say that if they were voting for Congressmen (House of Representatives) today they would favor the Democratic rather than the Republican Party.

Here are the figures that show present day Republican-Democratic strength across the nation:

"If the elections for Congress were being held today, which party would you like to see win in this state—the Republican or the Democratic?"

The following table shows the results nationally, among those who had an opinion on the above question, or who, if undecided, stated toward which party they "leaned."

NATIONWIDE VOTE FOR CONGRESSMEN
(House of Representatives)

Democratic	53%
Republican	47

Fifteen weeks ago, the vote on the same question was Democratic 51.5 per cent; Republican 48.5 per cent.

Today's findings thus represent 1.5 per cent gain for the Democrats and a 1.5 per cent loss for the GOP since early June.

A cleaner picture of the situation can be had by examining the vote separately in the traditionally Democratic South on the one hand and in the areas outside the South on the other.

SOUTH ONLY
(House of Representative)

	Rep	Dem
1950 Election	20%	80
1950 Eletcion	20	80
TODAY	20	80

And here is the vote outside the South since 1950:

OUTSIDE THE SOUTH
(House of Representatives)

	Rep.	Dem.
1950 Election	53%	47
1952 Election	55	45
TODAY	50	50

From the above, it can be seen that the big job facing the GOP in this year's Congressional Elections—the one that it faces in every Congressional Election—is that the Democrats can always count on a solid block of Congressional seats from the South. (In the past five Congressional elections, the Democrats have never lost more than 7 Congressional seats to the Republicans in the South and have always won at least 115 seats.)

And today's findings give no indication that the South will be different this year.

This means the Democrats start with more than one-half of the 218 seats that they need to regain control of the House.

And that they need to pick up only one-third of the 313 seats outside the South to win.

Another important fact to be kept in mind is that only once during the 20th Century has the party in power increased its lead in an off-year election. That was in 1934, when the Democrats gained 9 seats.

It must also be understood that today's findings reflect sentiment for the nation as a whole. They cannot be applied to any single Congressional District.

Finally, it should also be kept in mind that today's findings reflect sentiment nearly six weeks in advance of the elections, and that much can happen between now and November.

IF YOU ARE BUILDING A HOME

1. Remember the advantages of DRY lumber. If uncertain have the lumber checked on the job site.
2. Deal only with reputable contractors and reliable lumber dealers.

IF YOU ARE BUYING A NEWLY BUILT HOME

3. Request the specifications for the job to see if properly seasoned lumber was called for—and used.

IF YOU MAKE UP THE SPECIFICATIONS

4. Specify the following: For framing and sheathing — 19% maximum moisture content; for finish, wood work and flooring—12% moisture content.
5. If unable to judge lumber grades or the condition of seasoning, require that lumber be certified with a grade-mark of a recognized Inspection agency, or have it competently inspected when it is delivered.

IF THE JOB CALLS FOR BIG DELIVERIES

6. When there is a constant flow of incoming lumber, it is wise to employ qualified graders to check each delivery before unloading. Electrical instruments known as moisture registers or meters are now commercially available for testing lumber to determine the moisture of each piece.

THORSBY NEWS

ESTELLE HAYES

Thorsby Institute Library News—

Last week I asked if any one knew where Leslie Weatherhead found his title, That Imortal Sea. It is from Wordsworth's Ode. Intimations of Immortality. Another phrase serves John Oxenham as title for a book, The Vision Spendid. Let me digress a minute. Recently a reproduction of a Chinese painting came to the library. It was painted during the Sung Dynasty, A. D. 960-1279. While I was in Tuscaloosa we examined a dictionary that I will call "Time" Dictionary for lack of a better name. For instance list of people born or deceased during the reign of Queen Victoria. You would be surprised at the grouping. To go back to the painting let us ask "where were we when that picture was painted?" For one thing Columbus hadn't discovered America. I don't know enough history to fill out the tremendously interesting events of this period. And if I did I wouldn't have time to recount them. Think of a civilization of people who were refined enough not to use gunpowder for killing other people but for amusement only! They had time for paintings that are an inspiration to us seven hundred years later.

WHAT IS REAL?

Man is ever in search for the real. Some have found it and found it is the only place wherein it can be found. Let us listen to one who in search for the real found it where all people must sooner or later find it.

Hal Herman, who until five years ago was a press agent for stars like Rita Hayworth, Deanna Durbin and Rosalind Russell, is back in Hollywood with a different profession.

Those who toured the studios before and after the war remember Hal as a courteous intent young fellow with sandy hair and a warm smile.

He was the art man at Columbia and Universal, which meant that he had to arrange photos of the stars for magazines, ads, billboards, etc.

"I was the contact between the studios and the stars to come into the studio for portrait sittings and work, since they did it on their own I encountered my share of temperament. The stars did not like the time. It was hard work, too. Most stars had two full days of posing. It always took a week with Rita Hayworth."

His career in publicity was coming along fine when the war broke out.

He enlisted and rose to become a major under General Douglas MacArthur. He took pictures for the invasion of the Philippines and shepherded correspondents and photographers.

"I first started thinking seriously when I was in the Philippines," he recalls. "I was wading through swamps up to my hips and the thought came to me; What is real?

"After the war was ended, I flew into Tokyo and took pictures of Hiroshima. Later I went to Shanghai with some correspondents. I was greatly affected by what I saw. I remember Edgar Snow telling me that Chinese people had lost faith over."

Hall returned to Hollywood, but his heart wasn't in the job of pampering the glamor dolls. He was restless, and he delved into philosophy and psychology for the answer to his query: What is Real? One day a friend counseled him to seek the answer in the Bible. For the first time in his life, he began reading it thoroughly.

"It was on Palm Sunday night at 11:30 in 1947," he remembers. "I was reading through my Bible when suddenly the truth came to me. I heard the will of God. I realized that God was reality, as revealed by our Savior, Jesus Christ. At that moment I decided to become a researcher in spiritual reality."

In the past five years, he has spread the Gospel through Latin America, Europe, Israel, Egypt and all over the United States.

"I am proudest of the meetings I held in Berlin. I was able to fly the word of God just 500 feet from a huge tent into Berlin and preach the Russian sector, within the view of the godless Communists.

"Surely the power of the Word of God, the cleansing blood of Jesus Christ and the regeneration of the Holy Ghost have wrought a mighty miracle in my life."

"If thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved. For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation" Romans 10:9,10.

In total mileage, the basic transport system within the continental United States would encircle the earth almost 86 times. It is long enough to provide nine separate routes to the moon.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

THE FEELING OF INADEQUACY

Most of us, at one time or another, have yielded to the feeling of inadequacy. A temporary lapse into this mental state of self-pity is understandable; but when it persists beyond logical thinking, it looms high as a problem in mental health.

How can we overcome this feeling of inadequacy? First of all, none of us should demand perfection. Persons with a feeling of inferiority, exaggerated ego and self esteem are difficult to live, work and play with.

A feeling of self-respect and equality is the happy medium. For this it is not necessary to be a braggart or a constant self-publicity seeker. On the other hand, neither should we hide our light under the proverbial bushel.

Avoiding excessive self-consciousness and oversuspiciousness of remarks and actions of others is helpful. In overcoming defects or handicaps, one should also avoid the extremes of overcompensation, such as excessive self-assertion, over aggressiveness, cruelty, unscrupulousness and boastfulness.

Remember that we need to a certain degree the feeling of inadequacy and inferiority. We need to know our own limitation. It has been said that the great are the most humble.

Planning our lives along the lines of legitimate ambition is essential. A desire to improve one's status in business and social life is commendable.

Use well directed thinking to improve yourself and your family, but don't let envy and greed become factors in your ambition. And when the feeling of inadequacy comes along, as it does to all of us, make it a temporary and fleeting state. Things will be better tomorrow.

Cancer Emergency—

Chilton Countians Gave Quota... And Then Some

Alabamians gave a record amount of $230,706.84 during the 1954 crusade of the American Cancer Society for funds to support its three point program of education, reserve and research.

Residents of Chilton county gave $1,899.17 of this amount. This county's quota was $1,185.00

E. R. Yeargan of Thorsby, Chilton County chairman of the 1954 crusade which began April 1, announced the results of the effort in this county and thanked "all the public spirited citizens who had a part in this fine accomplishment."

Mr. Yeargan expressed appreciation both to those who made contributions and those who, in addition to their monetary gifts, gave of their time and energy to the work of conducting a successful campaign.

Col. C. W. Daugette, Jr. of Gadsden, was state campaign chairman this year.

Mrs. Lillian G. Meade of Birmingham, executive director of the Alabama Division, American Cancer Society, said that when the final count of funds is made for the fiscal year which ended August 31, total contributions from the people of Alabama probably would go over $231,000.

These funds are used to support scientific research on cancer, a continuous educational program to alert the public to the danger signals of cancer, and help for medically indigent cancer patients. Since 1945, the American Cancer Society has allocated almost $700,000 for cancer research in Alabama.

Dr. John Dey Peake of Mobile is chairman of the state executive committee of the Alabama Division and Fred A. Duran of Auburn is treasurer. Judge J. C. McGough is state representative.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

It wasn't a big social event I was headed to, but I did want to look my best. I dressed carefully, being thankful that this time I wasn't faced with a mother's perpetual problem of deciding whether it's best to dress the children first or herself first. This time the children, dirty and in old clothes, would stay at home, and I would go alone.

As I said, I took special pains with my dressing. I put on my very best clothes and I assured myself that the results were satisfactory. In fact, I was feeling quite pleased with my appearance until I started to the car and encountered the five year-old. He looked at me carefully, and I beamed, expecting a compliment.

"Where are you going?" he asked. "Fishing?"

I suddenly felt so shabby I almost turned around and went back in the house!

The next door neighbor, who never looks as if she were going fishing, has a large collection of artificial flowers and ornaments to brighten up her dresses and suits.

"You can change the whole look of a dress just by changing accessories," she points out. "And think of the money you save." That was a typical remark for her.

Anyhow, she keeps her artificial flowers fresh and new in appearance by putting them in plastic refrigerator dishes when they're not being worn. She doesn't put them in the refrigerator, but she puts them in the plastic dishes to protect them from being crushed and from getting dirty. With the care she gives them, her flower corsages last indefinitely.

The neighbor down the street, the one with the big family, always manages to look well groomed despite the demands of her brood.

She's a great believer in crisp white collars and cuffs to make any dress look smart. With so many children around her, it's not easy to keep her white accessories spotless but she has found a simple helper.

"I keep a piece of chalk, the plain school variety, in my purse," she says. "And I use it to cover up any unsightly spots that appear on my white accessories. It works fine to hide spots of dirt temporarily."

Of course no woman, no matter how well dressed, appears well groomed if she constantly is struggling to keep her straps in place. I never see a woman pulling up her straps without thinking of the man who watched his wife make this feminine maneuver one day and asked what she was doing. When she told him, he replied: "Pulling up straps! And all these years I've thought women were scratching when they did that!"

The moral, of course, is to anchor straps securely with snaps or pins.

Wise Stepmother

Have you heard about "Colonel" Jackson's unusual pet, the tame owl "Blinky"? He's had her about three years.

I say "her" because up to a couple of weeks ago nobody was quite sure. But now "Blinky's" a mother—of two chicks!

Seems "Blinky" had been acting kind of strange—so on a hunch, "Colonel" put a couple of hen's eggs in her nest. Darn if "Blinky" didn't set on them for 5 days! Last Friday they hatched, and now "Blinky's" as proud as a mother hen! (So's "Colonel.")

From where I sit, there's a lesson for all of us. Guess you'd call it "tolerance." Birds and animals often seem to do better in that respect than humans. If I like a glass of temperate beer with supper and you'd rather have cider—it should be okay with both of us. Neither of us should give a "hoot" what the other fellow likes, says, or does, as long as he follows the law of the land. Right?

THIS NEWSPAPER

my PET PEEVE by Mike Bennett

IN RECENT years we Americans have become more and more concerned with "loyalty." The word wasn't coined during World War II, but it has been used more in the past ten years than in a probable hundred years before. In these times, maybe it's wise to be loyalty-conscious. I can't say; all I know I read in the papers.

Yet, I've been amused at some of our slightly disloyal citizens for years. Don't get me wrong. I haven't known any spies or saboteurs. I refer to folks who aren't loyal to "the old home town."

I met a million during the war. Long did I labor under the impression that I was probably the only small town boy in the Marine Corps. The others came from Chicago, Pittsburgh, New Orleans, New York. It worried me, until I just happened to notice that these fellows got their mail from hamlets and smaller cities 50 or 60 miles from the metropolis they called "home."

I still meet these disloyal citizens. An up-and-coming executive or businessman tells me he's from a town of, let's say 20,000 population. A life-long friend later whispers he's actually from Junction Switch, population 200, where he was born, raised and educated. The only time he ever spent in the city he claims as home was on Saturday nights.

The thing that peeves me, too, is the realization that one of these days, should this guy make his mark in the world, he will also make a million bucks from a book about his early life in Junction Switch.

It isn't fair to the 199 loyal Junction Switchers who have claimed him all along.

Out of every 10 persons in the world, six live on farms and depend on agriculture for a livelihood. This ration varies from continent to continent: in North America only 2 persons out of ten depend on agriculture in contrast to seven out of ten in Asia and Africa.

One ton of dried sawdust can be converted into 55 to 60 gallons of 200 proof ethyl alcohol, 0.12 gallons of fusel oil, 100 pounds of feeding yeast containing 50 per cent of protein and additional by-products of 20 pounds of furfural and 600 pounds of lignin.

Whose Farm Is This?

The above is a farm somewhere in Chilton County. Can you guess who it belongs to? Is it yours? If you think you know, turn in your entry to the "News" office before Saturday noon. A drawing will be held the following Monday and a lucky winner will be chosen. It may be you!

MISS AMERICA . . . Lee Ann Meriwether, 19, of San Francisco, was chosen at Atlantic City from 50 beauties to be "Miss America, 1955." She's dark-haired, blue-eyed, 5 feet-eight, 124 pounds.

Interest in the "Mystery Farm" Contest is growing by leaps and bounds.

Last week's farm broke all records for the number of guesses turned in. Forty-six people guessed Willie Hamilton's farm and no one made a wrong guess.

Many of those who turned in answers stated that this was the most enjoyable contest they had ever participated in. Too, they enjoy having a new contest to enter each week.

Like we've said, you can't lose anything in this contest, but you can win prizes and have a lot of fun too. You'll really enjoy using those free passes to your Clanton Drive-In Theatre. If you're not sure you know who owns the farm, guess anyway. You might be right.

All we ask is that you turn your answer in to the News Office before noon next Saturday. We cannot accept phone calls, post cards or letters.

If you own the above "Mystery Farm" please come by the News Office as soon as possible and pick up your Free framed enlargement of the aerial photograph of your farm.

Everyone—come in and guess today. Chances are you'll be a winner and we know for sure that you'll enjoy this exciting contest this crop.

We would like to add that due to the Clanton Drive-In Theatre's capacity the passes that we give free to the winners cannot be used on Saturdays, Sundays or legal holidays.

Hints For Farmers. . .

KEEP COVER ON LAND TO PREVENT EROSION

Auburn, Ala. — For a sound land use program keep farm lands covered most of the time.

According to S. R. Doughty, API Extension soil conservationist, this practice holds the soil in place and maintains and improves its fertility. He explains that the cropping system or rotation to be used on any type and condition of the soil. The land depends upon the slope and farm leader says that regardless of the system used, however, maximum use should be made of good, thick-ground cover.

Doughty points out that crops serve a three-fold purpose. They protect the ground surface from erosion, provide forage for farm livestock, and return plant manure to the soil to help build up and maintain good crop production.

The specialist farmers to complete plans now for putting a "cover of green" on every possible acre of crop land this fall.

FAIR PRICE IS LIFTED ON WINTER CROP SEEDS

Another change in this year's Agricultural Conservation Program lifts the fair price on fall and winter grazing crop seed.

Ralph E. Jones, API Extension seed crop specialist, says that now farmers may buy their seed from any source. The farmer and vendor can set their own price and the farmer will still be eligible for cost sharing through ACP.

However, Jones warns that farmers should not pay too much for of seed available for planting winter seed. He says there is a good supply crops, so farmers should shop around for best buys and keep dealers in line with their price.

CLEAN UP MACHINERY FOR WINTER STORAGE

Auburn, Ala. — Prepare field quipment now for winter hibernation; neglect can mean lost days in the spring, when time is really important.

Start off by giving the tractor a thorough washing, says J. T. Gaillard, API Extension farm machinery specialist. Cracks and breaks that need welding may be found under dust, grime or mud. The specialist says to use soap and warm water to wash away corrosive barnyard acids, and a kerosene-soaked brush to scrub off stubborn, dried grease.

After cleaning, Gaillard says make a thorough inspection of the chassis, engine, and other parts of the tractor for loose nuts and bolts and broken or worn out parts that need repairing or replacing.

If major repairs are needed, act now! The farm leader warns that if you wait until spring, your dealer's repair shop may be jammed with work; and the rush for parts may delay needed repairs which could cost you time and money.

Although your tractor may stand idle for several months, check the ignition system before storing. Next spring when the buds start bursting it will be a fine feeling to have an engine kick right off, concluded Gaillard.

FOOD SALES ARE HIGH DESPITE BAD WEATHER

Auburn, This year grocery business in the United States continued to boom despite untavorable food growing weather and a slackening off in some other business.

Austin Ezzell, API Extension foods merchandising specialist, says that in July, for instance, grocery store sales averaged over $2.00 more per family than during the all time record month of December, 1953.

He explains that several of the most important factors responsible for this favorable food sales situation, are:

1. This year food growers, manufacturers, and distributors have engaged one of the strongest promotional and advertising campaigns ever engaged in by the food industries. They have used all means of keeping their products before the public.

2. In most areas this year carry home pay has averaged as much or more than it did during 1953.

3. In practically all areas of the country housewives have been more liberal in their food buying than they have in purchasing many other goods and services.

4. The value of improved diets has been strongly impressed in the minds of most homemakers and managers. They are showing a determination to maintain wholesome diets even if they have to cut the purchase of other goods and services.

All these conditions have helped keep food buying at an all-time high. Thu farmers have better outlets for the products they grow, Ezzell concludes.

REV. ROBERT E. HARPER

Job's Struggle to Understand Life.
Job 1: 1; 19: 7-10; 23: 3-10.
Golden Text: Jeremiah 29: 13.

We know nothing concerning Job beyond what is told of him in the prose introduction of the book that bears his name. It is said that he was of the land of Uz and one of the greatest of the men of the east. He was one rich man who was a man of great faith and piety. Night and morn he offered sacrifice in his home. And, as we learn from his laments after earthly ruin and loathsome disease had come upon him, he had been "eyes to the blind" and "feet to the lame."

But dire disaster came upon him. All he had was swept away by one calamity after another and all his sons and daughters were killed in a terrible storm. Then dread disease fastened upon him. He was covered with sore boils from the crown of his head to the soles of his feet. And he took a potsherd to scrape himself withal and he sat down in the ashes.

All this, we learn, came upon him because Satan had charged that Job was good only because it paid him to be good and that in disaster and ruin he would curse God. And Job retained his integrity and ever demonstrated that men can be good in obedience to God's will.

In the lesson text, we find Job searching for light and understanding in the midst of his unparalleled sufferings and gaining the assurance that when he had been fully tried he would "come forth as gold."

Through fall and winter, Alabama poultrymen receive more for their eggs than the average U. S. grower.

ONE GOAL

Yes friends, all people of all walks of life have ever hoped to reach that goal—Eternal life.

The only way ever been given is to keep and teach God's commandments. Matt: 5:19; Matt: 19: 16; Mark: 10:17; Luke: 18:18.

Unto you it is given to know the mystery of the kingdom of God. Mark: 4:11. Besides the mystery of the kingdom of God are given the faith, mind and power of Jesus Christ, and made to know all things even the deep things of God never have to be taught by man any more. 1 J. 2:20-27. This too, only comes one way, by obedience Acts 4:32. last part.

All the good things you ever get always comes to you through repentence and obedience, you did not go after them, Jesus brings them to you, Luke: 14:14.

That is when you are born the second time, and declared to be sons and daughters. Yea, even declared to be Gods like Jesus is God. Psalms 82:6; John 10:34-35.

Friends I am shooting square from the shoulder and hewing to the line. You who think you have been born the second time should read 1 J. 5:18 and learn the difference in being born, and being begotten, you will there see you are only been begotten of God and keep yourselves, and can sin if you fail to keep yourselves unspotted from the world.

Oh, we long to see the gospel of the King of God preached, instead of a little once upon a time story of the child Jesus. Jesus is the same God that created everything and is the same Lamb that was slain before or since the world began, and his testimony is the spirit.

lone touchdown. John Price, RT for JHS, playing one of his best games, blocked a Verbena punt, with Babe Guy recovering and hauling the pigskin 47 yds to pay-off dirt. DeLoach and Turner each scored a TD the final quarter but a determined stand by the JHS team thwarted their extra point trys. The sportsmanship between the players at the end was very evident, as the boys piled over each other, hugging, congratulating, and otherwise manifesting a high degree of respect for each.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

After all, it isn't too difficult to get along with women. It is just a matter of understanding. You have to understand what they want and give it to them.

What do you know? Our Martha Bell was chosen alternate in the recently held Queen Bess competition. There were 77 girls entered and not being able to make up their minds as to who was entitled they had to name a Queen and an Alternate. Martha Bell is a good sport though. She said she was glad they named the young lady from Bessemer Queen because that was her home town and, after all, when we had our Peach Festival she was named Queen in her home town. We'd say all of those Bells are "ringers," wouldn't you?

A news item says a man went to a nearby town to lecture on "Destructive Pests." A large number were present.

We believe Alex Hayes will do a good job as Chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee. He has plenty of good ideas and we are sure will push through to a successful campaign for all the Democratic ticket. Offices for the campaign will be opened this week over the Western Auto Associate Store in the same offices that they occupied last campaign. We could have said upstairs over the Chilton Office Supply Company but Alex runs that and that would have been giving one of our competitors a "plug."

Don't be discouraged if you had to spend your vacation at home. Maybe you weren't broadened, but you weren't flattened either.

Howard Boockholdt, our popular Superintendent of Education, thought he would quietly slip out of town this week to attend a convention in Washington, D. C. We guess Howard hadn't heard but nobody does anything in Clanton quietly without it being known. Anyway he is going to Washington to attend a Rural Education Conference and delegates from all over the land will be there. Howard thinks it will be an interesting affair and much will be learned there. We hope he returns with bright new ideas to pass on to us.

Learned something yesterday that will be of interest to you young folks who have just reached voting age. If you have had your 21st birthday since February 1st, you can go before the Board of Registrars and register and then vote in the General Election coming in November without paying any poll tax. In other words you do not owe any poll tax until next year. Now here is a chance for you young folks to cast your first ballot. It is a civic obligation you owe to yourself and your community.

The only married man we know who doesn't have to worry about back seat drivers is the fellow who drives the hearse.

Frank Parrish had a lucky break at Fort Benning recently. He had been trying to get into the veterinary department of the army but to no avail. Then one day a pack of army police dogs arrived at Camp Benning. It seemed a man who could handle dogs had to be obtained at once. Well, the c. o. thought of Frank and called him over and asked him if he was afraid of army dogs. He said he wasn't so he is now looking after the army dogs over there and liking it a mighty lot. We are glad that Frank is doing what he wants to do and we are glad we ain't having to look out for the dogs.

Got word last week from one of our favorite employees. The former Doris Newell who wrote copy for the Chilton County News during her high school days is still writing copy. But now it is for a newspaper in the Canal Zone where she lives with her family. Wouldn't want Doris to hear this but do you know—that's been a long time ago.

All hunting and fishing license go on sale at the Probate Office October 1, 1954.

Judge Tingle points out that the game laws require that any one fishing with more than twenty hooks is classed as a commercial fisherman and that each man is required to have a commercial license.

The resident commercial license sells for ten dollars.

The commercial license also covers the use of set nets and basket traps.

Lawrence Likes Blue—

Ridgecrest Dairy Takes Top County Fair Honors

Taking top honors in any show is not a one year job. It takes several years of proper breeding to win blue ribbons and grand champions. Mr. Ollis Lawrence and sons achieved this honor last month at our local county fair by taking 6 blue ribbons, 3 red ribbons, Grand Champion Female, 2nd place in mature male class and 1st place in Get of Sire Class.

Mr. Lawrence has this goal in mind, when with assistance of the Farmers Home Administration, in 1943 he purchased 200 acres of land. In 1946, with Four Registered Cows on hand, he started selling Grade "B" Milk.

In August of 1950 Mr. Lawrence decided that he wanted to sell Grade "A" milk, and questioned Joe Murphree, County Supervisor, Farmers Home Administration in regard to building a Grade "A" barn. This barn was completed and Mr. Lawrence started selling milk September 1950 to local schools. During this year Mr. Lawrence enlarged his herd from 12 to 17 cows and purchased Basil, a Registered 4-star bull.

1951 saw Mr. Lawrence turning to Dairy Producers where he sold his milk and plans to continue this operation. In 1953 Mr. Lawrence sold his bull and purchased another Registered Bull to prevent inbreeding. At present he has 40 head of females, of which he is milking 16. 14 other cows and heifers will freshen this fall. He hopes to reach 50 head with 40 milkers.

Mr. Lawrence is known and respected as a good dairyman. He cooperates with all agricultural agencies of the county and appreciates any assistance that would help him to improve his system.

Mr. Emerson will discuss the subject, "Restoration of the Apostolic Church" Saturday evening at the Kinkdom Hall, Highway 31, Lomax, Alabama. The talk will be at 8 PM.

WHO OWNS THIS WEEK'S "MYSTERY FARM"?

CCHS Team Licks Montevallo 19 To 13

HAROLD SMYER

The Clanton Tigers came to life for a few minutes in the third quarter of their game with Montevallo and went ahead of a first half deficit of 6 to 7 and outscored Montevallo, 19 to 13. The Tigers journey to Wetumpka Friday night to play the strong, undefeated Wetumpka Indians

Clanton jumped ahead of Montevallo last Friday night after Montevallo had run seven plays when Edmund Littlejohn intercepted Hicks' pass and went all the way, 70 yds. to score. Littlejohn's kick for the extra point was not good and Clanton led 6 to 0. Clanton kicked off and two plays later Jimmy Powell got possession of the ball on a pitchout from Galloway and raced untouched 29 yds. for for a TD. The play was called back and Clanton was penalized 5 yds. for being off sides. In the second Quarted Edward Billingsley intercepted pass by Galloway on his own 35 yd. line to stop a bulldog drive.

The Tigers drove down to the Bull dog nine yd. line where Arthur Robinson fumbled and Montevallo recovered. From the nine, the Bulldogs made a 91 yard drive to score. Hicks and Calloway picked up most of yardage and Hicks made the score from 20 yrs. out. Galloway, on a buck lateral, scored the extra point which put the Bulldogs ahead 7 to 6.

Coach Spicer had the Tigers keyed up for the second half of the game as the Tigers took the kickoff on their 5 yd. line and scored in four plays. Roy Mims sprinted 47 yds. on the 22 yd. line. Mims attempted a one run during the march and Arthur Robinson scored on a run from placekick for the extra point but it was wide. Score: Tigers 12, Bulldogs 7.

Clanton kicked off to Montevallo and after two plays Obra Wilson recovered Hicks' fumble on the Bulldog 4 yd. line. In four plays Mims had crossed the goal line in a 17 yd. run. Littlejohn converged for the Tigers. Later in the third quarter Boyce Comer fumbled on his own 43 yd. line and a Bulldog recovered. The very next play Hicks dashed 43 yards to score for Montevallo. Galloway failed on his attempted run for the extra point, so the score was Clanton 19 Montevallo 13.

In the fourth quarter Jimmy Oaks stopped the Bulldogs as Hicks fumbled on the Tiger 28 yd. line. After an exchange of punts, Clanton had driven 67 yds. to the Bulldog 15 yd. line as the game ended.

For the Tiger yardage, Mims accounted for 202; Littlejohn 92; Robinson 85; and Comer 14. For Montevallo, Hicks picked up 158 yds.; Galloway 96; and Smith 41.

FEPC DICTATORSHIP

The president has issued a new executive order with reference to placing government contracts which is as dictatorial as if we were living under an actual dictatorship rather than a constitutional form of government. It assumes absolute control over the employment practices of all firms who do business with the government—including the subcontractors—and seeks to do by executive fiat something Congress has specifically refused to do by law.

Here's the new "FEPC Clause" for government contracts:

"In the connection with the performance of work under this contract, the contractor agrees not to discriminate against any employe or applicant for employment because of race, religion, color, or national origin. The aforesaid provision shall include, but not be limited to, the following: Employment, upgrading, demotion, or transfer; recruitment or recruitment advertising; layoff or termination; rates of pay or other forms of compensation; and selection for training, including apprenticeship. The Contractor agrees to post hereafter in conspicuous places, available for employes or applicants for employment, notices to be provided by the contracting officer setting forth the provisions of the nondiscrimination clause.

"The contractor further agrees to insert the foregoing provision in all subcontracts hereunder, except subcontracts for standard commercial supplies or raw materials."

Ours is supposed to be a government by law and not by executive edict. Yet, if the nations economy is to be controlled by executive order rather than by law—and, due to the ramifications of government purchasing, that is the effect in this case—THEN THE EXECUTIVE HAS USURPED THE POWER OF THE CONGRESS.

What we must realize in this country—before we wake up and find that it is too late—is that this question of so-called fair employment is not a question "of race, religion, color, or national origin," as its proponents so glibly recite, but a question of individual freeeom. WE MUST NOT OVERLOOK THE FACT THAT A GOVERNMENT WHICH CAN ASSUME THE POWER TO TELL THE EMPLOYER WHOM HE MUST HIRE, CAN JUST AS EASILY ASSUME THE POWER TO TELL THE EMPLOYE FOR WHOM HE MUST WORK.

Another thing the people of this nation must realize is that this is not a question affecting only the South as a region. This has been the more or less popular assumption over the years during which attempts to enact an FEPC have been made, due, of course, to the color factor involved.

Actually, if the South has been more vigorous than other regions in opposing the enactment of such a law and has been thus far successful in its efforts, so far as regular legal channels are concerned, it is all to the credit of the sound-thinking patriotism of the South. IT SHOWS THE FIRM ADHERENCE OF THE PEOPLE OF THE SOUTH TO THE PRINCIPLES WHICH ARE THE WHOLE BASIS OF OUR FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

DISTRACTING COMPETITION

Things we -SEE- and Hear

by "Tuck"

Defeat should come before gain if the gain is to mean anything. On the other hand, de head should come before de feet if you're gonna get anywhere.

We had a lotta apple selling little girls on Saturday trying to help out in the drive for the underprivileged children sponsored by the Clanton Kiwanians. Each year the same ambitious young girls come around doing all they can to help, and to say the least, they do their part. They deserve something more than thanks, but we imagine they would get more than enough thanks, in gratitude, if they could see the face of some youngster light up when he benefits from their efforts. Maybe even thihking about it is thanks enough. We appreciate them, and we know the underprivileged children more than appreciate them.

Football team this year seems to be doing all right for itself. They've knocked over two opponents already and are more than we expected, we'll have to admit. If they can keep up the good work maybe they can take on the old rival, Verbena, providin' of course someone doesn't beat them to it. According to Harold Smyer, the CCHS team has what it takes this year if they can just work some of the kinks out. With two wins under their belt it should be easier to do that because if they have that old go, go, go they'll be out to try to hold on to the reputation they've started.

Hear about the new dish they have out now. It's called "Neurotic's Delight" and it's made up of ground up finger nails with a little seasoning to add flavor and a coupla nervy olives on top. (That's the kind that stick their stuffings out at you.) It's a good 'ern, boy.

You know, something just struck us as we were coming down the post office steps and that is we don't give the postman their due. The only time we even mention their names are when they don't wait on us at the windows, or they don't put up the papers just as we'd like 'em, or they got the wrong mail in my box tonight. All of these things, but we never think to thank them when we've run out of reading material and they put up that magazine we've been looking for. Or when they stay there late just to sort the latest mail. We don't thank them because we take 'em for granted. The boys at the post office have their faults, just as you and I have, but they like a little pat on the back now and then, too and it's seldom we hear of them getting one. Even when they deserve it. But why don't you guys wait on us?

When Chilton County gets a new courthouse there will probably be a bronze plaque on the cornerstone in memory of the person the present one fell in on.

Looks like we'll start drinking out of the Coosa in the sometimes near future. They finally decided it would be wise to connect with the river and never have the problem we faced this year again. Now all we need to do is figure some way to dig the farm well a little deeper during a drought such as we've just experienced. We know quite a few country folks that are in straits when it comes to adequate water these days and we wish there was some way we could pipe them some. Only thing is we don't have enough ourselves.

DEFACING OF PUBLIC PROPERTY

The defacing of public property is the most common, and at the same time most discouraging mistake made by modern man.

It has always been a mystery why someone would intentionally destroy something that was put up in their behalf and think little or nothing about it. It is our opinion that it is pure old ignorance. Ignorance, because the person or persons committing the act don't have the intelligence to see when they are hurting themselves. It's like "taking the bread out of your own mouth," as the saying goes.

We are speaking in part, of the defacing of the safety figures that were put up in the public interest by interested parties to protect the public. The two statues below the Clanton Grammar School on highway 22 that stand in the center of the road when school is taking in or letting out are put there for the purpose of protecting your kids and mine, and you and I, too, for that matter. The public, whoever that may be, has seen to it that these figures were properly defaced so that they would be rendered useless much sooner than necessary. For folks who call themselves Americans that is about as un-American as you can get. It is also, as we said, very ignorant on the part of who ever did it.

While we're on the subject, the Clanton airport is another example of the sterling qualities of some of our folks around the County. We would almost bet that there isn't a window in the entire building that isn't broken out. It might have been prankish boys, but then again, not many prankish boys would cut the seats of a theatre or literally tear down something belonging to the public. No, it wasn't prankish boys, if it was boys then they were old enough to know it was wrong and the parents are partly to blame. Still, quite a bit of public property destroying should be credited to older folks and not to prankish boys and girls.

We have seen public property defaced and we have seen the people defacing and they were the type who got a kick out of tearing something up. You know the kind we mean . . . the kind who would laugh at this editorial, if they read it.

IT'S MY OPINION

* * * *

Did you ever wonder how you could be a good Christian without being too critical of other things and other people? In other words, being a religious person without being a fanatic.

Like for instance, when you don't share the same opinion of another you feel like telling them that what they say is wrong and not what you believe. They're entitled to their opinion, too; unless of course it's basically wrong. Then, in that case you should tell them what you believe, and if you are what you say you are you should be able to get over to them what you mean.

For another instance, a person opinion of them. Not so much because you don't do it sometimes uses profanity and it lowers your yourself, but because you're trying not to do it and there they are reminding of things you are trying to overcome and forget. It does make you over-critical doesn't it?

What we think is this, you have to work at it. You have to keep in mind all the time that even though others don't share your ideas you mustn't be to quick to form a low opinion of them.

Try working hard at it and maybe soon it will become more easy . . . sort of like a bad habit . . . a good one this time. Maybe it will be easier as you go along on the right road. We don't know whether it will or not, because we've never tried it either.

It's our opinion though, that be a good common, every day fellow Christian you must work at not being to critical of others it takes even though you feel that you've overcome your own. You can, try to help them to overcome theirs too. And if you don't know them try to understand that they just can't see their mistakes as you have.

33 Per Cent Say GOP-Controlled 83rd Congress Did Good Job—10 Per Cent Say it Did Poor Job.

Princeton, New Jersey—How does the GOP-controlled 83rd Congress rate with rank and file voters across the nation on the eve of this fall's election?

Results of a nationwide survey just completed by Princeton Research Service's United States Poll show that one in five voters across the U. S. A. today is of the opinion that the 83rd Congress did a poor job.

At the same time, one out of every three say that the 83rd Congress did a good job.

And nearly two out of every five voters rate the performance of the 83rd Congress as fair.

In other words, the record of the 83rd Congress wins neither overwhelming praise nor heavy censure from voters who will be going to the Polls in less than five weeks.

These were the findings when U. S. Poll staff reporters asked a representative cross-section of the nation's voters:

"Congress has been in session since January, 1953. In your opinion has the Congress done a good job or a poor job in dealing with the problems facing the country?"

The results:

NATIONWIDE

Good	33%

Poor	19
No Opinion	10

On the question of the kind of job Congress did this term, Democratic Party members throughout the nation divide as follows:

Those who say that the 83rd Congress did a good job outnumber those who say poor job by a margin of 3 per cent.

And about one in three say that the Republican-controlled Congress did a fair job.

DEMOCRATIC VOTERY ONLY (NATIONWIDE)

Juvenile Delinquency

Juvenile delinquency respects no class of individuals. It may occur among the poor or the rich, the ignorant or the intelligent, and with or without obvious cause.

The modern approach to the problem is one of constructive treatment rather than one of punishment. It emphasizes scientific methods of early detection and early treatment in order to lower the extraordinary cost in dollars and human happiness involved in late detection and treatment.

Environmental factors seem to loom high in the life of a juvenile delinquent. The economics may vary. In some homes the child may have too much, in others too little. Some children may be over-protected, while others just grow without any supervision.

Bad companions are an influence. They seek to enroll in their clan those children who are susceptible to undue evil direction.

Lack of family solidarity and understanding plays a role in juvenile delinquency, regardless of the economic status. A child needs parental direction that inspires love, affection and security.

Regular mealtimes should be a part of every household. Family group recreational activities will do much to create a spirit of oneness, as will church activities.

Teachers and community leaders can contribute to morale building by detecting those youngsters with hostile attitudes to their school companions and to their superiors.

Every parent should know where his child is at all times. The youngster should have trust and understanding but should be made to feel that he has definite obligations to his parents, teachers, and to his superiors. While in the dependency of his growing years, the child should also be made to feel the interdependency of being a part of family life.

With the cooperation of the family, the school and the church, juvenile and ultimately adult, delinquency can be reduced.

TCI President Enoch Ensley planned to build a city that would make Bessemer look like a small town, and to launch his plan the Ensley Land Company was created and capitalized at $10,000,000. But after elaborate plans were drawn and the town marked out the great depression of 1893 hit and the dream faded.

Saddle Soap And Floor Wax Will Preserve Leather

Auburn, Ala.—With fall weather in the air, homemakers are taking out the families stored-away clothes.

Kathleen Thompson, API Extension clothing specialist, says that now is the time to get those leather bags, belts, and shoes ready for use. One helpful hint she gives is to use saddle soap for cleaning and a good paste floor wax for polishing.

Saddle soap not only cleans leather, but it also keeps it soft and pliable. And a good paste floor wax polishes as well as protects it against hard wear and scuffing.

The Fort Payne boom of the late 1900s was launched in the hope that coal and iron would produce great riches.

OCT. 3-9 EMPLOY HANDICAPPED WEEK

Montgomery, Ala.—National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week has been proclaimed for Alabama by Gov. Gordon Persons for the week beginning Oct. 3.

And in proclaiming the occasion Persons called upon the citizens of the state "to cooperate and to lend their assistance and encouragement in the observance of the week in order to enlist public interest in and support programs for the employment of the physically handicapped."

Alabama's physically handicapped, the governor said, have demonstrated that they are capable workers when placed in jobs suited to their training, abilities and experience, and as a group constitute a valuable segment of manpower.

The ever-increasing awareness among public and private employers of the desirability of hiring the handicapped should be maintained and stimulated further," Persons said, adding:

"Recent legislation enacted by the Congress will tend to increase greatly the number of our citizens who will be rehabilitated and prepared for gainful occupation annually, thus requiring redoubled activity in the field of employment."

Lonnie Messer of Verbena, Ala., Rt. 1 has revised hi sold Soil and Water Conservation farm plan that called for row-crops and some sod crops; and the revise dfarm plan calls for a complete sod of Coastal Bermuda on his farm. What little row cropping Lonnie will do will be done on rented land. Lonnie expects to increase his beef herd to fit the expanded acreage of pasthres.

Try Good, Tasty Hamburgers For That Fall Picnic

Auburn, Ala.—Picnics don't stop with changing seasons—not here in Alabama.

So why not treat the family to a picnic, complete with hamburgers?

Mary Hulsey, API Extension food specialist, says hamburgers have become rather popular at late summer and early fall picnics because they are easy to fix and fairly inexpensive.

In fact, housewives will continue to find hamburger one of their best meat buys. Seasonal marketings of grass-fed cattle are continuing heavy, and food stores will be well supplied with hamburger—and other beef items—this fall.

Since October is the month when most sweet potatoes are harvested and prices are usually lowest. Alabama farmers should profit by storing a good part of their crop and selling it after Jan. 1 when prices are higher

Under The Study Lamp

By William Crowe

The Sound of Laughter From The Skies

"He that sitteth in the heavens shall laugh: the Lord shall have them in desirion." Psalm 2:4.

It was Robert Burns who said:

"Man's inhumanity to man
Makes countless thousands mourn."

It has always been that way. In Psalmist, bloodthirsty conquerors and ruthless dictators have trampled iur times, as in those of the old times, as in those of the feet, even defying the sovereign authority of the Almighty. Men they are who acknowledge no God above tnemselves, hold the Bible up to ridicule, mockingly sneer at the Prince of Peace, persecute those who dare to resist their fiendish designs. They arrogate to themselves the power of life and death, consigning whole races and nations to destruction that their reign may be established over a terrified humanity.

As it was in the days of Sennacherib and the Pharaohs, of Nero and the Caesars, so it is today. The blood-drenched record continues. The mournful wail of the anguished is still heard; "Why do the hea then rage and the people imagine a vain thing? The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers take counsel together against the Lord and against His Anointed."

But God laughs, so we are told in that Psalm. It is not however, the laught of an amused onlooker. You may be sure of that. It is the laughter of derision, of ridicule. It means that the Judge of all the earth takes note of every wicked beast and sneer; that He laughs at the pretensions of self-appointed despots and tyrants who take themselves so seriously, who imagine that they can control the nations and be a law unto themselves.

God not only laughs. He speaks. When judgment falls from His lips, what them? "How are the mighty fallen!" Why was it that Napoleon eked out his last miserable days on an isolated island? Because God spoke at Waterloo. Hitler perishes under the ruins of his bunker hideout, Mussolini swings upside down by his legs in a public square, Stalin fades out of the picture. Why? Why- Because God speaks.

God has not deserted. He still laughs at the concrete of high and mighty men, who may imagine that they have dethroned their Creator he only is great. He sits in the heavens and laughs, for He can afford to await the time for the ultimate victory of His wn. And that is why we can be of good courage.

What will be the end of all who defy His will, and array themselves against His authority? The answer comes from that same Psalm: "Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron: thou shalt dash them it pieces like a potter's vessel."

Frozen Food Industry Keeps Up Its Fast Growth

Auburn, Ala.—The frozen industry has grows tremendously since the first method for the freezing of perishable foods developed 30 years ago.

Freezing of foods started over to occur in the food industry the most revolutionary movement according to John Bagby, API Extension horticulturist. By 1953 there were 1400 companies freezing nearly three and one-half billion pounds of food products annually.

Bagby says that although Washington, Oregon, California, New York, and New Jersey lead in vegetable freezing, some commercial freezing is done in every state Concentrated orange juice, one of the newest products, has become the largest single quick-frozen item English peas are the largest single vegetable produced for freezing while strawberries lead all fruits.

"At one time in Alabama the plants froze strawberries," Bagby says. "Most of these plants were forced to close because of too few berries. It seems there is opportunity for Alabama farmers to produce more strawberries and other fruits and vegetables for freezing.

Every Alabama catleman should save the best 20 percent of his heifers to take the place of cows that go out of production.

THE GREAT DIVIDE

High in the Canadian Rockies, where towering snow-capped peaks keep silent sentinel, the tourist trail winds through the Kicking Horse pass. At the crest of the pass, the roadway is spanned by a great wooden arch. On the eastern approach is the name Alberta, and on the western side British Columbia, for it stands on the boundary between these two Provinces; but its real purpose is to mark the watershed of the continent, and across the top it bears the sign: THE GREAT DIVIDE. On one side of this crestline the waters flow eastward to their final destination in Hudson's Bay; on the opposite side they flow westward to the Pacific. The melting snows from the peaks which in summer teed these rushing mountain torrents, are the same on either side, but their destinations are diametrically opposite, for they have no choice but to obey the law of gravity.

Tourists who speed through the pass are thrilled by the sign over the arch for they are riding on top of the world; but perhaps the thought never crosses their minds that there is another Great Divide which separates humanity into two streams flowing in opposite directions, to destinations as far apart as the east from the west.

Yet sometimes as they rush over the trail, conscious only of the rugged grandeur of this laud of the sky, they are abruptly halted by a terrible reminder that at the end of the trail they must meet God A piercing scream, a sickening crash and death stalks the highway! The silent forms on the roadway, a few moments ago in the full bloom of life, have suddenly reached their destination." On which side of the Great Divide had they chosen their course through life—toward the sunrise of eternal day, or toward the sunset of eternal night?

The Great Divide which determines the direction in which you life is channelled is plainly marked by the Cross of Christ. It was set up nineteen centuries ago on the hill Calvary, and its light encircles the world. Yet men pass it by as carelessly as the tourist skims through the pass. The wise motorist carries a map, but the mass of humanity that throngs life's high way, rush on heedless of God' Word careless of their destination. Yet on one can ignore God, for unlike the streams from the hills, each life must determine its own choice of the way. There are only two ways; ;God's and man's. You cannot remain neutral. The choice is yours, but it must be made.

The World is full it dead men the walking dead--engrossed with worldly affairs but without God, without Christ, without hope. The terrible tragedy of these walking dead is that they deliberately ignore the way of eternal life. When a last you stand before the Great White Throne in the presence of God, the question which will determine your eternal destiny will be: What is your relation to Jesus Christ? no evasions, no excuses will avail. The matter must be decided now while you have the power of conscious choice. Are you one of the walking dead? Mental acceptance of Christ's claim is not enough. Rev. and Mrs. Helms have planned and looked forward to their twenty-fifth anniversary wedding, a church wedding, using as near as possible same attendants as in the first wedding; and their only two children to sing for them. The minister, Rev. Gayle F. Lewis, was their first Supervisor in the ministry in Ohio, over twenty years ago.

Although when first planged, the Helms not knowing the old customs and traditions of this anniversary, a dream come true, about fifty-five or more out of town guests came to help them celebrate.

The altar was decorated with a large palm at each end, and ferns spreading over the altar to the center where a high arch was made of fern and greenery, with white gladioli climbing over the arch way where Rev. Lewis stood with the couple just outside. A large white wicker basket, with arrangement of white gladioli on each side of the platform near the arch way, and the candelabra holding seven white candles on either side.

The music preceding was a twenty-minute prelude played by Betty Troy Helms, and James Noel Helms sang for his parents, "Use Us Lord," accompanied by Betty Troy. After wards Betty Troy sang, "God Gave Me You," accompanied by Miss Beula Peters of Pontiac, Mich., a neice of Mrs. Helms. The bridal march was also by Miss Peters, at the organ.

The Rev. and Mrs. Helms renewed their marriage vows by reciting them from memory to each other, then repeating the double ring ceremony with Rev. Lewis.

As the couple knelt on a white pillar under the archway, Rev. Lewis prayed the most Holy and consecrated prayer, for the Rev. and Mrs. Helms for their future life and ministry in God's work. Then Rev. Lewis presented them to the congegation for congratulations.

Mrs. Gayle F. Lewis, honor guest, wife of Rev. Lewis, wore navy with pink corsage.

Larger Budget For Public Welfare

Montgomery, Ala.—A budget of $37,301,522 for Alabama's state welfare program has been approved for the 1954-55 fiscal year by the State Board of Public Welfare.

That's an increase of approximately $700,000 over the budget for the current year which ends Sept. 30th.

Most of the money, as has been the case in past years, will come from the federal government.

The proposed budget includes $9,732,135 in state funds and $27,569,386 in federal funds.

State Welfare Commissioner Bill Dorrough said the new budget will make it possible to continue paying old age assistance recipients on the basis of 100 per cent of budgeted need up to the federal maximum.

Dorough said that payments to the blind and the permanently and totally disabled will be raised, beginning in October, to 100 per cent of budgeted need.

At the same time the welfare commissioner declared there is an increase in the number of applications the Welfare Department has received for assistance. He said that if the September rate continues through the month the number received will be up about 18 per cent over last year.

Declaring that it is difficult to predict caseload figures, Dorrough pointed out that the drought, unemployment and discontinuance of payments under the miner's welfare fund have caused increased need in many areas of the state, resulting in new applications for assistance from the Welfare Department.

The Welfare Board members were told by Dorrough that the department is continuing its efforts to place older children and family groups of children in adoptive homes and to gain public understanding of adoption laws. During the current year, he said, the department has received 134 children and has placed 131 with a view to adoption.

Board members are Gov. Gordon Persons, chairman; Oliver Young, Vernon; Mrs. Mildred White Wallace, Columbiana; Dr. J. J. Wells, Alexander City; Mrs. John S. Tilley, Montgomery; Tom Byake Howle, Anniston, and Bryant A. Whitmore, Birmingham.

TIME TO SPRAY BEEF CATTLE

All beef cattle should be thoroughly sprayed with DDT and BHC. This spray helps control screwworms, rids cattle of lice before cold weather, and protects them against other external parasites.

Whose Farm Is This?

Do you know who owns this farm? We're sure you've seen it many times. It's somewhere in Chilton County. Come in to the Chilton County News office before noon Saturday and tell us who owns it. If your answer is correct you'll win two free passes to the Clanton Drive-In Theatre and you will be eligible to win the grand prize drawing next Monday.

If the owner of the above "Mystery Farm" will come in to the News office as soon as possible he will receive a beautiful framed enlargement of this aerial photograph of his farm absolutely free.

TV CHANNEL OKED FOR EDUCATION

Mintgomery, Ala.—Alabama has received approval for a second channel in what eventually is planned for a statewide Alabama Educational Television network.

Gov. Gordon Persons this week was notified by Washington that the Federal Communications Commission had allocated Channel 2 to the state and it will be located near Andalusia.

Already approved and under construction is Channel 7 atop Cheaha Mountain. It is scheduled to go into operation Jan. 1.

Another channel, 10, is planned for Birmingham but FCC approval has not been granted yet. Microwave relay will connect Auburn and the University of Alabama with the transmitters.

New York and New England capital was attracted to the Fort Payne development in the late 1800s. The Northern capitalists were completely fooled by what they saw in Fort Payne and advised their friends to invest, as they had done.

The winner of last week's Mystery Farm was Mr. J. S. SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

Charlie Childress, Jemison, Ala. Rt. 1, a cooperator of the North Central Soil Conservation District, is now looking for Kudzu seedlings or crowns to plant twenty-odd acres of land next spring. Several years ago this was rowcrop land. Charlie states "I can take Kudzu and make more money selling hay than I can row-cropping."

A. R. Taylor has just purchased the "Little Beaver" tree girdling machine, and has started a crew deadening the undesirable hardwood that is over-topping his young pine seedlings.

J. R. Bearden of Maplesville, Ala. made application under the ASC program last week to release 40 acres of his young pine as called for in his District Soil and Water Conservation farm plan.

Last week another record breaking number of contestants in the contest the farm was identified as Mr. Wallace Fox's.

The Fox farm is located on Rt. 3, Clanton about 7 miles west on the Maplesville highway. Mr. Fox is the owner of his farm and has been the owner since 1934. He has 317 acres of land most of which is in timber, but the acres that are cleared for crops and cattle he cleared himself.

He and his wife Ruth were married the same year he bought the farm and have no children. They are members of the Mulberry Baptist church and he is a Mason.

Mr. Fox says his only hobby is developing his farm and from the size of it he has a pretty big job if he intends to do it all alone.

The Fox's main types of farming are cattle and feed growing, the favorite of the owner being cattle of which he has quite a few.

They have a beautiful home on their farm and we're glad to add them to our farm of the week family and wish them well in the progressive years to come.

COTTON HARVEST EARLIER THAN USUAL THIS YEAR

STAPLE SHORTER, QUALITY HIGHER

Auburn, Ala.—Three significant facts about the harvesting, ginning, and quality of Alabama's current cotton crop were listed this week by A. W. Jones, API Extension marketing specialist.

Picking and ginning are much further advanced than normal for this time of the year. He said ginning totaled 148,370 bales as of Sept. 1, compared to 85,549 bales on the same date in 1953.

Staple length of this year's crop is shorter due to the drouth. Only half the cotton ginned through Sept. 1 ran over one inch in staple. Last year 80 percent of the crop was longer than one inch.

On the brighter side Jones said cotton grades are better than a year ago, with 67.4 percent running middling or better compared to 62.5 percent last year.

"The most important thing right now is for growers to pick the fast-opening crop before it is damaged in the field," advised Jones. "Protect this high quality for greatest dollar returns when you sell."

EXAMS ASKED FOR MERIT SYSTEM JOBS

Montgomery, Ala.—Merit system examinations for six job classifications have been announced by the State Personnel Department.

Applications for permission to take the examinations, the dates for which will be announced, must be filed not later than Oct. 12.

Application blanks may be obtained from the State Personnel Department here or from any Alabama State Employment Service office.

The job classifications are Crippled Children's Soical Worker, monthly salary range $265-$342; Deputy Prison Warden II, $342-$440; Deputy Prison Warden I, $310-400; Real Estate Investigator $280-$360; Forester III, $342-$440, and Public Buildings Insurance Inspector, $280-$360.

RATE RAISE IS APPROVED BY PSC

Montgomery, Ala.—The Alabama Public Service Commission has approved a move by Western Union to increase its intrastate rates by approximately 25 per cent. The increase which company officials said was in line with one granted by the FCC on interstate rates, is effective Oct. 1.

The commission also has approved a request by Alabama Gas Corporation for permission to issue 84,199 shares of common stock to finance an expansion program.

Water Systems Bring Higher Farm Incomes

Auburn, Ala.—Perhaps no other use of electricity pays the farmer bigger dividends than an electric water system that puts running water in his barn, poultry house, and other buildings.

W. T. Cox API Extension engineer, says that greater farm productivity with less labor is possible with such a system. Anything that increases production usually means more money in the pocket, he adds.

Cox pointed out that an abundance of fresh, clean water increases production of meat, milk, eggs, and poultry. "Just consider how much water is in meat, milk and eggs."

"Milk is 87 percent water. When drinking cups were attached to stalls it was found that cows drank 18 percent more water. They drank oftener from cups than from an outside tank. It was also noted that both milk and butterfat yields increased.

"An egg is 5 percent water. Plenty of water makes more and larger eggs and healthier hens.

"Beef, hogs and poultry need plenty of fresh water when being fattened for market. When they drink more, they fatten faster."

When installing a water system, Cox says to provide an adequate water supply for future as well as present needs.

PRISONS TO HAVE EXHIBIT AT FAIR

Montgomery, Ala.—Prisoner-made scale models of prisons, old and new, will be a part of the exhibit that the State Board of Corrections will have at the Alabama State Fair in Birmingham, Oct. 4-9.

According to Prison Director J. M. McCullough the exhibit, which during the week beginning Oct. 18 will be a part of the South Alabama Fair in Montgomery, will depict the advance of penology through the ages.

The scale models in the exhibit range from ancient galley ships where political prisoners and slaves were chained to their oars, to a miniature replica of Alabama's newest prison nearing completion at Atmore.

"The exhibit will be of special interest to school groups because it offers an opportunity to learn interesting facts about the operation of the state's prison system," McCullough said.

In addition to the historic portion of the exhibit, supplies of prison-made industrial products and prisoner arts and crafts will be shown.

Raisins for cakes and breads will be plump and juicy if soaked in warm water before added to the batter or dough.

LACONIC

Who Jesus Christ Is

Jesus said, "I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last, the beginning and the end."

Jesus Christ is called God, Melchizedek, and I AM, in the old scripture. In the new we look on him as Lord.

While Jesus was called God he created everything that has ever been created.

Jesus is the lamb slain from the foundatiion of the world. The testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy, and he (Jesus- spoke through the mouth of his Holy prophets, which have been since the world began.

You see that Jesus is the author of the ten commandments, gave them to us for our understanding in this life, to lead us to eternal life and to govern us in his new kingdom already established and to be set up sooner than you think.

I have told you the Holy Spirit of God, it is a gift of God and makes comes only in obedience to the will things of God that has been kept you know all things even the deep secret since the foundation of the world.

Jesus Christ the same yesterday and today and forever. Please remember the scripture cannot be broken.

The commandments are bound with an unbreakable chain, placed in a durable socket where you cannot remove even one point; the 4th commandment is there and shall forever be.

Eternal life comes only by doing the commandments, doing means not only keeping but teaching God's commandments.

Friends, I have given you these facts, and truths in love. I can prove them all and I challenge any man or woman in any walk of life to prove what I have said is untrue.

Will you please read and study your Bible.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Miss Evelyn Mullins, State Librarian, who attended meetings here last week of the AAUW and met with the Board of Revenue & Control in the interest of getting a mobile library for the county passed a mighty nice compliment on our Board Members and Chairman. She stated after the meeting that she had never met with a more gentlemanly group. In her work, naturally, she works with all kinds and meets many different people, but she thought our Board Members the nicest she had ever met with. O. K., boys, take a bow.

Millard Lancaster came in this week to pay his subscription. Well, whenever Millard Lancaster comes in you look for a "tall tale," or a mighty good 'true story." This week Millard's story had to do with the dry weather. He said over at his home town it had been mighty dry this summer. In fact, he said it was so dry over there that the river was only running three days a week. He said that the Baptists had quit baptizing and started sprinkling and the Methodists were just wiping the new members with a damp cloth.

Doing business without advertising is like winking at a pretty girl in the dark—you know what you are doing but nobody else does.

If you keep your nose to the grindstone rough,
And you hold it down there long enough,
In time you will say there is no such thing
As brooks that babble, and birds that sing.
Then these three things will your world compose:
You — the stone and your dog-gone nose. AU

You folks who work out of town and can't get back to vote on Nov. 2, can cast your absentee vote starting on October 13, according to Mrs. C. Delle Cobb, Chilton County Register In Chancery. The last day according to Mrs. Cobb is October 28. The Register's office hours are from 9 until 4 p. m.

Watch next week's paper for a complete report of what is going on in your county as regards public improvements. Whether you know it or not Chilton County is accomplishing things.

CLANTON WOODMEN REORGANIZE AND ELECT OFFICERS

The members of Clanton WOW Camp No. 322 met in the dining room of the Triple A Cafe last week for a very interesting meeting. Several items of business were acted upon, and a new slate of fficers were elected and installed. The newly elected consul commander, J. D. Williams, announced that they had secured the store building across from West End Baptist Church as a temporary consul hall.

The more than two hundred members of Camp No. 322 have been persistent in membership, but somewhat inactive in regard to meetings. The new officers have pledged themselves to renewed activity and regular attendance in the meetings. They invite all local and visiting Woodmen to meet with them.

Regular meetings will be held on each 2nd and 4th Monday night at Swanson Littlejohn, who for many years led the Champion Degree Team of Alabama, says he will begin imediately to try to effect another champion team.

The other officers elected are: F. W. Lowe, past consul; Esco Culp, Advisor Lieutenant; Ben H. Mims, Banker. W. W. Atchison, escort; Melvin DeVaughn, watchman; Lee Gray, sentry.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank our many friends for the sympathy given us during the sickness and death of our husband, father and grandfather. We especially thank Rev. M. K. Vickers and Rev. G. G. Williams and the ladies of the church. The floral offerings were lovely and our mere words. May God's richest blessings rest upon each and every one of you is our prayer.

Because cotton was the cash crop and because Alabama farmers grew much of it, along with other Southern states, the price generally remained low in those days after the War Between the States.

Lack of diversification, which also impoverished the land, resulted in low incomes for Alabama farmers seeking to rebuild after the War Between the States.

Whose Farm Is This?

Do you know who owns this farm? We're sure you've seen it many times. It's somewhere in Chilton County. Come in to the Chilton County News office before noon Saturday and tell us who owns it. If your answer is correct you'll win two free passes to the Clanton Drive-In Theatre and you will be eligible to win the grand prize drawing next Monday.

If the owner of the above "Mystery Farm" will come in to the News office as soon as possible he will receive a beautiful framed enlargement of this aerial photograph of his farm absolutely free.

Something unusual came up again this week on our "Farm of the Week" contest. Nobody came up with the correct identification to the place. One fellow guessed, but after checking it was found that i was wrong. He was the only one to guess after the week before 61 persons came in and guessed correctly.

We're running that same farm again this week in hopes that you will look at it twice this time and see if you can identify it. If the one person had guessed correctly last week he would have walked off with the prizes unquestioned. There just might not be too many folks who know that farm so if you are one of the few who do recognize it you stand a real good chance of winning this week.

You can win your subscription to the Chilton County News, your choice of the Bible or the popcorn popper, and free passes to the drive-in theatre. For the trouble you have to go to to enter and win, the prizes are good ones. You couldn't ask for a better deal and we want you to come in and try your luck. You can't lose. You'll surely be in town on Saturday, and as long as you come by before noon you can still be eligible to enter.

Come by and try your luck on the "Mystery Farm of the Week" contest. It's a lota' fun and it might be yours next time.

No Major Errors Found In County Tax Audits

Mongomery, Ala.—No major discrepancies have been reported by the State Department of Examiners of Public Accounts in reports on audits completed recently on the offices of the Chilton County tax assesor and tax collector.

The audit for the tax colector's office covered the period from June 12, 1953, through June 16, 1954, and for the tax assessor's office from Oct. 1, 1952, through Sept. 30, 1953

No recommendations were made by the Examiners in either record

The Examiners said that amounts due from the collector and assessor were minor amounts and did not reflect against the officials and were paid promptly when called to the attention of the officials.

On the operations of the assessor's office, the Examiners said that "the official duties of this office appear to have been capably handled."

And on the operations of the collector's office, the said that "the official duties of this office have been administered in an efficient manner."

Tax collector during the audit period was Minter C. (Jack) Hayes, and the tax assessor was Norman LaFayette Roberts.

Mayor Jones Writes On Water Rates

Editor, Chilton County News

I desire to speak to the water users through your good paper and make an explanation on a matter that is being misunderstood by some and misused by some agitators apparently prompted by evil motive instead of a helpful and construc tive purpose

In setting up the new water rate, and changing over from the old rate to the new rate, we stated that the new rate would become effective September 1st, meaning the new rate would appear on the bills payable October 1st, which would cover the time of reading the meters from approximately August 15th to the 20th to September the 15th to 20th which is considered the September bill of water used in September, but really is water used between the dates given above. Now, those complaining say we did wrong in applying the new rate to the last 15 days in August when the new rate did not apply until September 1st according to our statement.

There is absolutely no way to correctly and accurately adjust the matter because we do not know how much water was used from the day the meters were read in August to the first of September.

Should we at this late hour divide the water bill in half and apply the old rate from August 15th to August 31st as some claim we should do, or should have done, then apply the new rate on the other half from September 1st to September 15th, it does appear the water bill would be higher than it is by applying the new rate to the entire bill as we have done.

On Monday and Tuesday, Oct 4th and 5th, 255 water users paid their bills and not one of them asked for a refund of the small amount involved on account of our having applied the new rate two weeks in August unconscious of any wrong at all.

Some people are making a "mountain out of a mole hill." The water system and all the money involved belong to the System and the people of Clanton and let's connect with the river and get all the water we will ever need.

Respectfully,
C. Fenn Jones, Mayor

Modern Beauty Shop Closed Monday

Back in the early Spring the Board of Revenue & Control passed a resolution recommending that the building of a new courthouse for Chilton County be put to a vote of the people in November. At the time the resolution was voted on it was also included that there be no additional taxes levied for the purpose of building this new structure

In checking with the office of the Probate Judge this week we find that on Nov. 2nd there will be held in this county an election for the purpose of determining whether or not the people want a new courthouse built.

The resolution as carried in the minutes of the Board of Revenue & Control of March 8th read

WHEREAS, there is a great need for an adequate courthouse and jail in the county, the people of Chilton County, and

WHEREAS the Board of Revenue and Control of Chilton County has determined that the cost of constructing the courthouse and jail is approximately $490,000.00, and

WHEREAS, the Board of Revenue and Control feels that the matter should be submitted to a vote by the electors of Chilton County, Alabama

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED AND ORDERED: That the following question shall be submitted to the vote of the qualified electors of Chilton County, Alabama at the regular election to be held in November, 1954, "Shall Chilton County, Alabama build a new courthouse and jail at an approximate cost of $490,000.00, provided that the same shall be built without levying any additional taxes other than those now being levied."

'Tumpka Tumbles Tigers-

CCHS Will Play Columbiana; Jemison Takes On Montevallo

By Harold Smyer

The strong Wetumpka Indians let the CCHS Tigers have all they had last week in a hard played game of football. The ending wasn't unexpected, but the score wasn't what some thought it would be.

The Tigers' touchdowns were a little short of victory, but they were not short on the spectacular side. A pass from Mims to Littlejohn was good for a tally from 58 yards out. The other score, not so spectacular but of great importance, was an end around from about the 2 yard line by Obra Wilson.

The Wetumpka spark, Boyett did not do quite as expected in last week's game. He was the favored ground gainer, but racked up only 24 yards of the total 332 during the game. High man for Wetumpka was, ironically, "Shorty" Shroeder who plowed off more than 140 of the total yardage.

Clanton's leading ground defender was Roy Mims with 116 of the total 281 yards gained. Littlejohn was second best with 99 yards and Robinson third with 25 yards.

An unusual event of the game was the 5 yards penalized. It was the only penalty of the entire game, which indicates clean sportsmanship and a game where the winner was not criticized. It was won honestly and fairly and not through the errors of poor officials.

Figures on the game went something like the following:

	CCHS	Wet.
First Downs	6	8
Yards penalized	5	5
Kickoffs	2	5
Yards on kickoffs	57	54
Punts	6	2
Punting average	26	31
Yards on punts	0	35
Punts blocked	1	0
Pases attempted	6	11

WE'RE STILL FOR A FREEZING OR CANNING PLANT

It is self-evident that Chilton County needs an industry in order to thrive and progress. That fact is readily admitted by all, but still no industry.

We have stated before, and it is still our firm belief, that Chilton County needs and can support a commercial freezing or canning plant.

Chilton's peaches are known throughout the nation as the best and companies are benefitting from our annual abundant crop of this most luscious of all fruit. Why shouldn't we benefit even more?

The type of plant we have in mind is not a private business but one in which the farmers and merchants of Chilton County can buy stock. This would offer local farmers an added enticement for selling their peaches at home. Their share at the end of the season or year would add to their peach income instead of going to the usual middle man.

An industry such as this would be a community project, owned and managed by hometown people; something everyone in Chilton County would have an interest in.

We're not suggesting a plant to process our surplus or cull crop—we mean a plant to process our entire crop.

If we're going to pay for an industry to move here, let's pay for one of our own.

After all—Chilton County Peaches Are Tops.

KEEP YOUR HEAD BY USING IT

The downright stupidity displayed by far too many American drivers is disgusting and sometimes even lethal.

How sane people with enough intelligence to get a driver's license can drive an automobile without the least regard for safety is a mystery.

An otherwise intelligent citizen will completely stop a car on the highway to talk to someone; putting himself and the other fellow in a very dangerous spot.

This same type driver will always wander into the left lane before making a right turn and will make a left turn directly in front of an approaching vehicle without seeing the least danger in his half-witted act.

Stop signs? They aren't meant for this driver (he thinks)—he just speeds up at an intersection to get across faster. He'll pull out of a side road at twenty miles per hour right in front of heavy traffic travelling at fifty, or more, miles per hour. Then he wonders why people yell and blow at him. He seems to always have the utmost confidence in other people's brakes but rarely ever uses his own.

Out of a car he's a wide-awake, sharp individual. Once he crawls behind a steering wheel he relaxes his body, wits and reflexes; his mind wanders (and sometimes leaves completely); he talks, listens and thinks about anything but driving. He won't be alert again until he's hit by another auto or else he miraculously finishes his dangerous journey without mishap.

When you are behind a steering wheel, driving is a full-time job and will turn up enough problems to keep your mind busy.

Please—if you just want to commit suicide—don't do it on a public road.

* * * *

Did you ever wonder about saying your prayers at night? Yes, I mean you older folks. You think it's for the kids, don't you? You think prayers at the end of the day are something you grow out of in the process of growing older. It isn't that, it isn't that at all. In fact, it's the grownups that need a little practice on this particular subject, not the kids. And it's funny in an ironical sort of way, because the kids say their prayers at night without fail, but you'd get very few grown folks to admt that they say their prayers at night. I didn't say there weren't quite a few that did do it, I said it would be hard to get them to admit it. Anyone ashamed of the fact that they pray at night or any other time are missing something in their, so called Christian lives. You should no more be ashamed of saying your prayers, like a child, than you would be ashamed of the place where you work, or who your friends are, or which church you attend. It is nothing to be ashamed of, on the contrary, you have an opportunity to shine by admitting that you do say your prayers at night. The person you admit it to will give the impression that he thinks it for children only, but within himself he will admire you for believing in it and saying so in times where so much is said to discourage admitting those things. If everyone would admit whether they do or not, a large percentage would truthfully say that they said their prayers at the end of the day as regularly as they say grace before the meal.

It is, for sure, nothing that should be hidden or backed away from. It is real and good and the man who will stand up and say, "I say my prayers every night," is also the man who can ask without fear or criticism, "Do you?"

The Philosopher.

Bessemer was one of the new Birmingham development. Founded by Henry F. DeBardeleben, it was planned that Bessemer would become the industrial center of Alabama.

Bessemer, which was to derive its wealth from coal and iron, was named from the English scientist of that name who discovered a process for making steel.

HOME-RAISED GRAIN MAKES CHEAP FEED

Auburn, Ala.—High priced feed and low priced eggs make good hen-house management necessary.

Making this statement here this week, John Weeks, API Extension poultryman, says that proper feeding is one practice that helps determine the amount of profit a producer makes. Feeding a balanced ration of supplement and grain helps turn out top egg production.

The poultry expert recommends using the maximum amount of home-raised grain in the ration to reduce feed cost.

Weeks says that high production strains of layers require 15 to 16 per cent protein in their diet. But by feeding a high protein mash and balancing it with home-raised grain most producers can cut feed costs.

Below are some suggestions about balancing the layers' ration:

1. For each pound of 20 per cent protein mash, feed three-fourths to one pound of grain.

2. For each pound of 22 per cent mash, feed one to one and one-fourth pound of grain.

3. For each pound of 26 per cent protein mash, feed two pounds grain.

4. For each pounds of 32 per cent mash, feed three pounds of grain.

Corn, wheat, oats and grain sorghum can be used in these feeds the specialist points out. They may be ground or fed whole.

Since there is little difference in the feed value of these grains, use those costing least in your area. However, Weeks explains that oats are high in fiber and low in energy and should not make up more than 25 per cent of the ration at any time.

FARM BRIEFS

Cattle are cheapest in October and usually highest in spring and early summer, so now's a good time to buy feeder steers.

Weekly applications of "Auburn approved garden dust" will keep down most diseases and insects that attack beets, broccoli, cabbage, collards and turnips.

If pullets are out in winter quarters, provide them with plenty of light; use either morning or all-night lights. Morning lights are more desirable.

You will find that cheese grates more easily if it is chilled.

Things we -SEE- and Hear by "Tuck"

You know, as prominent and as big as chain store tycoons are they wouldn't be worth a plug nickel of their good fortune if it weren't for the lowly cartier boy. We're speaking of grocery stores if you're interested in those poor souls that slave so diligently from hour to hour lugging your $20 worth of goodies to your waiting car. These fellows really catch it on a good Saturday and how many of you just might not patronize said establishment if it weren't for the convenience of someone else doing the lifting. We're not saying every one in the place doesn't work hard, but these boys work the hardest and deserve credit for making the chain store a bigger business. They are not recognized much, but you can wager your socks that the big boys know what they're worth and we know they couldn't do as well without them.

Ole Joe Smith will hate to admit it, but the best salesman he h: at his station is the fellow wit the biggest mouth. Don't get u wrong, we have a big mouth, too but that doesn't mean we don like ourself. We really like the fellow and every time he bring our car back to us he never fails to mention that we need some ga (naturally) or a grease job (probably) or he shoots us a line about really cleaning up the car, when he has more time. With him the job is never altogether satisfactory and he tries to make you come back again. Between you and me, he gives very satisfactory wash jobs and he's a very likeable fellow Joe, and anyone who trades with him probably know who we're talking about. If not, he's the fellow who looks like me only he's not ashamed of it.

We'd like to congratulate a fellow classmate of our dear old Alma Mater for his outstanding achievements since entering college after our high school days were come and gone. He is Ray Yeager, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Yeager of Clanton. If we're not mistaken this is Ray's junior year at the University of Alabama and he has made for himself an honorable position by making nothing but A's. Now, we tried college a while ourselves and we didn't get thrown out for flunking, but we didn't quite make the dean's list every quarter either. We'll tell you this though, college is no high schoolin' around and to make the kind of average Mr. Yeager has you've got to be pretty much on the ball.

Ray is a member of Chi Alpha Phi, Honorary Professional Service Fraternity; Delta Sigma Pi, Honorary Commerce Fraternity; and is a member of Theta Xi of which he is now treasurer. We were Pi Kappa Alpha ourselves so we would be rivals in that respect, but there is no rivalry in achievement as far as we're concerned and we wish him all the luck there is in furthering his chosen endeavors. Knowing him as we do, we have no doubts that he can and will, providing he wants to.

See where ole Cecil Ramsey went and got his name in the papers. The Birmingham News feature, Where Is It, was taken last week by none other than Mr. A and P himself. We don't remember where it was, but what did you win, Cecil? We'll bet it wasn't two free passes to the drive-in, and we know where you can win that.

BROILER PRODUCTION REACHES HIGH LEVEL

Broilers are going to market now in exceedingly large numbers, and chicks already in brooder houses assure a continued big supply thru October. According to A. W. Jones API Extension marketing specialist, production over the country is running about 16 per cent higher than last year. And in Alabama about 34 per cent more broilers are going to market now than at the same time last year. This large supply makes broilers an attractive meat buy, he concludes.

Use greased muffin pans as molds when baking stuffed peppers so they will hold their shape.

ALABAMA HIGHLIGHTS

One of the things that contributed to the rapid growth of Birmingham after it was founded in 1871 was the plentiful supply close at hand of coal, limestone and iron ore.

Although Birmingham was located close to coal, iron ore and limestone a way had to be found to use coke instead of charcoal in the making of pig iron if the future wealth of the Jones Valley area was to be assured.

It was definitely proven by 1876 that coke could be used in producing pig iron and then came a search in the Birmingham area for coal that would produce the best grade of coke to be used in pig iron making.

The Pratt Coal and Coke Company was organized by Truman H. Aldrich, James W. Sloss and Henry F. DeBardeleben, the latter the heir to the fortune built up by Daniel Pratt from manufacturing cotton gins in Alabama.

The mining camp set up by Pratt Coal and Coke Company to produce the cooking coal later became Pratt City, a suburb of Birmingham now.

Within a few years of the time Birmingham was founded and coke was established as a substitute for charcoal in pig iron making, there were 20 or more coal and iron companies operating in Jefferson and nearby counties.

A COUNTY WELFARE DIRECTOR CAN BE DISMISSED ONLY WITH A REASON

Montgomery, Ala. A county director of public welfare can be dismissed by a county board of welfare for cause only, subject to the provisions of the State Merit System, it has been ruled by the Alabama attorney general.

The opinion was requested by W. A. Scarbrough, chairman of the Coosa County board of public welfare, who asked: "Can a majority of the board dispense with the services of its present county director of public welfare at it's pleasure."

State law, it was explained in the ruling, says that the tenure of the county rirector shall be at the pleasure of the county board, but it states further that all county department employes shall be covered under the State Merit System.

Furthermore, the ruling pointed out, federal regulations require that if the state is to receive federal funds for welfare work, then the employes of the state and county welfare departments must be within coverage of the State Merit System and not subject to discharge except for cause.

In another opinion, requested by State Education Superintendent W. J. Terry, it was held that city and county boards of education have authority, in cooperation with the giving instructions in agricultural State Board of Education, to establish vocational schools and classes subjects for veterans and others eligible for admission, and may use any money raised by public taxation in the same manner as money for other school purposes are used for the maintenance and support of public schools.

Any balances on hand at the end of the fiscal year arising from funds received by city or county boards of education from the Veterans Administration or from veterans for vocational training of veterans may be carried over in a special account seperate from regular school funds and used in subsequent years, the ruling said. The funds must, however, be used for the respective purpases for which they were received.

Congratuations to Mr. and Mrs. Homer Robinson who are the proud parents of a baby boy, also Mr. and Mrs. Ed Driver, parents of a baby girl, they have named her Thressa Dianna. And congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Claude Barlow, who are the parents of twin girls, born at the Central Alabama Hospital last Thursday. They have named them Linda Fay and Brenda Kay.

Bringing together descendants of two pioneer families who helped to carve the once-populous settlement of old Fellowship from a north Dallas wilderness, the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Hooks was celebrated with a reunion of their kinsmen from several states on Sunday, Sept. 26, at their home on the Birmingham Highway.

Of the couple's own immidiate family, three other generations were present. Their daughter, Mrs. Lula Mae Woodward; an only grandchild, Mrs. Sam Pharr of Selma and four great-grandchildren, David Williams, 12, who has been reared in the Hooks home, and the Parr children, Edward Warl 7, Patricia 5, and Sarah 2.

Clear autumn weather put the final touch of perfection to the all day gathering, permitting the crowd of more than one hundred persons, old and young, to gather under the trees for an old-time picnic spread. A decorative highlight was a gold embossed tiered cake, topped by the numerals "50" and a cluster of wedding bells beneath a long golden arch.

For those of older generations gathered about the long table, the occasion was reminiscent of bygone days when as children and teenagers, they shared in many a dinner on the grounds at Fellowship Baptist Church, a historic and hallowed meeting place which, today stands disbanded, it's families passed on or removed from the remote corner of Dallas County which in recent years has become a government forestry preserve.

It was in this once fertile farming section that Walker O'Banion Hooks and the former Mittie Mae King grew up together. Mr. Hooks as the son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hooks, who raised a family of 13 children of their own and an adopted daughter. Mrs. Hooks was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Terry King, who had nine children. Their marriage took place at the bride's home on September 25, 1904, the ceremony being performed by the groom's brother-in-law, the late Roland Terry, a Baptist minister, whose son, S. D. Tery, of Monroeville, was among those atending the anniversary celebration a half-century later.

Mrs. Hooks' surviving sisters, Mrs. Mamie Cook and Mrs. C. L. Pressley of Selma and Mrs. Armster Harris of Stanton, and her only living brother, J. E. King, also of Selma, all of whom were witnesses to the wedding fifty years ago, were present at the golden wedding gathering.

Of Mr. Hooks' brothers and sisters the only survivor, Mrs. Fannie Miller, 86, came from Atlanta, accompanied by a family praty which included the fifth generation. After spending the early years of their married life in north Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. Hooks moved to Selma in 1913 when Mr. Hooks, forsaking the farm, entered the employment of the Southern Railway shops. He retired March 6, 1952, taking advantage of a 40-year pension annuity for railway workers. The couple's recent removal to a farm home on the Birmingham highway, some 10 miles north of Selma, put them some twenty-two miles from the section in which their early years were spent. Mrs. Woodward, the only child living of four born of their union, makes her home with her parents. One son, M. D., died at the age of 26, the others, Walter and Alton, passed away in childhood.

Widely known and loved as "Uncle Bannie" and "Aun Mitt" the 73 year old couple were showered with flowers, messages and gifts of congratulations as they reached a memorable milestone in a happy union which was re-dedicated with an invocation given by a nephew, Albert Davenport, as the noon-day annversary dinner began.

Among relatives of the two coming from a distance for the day were: Mrs. Pearl Conger, Mrs. Luther Pittman, Mrs. Isabella Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Levy Miller, and Mr. and Mrs. James Perdue and children, Bobbie and Marie, all of Atlanta, Ga., Mrs. Sally Hooks, Mrs. Dorcas Player, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Player, Miss Irene Player, Mr and Mrs. C. R. Lolly, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Lolly and Mr. and Mrs. Moses Lolly of Uniontown, Ala. Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Player of Stanton. Mrs. Cleo Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Fisher and daughters, Jane, Darlene, Margie, and Billy Sue, of Holt, Ala. Mrs. Dee H. Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hooks of Laurel, Miss. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hooks, Hattisburg, Miss. Mr. and Mrs. Jessie E. Harris and children, Katie Faye, Esther Mae, Paulette, Jesse Nell and Horace Lee of Stanton. They were joined by many others of Selma and vicinity.

ADVENTIST CHURCH

Sabbath School 9:45 a.m. with preaching at 11.

There came a time when Paul spoke of himself as "Paul the aged". Psm. 1:7. He was going through much suffering and hardships and there were times when he felt he preferred to fall asleep in Jesus and rest until the resurrection. But then he would think how much the persecuted Christians would miss him and how much they needed him to live on and help and encourage them to hold on. It was in this mood that he wrote the Phillipians. "I am in a strait betwixt two." He meant two propostions which he was pondering in his own mind. "Having a desire to depart"—that is to depart by falling asleep in death. This was proposition number one. Number two: "to be with Christ' in continued service for the churches which he said "is far better. Because "to abide in the flesh is more needful for you." was his final decsion. And resigned to this second proposition he said: "And having this confidence, I know that I shall abide and continue with you for the furtherance of your joy and faith." But at last when he faced death, he triumphantly said, "For I am not ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord the righteous judge (the judgement must come first) will give me at that day and not to me only unto all of them also who love his appearing. 2 Tim. 4:6-8. It was at the time of "his appearing"—the second coming of Christ—that Paul expected to be raised from the dead and receive his "crown."

Birmingham, by 1890, had grown so in size that it ranked next to Mobile as Alabama's biggest city.

Following the development of Birmingham in Jones Valley, speculators rushed in and prices went higher and higher, and new towns were marked off for development, lots that were nowhere near businesses selling for $1,000 and more.

LAFF OF THE WEEK

"I'll send you an address where you can forward my allowance."

Restrictions On Wheat Lifted In Alabama

Auburn, Ala.—Wheat allotments and marketing quotas for 1955 have been lifted in Alabama.

A. W. Jones, APT Extension marketing specialist, says wheat will have the same status as corn, hogged peaputs, or any other non-allotment crop. Thus farmers may plant as much wheat as they wish and use it as they please without penalty to other allotted crops.

Before this change, farmers without wheat allotments could not plant wheat and maintain their eligibility for price support on other commodities. Jones says removal of this restriction will be helpful in providing winter and spring grazing and produce spring grain that is greatly needed to help make up for this year's low corn yield. The specialist also points out that the diverted acreage program has been modified to eliminate the "total allotment" provisions with certain exceptions. Additional information on these subjects can be obtained from your local ASC office.

WHO OWNS THIS WEEK'S "MYSTERY FARM"?

Million Seedlings To Be Given Away

More than one million Loblolly pine seedlings will be made available for the distribution this winter by the Coosa River Newsprint Company.

Officials of the Company have announced that the trees will be given to 4-H Club members, FFA boys and small landowners in the twelve-county area which supplies wood to the newsprint mill.

The seedling pines are being grown in the Company's modern tree nursery near Childersburg. Chilton County's allotment will be lifted from the seedbeds in December for distribution through County Agent M. R. Glasscock. The maximum number of trees to be given to any one person has been set at five thousand. Persons desiring to place an advance order should contact the County Agent's office within the next few weeks.

Coosa River Newsprint Company foresters will be on hand at the tree distribution points to instruct the recipients in the proper care of stock and planting methods

The purpose of this program is to aid in the reforestation of idle and poorly-stocked timberlands and to encourage the practice of good forestry by small landowners.

Forest products constitute one of Chilton County's leading cash crops. This income can be greatly in creased through tree planting and the protection of woodlands from fire.

"Stillwaters" Was Setting For October Meeting Of The Study Club

Stillwaters was a beautiful setting for the October first meeting of The Study Club, when Mrs. Harold Lawrence, Mrs. Omar Reynolds and Mrs. Charles Paterson, program committee, entertained most delightfully with a luncheon at the picturesque river camp of the Omar Reynolds. On the screened porch, tables for twenty were laid with artistic place mats of scenes of the United Nations building and centerpieces were cornucopias of red. Arrangements of fuit, greenery and white carnations were used in the living room.

Mrs. Harold Lawrence gave the program. She spoke on "General Outline of the Structure of the United Nations"—an excellent preview of the year's programs. Her talk was sharply stimulating and as she pointed out, the United Nations does not provide peace, it cannot itself offer the essentials of life or insure human dignity, but it is an expression of man's will to live, as it is the means man has devised to achieve a safe and decent world.

Mrs. Joe Earl Gowan, retiring president, opened the business meeting with Alabama State Federation Hymn and Club Collect, then she turned the gavel over to Mrs. Joe Moore, president, who presided.

The Club gave a donation of $5.00 to the International House Project, a scholarship fund for foreign students, further lifting the Club emphasis.

The Club's donations through the Chilton County Red Cross Chapter will be Christmas on the High Seas Project to be turned in this year in October.

The Club voted to sponsor United Nations Day on October 24. All organizations of the city are asked to participate.

HOW DEEP IS THE SEA?

All the continents in the world could be placed in the Pacific Ocean and there would still be eighteen million square miles over. But the Pacific isn't the deepest; neither is the Atlantic!

According to the United States Navy, the deepest place is in the Philippine Sea! It is six and a half miles "down under." At this point, there are seven tons of pressure per square inch! The Empire State Building, highest in the world, is 1,248 feet high! Twenty-seven Empire State Buildings could be stacked on top of each other in this ocean depth, and there would still be 24 feet of water to spare.

Mount Everest, which has recently been conquered by man, is the world's highest mountain. Its highest point is 29,141 feet. If Mount Everest was put in this deepest ocean spot, there would be 4,179 feet of water above its peak!!

Micah, the prophet said, "Thou (God) wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea." That's what God does for the repentant sinner. If you confess and forsake your sins, they will be cast into the depths of the sea of God's pardon. "If we confess our sins, he (God) is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness."

There are seven pounds of pressure per square inch in the ocean's deepest point. In God's ocean of pardon, there is the pressure of His divine love—all the love shown by Christ in Gethsemane, at Calvary, and at the resurrection. Once our sins are cast in the sea of His pardon, the pressure of His love keeps them in the depth of the past!

Ask God for His mercy and pardon, and your sins will be cast into the sea of God's forgetfulness.

A woman asked her friend, "Will you forgive me for the wrong I have done?" Her friend replied, "Yes, I will forgive you, but I can never forget." How unlike the forgiveness of God! God forgives and forgets. David, the Psalmist, said, "The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and plenteous in mercy. He will not always chide, neither will he keep his anger for ever. He hath not dealt with us after our sins; nor rewarded us according to our iniquities. For as the heaven is high above the earth, so great is his mercy toward them that fear him."

David again declares, "As far as the east is from the west, so far hath he (God) removed our transgressions from us."

In 1909 Peary discovered the North Pole. In 1911 Amundsen discovered the South pole. But there is no east or west pole! North and South can be measured; east and west cannot. Therefore, there is no measure to God's pardon, for as far as the east is from the west, so far hath he removed our transgressions from us."

Isn't God's love and pardon wonderful? Have you experienced His forgiveness through Jesus Christ, His Son? If you do not know that your sins are in the sea of His pardon, make certain of it now. "Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved"

Mrs. Bobby Shaw Was Complimented With Surprise Shower

Mrs. Bobby Shaw was complimented on Thursday night, Sept 30, when Miss Janice Freeland and Miss Francis Wood were co-hostesses at a surprise stork shower in Miss Freeland's home, the occasion honoring Mrs. Shaw and her forthcoming blessed event.

In the living room a large stork stood in a flower pot holding a diaper from its bill and in which all the gifts were placed. The honoree's chair was marked with a pair of baby bootees tied with ribbon onto the back with baby dresses and gowns draped over the arms.

After playing several games the honoree opened the many lovely gifts and displayed them.

Among those invited to this happy occasion were Mesdames L. E. Shaw, J. A. Broadhead, J. R. Studdard, Fred Thompson, Barney Owen, Kermit Jones, Sterling Shaw, P. D. Ellison, Miss Jetie Faye Ellison and Miss Jean Goggans.

WHO OWNS THIS WEEK'S "MYSTERY FARM"?

BIBLE FACTS

first, and I am the last; and beside me there is no God. Isiah 44:6. I am the Lord and there is no God beside me.

I the Lord, and there is no God else beside me; a just God, and a Saviour; there is none beside me. Isiah 45:5-21; Prov. 8:22 to end of chapter.

If you have seen me you have seen the father. I and the Father are one, John 10:30. This proves that Jesus Christ is God, and is called God through out the old testament scripture.

God is Jesus Christ in the new scripture. John 1:1 to v:11; Col. 1:17, 1 J. 1:1; Col. 2:9.

Now friends since we know that Jesus Christ is God, and that Jesus Chirst is the God that created all things, even to his spiritual law, and this law is the ten commandments of God that are all righteousness, and stand fast forever, and ever, and are done in truth and uprightness. Ps. 111:8.

Jesus Christ is the lamb slain from the foundation of the world. Rev. 13:8.

The testimony of Jesus Christ is the spirit of prophecy, Rev. 19:10, spoke by the mouth of His Holy prophets which have been since the world began. Luke 1:70.

Verily, verily, I say unto you before Abraham was I am, John 8:58.

The same God that said let there be light, Gen. 1:3, is the same God that hang on the cross and said it is finished. The same God that said let us make man in our image, after our likeness, Gen 1:26, is the same God that said is easier for Heaven and earth to pass than one tittle of the law to fail. Luke 16:17. (He is the one that loves God and also the one that God loves.)

He that hath My commandments and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me; and he that loveth me shall be loved by my Father, and I will love him and will manifest myself to him. John 14:14.

The wise man said, let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter. Fear God, and keep his commandments for this is the whole duty of man. Ecc. 12:13. He that turneth away his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer will be abomination Prov. 28:9.

He that saith I know him and keepeth not his commandments is a liar and the truth is not in him. 1 John 2:4. This is Jesus Christ talking and this Jesus Christ is God who cannot lie; God is not a man that he should lie: neither the son of man that he should repent: hath he said, and shall he not do it, or hath he spoken and shall not make it good. Num. 23:19

Friends this may be your last warning, let me emphasize this fact —to posess the Holy Spirit you have got to be in obedience to God's will. Acts 5:32.

To ever have Eternal life you have got to keep and teach God's commandments, Matt. 5:19; Matt. 19:16; Mark 10:17; Luke 18:18. This seems a little hard to those that think they are born again and cannot sin. The devil has you captive and you are too proud and too much ashamed to do what I John warns you to do. Will you read your Bibles.

Ford Tractor Dealers Sponsor Trip To Kas. For FFA Members

The Vocational Agriculture teachers of Chilton County and P. F. Singley, owner Thorsby Tractor and Implement Co., Ford tractor and implement dealer in Thorsby, announced today that Alabama's Ford tractor dealers are sponsoring this year's trips to Kansas City for the FFA members who will receive the American Farmer Degree.

Only one young farmer out of each thousand FFA members in the state is eligible for the American Farmer Degree wihch is conferred each year at the Kansas City National Convention. It is the highest degree in FFA and before a member can receive this honor, he must have met very high standards of character, leadership and performance.

In most cases, a young man who receives the American Farmer Degree will be in business for himself, owning and successfully operating his own farm. Among other things, he must have completed the required course in Vocational Agriculture in his local high school.

This year's American Farmers from Alabama are: Bobby Boswell, Livingston; Horace Winfred Davis, Milltown; Bobby Fowler, Ardmore; Davis Henry, Hope Hull; Roy Hereford, Jr., Faunsdale; William Jackson Lasseter, Gadsden. Ned D. Lee III, Whatley; Bill Jack Loyd, Stevenson; Percer Preston Mitchell, Opelika; W. W. Perryman, Jr., Oak Hill; Roy Gene Sims, Enterprise Lavone Smith, Arab.

In announcing spousorship of the Kansas City trip for the American Farmers, P. F. Singley, owner of Thorshy Tractor and Implement Co., said, "The Ford tractor and implement dealers of Alabama are very happy to help the American Farmers defray their expenses to the Kansas City Convention. We feel it an honor and privilege to have a small part in making it possible for these fine young farmers to attend the convention."

One attempt made by Alabama farmers to improve their lot in the last half of the 19th Century was the operation of their own supply stores. The effort did little to improve conditions.

(MRS. GEORGE NAISH)

O sun and skies and clouds of June and flowers of June together,
Ye cannot rival for one hour, October's bright blue weather.

Helen Hunt Jackson

Blessings on thee, old October, with your crisp and bracing air,
And your trees of brownish color, with a green one here and there
Mystic haze that o'er the meadows and woodland seems to dwell,
Parting incense to the songsters, who will soon bid us farewell.
In each life comes old October, when the grain is gathered in,
Lucky is the man who's owner of an over flowing bin.
Read the lesson left by others, who the olden path hath known,
When October comes, my brother, "Ye shall reap as ye have sown."

James M. Woodman

HARVEST

Man sowed the seed, God made it grow, the loaf of bread you buy,
In other form, burst from the soil and ripened 'neath the sky.
The harvest of our lives must come, O, what shall we gather in?
What shall be garnered in the future, What is there within?
When it's to late to sow fresh seeds and make another start.
God grant us peace, the harvest of a good and quiet heart.

"If you can keep alive in your heart the spirit of cheerfulness, the love of the wonderful, the challenge of service the lure of tomorrow, the joy of today, you will never grow old, as one does not grow old just by living through the years."

Smitty's Not-So-Silent Partner

Dropped into Smitty's gas station last week and met his new partner who turned out to be a real talker.

"What'll it be?" asked Smitty. Before I had a chance to answer I heard a strange voice "Fill her up! Fill her up!" And there was Smitty's partner — one of those parakeets perched next to the gas pump.

"Took me a month," Smitty said, "but I finally taught him to say those magic words. It's sure paid off — he's had a good influence on my customers."

From where I sit, Smitty may be good for business, but he may get him a few customers. That's when people act like they're not so crazy. For instance, those who have met him over and over again. I wish my neighbors should have a glass of temperance beer with their supper now and then. They're only repeating their own ideas, without any regard for the rights of others.

CONGENITAL CLUB FEET

A congenital deformity is one which is acquired by the indivilual before birth. While it is true that, in some rare instances, heredity may be a factor, congenital defects, of which club feet is one are usually attributed to improper development during the prenatal period. This is a condition over which the parents have no control. Because of this, they should certainly not be censured.

A common congenital club foot is one where the foot is turned inward so that the sole is pointing backward and the inner side of the foot is pointing inward. Generally, correction is started in the first year of life so that the child will have a straight foot and ankle when he is ready to begin walking.

While surgery is frequently indicated, it is not always necessary, since some cases respond to what this procedure is used, the foot is is called over-correction. When placed in an over-corrected position by application of a cast. Subsequent technics to keep the foot in an over-corrected position include the use of corrective shoes and boots, or even some form of splint.

One surgical procedure would be to cut the ligaments that hold the joints in the foot in a poor or clubbed condition. This permits the joints to open up so that they can be easily placed into the correct position and held there with a plaster cast. In healing, the defect made by the surgery is filled in by new fibrous tissues so that eventually the tendons and other fibrous tissues of the joints are longer than they were before the surgery.

With the accomplishments today in correcting club feet, it is no longer necessary for a child born with this defect to hobble through life as a permanent cripple. There is, of course, the occasional congenital condition which will present a problem which cannot be solved; and given adequate treatment can but the majority if recognized early be rehabilitated to a point where the individual can lead almost if not entirely a full, normal, active and healthy ife.

FROZEN FOOD MARKET CONTINUES TO GROW

The frozen food industry has grown tremendously during the past 30 years.

According to Extension horticulturist John Bagby, in 1953 there were 1400 companies freezing nearly three and one-half billion pounds of food products annually.

The specialist says concentrated orange juice, one of the newest products, is the top selling quick-frozen item; English peas are most popular among vegetables, and strawberries lead in the fruit field.

AEA To Conduct Special Election

Montgomery, Ala.—The Alabama Education Association has been designated by Gov. Gordon Persons as the agency to conduct the special election scheduled Dec. 10 for members of the Teacher Retirement System to determine whether they want federal Social Security coverage.

Election for members of the State Employes Retirement System to determine the same question will be conducted by Raymond D. Fowler, secretary-treasurer of the Employes Retirement System, working with the principal officer of each state department, bureau, board agency or institution.

In addition to the elections for the teachers and state workers, Persons has called special elections on Dec. 10 for the following to determine whether they want Social Security coverage:

Employes of the Mobile County Board of Revenue; employes of the Mobile County Personnel Board; employes of the Jefferson County Board of Education; employes of the Tuscaloosa County Board of Revenue; employes of the University of Alabama; employes of Tuscaloosa City; employes of Mobile County Board of Education; employes of Union Springs City; employes of Huntsville City electrical division; employes of Baldwin County Board of Revenue; employes of Housing Authority of Tarrant City; employes of Huntsville City; employes of Tarrant City; employes of Tuscaloosa County Board of Education; employes of Tarrant City electrical division.

In each of the above cases the employes are new members of the State Employes Retirement System Only those members who are not holding policeman's or fireman's position are eligible to vote.

If these State Employes Retirement System members vote for Social Security coverage they will come under it Jan. 1.

Persons has also called a special election for Dec. 18 for members of the retirement system of Montgomery County to vote on Social Security coverage.

TREAT STORED GRAIN TO CONTROL INSECTS

Auburn, Ala.—Don't let insects "gobble up" your short grain crop.

W. A. Ruffin, API Exetnsion entomilogist says gather corn and grain sorghum as soon as it is dry enough for storage. Early harvest cuts down on the number of insects that gets in the grain while it's in the field.

Store corn in a tight, clean barn that has been sprayed inside with DDT. The entomobloigts says 5 per cent wettable DDT powder mixed two pounds in five gallons of water, makes a good spray. He recommends spraying the ceiling, floor, and walls.

"If grain is infested with weevils or worms when placed in storage fumigate it within two weeks," advises the specialist. A 3-1 mixture of theylene dichloride and carbon tetrachlorine makes a good fumigant. Pour this solution over the top of grain at the rate of six gallons per 1000 cubic feet of space.

Ruffin explains that other chemicals may also be used to fumigate grain. However, he warns, after applying chemicals, leave the building immediately and keep it tightly closed for 48 hours in warm weather and much longer in cool weather. Grain fumigants are not effective when used in cold weather he concludes.

The Commerce Department says the U. S. may be on the verge of using hardwoods for woodpulp to make newsprint.

FIN-FAN ITEMS

R. L. (Dick) SCOTT

Fishing prospects on the ever lovely Coosa-Tallapoosa Lakes are improving day by day. Camp operators, on all lakes, report outstanding catches which include Black Bass, Stripes and Crappie. At this time Lake Lay is a likely location for nice strings of Black Bass and Crappie. Live minnows, top water and medium running plugs, have paid off with the best results. Lake Mitchell offers the three mentioned species as top strikers with the Stripes being taken by the trollers. Lake Jordan is in great shape, and if your interest lies in chasing schools of Stripes, be sure and catch a windless day and try the lower third of the lake. The chugger-popping bug trailer combination lure has been most effective. Should the wind spoil the surface schooling, don't give up, just switch to a large silver spoon and go down after them. If you have trouble locating the Stripes, work the points and weed beds with a darter for Black Bass, or switch to live minnows and fish deep around the snags for Crapie. Lakes Martin and Yates are good for Black Bass most anytime. Trolling is about the best method on Martin, while top water and medium running plugs are best on Yates.

The Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest Weigh-in Stations have been very busy during the past week and the following are some of the most recent contest entries:

Lake Lay—

Edgar Hardiman, Riverview Fishing Camp, near Lay Dam, reports: Harry Dodd, Birmingham, sacked up the creel limit on Largemouth Bass, the largest was 4 pounds 8 ounces, also on his stringer were four nice Crappie, the largest weighing 1 pound 8 ounces. Trolling with a Cisco Kid was the method used to hook the Crappie.

Charlie Depoister's Fishing Camp, mouth of Blue Springs Creek, near Talladega Springs, reports: Norman Lefkovirs, Columbiana, fished Blue Springs with live minnows, and on his string of Crappie was a 5 pound 8 ounce Largemouth Bass.

Lake Mitchell—

G. H. Kelley's Cross Roads Store, Highway No. 22, near the Rockford ferry, reports: Herbert W. Johnston, Sylacauga, had good luck fly fishing with a popping bug in Hatchett Creek. Herbert's nice string of Largemouth Bass averaged about 3 and a half pounds.

Lake Jordan—

H. H. Sears' Swayback Bridge Landing, Sofkahatchee Creek, near Wetumpka, reports: Between customers, Mr. Sears hooked a 1 pound 12 ounce Crappie from among his boats while using live minnows as bait.

J. C. McCain's Camp Merimac, near Holtville, reports: John Fomby and Bernard Lewis, Holtville, used live minnows and a near by snag to catch a nice string of Crappie. R. C. Smith and C. B. Morris, Montgomery, reeled in 13 Bass and 11 Stripes that weighed in at pounds.

Lake Martin—

W. L. Pemberton, Lake Hill Inn, River Bridge, near Alexander City, reports: Reg M. Jones, Alexander City, had the right combination for Stripes, Smallmouth and Largemouth Bass, when he used a red and white Bomber below the bridge. Roy's Stripes and Smallmouth Bass averaged a pound and a half each. His best Largemouth Bass weighed in at 6 pounds even.

Kowaliga Beach Resort, Kowaliga Creek Bridge, near Alexander City, reports: Charlie Ball and Chuck Brown, Montgomery, trolled for Bass and their largest of four was 3 and one-half pounds. Mr. Howard of Kowaliga caught 8 Largemouth Bass weighing from 2 to 3 and one-half pounds each.

Lake Yates—

H. E. Dopson's Store, Red Hill Community, reports: C. F. Strength, Eclectic, took home a string of Smallmouth Bass that weighed up to 4 pounds each, all taken with live minnows.

Weigh-in stations, keep the entries coming. There are only two months to go before the contest ends and some of the best fish will be caught during this period.

Around OUR HOUSE

by Kathryn Tucker Windham

THE Head of the House probably will never believe it, but it wasn't my idea. The dish cloth, I mean.

The seven-year-old is learning to knit, and as her first project she has undertaken the making of a dish cloth. The other afternoon, she was working away at her knitting (she has about three inches done now) when she said to me:

"You know who I'm going to give this dish cloth to? I'm going to give it to daddy. Daddy never does wash dishes, and I think if he had a dish cloth all his very own, it might encourage him to take an interest in dish washing."

As I said, the Head of the House never will believe it wasn't my idea!

* * *

SPEAKING of dish washing, the neighbor down the street, the one with the big family, makes the chore a family affair. They have sturdy stools at the sink so that even the youngest members of the family can dabble in the sudsy water.

Since most of their dishes are plastic, the breakage has amounted to almost nothing. Furthermore, this neighbor says it is amazing how clean the youngsters get the dishes.

"Most of the credit for cleanliness, of course, goes to the modern soap flakes and detergents," she admits. "But the children take real pride in shining dishes."

This neighbor believes that children can't be taught too early to share in household tasks, and helping with the dishes is an ideal assignment for them.

"All children like to play in water," she points out. ["And washing dishes can be a game."

I can't believe the head of her house plays the game, though. He probably doesn't have his own dish cloth to inspire him.

I was engaged in a struggle with a washing problem of my own the other day—trying to remove accumulated rust from the corners of a couple of cake pans, when the next door neighbor appeared on the scene.

"Let me show you an easy way to do that," she said. I was more than willing.

She dipped a raw potato into the cleansing powder I was using and rubbed the corners with it. The results were wonderful.

* * *

This neighbor also taught me to clean aluminum pots and pans with cream of tartar. She dissolves a tablespoon of cream of tartar in a pint of water, puts it in the discolored pan and lets it boil for about five minutes. Then she washes the pan in hot, soapy water, rinses and dries it. Now I know at least one of her secrets for keeping her kitchen utensils new looking.

WHAT I'd like to know now is a really simple and easy way to clean a grater. That's the one washing job I hate most!

LEFT-OVER cakes becomes company fare when served with hot fudge sauce made like this:

Melt 1 square unsweetened chocolate. Add 1 1-2 cups sugar, pinch salt, and 1-3 cup hot water. Stir until sugar dissolves and cook until thick. Remove from heat and stir in 2 tablespoons butter, 1-3 cup coffee cream and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Serve hot.

CHAPEL TO BE CONSTRUCTED AT KILBY

Montgomery, Ala.— Work was to begin this week on a chapel at Kilby Prison, the first of three to be constructed over the state.

According to Dr. Donald MacGuire, who is in charge of religious work at state penal institutions, plans for the Kilby Chapel are complete. Chapels at Draper Prison and at Atmore Prison will be built later.

The Kilby Chapel, which will seat 200 and have a choir room to accommodate 30 persons, will cost an estimated $25,000 to $30,000. Prison labor and prison-made materials will be used to reduce the cost.

The State Building Commission has allocated $50,000 for construction of the chapels.

The Wetumpka team is one to be proud of with a good heavy forward wall and a smooth running backfield and what's more important... experience.

Clanton takes on Columbiana this week at Columbiana and it promises to be one of the interesting games of the season due to the odds or rather unknown ability of both teams toward each other. It promises to be even better if you're there.

This Is National Letter Writing Week

October 3rd to 9th is National Letter Writing Week an annual event of widespread interest. The Postal Service expects this week this yeae to be the most broadly observed since the idea began. The week is just what the name implies, encouragement among the people to write letters to friends. Air mail or special delivery will be more impressive, but if regular first class mail is preferred, then that is all right. "There is no time like the present," so this week is exactly the proper time to write a letter. Our Postmaster General, Mr. Arthur E. Summerfield, urges our people to observe this week by writing more letters than the usual grind demands.

Our postal service is among the greatest institutions in the world; let us show our appreciation to our government for making this great service available to us. Write a letter this week.

Notice.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Two of Clanton's prominent citizens passed away last Saturday. T. L. Williams died after a long illness and Judge Victor J. Heard died suddenly Saturday night. Both will be missed by the residents of the county as well as their immediate families. We offer our sympathy to the survivors.

A clerk checking over an applicant's papers, was amazed to note the figures 127 and 123 in the spaces reserved for "age of father, if living" and "age of mother, if living." "Surely your parents aren't that old?" the surprised clerk questioned. "Nope, was the answer, "but they would be, if living."

We read somewhere that in India a man doesn't know his wife until they are married. Wonder why they think that is any different than any other country?

Bunch of young squirts are up to Birmingham this week attending the State Young Democrats convention. Pig Headley, Red Fulmer, Vernon Payne, Francis Speaks to name a few. Hope they have a good time and learn a lot. You know, politics is a funny thing. They say it is the most promising of all careers. Now-adays a young fellow goes into politics with a promising future and comes out with a terrible past, even though he has given his all for the people and does his utmost for better government.. In politics there's two sides and a fence.

Our good friend Gene Wyatt has been writing for the past several weeks about the dog nuisance in his neighborhood. Well, we want Gene to know that his neighborhood hasn't a monopoly on dogs. Out in Glendale we have some of the finest specimen you'll find anywhere. Just the other morning four husky males were parked outside our bedroom window at daylight giving their rendition of "Vaya Con Dios" which made the house shake. We like the song very much, but gad, that bass, and at that time of the morning. Wish they would serenade somewhere else sometime.

Ike Smith bought himself a new car but was quite backward in making payments to the finance company. He got so far behind that the company wrote him this sharp note: "Dear Mr. Smith: What would your neighbors think if we came too your house and repossed your car?" The finance company received this reply: "Gentlemen. I took this matter up with my neighbors and to a man they thought this would be a lousy trick.

Funny thing how so many men who retire start to wither and die. It seems unless a man has a business or a job to do he just has nothing to live for. We were noticing W. G. Culp the other day. There is a man who really knew how to retire. He looks better every time we see him, He is bound, it seems, to be the exception to the rule. He looks finer and healthier than he did several years ago.

Don't forget the Methodist Bazaar on Tuesday, Nov. 9th, at the Methodist Church. The ladies aren't letting anyone else forget it. That is one thing for sure that goes over with a bang every year in Clanton and from where we sit, it looks like this year will be no exception.

Just received good news from our linotype operator, Ewart Corley, at the Veterans Hospital at Montgomery. He is a long way from being well but according to reports he is much improved and is feeling much better. Ewart has the respect of all his friends in Chilton County for the fight he has waged for the past year and here's hoping he is back at his old job on the News real soon.

WHO OWNS THIS WEEK'S "MYSTERY FARM"?

State Inspector Says Our Courthouse In Sad Shape

H. H. Houk, with the State Building Commissions and J. V. Kitchens, State Fire Marshal, spent Wednesday morning inspecting the present courthouse and giving their findings to a Committee from the Clanton Kiwanis Club.

The Kiwanis Committee was composed of Dr. Joe Edgar, Reedie Taylor and J. Hollis Jackson, with T. E. Wyatt of the Union-Banner, Leland Hudson of Radio Station WKLP and R. M. Tucker of the Chilton County News, sitting in to act as publicity agents of the group.

Mr. Houk opened his report by stating that many counties in the state with much poorer facilities than Chilton County, and counties with heavy debt had better courthouses than Chilton County used at the present. In a few words Houk and Kitchens reported that little was right with the present building. As a first step Kitchens said the building was deplorable, citing the heavily over crowded vaults, the boiler room, the storage space and the attic.

Houk also stated that should the citizens of Chilton County build a new courthouse, which was no doubt needed very badly, it should be constructed in an area away from the business district or in an area where ample parking facilities could be obtained. He recommended the property adjoining the City Park Building as a likely site, but would not recommend using the present courthouse site or the property on the corner below where the county jail now stands.

Mr. Houk and Mr. Kitchens stated they would make a written report on their findings and mail to the Probate Judge this week. It will be published in Chilton County News in our next issue.

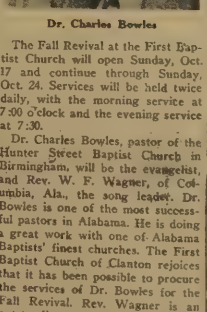
Revival Services At First Baptist Church



Dr. Charles Bowles

The Fall Revival at the First Baptist Church will open Sunday, Oct. 17 and continue through Sunday, Oct. 24. Services will be held twice daily, with the morning service at 7:00 o'clock and the evening service at 7:30.

Dr. Charles Bowles, pastor of the Hunter Street Baptist Church in Birmingham, will be the evangelist, and Rev. W. F. Wagner, of Columbia, Ala., the song leader. Dr. Bowles is one of the most successful pastors in Alabama. He is doing a great work with one of Alabama Baptists' finest churches. The First Baptist Church of Clanton rejoices that it has been possible to procure the services of Dr. Bowles for the Fall Revival. Rev. Wagner is an outstanding musician and has been minister of music in several large Baptist churches, including Citadel Square, Charleston, South Carolina. He will present an excellent musical program. He will also work with the Juniors and the other organizations in the church.

The First Baptist Church of Clanton extends a very hearty invitation to everyone in the community to attend the Fall Revival services.

Y'all Come---

L. J. Cousins Gets Contract For Mineral Springs Road

Bids were received by the State Highway Department on the Mineral Springs-Lay Dam Road and Giddens-Rogers Contracting Company was low bidder in the amount of $99,442.10 but did not make bond as required by law and was given an additional five days extension in which to make bond and after five days extension had elapsed they still failed to make bond. The second low bidder, Clyde O. Mitchell, submited a combination bid on both the road and bridge contracts and wished to be awarded both contracts or none. The low bid on the bridge, Cohron Construction Company, Mobile, had already been awarded the bridge contract. So, the Highway Department awarded the road contract to L. J. Cousins, who was third low bidder on the road at the price of $92,281.39. The difference between the low bid and the third bid is $1,839.20 which was witheld from the certified check deposited by Giddens-Rogers Contracting Company when they submitted their bid.

This will not cost Chilton County any additional money since Giddens-Rogers Contracting Company posted the certified check to make up the difference between the low bid and the third low bid.

Hewitt Contracting Co. Gets Contract For Waxahatchee Bridge

Bids were received by the State Highway Department on the approach to the Waxahatchee Creek Bridge and Giddens-Rogers Contracting Company was low bidder in the amount of $33,667.76 but did not make bond as required by law and was given an additional five days extension in which to make bond and after the five days extension had elapsed they still failed to make bond. The County awarded the contract to the second low bidder, Hewitt Contracting Company in the amount of $33,768.54. The difference between the low bid and the second low bid is $100.78, which amount was withheld from the certified check deposited by Giddens-Rogers Contracting Company.

This will not cost Chilton County any additional money because of the certified check posted by Giddens-Rogers Contracting Company.

Going Is Getting Rougher

Clanton Invades Prattville Friday For Fourth Win

By Harold Smyer

The Clanton Tigers journey to Prattville Friday night in search of their fourth win for 1954. The Tigers have lost only to the strong Wetumpka Indians, 13 to 21. Prattville was also beaten by Wetumpka, 7 to 6.

Roy Mims, triple threat senior scatback, is out to better his 1953 record of accounting for 1,645 yards and 14 touchdowns in ten games. He also passed for five more touchdowns. Thus far this season in four games Mims has accounted for 787 yards and has scored 5 touchdowns. Three of his passes have connected for touchdowns also. He will have tough going against such teams as Prattville, B. B. Comer, West Blocton and Verbena.

Sharing the Clanton spotlight with Mims is lanky 174 pounds of quarterback Edmund Littlejohn. Littlejohn, also a senior, has accounted for 282 yards, and five touchdowns. His speed, deception, and pass catching ability make a perfect target for Mims' passes. Littlejohn is also a fine passer and his speed makes him a very dangerous runner on option plays and when his receivers are covered. He is rated tops as a T-quarterback.

Clanton will have to stop Robert Hines, Inc., Prattville star, to gain victory number four.

Tigers Took Wildcats 19-13; Try For Lions

By Harold Smyer

The Clanton Tigers won victory number three last Friday night as they defeated Columbiana 19 to 13. The Prattville Lions will be host to the Tigers this Friday night a Prattville. Prattville has a strong team, losing to Wetumpka by only one point, 7 to 6.

Charles Payton was captain and Jimmy Puckett alternate captain for the Tigers against the Columbiana Wildcats. The Tigers fumbled nine times and the Wildcats recovered seven of the fumbles. Clanton's line played its best game the year as they yielded only 74 yards rushing to the Wildcats. Obra

STOP KNOCKING——

Recently we have heard too many good citizens knocking our Mayor and City Council about the recent water rate increase. Mostly they are knocking the mayor as if it were his fault alone.

After all, the City Water System isn't owned by a private corporation. It is a municipal project owned by all the citizens of Clanton. The monies collected or earned by the water system goes back into the city treasury and profits no individual except you, and you, and you

Let's quit "beefing" at the Mayor and Councilmen about our water system and the way it is run. They are probably doing a much better job than most of the people doing the beefing.

DEMOCRATS! GET OUT AND VOTE

It is important that every Democrat go to the polls on November 2 and vote the straight Democratic Ticket.

As to why this is important let's look at the record.

First of importance in our mind is that local officials—and we mean our county officials—will be working with a Democratic Governor. Our State Senate and our State House of Representatives are wholely democratic. Practically every other county official in the state is a member of the Democratic Party which leads us to believe that Chilton County will best be served by Democratic officials rather than Republican officials. Democrats working with fellow democrats can get much more accomplished than can a Republican standing alone.

Under Democratic leadership we stand a better chance to keep our school children segregated. We believe in equal education for all people but we believe in segregated education. Republicans are trying to lay our present trouble about segregation to the Democrats but until we had a Republican administration in Washington we had no segregation trouble.

Breadlines or souplines were unknown since the early Thirtys until recently. Now it's free staple foods. Alabama has been hard hit by unemployment. People lined for blocks waiting for food for their families is a pitiful thing to see and the sooner the strong Democratic leadership needed to lead the people out of the wilderness is put back in control the sooner prosperity will return to our homes.

Go to the polls on Nov. 2nd and vote the straight Democratic Ticket. You owe it to yourself and to your county.

DALE CARNEGIE

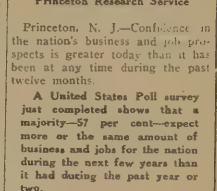
★ AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING" ★

HOWARD C. RYMER, 6415 N. Claremont Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, says that five years ago he was the most worried man in the entire world. He was so worried that he was on the point of going to see a psychiatrist. He couldn't sleep. Night after night he would go to bed at a reasonable hour and lie there awake, one hour, two hours, three hours. Then he would get up, walk the floor, smoke, read and perhaps after two or three tries finally drop off to sleep from exhaustion. He was worried because he was becoming a physical wreck.

CARNEGIE

Then he stumbled across a magazine article written by J. P. McEvoy, entitled "How to go to Sleep."

The entire promise of Mr. McEvoy's system of going to sleep was based on the theory that a person cannot think of two things at one time. So evolved a method whereby you must consciously think of relaxing. By doing this you cannot think of whatever may be troubling you. Howard tried this and found that it worked. He lies on the bed and "makes himself feel like a diahrag." Hands lying heavily on the bed he drops his head back and allows the muscles of his jaw to drop, as well as the muscles of his entire body. His thighs, his legs, his feet, each member is relaxed. The first thing he knows— or rather doesn't know—is that he is asleep. Some time the next day he thinks of it and says to himself, "Well, what do you know! It worked." And all he does is to relax!



OPTIMISM ON BUSINESS AND JOB PROSPECTS CONTINUES TO INCH FORWARD IN U. S.

By Kenneth Fink, Director
Princeton Research Service

Princeton, N. J.—Confidence in the nation's business and job prospects is greater today than it has been at any time during the past twelve months.

A United States Poll survey just completed shows that a majority—57 per cent—expect more or the same amount of business and jobs for the nation during the next few years than it had during the past year or two.

At the same time, nearly two out of every five—39 per cent— in the nation see less business and fewer jobs ahead.

In other words, those who see more or the same amount of business and jobs ahead for the nation during the next few years outnumber by a margin of three to two those who see less business and fewer jobs ahead.

Four months ago, 54 per cent expected more or the same amount of business and jobs; 41 per cent expected less business and fewer jobs, and 5 per cent expressed no opinion

Today's findings thus represent 3 per cent more optimism and 2 per cent less pessimism in the nation as a whole since the beginning of June

The significance of today's upswing—small though it is—can be fully appreciated when it is realized that during the period between March, 1953, and March, 1954, there was a slow but steady decline in optimism regarding business and job prospects on the part of the nation's adult population.

The April 8, 1954 United States Poll—six months ago—marked a halt in this decline by registering a 5 per cent gain in optimism

The June 3 United States Poll report continued this optimistic upswing, albeit by a margin of only 2 per cent.

And today's survey findings register a 3 per cent gain in optimism since June.

This optimistic feeling, should it continue through the next few weeks, could very well have an important bearing on the nation's Congresional Elections, since any great upsurge in pessimism will almost certainly hurt the party in power, and any great upsurge in optimism should help the party in power.

When United States Poll staff reporters asked a representative cross-section of the nation's adult resident:

"How do you feel about business conditions in this state for the next few years? Do you think there'll be more business and more jobs than during the past year or two or less business and fewer jobs?"

Here is the trend since December, 1952:

	More or same	less	no op.
Dec. '52	70%	15%	15%
March '53	71	17	12
July '53	65	32	3
Oct. '53	60	34	6
Dec. '53	53	42	5
March '54	47	49	4
April '54	52	43	5
June '54	54	41	5
TODAY	57	39	4

Today's U. S. Poll results in the light of the experience of the past years would indicate that the nation can look forward to business and job prospects slightly better than they were in 1950 (prior to the Korean Outbreak) and better than they were in the period between December, 1947, and December, 1949, but not so good as they were in the period between the outbreak of the Korean War and October, 1953.

Princeton Research Service has been making periodic measurements on people's outlook on future business and job conditions in various parts of the nation and in the United States as a whole. During that time, there has been a close correlation between the answers people have given and the actual business and job conditions in the areas measured.

The Chilton County News presents the reports of the United States Poll exclusively in this area. (Copyright, 1954, by Princeton Research Service)

"I REMEMBER"
BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Joe Vire, Monticello, Kentucky: I remember when the fire wood run low I would drive up old Buck and Berry, throw a yoke across their necks, take a chain and ax and hike to the hills.

Later on when I wanted to take my best girl to church, I would hook Old Dobbin to the buggy and away we would go.

After a while we got married. Three boys arrived, three years apart, and the buggy was too small. So we bought a Model Tee and all piled in and away we went.

Now, as we near the 80s, we just sit on the front porch and watch the world go by in V 8s and hear the planes roar overhead. We have witnessed changes from ox-cart to airplane.

From Mrs. Martin Madison, Spokane, Washington: I remember 1893 . . . that was the year I lost my job with a Pullman, Washington mercantile company that went broke after farmers lost their crops.

I went to Colfax, Washington, in search of another job. My girl friend and I went to the Palouse River to watch the log drive come in. I thought it would be fun to take a walk out on the logs . . . slipped and fell between the logs . . . the logs were heavy and water icy . . . my friend screamed . . . a young hunter passing nearby ran to the rescue, diving deep under the logs to bring me to safety.

Those days of unguarded log drives are over now.

my PET PEEVE
by Mike Bennett

FINDING a vacant seat in a dark theatre is a difficult task for anybody, even worse for folks who don't see well anyway.

Have you ever walked up and down the aisle, squinting and blinking to accustom your eyes to the semi-darkness, until you located a seat, smack in the middle of the center row, struggled over mountains of feet to get to it and settle down comfortably only to hear someone blast out, "This seat is saved!"

If you go to movies, its happened to you.

Its also happened on a crowded bus. You're beat, had a hard day. Your feet are two chunks of lead. The bus is crowded and you're next to the last person to get on. There's one seat left at the back of the bus. You don't know how, but you get there, flop down next to a sweet young thing who, you guessed it, is sorry, but she's saving the seat for someone—the boy who got on right behind you.

You lose patience with all sorts of "seatsavers" when you study some of them carefully. I've seen seats saved successfully in a movie for an hour or two; at ball games through the first tilt of a double-header. One enterprising youngster even saved a bus seat—while people were standing up—for seven or eight blocks. She simply sat on the outside and refused to move over or let anyone sit next to the window. The people standing, all working folks, were apparently too tired or indifferent to create a scene.

I wouldn't ask anyone to save a seat for me, unless it was a lifelong friend heading into the hereafter and I knew him well enough to know whither he was headed up or down.

IT'S MY OPINION

Let your conscience be your guide. That one sentence can apply to everything you do, and to every person in every walk of life. Your conscience was put there as a reminder in everything you do or say.

There is no one...not one of us who doesn't know when we've done or are doing wrong. And for that matter, it's your conscience that makes you swell up inside when you know you've done something good and right.

To get the most from your conscience is very simple; you just have to think twice before you do or say anything. That isn't so bad either, considering that you won't be sorry for something you've thought over and then done rather than jump at it half cocked.

We tend to shut our conscience out completely, or rather try, we could never completely be unaware of the things we do wrong. We sometimes are able to overlook them, but we're still aware of their presence.

For instance, how many times have you taken unnecessary chances and then immediately after ask yourself, "why did I do that." Whether it was driving a car, working on the job, around the home or anywhere, immediately after you make the mistake you know it was wrong and that you have taken a chance. That's your conscience. It can serve you as a guide in everything you do and as long as you go by it and do what it says is right, you'll never go wrong. It can do more good than all the books you could ever read, or all the sermons you could ever hear, or all the talkings to your elders could give you. It was put there for one purpose and one purpose only to be your guide, whether it be physical, mental, or spiritual. Your conscience is always present. Give it a chance and you'll find that doing the right thing is much easier when your conscience is on your side rather than always telling you "that was the wrong thing to do."

It's there in everyone, it's equal in everyone, it's up to you to make the best of something that was put there to make the best of you.

Bass & Bream Are Cool Weather Fish

Auburn, Ala.—You can expect better bass and bream fishing this fall than you had during the hot summer months, says API Fish and Wildlife Specialist Earl Kennamer.

The Extension Service's expert on fish and game reports that both bass and bluegills change their living habits as the weather cools and are easier to catch.

On hot, sunshiny days, best fishing periods for bass are early morning and late afternoon, Kennamer says. Topwater lures are the best bait to use.

As the water cools, bass and bluegills will feed deeper. Then underwater lures and live minnows become the most popular baits.

Bluegills will probably stop spawning as the water temperature drops below 80 degrees, so don't look for them on the beds during the cooler months. The fish move down to deeper parts of the pond as greater depths become oxygenated with cooler water. Crickets, mealworms, earthworms, and artificial flies and bugs begin to pay off as baits.

Owners of private ponds can legally and successfully bait their ponds during the fall and winter, Kennamer adds. An area can be baited every two or three days with fist-sized chunks of soybean cake. After baiting for a couple of weeks, bluegills get used to feeding at the baited spots and they can be caught with hook and line.

In large ponds, owners may use a wire mesh fish trap baited with soy bean cake or stale bread for a weekly mess of bluegills during winter. And this may prove to be the easiest way to make a good catch during the cold weather, Kennamer concludes.

From the Seville Chronicle, Seville, Ohio: Saturday afternoon was pretty dull downtown, and oldtimers were threatening to get out the depression checkerboards.

Fact is, people seemed to be shopping out of town. One place we were led out to the street to see all the expensive two-hour parking signs surrounded by no potential violators

The general consensus was that the give-away programs and carnival atmosphere of the shopping centers were attracting a lot of people who don't want that sort of thing in Seville.

One merchant thought we ought to have something here to entertain any chance shoppers who drifted into Seville . . . an outdoor movie or something.

We said Seville was too pretty a town to clutter up with riff raff for a movie, so the merchants said they'd settle for a well-advertised lynching.

Now we know how a local merchant is asked to, and who gives, to all things that make a community a good place to live, feels when people ignore solid home values to pursue a will-o-wisp. We feel the same way when we see local merchants advertising in out-of-town throw-aways and handbills, which contribute nothing to the community in service or taxes. And we know that price and value isn't as big a factor as novelty.

So we came back to the office feeling depressed—ready to set out to "interests." We aren't sure what 'interests' are, but they are what poor but honest newspapermen sell out to in the books we read. (pronounced reed)

Then, doggone it, customers started to come in. There were three in a row, and we must have taken in almost a dollar altogether!

And right away we brightened up and reached a remarkable conclusion

It isn't altogether the money loss that hurts a man when his neighbors go down those crowded, dangerous highways to contribute to some other school district's tax dollar. No sir! Part of it is sheer lonesomeness.

From the Lincoln Times, Lincolnton, North Carolina: Who can remember the "old fashioned days" when Lincolnton had comfortable benches located in some of the city's shaded uptown (Courthouse, Main St., etc.) areas for convenience of out-of-town shoppers and visitors. How about restoring this custom? We certainly think the benches would be for the benefit of the merchants. Mind you, we're not referring to benches for the so-called "town loafers"—but. for visitors

Sabbath School 9:45 a.m. with preaching service at 11.

Two thieves were being tried at the time of Jesus' trial. They heard Jesus say to the high priest: "Hereafter ye shall see the Son of Man coming in the clouds of heaven." Mat. 26:64. On the cross one of the thieves said to Jesus, "Lord remember me when thou comest." Although on that day Jesus seemed helpless and without authority to make any promise, he assured the thief: "Indeed I say unto thee today, with me thou shalt be in the paradise." Gr. New Testament. When Jesus comes He will keep the promise he made to the thief that day of His death. Jesus and the thief did not go to heaven the day Jesus died for after His resurrection he said to Mary, "I have not yet ascended to my Father." Jno. 20:17. The thief did not die that day. Only his legs were broken and he was taken down from the cross. Jno. 19:32. On the night of His betrayal Jesus said to His disciples, "I will come again and receive you unto myself." Jno. 14:3. It is then that the thief will go with Jesus to paradise and be with him.

Around OUR HOUSE

The five-year-old was going fishing, and with the optimism typical of all fishermen, he went around the neighborhood promising to supply his friends with fresh fish for supper.

When he reached the pond, he set about diligently getting his line and pole ready, and he even rather enjoyed the process of impaling the squirming worm on the hook. Waiting for a bite was the hardest part. He had expected the fish to be attracted to his hook as if by some giant magnet, but it didn't turn out that way.

Finally, when the cork began to bob a bit, he called:

"The fish are sampling my bait!"

One little fish, somewhat smaller than the five-year-old's hand, liked the sample well enough to try to swallow the hook, and the young fisherman landed him.

He couldn't have been prouder of his catch if it had been a 200-pound tarpon. And, he said, his fish tasted mighty good for supper, even if there wasn't enough for anybody else to have even a nibble.

Our neighbors around the corner are serious fishermen who manage somehow to entice big fish to "sample" their bait and then land the fish.

"Catching fish is so much easier than cleaning them," they say. "And it's even hard to give the fish away, unless they're cleaned."

To make their task easier, these neighbors have a simple fish scaler they say works fine. They nailed three rows of soft drink bottle tops upside down on a narrow board, and when they scrape a fish with this device, the scales really fly.

Fish always tastes better, these neighbor say, if it is cooked right on the bank of the stream where it is caught.

Their fish fries almost always take place after dark. And since their favorite fishing spots are far from electric lights, they have devised what they call their brick-lighting system.

They soak common building bricks in kerosene for 24 to 30 hours and take the soaked bricks along on the outing with them. At nightfall, they use strong wires to hang the bricks from tree limbs and ignite each brick with a match. The bricks burn for about four hours and provide plenty of light, they say.

It sounds dangerous, but these neighbors say they use common caution and never have had an accident with their flaming bricks.

When these neighbors fry fish, they dip them first in buttermilk and then roll them in meal. The buttermilk treatment makes the fish extra good, they say.

To make dish washing easier, they rub the bottom of the frying pan generously with soap. The outside of the coffee pot gets the same treatment. After the meal, a dunking in hot water washes away the smoke and stains.

For cooking fish at home, our fishing neighbors recommend this recipe:

Cook 1 sliced onion in 3 tablespoons fat until tender. Stir in 2 tablespoons flour. Add one and a half cups tomato juice, a half of a minced green pepper, 1 bay leaf, half teaspoon salt, half teaspoon sugar, 1 whole clove, and simer, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove clove and bay leaf. Arrange 2 pounds fish fillets in baking dish, cover with sauce and bake in moderate oven for 30 minutes.

Rita Weed Celebrates Ninth Birthday

Rita's birthday cake was beautifully decorated in Hallowe'en colors and topped with candy cats and pumpkins. Nine candles, one for each of Rita's happy years, were burning atop the cake.

STORE ROOT VEGETABLES TO BE USED ALL WINTER

A number of vegetables can be stored for use after cold weather comes. Root vegetables such as Irish potatoes, sweetpotatoes, turnips, carrots and rutabagas will keep for several months.

John Bagby, API Extension specialist on comercial horticulture, gives suggestions for putting away these vegetables.

Irish potatoes can be stored in a dry place where the temperature does not go below 50 degrees. A hill or bank is good for storing sweetpotatoes if the vegetables can be profected from low temperatures and ventilated at the same time.

Turnips, carrots, and rutabagas are well protected by a pine straw covering. Bagby says they should be spread out with part of their tops left exposed

ARTHRITIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular weakness from head to feet. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.

Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me, I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

Gerald Hubbard Would Like To Be Next Tax Assessor

To my friends, citizens and voters of Chilton County:

Those that do not know me personally, I was born and reared in Chilton County. I am married and have three daughters. My wife was Lummie Murrah. My daughters are Mrs. Geraldine Goodwin of Selma, Mrs. Helen Broadway of Mobile, and Mrs. Frances McKinnon of Yuma, Arizona. My father was R. M. Hubbard, a merchant of Jemison, Ala., for a number of years. I was also a farmer. I was farming when I accepted a job with the Alabama Power Company in 1941. I am still employed by the Alabama Power Company. I am sure that you will understand that I will not have the time to canvass the county from house to house as I would like too.

Please accept this letter as a personal visit to your home. I am deeply appreciative of the confidence by nominating me as your candidate for Tax Assessor for the November 2nd election. However, I am depending on my good friends to canvass for me. Those of you who wish to know more about me may feel free to ask anyone that knows me. I am a member of the Collins Chapel Baptist Church. I am also a member of Jemison Masonic Lodge No. 411, AF and AM.

My success will depend a great deal on the influence of my friends. I am going to see as many of you as I possibly can during my spare time.

So please take this letter as my personal appeal to you and yours for your support and influence on my behalf. Should I be the successful candidate in November I will to the best of my ability serve the people of Chilton County. Again may I ask the voters and citizens to please consider me as your candidate before you cast your vote on November 2nd.

Thanks to each and all of you for your vote and influence.

(Pd. pol. adv. by Gerald Hubbard. Clanton, Ala.)

IF YOU ARE BUILDING A HOME

1. Remember the advantages of DRY lumber. If uncertain have the lumber checked on the job site.
2. Deal only with reputable contractors and reliable lumber dealers.

IF YOU ARE BUYING A NEWLY BUILT HOME

3. Request the specifications for the job to see if properly seasoned lumber was called for—and used.

IF YOU MAKE UP THE SPECIFICATIONS

4. Specify the following: For framing and sheathing — 19% maximum moisture content; for finish, woodwork and flooring—12% moisture content.
5. If unable to judge lumber grades or the condition of seasoning, require that lumber be certified with a grade-mark of a recognized inspection agency, or have it competently inspected when it is delivered.

IF THE JOB CALLS FOR BIG DELIVERIES

6. When there is a constant flow of incoming lumber, it is wise to employ qualified graders to check each delivery before unloading. Electrical instruments known as moisture registers or meters are now commercially available for testing lumber to determine the moisture of each piece

Excessive Speed Still Main Highway Threat

Montgomery — At the two-thirds mark of 1954, the same six traffic violations in the same order were causing more than eighty per cent of Alabama's rural highway smash-ups.

An eight-month operations summary by the Department of Public Safety's service division showed excessive speed still out front as a violation in accidents.

After speed came driving on the wrong side of the road, drunken driving, failure to yield right-of-way, following too closely, and improper passing.

Together, the six caused or figured in more than 4600 of the 5645 accidents investigated by highway patrol division personnel. The highway patrolmen, meantime, devoted nearly 50 per cent of their arrests to these six violations, filing 22,796 charges during the eight-month period, according to the report.

THREE DIETITIANS FROM ALABAMA COMPLETE "MASS FEEDING COURSE"

Montevallo, Ala.—Three dietitians from Alabama, Miss Ibbie Jones, Alabama College; Miss Anna B. Crane, University of Alabama; and Miss Katherine Harper, Alabama Polytechnic Institute completed a three day "mass feeding course" this week at Fort Benning, Ga.

Purpose of the training courses being held throughout the country and conducted by the Federal Civil Defense Administration and the Department of the Army is to train key personnel in emergency procedures, specifically how to feed large masses of people in case of atomic attack or other disaster.

Plans call for the trained key personnel to conduct classes in local areas in all phases of emergency mass feeding.

Food administrators, directors and dietitians attending the training school at Ft. Benning were from Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, Florida and Tennessee. Others attending were state health and welfare officers, home demonstration agents and representatives from utilities companies.

Field problems included in the training course consisted of constructing utensils, ovens, stoves, griddles, incinerators and then preparing meals using the improvised equipment.

Miss Ibbie Jones, dietitian and supervisor of foods at Alabama College will be in charge of instruction of courses in mass feeding for the Central Alabama district. Starting date for classes will be announced soon. Individual classes will be taught throughout the district.

Miss Jones joined the Alabama College staff in 1952. She came to Montevallo from Dallas, Texas, where she served as Tea Room manager for Nieman-Marcus Store.

Heavy weights from the Tallapoosa Lakes had little opposition in taking the Alabama Power Fishing Contest awards for August and September. J. A. Powell, Eclectic, won the August prize with his 7 pound 13 ounce Largemouth Bass caught in Yates Lake. Thomas Downs, Montgomery, fished near Adams' Boat Landing on Little Kowaliga Creek, Lake Martin, to bag a 6 pound 15 ounce Largemouth Bass and the monthly prize for September. Runners up were: R. D. Atkins, 6 pound 2 ounce Largemouth Bass, Lake Lay, A. L. Breazeale and R. M. Jones, each caught a 6 pound Largemouth Bass [illegible] Martin. H. H. Sears, [illegible] Crappie, Lake Jordan.

As was [illegible] monthly prizes consists of [illegible] dollar certificate to be used at the winners favorite sporting goods store. There are two more such awards to be made, Oct and Nov. The winners are based on a weight percentage so that all contest species share equal chances at the prize. A nice size Bluegill can easily compete with a nice size Largemouth Bass. Let your boat dock operator weigh and enter your best catch, yours may be the prize winner.

Good fishing reports are coming in and much better ones are expected as cooling rains break the long dry spell. Probably the best news about fishing received lately comes from Fred Wilder, Southside Standard Service Station, Dadeville.

Fred states that H. B. and O. H. Eastridge, Adolphus Bailey and Roy Abendschein, all of Fairfax, fished fabulous Elkahatchee Creek, Lake Martin. The groups total catch were 18 Largemouth Bass that weighed 75 and three-quarter ounds. Four of the Bass weighed 24 pounds. A black dive bomber was the type lure used in making the catch.

H. E. Dopson's Store, Red Hill Community, reports; Hershell Warren, Tallassee, caught his string of Largemouth Bass in Lake Yates. Hershall's lure was a homemade spoon, and his largest fish weighed 5 pounds 2 ounces.

Mrs. J. R Gibson, Blackwell's Fishing Lodge, Shoals Creek, Lake Jordan, reports: Mrs. W. W. Parris, Montgomery, trolled with a Redhead Bomber and on her mixed string was a 1 pound 9 ounce Crappie.

Joe Stanley's at Joe's Fishing Camp, Weoka Creek, Lake Jordan, reports that several nice strings of Crappie and Bream have been taken from down Weoka way. Earlier in the week, Joe heard of a large hatch of willow flies on Weoguika Creek, Lake Mitchell, and upon investigation, found the largest hatch seen all year. Needless to say, Bream fly fishing was the greatest.

Marion Easterling, Clanton, reports that trolling prospects for Bass are exceptionally good near Rock Island, Lake Mitchell.

HAVE SUMMER CLOTHES LAUNDERED BEFORE FALL STORAGE

American homemakers in the midst of fall housecleaning and bringing out those fall and winter clothes should [illegible] attention to those summer clothes they're now beginning to put into storage.

So advises the American Institute of Laundering, research and educational center of the laundering industry. The Joliet, Illinois laundry headquarters warns that the summer weight blankets and jackets aren't the only things to be careful of when storing. Woolens should be laundered, put in moth crystals and sealed for the winter; cottons and synthetic fibers should be laundered and packed.

Laundering before fall storage of any fabrics is important because of stains, soil, body oils and perspiration which may become "set" in the fabric and is almost impossible to remove when the garment is ready to be worn next season.

Stains such as catsup, mustard, berries and grass are particularly difficult to remove once they are "set" advises A. L. L. Body oil stains on the inside collar are impossible to remove without special treatment and also will pick up dust in storage if the garments aren't covered.

When sent to the laundry, the sumer's clothes are returned clean, pressed and like new. If they are carefully packed in closed containers they will be ready for wearing when warmer weather comes again.

Summer clothes should be stored in a dry place so that mildew won't damage them. They should also be packed loosely so that there are fewer wrinkles when the time comes for the garments to be worn again, says the Institute.

LIFT LENGTHENS LIFE OF POULTRY SHELTERS

Auburn, Ala. - The life expectancy of poultry range shelters can be increased if they are raised off the ground during idle periods, says API Extension poultry specialist John Weeks.

He explains that put up on rocks, concrete blocks, or some other nonrotting material, the shelter will be protected from termite damage and rotting.

He also reports that range watering and feeding equipment can be stored inside the shelters for protection.

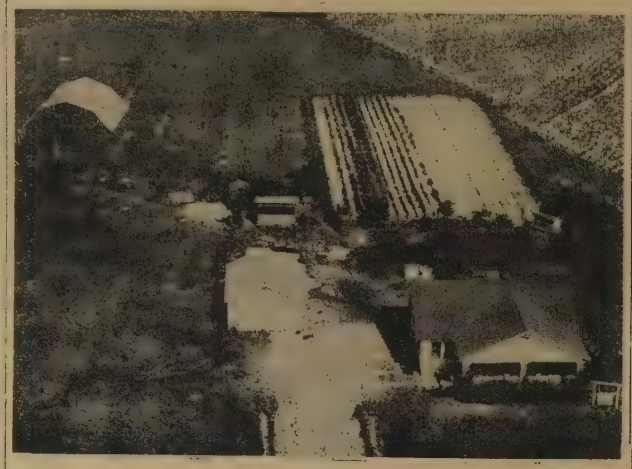
Whose Farm Is This?



Do you know who owns this farm? We're sure you've seen it many times. It's somewhere in Chilton County. Come in to the Chilton County News office before noon Saturday and tell us who owns it. If your answer is correct you'll win two free passes to the Clanton Drive-In Theatre and you will be eligible to win the grand prize drawing next Monday.

If the owner of the above "Mystery Farm" will come in to the News office as soon as possible he will receive a beautiful framed enlargement of this aerial photograph of his farm absolutely free.

Well, we had a dilly for the past two week's didn't we folks? It really had you guessers stymied. The only thing is, we can't have a drawing this week. Mr. L. L. Traywick identified the farm and won hands down so he gets all the prizes. Other farms were mentioned by other contestants, but none seemed to be on the right track. Mr. Traywick guessed Mr. George Gray's farm at Billingsley and he was right. He says he knew who's it was because he travels about over the county a good bit and is familiar with most all the farms around these parts.

It's time you folks got in on our little fun. It doesn't cost you a plug nickel and we say it's worth a lot more than that and we're getting quite a bit of fun out of it that some of you are missing. Now, when you're in town this Saturday morning meander on up to the News office and if you have any idea about the farm let us know. We'd enjoy having you in the contest and you stand a good chance of enjoying the prizes... valuable prizes. You might not have these prizes otherwise so why deprive yourself. Everyone has an equal chance of winning. It's your privelege and your fun and as we said, we'd enjoy it more if you would join us. We'd appreciate seeing you.

All you have to do is to bring your guess on this week's farm (pictured above) in to the office before Sat. noon. That's all there is to it. The only restrictions are that you bring your guess in and don't write in or phone in. If you are unable to come in yourself we'd like to have you right on, so send your entry by a neighbor or a friend. If yor are under 21 years of age and you know the farm get your mother or dad, aunt or uncle, to come in for you. Then if they win, you can work that out with them.

As we said, we want it to be fun for everyone and this week's farm shouldn't be as hard to locate as last week's was so let's have more answers. The more that take part in the contest the more fun it will be for all concerned, so if you have any idea, don't say, "Oh, it isn't worth the trouble", that isn't the way we want you to feel. We want you to feel as if the contest is for you and your friends, after all it's about you and your friends, so don't pass it off so lightly, it isn't that much trouble and you can profit in more ways than one. You can win the prizes for yourself, you can make the contest more interesting for other folks, and you'll be doing your part to create more interest in your county and your community. We hope to see you around the next time you recognize the "Farm of the Week" in your Chilton County News and we want you to enjoy the rest of the contest.
